LEGION LAWN CARNIVAL

Local Post Held Largest Social Event in Its History

The Winchester Post of the American Legion held their Lawn Carnival on Saturday afternoon and evening on the Legion home grounds. A shower in the afternoon threatened to spoil the affair, but it only lasted a short time and the afternoon and evening proved ideal weather conditions.

The committee in charge of the carnival consisted of Vincent P. Clarke, chairman; Marshall J. England, Andrew Anderson, H. Wray Rohrman, Robert M. Hamilton, William J. McKee, Rowen C. Parker and Daniel E. Lynch.

In the afternoon and evening tags were sold by 12 young ladies who went about the town decorated with American Legion sashes. At 4 o'clock the Y-D Veterans Band marched from the Legion House down to Manchester Field and around the field during the football game, and after the game marched back through the centre to the Legion house.

FOR MOVIES IN TOWN HALL

Mr. Edward McKenzie appeared before the Selectmen Monday night for permission to run moving pictures in the Town Hall. He states that he desires to use the hall two or three nights a week from October to May, will give up the hall for any other engagements, will show only high-class pictures and will admit no children under 16 years unless accompanied by adults.

Mr. McKenzie has been proprietor of the Main street bowling alleys for several years and claims to have the endorsement of many leading citizens in his project.

RUMMAGE SALE

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church will hold a Rummage Sale in Waterfield Hall, Tuesday, Oct. 9th. Doors open at 10 o'clock.

Anyone wishing goods called for please notify Mrs. Moran, tel. Win. 1319-M or Mrs. McMillan, tel. Win. 0818-M.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE, THE SCIENCE OF RIGHT LIVING

The above is the title of the free public lecture to be given in the Town Hall, on Monday evening, October 8th, at 8 o'clock. The lecturer is Prof. Hermann S. Hering, C. S. B., of Boston, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The lecture is to be given under the auspices of the local Christian Science Church. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend this lecture on a subject of vital interest to all.

JANET RICHARDS TO LECTURE IN WINCHESTER

The many friends of Miss Janet Richards, of Washington, D. C., who have long hoped to hear her in Winchester will be delighted to know that she is to lecture in the Town Hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 16, on "Public Questions: Home and Foreign." Since Miss Richards spoke in Winchester several years ago she has grown to be a national figure, everywhere recognized as the foremost woman speaker on current events in America today. Always interesting she will be doubly so now upon her recent return from Europe where she had unusual opportunities to meet all classes of people and learn of conditions first hand. Her keen intellect, delightful humor and pleasing personality coupled with many years of experience in getting at the heart of public questions, unite in making her a speaker long to be remembered. It is an extraordinary bit of good luck which enables Winchester people to secure her services in connection with her lecture in Boston the same week.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

The Building Commissioner has granted permits for week ending Oct. 4, as follows:

James Johnston, Fletcher street; Two-car garage at 51 Oxford street, 20x20 feet.

CURRENT EVENTS LECTURES

The Winchester Smith College Club will begin the course by Miss Eunice Avery, Nov. 7, at 3 p. m. (place of meeting to be announced) and continue the meetings on alternating Wednesdays for the benefit of the High School scholarship at Smith. For tickets at $5 for the 10 lectures, phone Mrs. George N. Proctor, Win. 0727.

TO START DRIVE FOR $1000

It is reported that the new athletic association at the High School is to start a "drive" for $1000. In past years the school has had two associations, a Boys' Athletic Association and a Girls' Athletic Association. This year the two have been merged into one body. New officers are to be elected shortly, after which the "drive" for $1000 will be started.

HOWE—DOW

Many Attended Society Wedding Wednesday Evening

There was a large attendance of society people of this and surrounding places, as well as from many important distant cities, at the wedding on Wednesday evening of Miss Carolyn Eva Dow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Dow of Main street, and Mr. Guy Butman Howe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Howe of Bacon street. The ceremony took place at the Church of the Epiphany and was performed by the Very Rev. Henry R. Remsen of Comfort, Tex., assisted by Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., rector of the church, at 8 o'clock. The church was beautifully decorated for the ceremony.

The wedding was preceded by a half hour's recital by organist J. Albert Wilson of the Church of the Epiphany, who also played the wedding processional and recessional marches on the organ for the bridal party, and the organ accompaniment for the male vested choir of 50 voices which sang "O Perfect Love" during the ceremony.

The wedding party included as bridesmaid, Miss Helen Bowe of this town; groomsman, Mr. Horace G. Morse of Bath, Me., a classmate of the groom at Powder Point Academy, Duxbury; bridesmaids, Miss Mary Snell Ruby of Madisonville, Ky.; Mrs. Joseph A. Mudd, Jr., of Chicago, Ill.; Miss Marion H. Dow and Miss Eleanore P. Dow of this town, sisters of the bride.

The bride was most charmingly gowned in a wedding dress of cream satin with pearl ornaments, with court train covered with pearls. Her veil was of old rose point, made in France several generations ago, being one of four brought to the United States, one other of which was presented by J. Pierpont Morgan to the Metropolitan Museum of New York, where it is on exhibition. She carried a bouquet of roses arranged with tiny ribbons attached to each rose so as to enable her to throw the roses from the second balcony of her home before her departure on the wedding tour.

The maid of honor wore a dress of light blue taffeta with large picture hat to match. Her bouquet was of pale yellow tea roses. The bridesmaids were dressed alike in peach georgette, trimmed with lace, and wore large picture hats the same color as their gowns with light blue facing and streamers. They carried orchids.

A largely attended reception at the residence of the bride's parents followed the ceremony, the couple receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Dow and Mr. and Mrs. Howe. At the residence the same elaborate scheme of decorations was carried out as at the church, the receiving line standing beneath an arbor of asparagus fern studded with rose buds.

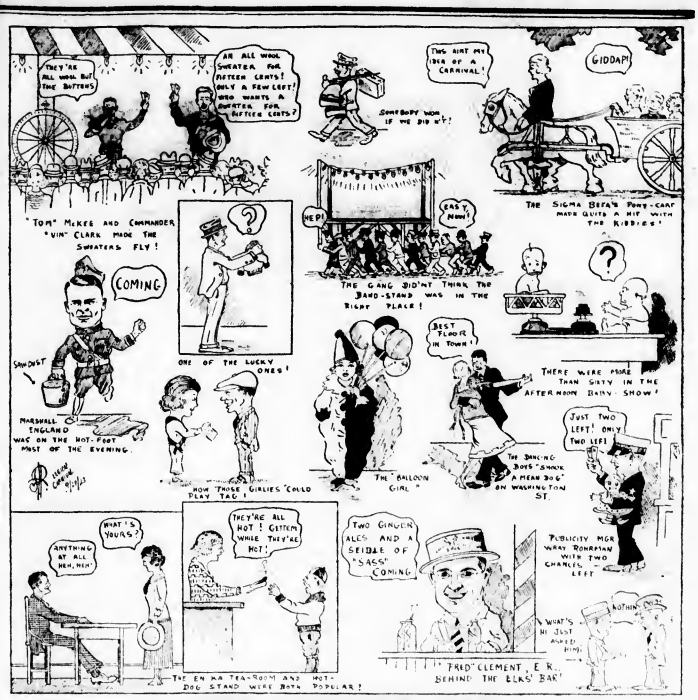

The ushers for both wedding and reception were Messrs. William Maro Weston, 2nd, of Cambridge, Stanley P. Fosgate of Medford Hillside, Irving Jennings of Winchester and Harold C. Harris of Dedham.

The attendance included many prominent residents of distant places, including Mrs. Herbert C. Duell of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. C. A. Meyer of Chicago, Ill.; and Mrs. Henry P. Remsen of Comfort, Tex., while society of Winchester, Brookline, Newton, Wellesley and Lowell was well represented.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School and also attended St. Luke's Cathedral School at Orlando, Fla. and Miss Mason's Castle School at Tarrytown, N. Y. The groom attended the Winchester High School and Powder Point Academy, Duxbury. He served in the U. S. Navy for two years during the World War and was also connected with naval aviation work. He is a member of the Vesper Country Club and the Winchester Post, American Legion, and is a member of a Boston brokerage firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Howe will make an extended automobile tour, visiting first the White Mountains and later southern points, and will return to make their home in Winchester late in the fall at 11 Lawson road.

Mr. Frank Randall of the Edison office suffered the death of his brother at Sharon last week.

THE LEGION'S DAY

METHODIST'S LAY CORNER STONE SUNDAY AFTERNOON, OCT. 7 AT 3 O'CLOCK

The new Methodist Episcopal Church building on Church street, is well under way. Already the basement walls, first floor, granite courses and brick work, up to the superstructure, are nearing completion. On Sunday afternoon the corner stone of the edifice will be laid. A copper box containing a Bible, hymn book, church discipline, conference minutes, Winchester Star, lists of the members of the church, of the Sunday School and other societies, pictures, papers, etc., will be deposited in the stone.

In addition to laying the corner stone marked recognition will be given the old corner stone, dated 1875, which was removed from the building on Mt. Vernon street last Monday, and is now in the southeast corner of the new structure on Church street.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

At the Sunday morning service at 10:30, in Waterfield Hall, the contents of the box taken from the 1875 corner stone will be exhibited, and parts of special interest read. These articles will be added to the others, which will be in the copper box, to be deposited in the 1923 corner stone.

At the service in the afternoon, music will be furnished by a quartet of players from the Ives' Band of Boston, leader, D. Albert Ives, cornet; Godfrey W. McMullin, cornet; Archie F. Smith, trombone; T. Parker Clarke, trombone. Bishop E. H. Hughes, LL.D., will preach. Pastors of the local churches, visiting clergymen, the building committee and the church quartet will be associated with Rev. Alliston Gifford in the service.

To this open air meeting the public is cordially invited. Should it be stormy the exercises in part will be held in the brick residence on the church grounds.

DRIVE FOR NEW WINCHESTER HIGHLANDS CHURCH IS ON

The Building Committee of the Second Congregational Church of Winchester announces Sunday evening, Oct. 14, at 8 o'clock, as the formal opening of the drive to secure funds for an adequate, modern building.

Winchester Highlands needs a new church building and intends to have one. The present building is small, with a very much squeezed seating capacity of 100. The community has grown and is growing, and needs a well equipped building. The Field Day was successful. But a field day will not build a church.

Contributions have already started to come in. One resident of Winchester has pledged $5000. Several contributions of $100 each have been made.

On Sunday, Oct. 14, the residents of the town will have their opportunity to swell the fund. Dr. Chidley of the First Congregational Church will speak in the Second Church in the evening. Mr. Franklin P. Shumway is the other speaker. Mr. Shumway represents a number of church organizations. Mr. Chester Miller, of Brockton, will render some fine solos. His voice, technique and style are exceptionally pleasing. With these three, Dr. Chidley, Mr. Shumway and Mr. Miller, it will be an evening long to be remembered.

Mr. S. W. H. Taylor of this town was a member of the reception committee at the constitution ceremonies of Fourth Estate Lodge of Masons at Masonic Hall, Charlestown, Tuesday evening. This lodge is comprised largely of newspaper men in Greater Boston.

THE WINCHESTER LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS PLANS A SERIES OF ROUND TABLE MEETINGS

The League of Women Voters is opening its season with a Round Table Meeting at the home of Mrs. W. A. Bradley, 3 Black Horse terrace, next Tuesday evening at 8:15 (business meeting at 7:45).

Gentlemen are invited, and the evening will be devoted to discussion of the Massachusetts Civic League's proposed law for the classification of prisoners. This measure is a new departure in penal regulation, and was approved by the American Prison Association at its 53rd congress held recently in Boston.

Mrs. Wenona Pinkham, secretary of the Massachusetts Civic League, will speak in favor of the measure, and Mr. Alfred L. Cutting, County Commissioner for Middlesex, will present itsp ossible disadvantages. Afterward there is to be a period for questions and open discussion.

This meeting is the first of a series of similar Round Tables to be held by the Winchester League during the winter, for the study of various measures that Massachusetts may need to vote on this year. By having all sides of questions presented by qualified speakers, and by giving chance for discussion and questions, it will provide its members with a pleasant opportunity to become thoroughly informed on current legislative matters.

MISS MABEL BORDEN DEAD

Miss Lucy Mabel Borden passed away at the Winchester Hospital late yesterday afternoon. On Tuesday she was stricken with convulsions, being taken to the hospital, and she failed to recover consciousness before her death.

Miss Borden was born in Lawrence and was the daughter of William H. and Mary C. Borden. She was 42 years of age and had resided in this town for the past 28 years. Her mother died two months ago and she is survived only by her father. Since childhood she had been afflicted with cataracts on her eyes, rendering her partially blind.

The funeral services will be held from the residence, 29 Prince avenue, on Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The burial will be in Lawrence.

THREE ACCIDENTS YESTERDAY

Three automobile accidents occurred in town yesterday, all of a minor nature. At the corner of Main and Mt. Vernon streets an Autocar truck driven by Henry J. Hicks of Chelsea and a Cadillac touring car driven by William C. Hinckley of Lowell collided. The Cadillac was damaged about its front end.

On Main street near Canal street a Ford truck driven by Daniel S. McElhiney of McDonough's Market ran into the rear of another Ford owned by the Filene Company and driven by Joseph Hurley of Somerville. Both were slightly damaged.

JAMES M. WATTS

James M. Watts, aged 79 years, died at the home of his son, Charles W. Watts, on High street, yesterday afternoon. He was a native of St. John, N. B., and had made his home with his son here for the past two months. Besides his son with whom he was living he leaves several other children. The funeral services are to be held on Sunday afternoon at the residence, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Brook of Roxbury. The interment will be in Mt. Hope cemetery.

BOYS AND GIRLS AT LONGWOOD

John Clarke Lost Singles But Won in Doubles

A large number of Winchester boys and girls took part in the tennis tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club at Chestnut Hill Saturday, the young players making a fine showing. Winchester was honored in one event, John Clarke, playing with Ruth Wellington of Chestnut Hill, winning the mixed doubles. Clarke was last year's winner in the boys' singles, but he met with hard luck this year, dropping out in the third round.

Three Winchester girls played, Cecile de Coriolis, Nancy Sherman and Louise Packer. Miss Sherman and Miss Packer went out in the third round.

The Winchester boys included John Clarke, Frank Carleton, Allan McKinnon, Charles Wadsworth, Bowen Tufts, Thad Smith, Robert Smith, Maurice Tompkins, Charles Eaton, George de Coriolis, William Black, Roland Sherman and John Eastwick.

Clarke went to the third round in the boys' singles. Carleton, after winning handily, dropped out in the fourth, being beaten by Greene, who reached the finals. Besides Clarke, the third round saw DeCoriolis, T. Smith Tompkins and McKinnon go down, all three playing excellent games however. Robert Smith, Sherman, Black and Wadsworth lost out in the second.

The other Winchester children who made such a fine showing last spring were not able to compete owing to a change in the age limit, but during the day Winchester boys and girls were on the winning side 24 different times.

The condition of Mr. Harry Cox, who has been seriously ill at his home on Wedgemere avenue, is reported much improved.

Among the approaching weddings in town is that of Mr. Clarence Wilson Russell of 9 Ravenscroft road, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Russell, and Miss Dorothy Marion Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Adams of 15 Manchester road.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

Through the Chamber of Commerce the signs painted on the buildings have been removed thanks to the kindness of the general manager of the Coco Cola Company.

The Chamber of Commerce compliments the Board of Selectmen for having put the line on Forest street and marking the square.

There are 1000 invitations also 1000 applications for membership being sent to the general public. All those who do not receive an application can procure one or more from the secretary or any other member of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce extended an invitation to the Massachusetts Forestry Association to visit Winchester and see what our Water Commissioners are doing with their 400 acres of reforestation work. The association have accepted the invitation and will visit Winchester on Oct. 26.

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce and Water and Sewer Board jointly invite the public to visit by automobile the water shed of the Winchester reservoirs and view the work of the reforestation. Notice of time will appear later.

PUBLIC EVENING SCHOOLS

Evening schools will be opened at the Chapin building and at the High School building Monday evening, Oct. 8, 1923 at 7:15 o'clock.

HONOR REV. SYDNEY B. SNOW

At the annual commencement exercises o Meadville Theological School Sept. 27, the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred by President Franklin C. Southworth, upon Rev. Sydney Bruce Snow, formerly of Boston and now minister of the Church of the Messiah, Montreal; Rev. John Howland Lathrop of the Church of the Saviour, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Rev. William Henry Drummond of London, Eng., secretary of the International Congress of Free Churches.

Dr. Snow has been minister of the Unitarian Church in Montreal for three years. He has served other churches of the denomination in California, in New Hampshire and in Boston, at the ancient King's Chapel. During 1918-1919 he served with the Educational Corps of the U. S. Army overseas, and in 1920 was leader of a mission of the American Unitarian Association to the Unitarian churches in Transylvania, formerly a part of Hungary, now in Rumania. He was recently elected, at the biennial session in New Haven, chairman of the Council of the General conference of Unitarian and other Christian Churches. Dr. Snow was educated at Harvard College (B. A., 1900) and Harvard Divinity School (S. T. B., 1906).

Dr. Snow was born in Winchester, the son of the late Capt. and Mrs. W. A. Snow of Ridgeway, and is well-known to many Winchester people.

BOY TOURISTS BACK HOME IN WINCHESTER

Tired and hungry, four Winchester youths who set out a week ago for Lynn in a small touring car arrived home Saturday night. The delay was caused by a decision of the young men to go to Lynn by way of Three Rivers, Que.

The youths, all about 18, were George Sullivan of Vine street, whose mother owns the car; William Oliver, Gleason Ryerson and John Foley. The parents of the boys were much worried when they disappeared after promising to be back from Lynn the same night, but their worries were dispelled by S O S calls from Three Rivers. The S O S calls were received Thursday night and asked for money to return home.

The boys looked so much the worse for wear that the Canadian and American immigration officials both tured them at the border. When the lectured them at the border. When the car arrived in Winchester square Saturday night it was stopped by patrolman John Hogan. He shipped them all to the police station, where they ere lectured by Sergt. John A. Harold. Then they were sent home for further lecturing.

Henry J. Lyons of Chicago, a former well-known resident, writes the Star that he leaves that city the 10th of this month to attend the American Legion Convention to be held in San Francisco, Oct. 15 to 20. On his return he plans to stop over at points of interest. He served overseas for two years with the 33d Division.

EILAIN'S DISCOVERY

First Honorable Mention for Grade 6 in Public School Prize Story Contest

It was dusk on an October day. Eilain was thinking as she rattled up the dusty road in the old buggy. What would he be like? Eilain was an orphan and she was going to live with Foxy Grandpa. He was an old man who lived all alone in an old house upon a hill. The buggy stopped in front of the house. Eilain jumped out and ran lightly up the tumbled-down steps. She knocked loudly on the door. A squeaky old voice shouted, "Come in." She tried the door but it would not open. So she went around to the back yard. An old man was sitting on a rickety sawhorse. "Well?" he growled. "I am Eilain Smith, a distant relative of yours, and I have come to live here," she replied. The answer was a grunt. She entered the house. It had signs of once having been a beautiful mansion. But she thought it looked more like a tumbled-down cow shed now.

A few days later Eilain was busy cleaning the old library. As she was dusting the book-case, two volumes fell out. As she was about to replace them another fell out. As she was about to replace the third, a small panel fell from the wall behind the bookcase. Where the panel had fallen out was a little door. She went to call Jack, the hired boy. "Jack! Jack!" she called, "Come here! I have something to show you!" When through the hole and down a little ladder. As he got to the bottom he stumbled over a roll. He unrolled it a little. "Eilain, Eilain!" he cried in surprise, "Look! Look! It is silk, great rolls of silk. And the price mark is too much for the old man to possibly pay!" He stopped a moment to think. "I have it!" he exclaimed. "I have it! The old man has been smuggling in silk!"

At that moment a terrible roar was heard. "So ye are in that are ye?" exclaimed the angry old man. "Well then, ye'll stay there!" So saying, he slammed the little door to with a snarl. "Guess you'll go there too!" said he diving at Eilain. But she was too quick for him. She ran out the door and down the road. A carriage was coming toward the house. She hid in the bushes. But, she had been seen. The carriage stopped and a great man jumped out. He lifted the girl from the bushes. "Why Eilain, Eilain!" he cried, "What are you doing here?" Eilain looked up into the great face. "Oh, dear Uncle Rodney, dear sailor Uncle Rodney, you have come at last!" she happily cried. "Take me away, take me away from this awful place!"

So Uncle Rodney took Eilain down to his little cottage, beside the bay, to live with him. And there she lived happily ever after.

NEED TO WATCH ONE'S STEP

The importance of keeping walks well sanded and of watching one's step is emphasized in a dollars and cents statement issued by the Aetna Life Insurance Company whose figures, the respit of an analysis of 15,344 accident claims paid amounting to over $15,000,000, more than one-fifth was paid as a result of injuries due to falls—and of the fall 1,753 were on pavements. The amount paid by the Company as the result of falls of this kind was $1,129,019.60. Another $623,935 was paid as a result of falls on stairs or steps and $429,212 was paid for falls from ladders, chairs, etc. For 1109 falls through trap doors the Company paid $100,000 and for miscellaneous falls nearly $560,000.

The rest of the total paid for accidents went principally to pay for accidents in travel, such as automobile accidents, railroad and street car accidents too numerous to mention—the largest sum going for injuries to occupants of automobiles, 12,643 of them being paid $2,396,684.99.

MISS MARGARET FITZGERALD

Miss Margaret Fitzgerald, sister of contractor James J. Fitzgerald, and a resident of this town for 65 years, died at her home on Washington street Saturday morning. She was born here and was the daughter of the late Nicholas and Maria Fitzgerald. She had made her home for 60 years in the house in which she died.

For many years Miss Fitzgerald was a dressmaker, being known to many in town and numbering many prominent families among her customers. Besides her brother, she leaves one sister, Ellen M. Fitzgerald.

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's Church on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons being celebrant. Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, deacon and Rev. Joseph A. Quigley, subdeacon. There was a large attendance of old friends. The pall bearers were Messrs. John Lynch, John Tansey, John Flaherty, John Kennedy, Ernest G. Beaton and Michael Brown. The burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

SATURDAY'S PLAY AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

Saturday's tournament at the Winchester Country Club was a four-ball match, H. T. Bond and H. C. Buckminster taking the honors with 68.

CALUMET BOWLING

The bowling alleys at the Calumet Club are now open for the season and are being used nightly. During the past month the alleys have been placed in first class condition and they are considered by the bowlers to be faster than for a number of years.

Beginning this Saturday evening the usual weekly lunches will be served. The winter tournament schedule will be made up next week.

WINCHESTER LOST AGAIN

Winchester High opened the home football season last Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field, losing to Lexington, 19 to 14 in a game that was for the most part very closely contested.

Neither team showed much good football and after the first quarter the contest was pretty much a tossup. Winchester improved as the game progressed, and actually outplayed Lexington in the final quarter, but their spurt came to late to off-set the weakness of the opening period when the visitors scored two touchdowns purely by taking advantage of the home team's mistakes.

These two touchdowns proved too great a handicap for a green team playing only its second game to overcome, and the boys deserve much credit for the game fight they staged in the face of such odds.

Winchester has possibilites but it will take time to realize on them. Losing twelve men out of a squad of 15 leaves plenty of holes to fill. Against Lexington the boys were woefully weak both in tackling and interfering, but their defects can and will be overcome. If the team develops as it should in the next two weeks it will still give a good account of itself.

As usual the locals started slowly. In the first five minutes of play after both teams had failed to gain on line bucking, Lexington kicked to Winchester's 10 yard line. Here the home team fumbled and the visitors recovered the ball on the four yard mark. From here McIntosh, the Lexington left half-back crashed over for a touchdown on the first play. They failed to kick the goal. Following this the play was in Winchester's territory. After an unsuccessful try for a field goal, Lexington intercepted a forward pass on the local's 20 yard line. On the first play, Gaffney, who proved the best running back of the game, broke lose and ran 20 yards for the second touchdown.

This ended the scoring until the third quarter, though Fitzgerald narrowly missed a field goal from the visitors' 25 yard line just before time was called.

In the third period Larrabee, Winchester's right end intercepted a Lexington forward and sprinted to the visitors' 21 yard line before being downed. Immediately Fitzgerald shot a long forward to Lynch who was tackled on the six yard stripe. A penalty made it first down, four yards from the goal-line and on the first rush, big "Harpy Fitz" smashed his way over. He also added the point for goal.

Lexington made their winning touchdown as a result of a forward pass starting from Winchester's 50 yard line for a gain of 40 yards. A short plunge into the line netted two yards, and from the eight yard mark, Gaffney sliced off tackle for the score. Moloy kicked the goal.

Winchester staged its best offensive effort of the game here. Lexington kicked outside at Winchester's 30 yard line, and on the first rush, Tansey got loose for 15 yards. Following an exchange of punts, Fitzgerald tossed a long, lazy, floating forward pass to Larrabee on Lexington's 45 yard line. The latter made a splendid catch, and got away clean for a touchdown in as pretty a play as we have seen in some time. Fitzgerald again kicked the goal.

Winchester carried the fighting right to its opponent from this on. Quarterback Haley, knowing the time to be nearly up, tore his game wide open. Pass after pass was attempted, and though few were completed they served to throw plenty of chills into the Lexington supporters who were singularly quiet about this time. The visitors were actually stalling for time when the game ended with Winchester in possession of the ball at mid-field.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE

On Thursday afternoon, Oct. 11, at three o'clock, the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League will hold their first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Bowen W. Tufts of 7 Stratford road instead of at the residence of Mrs. Frederick S. Snyder as has previously been announced. Mrs. Jessie D. Hodder, of the Sherborn Reformatory, an excellent speaker with a true and deeply appealing story to tell, will take as her subject of address, "Criminal Women and Social Well-Being." Mrs. Blake, president of the Arlington Circle will sing. Tea will be served.

We hope that every member will reserve this date and be present.

Daniel T. West, 10 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. West of Mason street, was quite seriously injured last week in a peculiar manner. He was getting out of the bath-tub at his home and grasped the glass towel rack over the tub. The rack broke and one of the ends entered his back, making a bad stab wound. A physician was immediately summoned, but he lost considerable blood before the wound could be dressed. As an added misfortune, he came down yesterday with scarlet fever, and his condition is considered very serious. It has been suggested that parents and others should take notice of this peculiar accident, especially as they have the glass rods where they may be grasped.

Let Us Be Your Fuel Man

Are you staking your winter's warmth and comfort on some fuel you know is getting scarcer and more expensive every year? Will you go through another season living in dread of a shortage, hoping that the dwindling pile in the furnace room will last until another ton arrives.

Prepare now to heat your home with GAS—the dependable fuel. Gas will cost no more next winter than it does now. Don't tie up money in your fuel bin. Pay for gas AFTER YOU USE IT. And no more soot—no more ashes—no more smoke!

WINCHESTER MOTHER'S ASSOCIATION

The members of the Mothers' Association are urged to come to the next meeting, Wednesday, Oct. 17, and to bring sewing implements, pictures for children's scrap books and pieces of cloth for dressing dolls, to help prepare a Christmas party for some real Americans in the mountains of Kentucky.

Miss Carrie Mason who used to be the industrial teacher in the schools of Winchester is now teaching at the Hindman Settlement School, Knott County, Kentucky, and she has described conditions which it is hard to believe exist on our own country. Until last year some of the children had never seen a Christmas tree and did not know its meaning. They have not sufficient clothing in the winter, many of them have tuberculosis and yet they are proud, patriotic and teachable people.

There will be round table discussions of the following subjects: "Table conversation at home," "Co-operation with teachers," "Sending children away to school."

Refreshments will be served as usual.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Boston papers announced this week the mysterious disappearance of George Sawyer, son of Mrs. Louise Sawyer of this town. The boy, 15 years of age, is said to have left his home here Sept. 15, for Milton Academy, failing to appear at that place. Mrs. Sawyer was not known here and no report of the matter was given the Winchester police. On Wednesday evening it was announced that the boy had been found at Houlton, Me. He is the son of Mrs. Louise Dunn Sawyer, a neice of Mrs. Edward J. Johnson of Highland avenue, and the grandson of George B. Dunn, a wealthy lumberman of northern Maine and New Brunswick. It is said the boy became homesick and went to Boston in hopes of meeting his mother at the North Station on her way to her home in Maine. Failing in this, he went to Maine himself.

Two new arrivals from Ireland reached town this week. Patrick Cahill of Clough County, Galway, arrived at the home of James Cahill, 20 Chapin court, and Martin Dillance Corrough, of Arran Islands was welcomed by Delia Connolly of Lakeview terrace.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

We must not dream of harvests, and neglect the toil that produces them.

It is bad enough to cry over spilt milk, but many of us do worse; we cry over milk that we think is going to be spilt.

Many of us merely exist, and think that we live, what we should regain at all costs is freshness and intensity of being.

Both joyousness and gloom exist, there is a plenty of both, but why drag in gloom.

Isn't it about time to call the goldfish in? They have had a good summer in the fountain pool on the common and preserving time has arrived.

"Open your garage door when you warm up your engine" is good advice. "Death lurks in the exhaust gas, and a cold engine is most efficient in producing carbon monoxide."

How to enjoy your fruit:—Take a vacation for the next month. Lay in a supply of bird shot. Take out an indemnity bond to protect yourself for protecting your own property. What's the use! It's cheaper to buy it back after it has been stolen.

Winchester people will undoubtedly give Principal Raymond E. Pinkham of the Wadleigh and Prince Schools every assistance in his plans for holding a Halloween party for the boys and girls of these two schools.

Residents of Main street, Lake street and Linden street are preparing plans for an active campaign next spring to have the north end of Wedge Pond cleaned out. It is reported that the conditions there have become very bad, the pond being used for a dump and being a breeder of mosquitoes.

Through an oversight, the fact that the evening school, usually opening the first of October, would not open until Oct. 8, was not announced. Many prospective pupils and some teachers went to the High School Monday night, only to find the building locked. The school will open next Monday night.

The Star has many satisfied advertisers—and they do not hesitate to say so. Mr. Frank H. Elliott goes out of his way to express his satisfaction over his ad of last week:—"I had nine applicants and engaged a most satisfactory man." The Star does the business every time.

Possibly you read about that fellow found asleep in his car beside the road and arrested by a policeman for drunkenness, and who, when he pleaded guilty, said he was afraid to run the car, so parked it until he sobered off. We're sorry that fellow got fined. He wasn't drunk!

The police tagged a large number of automobiles about the square last Saturday morning, the whole district within the territory where a 20-minute stop only is allowed being covered. Car owners had become very lax in observing the regulations, leaving their cars standing on the main streets from early morning until night. Since the warning the travel about the centre has been noticeably improved by the cleared streets, and Common street is lined with cars.

Winchester residents should recognize and interest themselves in the subject of town planning and zoning. Questions in this department of civic development are arising with greater frequency each year, and although we sit smugly in our homes and allow this or that section of our town to "flare" up over "twin" houses and "block" stores, it may just as well be ourselves who are broadcasting appeals for aid tomorrow. It should be noted that our able Planning board has announced a meeting in the assembly hall of the High School for Tuesday evening, Oct. 16, at which time addresses on this subject will be given by well-informed speakers, together with a [illegible] views. Announcement of this meeting is printed elsewhere, and all residents should read the article. This phase of our development is an important one. It is growing more and more important each year. You owe it to yourself and to your town to become interested.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Star:

There has been some inquiry as to whether the public are really welcome at the Benedict Club Clam Bake on Oct. 12th. It is true that in the past, only members and their guests have been invited to Club affairs, but we feel that many townspeople would enjoy a real bake, cooked seashore style, and also want Winchester people to become better acquainted with our Club.

The committee will make it their duty and take pleasure thereby in welcoming all who wish to attend, and yet are perhaps not well acquainted with the members. Come and bring your family. Plan to stay all day. There will be continuous sports and entertainment of various kinds.

Incidentally it is expected that some of our best tennis players who participated last summer in the Old Colony League will meet players from other parts of the town.

Every member has tickets for sale as well as the Star office and Hevey's Pharmacy. All are welcome. We will do our best to give everyone a memorable holiday.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The Court conducted a very successful booth at the American Legion Carnival and a considerable sum was realized in aid of the proposed memorial room. The credit for the work on this booth is due to the Chairman, Mrs. Sarah A. Cassidy, who was assisted by the following:

Miss K. O'Connor	Miss Mamie O'Connor
Mrs. L. McDonald	Miss Mary Smith
Mrs. Hugh Stalley	Miss Mabel Kelley
Mrs. Probert Young	Miss Mary O'Meara
Mrs. Nora O'Melia	Mrs. Thomas Kelley
Mrs. Harry Brown	Mrs. George Poland
Miss Mary Martin	Mrs. Katherine Kean
Miss Ethel Kean

At the meeting last evening plans were completed for the series of whists which the Charitable Committee will conduct this month in the K. of C. Hall. The dates for the whists are Oct. 10th, 16th, and 24th.

Some splendid articles have been donated to be used as prizes or to be disposed of at the sale. The whists which the Court have conducted in the past have been conspicuous because of the number and value of their prizes and these whists bid fair to outdo all previous efforts. A record attendance is predicted. The serial prize for the lady or gentleman who holds the highest score for the three whists will be a barrel of flour. The Committee has also secured a ton of coal which will be awarded to the holder of the lucky chance. Tickets may be had of Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald, Chairman, tel. Win. 0673-W.

Odd Kind of Fish.

No fish is stranger than the little sea-horse. It has a body encased in rings of bony plates, a horse shaped head set at right angles and a prehensile tail to grasp seaweed in which it hides. It always floats with its queer head up and erect. Another peculiar thing about the sea-horse is that the male fish carries the eggs in a pouch situated under his tail until the young are hatched and large enough to look out for themselves.

Pearls Always Popular.

Pearls were known to the ancients and used by them for personal adornment. It is probable that they wore pearl necklaces. It is not definitely known just who was the first person to wear one. Marco Polo, the famous traveler of the Middle ages, describes the king of Malabar as wearing around his neck a necklace made of 104 large pearls and rubies.

Can't Be Made to Work.

A good many so-called perpetual motion machines have been invented, and the patent office records disclose hundreds of these. The chief difficulty with all of them is the same: the fact that they do not work. Scientists have shown that perpetual motion is an impossibility and inventors are wasting their time and energy by attempting to produce such a machine that will work.

THE GEOGRAPHY OF TOKYO

To get a mental picture of Tokyo one must hold clearly in mind that Japan's capital was not really a city but a collection of towns and villages, grown together, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. These settlements preserved their entity in the 15 "wards" so frequently mentioned in dispatches of the last few days.

Tokyo had a peculiar sentimental tie with our own National Capital, because the Japanese Cherry blossom trees in Potomac Park, in Washington, constituted a "gift" to us, which was recognized by sending to Tokyo a consignment of American dogwood trees. There they form an annual magnet for thousands of Japanese residents at the time of their blooming.

What a Railway Ticket Tells

When one sailed up the Bay of Tokyo to Yokohama, and bought a railroad ticket to Tokyo, he sensed the distinctive flavor of Japan's capital. For the ticket would read Shinagawa, or Shimbashi, not Tokyo.

The Imperial Palace was in the aristocratic ward or "Ku," known as Kojimochi-Ku. In this palace, originated by Ota Dokwan in 1456, formerly lived the Tokugawa Shoguns. This palace bears witness to the frequent casualties of Tokyo; it often was burned, the last time in 1873. It is not accessible to the public. A Japanese guide-book naively says, "Ordinary people are allowed to approach only as far as the end of the first bridge outside the outer gate." The palace grounds are surrounded by two moats; the perimeter of the outer one is about five miles.

In this ward also is the central station, with buildings occupying two acres. One of the four entrances was reserved for the use of the Imperial family.

The Busy Latin Quarter

The Latin quarter of Tokyo, which suffered severely, lies in Kanda-Ku. Here was the Tokyo Higher Commercial School, the first school of that kind established by the government when it launched upon a policy of adopting western business methods.

Upon the grounds of this school grow pine trees which are survivors of the grove standing there when the school tract was part of the Shoguns pleasure park.

This ward also was famous for a willow-tree thoroughfare, its second-hand clothes stores, and a Shinto Shrine which dates to the eighth century.

While each ward retains distinctive characteristics of the time when it was a separate town, and each had its own business section, Tokyo as a whole has a distinctive individuality. It is an "official" city and frankly so.

Life Highly Formalized

Official hours, official guides, official guide books, and official seasons for various sights and scenes are officially proclaimed. You come away with a sense of having been officially conducted through a fairy land of cherry blossoms, of noisy lotus flowers that bloom with a detonation, of dolls' festivals, of Geisha girl dances, and the "Temple of Knotty Timber" where lies buried Koizumi Yakkumo, native name taken by Lafcadio Hearn when he became a Japanese citizen.

Under the heading "January" the official guide book prepared for Eastern visitors informs you that "people are now in their very best humor, going about paying New Year's call."

This extreme propriety extends to gardens and parks so that one understands why members of a Japanese commission which visited Washington some years ago were frankly impressed most deeply by our Capital's Rock Creek Park which is left as nature made it save for motor roads and bridle paths.

What Geisha Girl Did

The old survived alongside the new. The Geisha girl continued to perform though the cafeteria had made its advent in Tokyo.

The Geisha girl was an institution hard for the western mind to comprehend. Her most comparable functionary in the western world was the court jester—long since passed away. She was a modern prototype of the private entertainers of wealthy, medieval nobles. She was of a class different from the women of Japan who clung to their semi-seclusion amid the inroads of modernism; but she was not of the type which westerners class as the demi-monde.

Restaurants and tea houses in Tokyo still had their Geisha girls. The Japanese business man, student, official, or visiting farmer were the patrons. More often it was a party of men friends whom the Geisha girl entertained with song, dance, and monologue, and for whom she acted as a sort of hostess.

Custom did not fill these restaurants with husbands and wives, men and their fiancees, or friends of opposite sexes, as in America. But the wish to have members of the other sex present was just as strong in Japan as elsewhere. Hence the Geisha girl.

A Japanese "Press Agent"

Frequently Tokyo's adaptation of western ways was amusing. The ill-fated Imperial Hotel, which catered to western visitors to Japan, just as one of the most beautiful hostelries of San Francisco does to Oriental travelers, engaged a press agent. Only a few days before the disaster he wrote the following naive letter to an American editor:

I take much pleasure in sending you the photographs of the new Imperial Hotel with story. When last old Imperial Hotel was burned to ashes, the hotel managers held a meeting for the reconstructing of it. Ten men had 10 opinions and seemed never to come to one point; but after considerable investigation they decided to put all affairs of reconstruction in the hands of Mr. Right who had been invited by the hotel for consulting.

Mr. Right has been known as an engineer who possesses an advanced idea in the architect. He says, "The so-called modern buildings, which are being built now, will be out of men's taste about 50 years hereafter and people don't like to see the present style houses. They consequently demand new style building which has never been born." That the people, half century hereafter, will be tired of seeing the present architectural art, is Mr. Right's principal idea in his architectural knowledge.

When we enters the new Imperial Hotel, we feel as if we were being led into the knigdom of the fairy land. Soft atmosphere with strange wall design calls for our peculiar sensations. When we stand in front of the pond, which exists just front of the maid entrance, such an idea that this is a modern hotel never strikes our mind, but feel as if we stand on the entrance of the castle of the fairy land.

In general it seems this is very low ceiling house, and entering hall, we feel as if something were pressing our head. Green carpet, with purple and golden pattern greatly strikes our eyes. The ceiling is very wide in comparison with its height from the floor, so as I told you above, we feel as if something were pressing our head.

Wards Varied Widely

Outside the pervading sense of official regulation there is infinite variety in Tokyo. Exclusive Kajimachi was very different from bourgeoise Kanda. Busy, bustling Nihombashi, with its "Broadway" and "Billingsgate" was a far cry from Shiba, village of the tower gate and giant hill, native restaurants and distinctive dances.

For the humble traveler by the tram, it is exceedingly difficult to get lost in Tokyo. Each car bears the number of its route and inside, at the place where, in America, one would see hosiery and washing powder advertisements, there is a comprehensive map of the city crisa-crossed and circled by lines of many colors corresponding to the numbered routes. A knowledge of the language is superfluous. From the guide-book map, or better from the free map furnished by the Japan Tourist Bureau, which seeks to make Japanese travel delightful, one locates the place he seeks and the place where he stands. Then it is a mere matter of matching numbers and colors to any spot within the circular railway which forms the tire of the transportation wheel.

City Maps on Billboards

This idea of placing a map of the city in the cars themselves instead of on some sequestered wall around the station may rob the traveler of the cultural advantages of tempting pictures of butter and motor cars, but it makes it easy to wander from village to village within the city limits with the minimum delay and sign language.

The above mentioned Nihombashi is a principal business quarter of the city, although each of the wards is more independent, commercially, than the various sections of most cities.

The center of Nihombashi and of Tokyo, is the bridge which in olden times was a measuring point for distances to places throughout the Empire. Formerly it was wood; it was rebuilt in 1911 of granite. It is the thoroughfare from each end of this bridge which popularly is known as "Broadway."

An Earthquake-Proof Bank

In Nihombashi is the bank of Japan, occupying a building especially designed to be earthquake-proof. One part of the building has three stories underground for strong boxes, and this part can be flooded as protection against fire.

In this same section of modern banks and office buildings is a Shinto Shrine where charms are dispensed which are supposed to be efficacious in such emergencies as shipwreck, child delivery and being the victim of a liar.

Tokyo's "Newspaper Row"

"Newspaper Row" is in Kyobashi-Ku. Here are practically all the principal journals. Shiba-Ku contains the Mortuary Temples of the Tokugawa Shoguns. A concession of foreign visitors is indicated by the announcement, "Boots need not be taken off, as covers are provided to slip over them."

In Azahu-Ku the American legation was located in the time of Townsend Harris. In this ward is a Buddhist temple, memento of the years before Shintoism took firm hold.

Shintoism has been kept alive in Japan from the dawn of the Empire. Tokyo, as Japan's capital, became a stronghold of Shintoism because officialdom of Japan supported it ardently. Shintoism essentially is a religion of patriotism, and patriotism is the cornerstone of Empire building. Furthermore Shintoism inculcates a patriotism which pivots around the Imperial family and especially around the person of the Emperor.

Western monarchs have stopped at the claim of their divine right to Kingship—the idea that they are chosen of God. But Japanese Emperors have gone much farther and claim that they actually are descended from the chief Shinto diety.

The Mt. Vernon of Japan

Akasaka-Ku is notable for containing the modern Mt. Vernon of Japan, the residence of the late General Count Nogi, which is preserved by the city and is a shrine for thousands of patriotic visitors.

Visitors to the Korakuen Garden, in Koishikawa-Ku, one of the most popular landscape parks of Tokyo, will recall being told how its symmetry already had been marred by destruction of some of its buildings, its pine-groves and its ponds.

A PERFECTED VAULT MONUMENT

Mr. A. L. Walker whose advertisement appears in another column has been perfecting a Vault Monument, the demand for which is apparent in every New England community.

There are many who, previous to the war intended to build mausoleums, but the increase in cost of production has made this impossible.

The Utility Vault Monument comes to solve the problem, offers the same form of interment in hermetically sealed crypts at one third the cost of the mausoleum. There are no open vestibules, stained glass windows, or bronze doors which require perpetual and annual care funds to keep in repair. Interments in the Vault Monument are made in the granite doors in the end of monument which is secured with bronze locks which, conveys a comfortable assurance that those who repose therein can never be disturbed.

Mr. Walker has found conditions in townships where those who pass on in winter, or severe weather are stored in a common shed or undertaker's cellar until spring which is unsafe and unsanitary.

Mr. Walker has under construction a six crypt Utility Vault Monument to be installed in Rochester, Vt., during this month. He has quite a number who will make the trip of 200 miles to inspect this model memorial, among which are those who decide upon this important question while they live.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Sittinger have recently located in Winchester at 102 Church street. Mr. Sittinger, M. I. T., class 1910, was formerly with John A. Stevens, consulting engineer of Lowell, but is now with Stone & Webster, Inc., of Boston as senior engineer in the division of construction and engineering.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man
There are certain periods of each day when everyone wants gas service at the same time. One of these "rush" periods is at the meal-making hour when the demand for service reaches tremendous proportions.
These periods or "peak loads" may only last for a few minutes at a time, while the lull in between may cover hours. But the point to remember is that expensive plant equipment and a full supply of labor must be maintained during the twenty-four hours of each day as if every hour were a rush hour.
Fortunately, we are able to store our gas in dull periods against the time when everybody will use it at once, without costly, steel reservoirs to store our product we could never guarantee a continued and adequate service when you need it most.

THE BERKELEY FIRE

Interesting Letter From Former Winchester Woman Who Lost Her Home

Through the courtesy of Mr. Robert E. Fay of Park avenue, at whose home she was married in 1914, we print this week a letter from Mrs. George B. Brigham of Berkeley, Cal. Mrs. Brigham, a former resident on Park avenue, was mistaken for a German spy when in Paris on her wedding trip. She moved from Winchester in 1917, going to Dedham and later to Berkeley. Her letter to Mrs. Charles E. Fay of this town follows:

Berkeley, Cal.
Sept. 20, 1923

Dear Aunt Carrie:

I guess you've read of the big Berkeley fire. Well, we were in the middle of it!

At noon, Monday, the day of the fire, George came home to lunch and everything was clear and serene. The day was very hot and a terrific wind blowing and we knew there were fires around in the mountains, but thought nothing of it.

At 2 p. m. I cleaned up and sat calmly down to teach Virginia. Just then Miss Radford called up from down town and said, "Is everything all right? They say North Berkeley is threatened." I said "Why yes." She said, "Well then, I'll go on over to Oakland."

Just after she phoned smoke began to blow around. Finally, it got quite dense so I went out and watered the lawn and the house in front. The neighbors came out and said, "We wonder how near the fire is?" None of them seemed to be alarmed. You see the topography of the hill is so that no street is visible to the next street; each on a hill so high you look over the tree tops of the street below, and besides our own houses were so surrounded by trees we could not even see the trees below.

Well, Miss Radford had decided to come home after all, and she said to me "Good for you to wet the lawn" and went in and began packing her valuables in a trunk and never said "Boo" to me. So I calmly watered the lawn! The smoke was quite dense and cinders falling, but occasionally the wind lifted everything and it was clear. Why I didn't realize there was even danger, I don't know, but it seems hundreds were like me. There was no warning, no whistles.

I never heard a fire engine, our neighborhood was as quiet as a funeral, and at that time 250 homes had already burned just above us and the streets below were burning, and we were in a trap kept somewhat clear by the wind. Our street would have been saved if the lower street fires had not backed up.

At 3 A. B. came home from school and she and Virginia went next door to play. Immediately I looked out the back door and saw the field opposite blazing. I ran to Miss Radford telling her of it, she said "I will go down cellar and get some sacks and we'll go across and fight it." Before she hardly finished speaking the house and yard next door took fire, the great cedar trees blazed, two houses below took fire. I ran for the children, a neighbor helped me into the house with them and said, "Run, you have to, to reach safety." The children were screaming, but I managed to grab George's suitcase, put in it our tin box with valuables, six of George's shirts, my bag, my best dress and each of the children's best dresses, threw our four new sweaters over my arm, also George's and my overcoats, grabbed the children's summer hats and George's new portable typewriter. Then I lost my courage, with the children screaming and house next door blazing, and Miss Radford called "Run, I will follow. I will lock the house against looters." I said, "Don't lock, the men will want to get in to fight the fire." Then we ran down through our back yard where the bushes and trees were blazing, and I was amazed as I ran from block to block to see the streets I supposed safe blazing and crowds of hurrying people and machines, baby carriages piled with bedding, etc., etc. But no sounds except children crying.

University students guarded traffic, one held up a whole street full of machines for the children and me to cross. On the fourth street below a car was coming along, we fell on to it and got out.

Miss Radford said as she left our yard she looked back (only three minutes after I left) and our house was well gone already. She gave me some money—dear soul—I hadn't a cent. It seems she was so flustrated she put her valuables in the trunk, never dreaming but what someone could get it out. She lost $500 worth of imported laces alone.

Mrs. Bruce, whose house we were in, is in Massachusetts for the summer. Her son, Professor Bruce, was up on the hill fighting the fire, never dreaming but what we were all safe below. You see the terrific 60-mile wind took the sparks to the lower part of the hill before the middle part.

We lost bedding, one $30 camera, new couch, $40, all of George's drawing instruments and boards and valued architectural plates which he had been accumulating since Tech days; two trunks, two suitcases, all clothing, and a hundred little things that I keep thinking of. We lost, as near as we can figure, nearly a thousand dollars worth of goods; that is, if everything were replaced. But that is so little compared with other people's losses. Some professors lost papers and books that had been years underway.

The teachers of A. B.'s school were dumb the next day. Of course the school went and they said "Imagine us keening those children in school and sending them home to burning homes and we not knowing a word of it!"

By 4 o'clock, imagine, in just two hours, the whole hill of two square miles was blazing and the only thing that saved the University and this side of the town was the evening wind coming in.

Dear George knew nothing of the fire till he heard some people on the ferry talking of it—and when he went forward to look across the bay he saw our hill a pile of flame and smoke.

At the wharf one of his pupils ran up to him trembling and crying and said "I have located my grandmother but I don't know where your family can be."

George started up the hill, but it was impossible, soldiers were already on guard. Then he hailed an auto which rushed him to Aramis where we were. I was down the street to Berta's, but he said when he saw the children in the yard all he thought was "Nothing else matters, they are safe."

My F. R. S. friend, Berta Burnett, a dear girl, knew two friends in Oakland and let us have her room and sleeping porch. In the closet is a gas plate, so we get along fine. Everybody is wonderful.

A. B. has had two dresses given her, a hair ribbon and some good shoes. I can wear any of Berta's clothes. The stores have marked everything way down, so we are getting along fine, nothing to worry about, we will soon be back where we were. George's architectural things are the only real loss.

But aren't we fortunate to know our household goods are safe? After all, our loss is nothing; nothing but life counts.

Our plans are still indefinite. In spite of the fire, I still love Berkeley, it is a wonderful place and the type of people is ideal.

Running from the fire Virginia kept saying "Oh, I just dressed my Raggety Ann up like a princess and she will burn!" And then she would say, "Oh, all those pretty flowers will burn, why didn't we pick them and bring them with us?" And A. B. kept crying, "Let's go back to Pasadena!"

We are all fine and hope all of you are.

With much love,
Ilma

LEGION LAWN CARNIVAL

The Baby Contest began at 3 o'clock and the entries numbered 62, which kept the judges busy until very nearly 6 o'clock. Drs. Arthur L. Brown, Daniel C. Dennett and Richard W. Sheey acted as judges and were assisted by Mrs. Alice Gormley, the Visiting Nurse Association nurse, and several nurses from the Winchester Hospital. All the babies were weighed and judged solely upon physical condition. Ribbons were offered for the first three places of the various classes and a silver cup for the best baby in the contest. The winners of the first class, which was for babies under 18 months, were as follows: Mary G. Sullivan, first; Leo Callahan, second; Clifford Lethan, third. Winners of the second class, which was for babies from 18 months to three and one half years, were as follows: Eileen O'Sullivan, first; Frances Randall, second; Parker Mitton, third. The winners of the third class, which was for babies three and one half to five years of age, were as follows: Florence Pynn, first; Frances O'Brien, second; Fred Murphy, third. The silver loving cup was awarded to Eileen O'Sullivan who was the winner of the second class.

All the ladies' associations of the Town worked diligently and untiringly for the success of the carnival. The Fortnightly committee consisted of the following ladies: Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside, chairman; Mrs. William A. LeFavour, Mrs. Ernest Keepers, and Mr. G. D. Elmer. They had the home-made cake and candy booth.

The En-Ka Sorority committee consisted of the following ladies: Mrs. Beulah F. Kibbee, chairman; Miss Gertrude Felber, Miss Mildred Cummings, Miss Thelma Trott, Miss Georgianna Waters and Mrs. Frances Shaw. This sorority had charge of the refreshments in the Legion home and sold coffee and hot dogs on the midway.

The attractive flower and novelty booth was contributed by the women of the Republican Club and consisted of the following committee: Mrs. Henry Hildreth, chairman; Mrs. J. H. MacAlman, associate chairman; Mrs. Harper Blaisdell, Mrs. Daniel W. Comins and Mrs. George W. Apsey.

The Sigma Beta Sorority committee consisted of the following: Mrs. Raymond Strawbridge, chairmon; Miss Ellen Cloutman and Mrs. Ruth Hilton. They had charge of the grabs for children, pony rides, balloons and fortune telling booths.

The American Legion Auxiliary committee consisted of the following: Mrs. W. H. Pierce, chairman; Mrs. George D. LeDuc, Mrs. W. A. Bennett, Mrs. John Roche, Mrs. John Harrold, Mrs. Amelia Reetenacker and Mrs. Bernard Mathews. They had a novelty booth and were also kept very busy selling ice cream cones.

The Catholic Daughters of America committee consisted of the following ladies: Mrs. Sarah A. Cassidy, chairman; Miss Catherine O'Connors Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Mrs. Alice Martin, Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, Miss Ethel Keane, Mrs. Mary O'Melia, Miss Mary Martin and Mrs. George Poland. They had a novelty booth and were in charge of the sweaters, which proved a very big attraction. They also had sporting goods in their booth.

The Order of Eastern Star committee consisted of the following: Mrs. J. C. Gilbert, chairman; Mrs. William B. Wood, Mr. Raymond Merrill. The Eastern Star had a booth of paper favors and Christmas novelties.

The cigars and cigarettes booth was in charge of the Kum-O-Misit Society and the following ladies were in charge: Miss Florence McCarthy, Miss Ester McCauley, Miss Mary LeDuc and Miss Margaret Melley.

The Elks contributed pop corn, peanuts and tonics and the following committee was in charge, Mr. Fred D. Clement, chairman; Mr. George T. Davidson, Mr. Maurice Dineen, Mr. Fred Scholl and Mr. Ted Connors.

The Winchester Grange had a novelty booth and the following committee was in charge: Mrs. Clara Mullin, chairman; Mrs. Orilla Osborn, Mrs. Marguerite Hanlon, Mrs. Elsie Mobbs, Mrs. Luella Doucette and Mrs. Helen Dewar.

The Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans and the Lodge of Rebecas both gave assistance and donations to the carnival. The boys themselves ran booths of blankets, umbrellas, suit cases, aluminum ware, punch board prizes, candy and dolls.

In the evening the band was moved from the rear of the Legion house where it had played for the benfit of all those at the booths, and was placed at the front of the Legion house where the street was roped off and a "block dance" was held. Search lights were thrown from the trees onto the street and a charge of five cents per dance was made. This also proved a big attraction as the space roped off was filled during each dance.

It is expected that the Legion will net over $1000 after the expenses are paid and this will go largely for the building and furnishing of a memorial room in memory of the 12 Winchester boys who gave their lives for the country during the World War. It will also serve as a place for the Winchester Post to hold any memorial exercises.

Programs of the carnival were given out free during the afternoon and evening and all the Winchester merchants and banks had advertisements in the program. A roster of the members was also printed in the program and shows that there are 226 members.

MILK CHART FOR SEPTEMBER 1923

Published by the
WINCHESTER BOARD OF HEALTH

The bacteria count in this chart gives the number of bacteria found in one c. c. taken from the center of the sample after it had been well shaken. It should be remembered that another c. c. taken from the same sample might give a somewhat different count, but the difference would rarely, if ever, exceed 10 per cent.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, OCT. 1

The Board met at 7:30 p. m., all present.

The records of the meeting of Sept. 24, were read and approved.

Town Hall Engagements: Mr. Edward McKenzie appeared to request the Board for the use of the Town Hall for moving picture entertainments. He stated that he would probably want the hall two or three nights a week from the middle of October till May and would be willing to give up the hall any night that it might be needed for some other engagement. He stated that the pictures would be high class. No children under 16 would be allowed to attend unless accompanied by an adult. The matter was laid over for further consideration.

Snow and Ice: A letter was received from the Supt. of Streets stating that he has been invited, in company with other highway department officials of adjacent cities and towns, to be present at an exhibition of snow plows and tractors to be held Oct. 11, 1923, at the show rooms of the Eastern Tractors Company, Inc., 92-94 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge.

The Superintendent of Streets hopes that members of the Board will attend this exhibition also. Members of the Board will endeavor to attend.

Perambulation of Town Lines (Woburn-Winchester): A letter was received from the Superintendent of Streets stating that the city engineer would like to know when the Board would like to perambulate the Woburn-Winchester town line. The clerk was instructed to notify the city of Woburn that they will meet the officials at the Winning Farm, Lexington street, at 2:45 p. m. on Oct. 17, 1923.

Traffic Regulations (Street Lines): A letter was received from the Superintendent of Streets stating that he has had a white line painted on Forest street, opposite house of Mr. J. W. Creamer as directed and intends to have another line painted near Forest Circle.

Forest Street: In the same letter the Superintendent of Streets suggests certain street repairs in the track areas near this location. The Board will investigate the matter.

Numbering on Streets: A letter was received from Mrs. Alice R. Hildreth asking for a number on Highland avenue to her house being built at the corner of Highland avenue and Lawson road. The Superintendent of Streets is to give the house a number on Highland avenue.

Meeting adjourned at 8:30 p. m.

Speaking on "Folkways: The Soul of a People."

ASIR HAS "UNWELCOME" ON ITS MAT

The Emir of Asir is dead; has been buried in his capital at Sabia; and is now duly succeeded by his son. The western world did not learn of the event until weeks after it happened.

The passing of the old ruler of a principate that probably not one person in a hundred could "place" on its proper continent will hardly cause a ripple on the surface of world affairs, but it serves excellently, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, to show how little we know about the world we live in.

World Has Scant Knowledge of It

Asir is on the Arabian shore of the same Red Sea that we are told the children of Israel traversed dry-shod, says the bulletin, "and has existed there with little change probably from the time of that interesting event. Phoenicians and Venitians and Portuguese have coasted alongside its barren, hot sands. Since the Suez Canal was constructed palatial steamers with the last word in equipment and appointments have passed in a continual procession in sight of its coral reefs and beaches and mountains. And yet until 1917 practically nothing whatever was known of the region, and even now the world's knowledge of it is scant.

As in most others parts of Arabia, the people of Asir are Mohammedans and fanatical Mohammedans at that. Travelers are not welcome, especially are "Christian dogs" not wanted. But the intolerance of the people of Asir is not reserved for Christians alone. The Turks who are fellow Moslems and who were in addition representatives of the Caliph, made little headway in Asir. Nominally it was a part of the Turkish Empire as was most of the remainder of Arabia; but the people never surrendered their independence. Turkish garrisons held Kanfuda and Jeizan, little ports, and Idha, an inland station; but large districts of Asir's 30,000 or 40,000 square miles of territory were never even explored by the Turks.

Hot as Death Valley

Along the Red Sea in Asir is a strip of lowlands 20 to 30 miles wide, known as the "tehama," barren, hot and fever-ridden. In appearance it is not unlike the repellent Pacific coast of Mexico's lower California. Even in April the thermometer registers as high as 107 degrees in the shade in the "tehama," and in midsummer it is almost as hot as in America's famous Death Valley.

The inner edge of the "tehama" is marked by low mountains, some 2000 feet high. Farther inland are the country's highest peaks, rising to 6000 and even 8000 feet. Still farther inland the mountains give way to the high plateau that extends into central Arabia.

In Asir's higher mountains, according to the meager word-of-mouth reports of natives, is a land the direct antithesis of the unlovely "tehama." The rainfall in the mountains is said to be considerable and its valleys are regions of running water, trees, gardens, fields and orchards. None of the streams reaches the sea, all being swallowed up by the desert or dissipated by irrigation ditches.

Favored Allies

Even the Emir of Asir, nominal lord of the realm, is without authority in much of his wild country. He holds securely only the "tehama," the lower mountains, and a portion of the highest region. In much of the highlands the inhabitants do not acknowledge his authority. This is especially true of the nomads on the edge of the great central desert.

When Italy was at war with Turkey in 1911-12 she subsidized the Emir of Asir who was glad enough to make active his slumbering enmity toward Turkey. During the World War the Emir was one of the numerous Arab chieftains who nominally joined the Allies against the Central Powers. He received supplies from Great Britain but accomplished little, never even dislodging the few Turkish garrisons in Asir.

Sabia, the capital of Asir, is in the lower highlands just outside the "tehama." It is described by a British Indian medical officer who visited it during the World War as "a village of huts."

NEW ZEALAND: ITALY OF THE SOUTHERN HEMISPHERE

A newspaper item stating that New Zealand lemons have recently reached the Canadian market, will probably cause some readers to get out their atlases to try to prove that an editor has nodded, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

This British Dominion nearest to the South Pole is spoken of so often as "the Antipodes of Great Britain" that the opinion is common that its climate is the same in every respect. There are many similarities, it is true, but in general it is the warmer half of England that is most nearly like the cooler half of New Zealand. The distance separating the northernmost mainland point of Great Britain from the North Pole is 800 miles less than the distance between New Zealand's southernmost point and the South Pole; and North Cape, New Zealand, is a full 600 miles closer to the Equator than the sun-bathed Riviera of southern France and Italy.

Citrus Fruits Grown in "Toe"

It is to Italy, in fact, that New Zealand may perhaps best be compared even though the one is a peninsula and the other an island group. By a strange freak of geographical confirmation, the two large islands that practically make up New Zealand form, when taken together, almost as perfect a "boot" as the famous "Boot of Italy." It is perhaps more properly the unbooted leg and foot of a man that the shape of New Zealand approaches. The range of north latitude covered by Italy almost exactly corresponds to the degrees of south latitude covered by New Zealand; and just as the Calabrian "toe" of Italy reaches southward into the Mediterranean, so the "instep" and "toe" of the Auckland Peninsula of New Zealand extend equatorward into the warmer waters of the Pacific.

With its comparison to Italy in mind, it is easy enough to understand how the warmest parts of New Zealand can produce citrus fruits. Until quite recently fruit culture had been confined to the common orchard fruits of the temperate zones and had naturally been developed south of the warmest regions of North Island. Even as late as 1916 New Zealand was dependent on imports to furnish the lemons which the islanders consumed. The lemon industry has gained rapidly since that time and latest reports show that one New Zealand firm alone has handled 11,000 cases of domestic lemons this year.

Although New Zealand can develop in its warmer regions a citrus fruit industry of considerable importance, it is as a dairy and sheep country that it is best known and probably will continue to be known. In a recent year its wool exports were valued at more than $80,000,000, and its exported mutton and lamb at more than $20,000,000, while the butter and cheese and milk shipped out of the country were worth upwards of $50,000,000.

A Dud Is Always a Dud.

You can take it from me—romantic writers notwithstanding — matrimony possesses no alchemy to transpose a dud fellow, a rake, a cad, or any other human throw-out, into a husband who will thereafter acquit himself like a more reasonable human being.—From "Through the Glad Eyes of a Woman," by Jane Dee.

To Polish Silver.

If a quantity of silver is to be cleaned try this method: Mix sweet oil and whiting to a smooth, creamy paste. Apply with a flannel cloth. Allow it to stand until dry. Polish first with cotton flannel, then with chamois. This method will not eat or injure the silver plating.

World's Longest Poem.

The longest poem on record is Spenser's "Faerie Queens." It is only a quarter the length of the original plan, yet it is as long as Homer's "Illiad" and "Odyssey" and Virgil's "Aenid" put together, and more than three times bigger than Milton's "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained" in one.

Enameling Long Practiced.

The art of enameling is a very ancient one, some claiming it originated with the Scythians, who are said to have introduced it into China. Extant evidence exists that the ancient Egyptians, Phoenicians and Assyrians used enamel coating in the decoration of jewelry.

To Relieve Canaries of Vermin.

Canary birds are often covered with vermin. They may be relieved of them by placing a clean white cloth over their cage at night. In the morning the cloth will be covered with minute red spots so small that they can hardly be seen with the naked eye. Those are the parasites, a source of great annoyance to the birds.

Did Seem Peculiar.

"Say," said the suspicious Mrs. Hayrix, "Jim Peabody, cashier of the bank, was down today and bought Deacon Brown's fast colt for $100." "Huh!" exclaimed Farmer Hayrix, "that's just the amount I put in his darned old bank yisterday. It's mighty peculiar—mighty so."

Get-Together Spirit.

A good way to make people love one another and to teach them to combine for general improvement is to give them a chance to get together for harmless fun that will refresh their bodies and soothe their minds, and if these are not the principal purposes of the church they are at least among its objects.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

Absolutely.

The only sure things in life are those that have already happened.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Feared for the Earth.

It was in the midst of a nose dive and Reginald, who was making his first flight, tugged frantically at the pilot's sleeve. "We better get away from here," he shrieked, "the earth's swelling up like a balloon and it's liable to bust any minute."

Must Make Use of Material.

If we do not make use of our newly discovered materials, we shall only continue to live stupidly in a stupid world.—E. C. Lindeman.

The Filling Station.

Too many people use their homes as filling stations where they fill up, pay up and rush on.

Figures Show Country's Growth.

A single New York city bank of day carries deposits equaling mo than twenty-one times the total posits in all the city's banks in 18 The deposits in New York banks the year 1847 totaled $28,000,000. The banks carried $11,000,000 of specie a had a circulation of about $7,000,000.

Banish Fear.

Good work can only be done people who have abolished fear; lime thoughts come only as we fear behind.—Elbert Hubbard.

Good-bye Gear-shift!

Your doom is spelled by the biggest advance in automobile design since the self-starter—

The Traffic Transmission

Involving a totally new principle, the Traffic Transmission can be shifted with the pressure of the little finger under all conditions, at all normal driving speeds, in any direction (low to high or high to low) by the least experienced driver.

The gears cannot clash. There is nothing new to learn. The familiar old gear lever is there. Thousands (especially women) can now become happy motorists and drive with tranquillity in traffic or on tour.

In handling ease—in the amount of pleasure it gives to driving—no car can now surpass the 1924 Chandler, for it is powered by the

with all its spectacular high gear capacity retained and with its operation made noiseless and flawlessly smooth by recent refinements.

Now the thousands who have vainly battled with the evils and admitted dangers of the old-fashioned gear shift may sit at the wheel and revel in the master performance qualities of the Pikes Peak Motor on hills and in crowded thoroughfares.

The revolutionary nature of the Traffic Transmission, its simplicity, ease and surety, and the amazing driving convenience it gives, cannot be realized without a ride in the 1924 Chandler

You are urged to come in and learn for yourself. Ten minutes behind the wheel tells all!

SUCCESSFUL REFORESTATION

Water and Sewer Board Accomplishing Satisfactory Work

The Water and Sewer Board of Winchester is pleased to state that the work of reforestation of the past spring and summer on the water-shed of our reservoirs is of a very gratifying nature.

There have been set out 30,000 white pine saplings and 5000 Norway spruce trees, making a total of 120,000 evergreens planted on this watershed during the past five years of reforestation. A large percentage of these trees are of the white pine variety, followed by the Scotch pine, the spruces—Norway and white—and a few thousand of the Redfine and 500 Arborvite. About 500 Douglas fir, a native of the Pacific coast, have also been planted.

The board appreciates that much credit is due to the employes of the department in their efforts to make every tree passing through their hands live. Especially so since this has been a trying season on account of the extreme drought.

After a careful inspection of this year's work the board is of the opinion that 95 percent of the trees are alive and growing strongly considering the lack of moisture. The watershed of our reservoirs contains for the most part a very fortunate composition of soil, for underneath the top layer of leaf mould and black loam is found a good depth of red loam, which maintains a large degree of moisture and makes a dependable insurance for a healthy and vigorous growth.

The board deemed it wise to remove a large amount of bushes and sprout growth near the water line and let the sunlight and air reach the young trees, which were in danger of being smothered by too much shade. The time will come of course when the pines will protect themselves and their own shade will destroy the undergrowth and conserve much moisture, which will run into the reservoirs. There are three factors which the Water and Sewer Board are considering—sanitation, conservation and preservation.

The board placed an order last May for 60,000 coniferous trees with the State Department of forestry for next year's planting, and is anxious to complete as rapidly as possible the reforestation of the 400 acres of land surrounding the reservoirs. It is safe to say that three-sevenths of the land is completed to date. The wisdom of this reforestation work will make itself manifest as time goes on.

TWO BIRTHDAYS AT HOME

Wednesday saw the observance of two birthdays at the Home for Aged People, Mrs. Suzan Folson celebrated her 81st anniversary and Mr. Hiram Folson his 73rd birthday. Mrs. Brazier's anniversary fell on Tuesday and that of Mr. Folsom on Wednesday, but the two members joined forces and held a celebration on Wednesday.

They were well remembered by their friends. A chicken dinner was enjoyed through the kindness of Mr. W. E. Taylor and two birthday cakes from Mrs. Alfred Higgins were greatly appreciated. The table was most attractive with flowers from the gardens of Mr. Prestor Pond and Miss H. E. Richards, formerly the matron at the Home, was the guest of honor.

"RIGHT"

On some telephone calls to another central office in Greater Boston you have recently heard operators passing the number called and another operator say the word "right."

Telephone officials say that the new method of handling inter-office calls avoids possible confusion between operators when repeating calls, simplifies the work of an operator in the office called, assures more accuracy and gives the calling subscriber an opportunity to correct an operator if she passes a number other than the one desired.

It is the latest improvement in telephone operating and has thus far been introduced only from the Beach and Main central offices to Back Bay, Blackstone, Bowdoin, Congress, Copley, Devon, Haymarket, Kenmore, Liberty and Richmond offices in the central district; and from all offices in the Metropolitan division to those offices in the division not connected by direct trunk lines. Later the method will be extended to other offices.

Next Thursday evening, Oct. 11, Winchester Lodge of Elks will hold an outing at the Elks' Home, Marlboro. The Winchester lodge members will leave with their ladies at 6:30 from the lodge rooms in Lyceum Building. A chicken dinner will be enjoyed at Marlboro, followed by dancing. This should be one of the events of the fall for the lodge members, as the chef at Marlboro is noted for his chicken dinners.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Miss Alice Blake, one of the graduates at the Winchester High School, has entered Boston University this year to study law.

Mrs. Lora Bond has been in town a few days this week settling up her affairs previous to going to New York where she will make her permanent home and be with her daughter, Miss Brenda Bond. She has sold her residence on Hillside avenue to Mr. Samuel Best, recently of London, Eng., who will make Winchester his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Braddock of Cleveland, O., formerly of Cabot street, were in town a few days this week, the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Blanche Emerson of Grove street.

IMPORTANT FOR YOUR CONSIDERATION

We are informed by the Planning Board that a meeting of the citizens, will be held in the Assembly Room of the High School, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 16, at 8 p. m.

Addresses on town planning by Mr. Arthur A. Shurtleff, of Boston, and on zoning, by Mr. John P. Fox, of New York, will be made, and pictures will be shown, illustrating the result of neglect in passing laws to control development in residential towns and cities, and the failure to look into the future as regards street layout, and provision for the greatly increased travel by automobiles and motor trucks, and for the provision for new town buildings and playgrounds, the demand for which is sure to exist.

Winchester is today menaced as never before by the developer of real estate, solely for profit, without any thought or consideration of the ultimate welfare of the community. His profit, if he is allowed full sway, will result in far greater losses to the community. Winchester has been exceedingly fortunate up to the present time in this regard, but we cannot expect that condition to continue, as the experience of many of the suburbs of Boston, is proof. The opportunity to provide for the towns future welfare is now here, and every owner of a home and real estate of any nature, should be awake to the danger of indifference and neglect.

Town planning insuring a practical and economical development of streets and preservation of unoccupied areas, and town zoning, insuring the proper location and protection of residences, public parkways and industries, thereby protecting all citizens from the damage and discomfort caused by selfish and short-sighted promotion of real estate, has to rely for its success on the loyal and intelligent cooperation of the citizens.

This meeting is preliminary to hearings which will be given in various sections of the town on succeeding Tuesday evenings. The Planning Board is anxious to receive suggestions and constructive criticism to enable them to prepare by-laws to be acted upon at the Town meeting to be held in March, covering these very important features in Winchester's development.

MRS. WILFRED J. SLADE

Mrs. Louise F. Slade, wife of Mr. Wilfred J. Slade, passed away at her home, 23 Lebanon street, Monday forenoon after a long illness. She had been an invalid for the past 20 years. Mrs. Slade was a native of Pensylvania and the daughter of the late Joshua Blampied. Her family was prominently connected in Elmira, N. Y., some members filling important city positions. She came to this town about 22 years ago. She is survived by her husband and one sister, Mrs. Julia B. Smith of Elmira, N. Y.

Funeral services, which were private, were held at the residence on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Allisten B. Gifford of the Methodist Church, of which the deceased was a member, officiating. The burial was at Elmira, N. Y.

SHERMAN—CLARK

Miss Edith M. Clark, daughter of Mrs. Anna, B. Clarke of 9 Norwood street, this town, was married at Christ's Church, Waltham, Oct. 3rd at 12 o'clock noon to Mr. Chester H. Sherman, son of William H. Sherman of Lincoln, Mass. The Rev. Francis E. Webster performed the ceremony.

The maid of honor was Miss Jane Clark, sister of the bride, and the groom was attended by Mr. Edward B. Smalley. Only immediate relatives were present.

After a trip through the mountains they will reside at 8 Ardmore terrace, West Newton.

Height of Excellence.

He who excels in his art so as to carry it to the utmost height of perfection of which it is capable may be said in some measure to go beyond it; his transcendent production admits of no appellations.—La Bruyere.

Joy of the Work.

On the lower levels there is no adaptation; our selfish desires are at odds with nature, we are out for a good time and get no response; . . . but the keynote of the higher level is joy—the joy of the laborer who has found his work, of the lover who has seen his object, of the hero who has received his commission.—L. P. Jacks.

THE NEW LINCOLN SCHOOL

SCHOOL BUILDING NOTES

The plans of the Schoolhouse Building Committee have been materializing rapidly the last few weeks, and are glad today to be able to report that contracts have been signed this week for two more schools.

Work on the Wyman School is going on rapidly, the plastering is nearly completed, and the standing finish is going up in the class rooms on the second floor. Another week will see steam heat turned on, and unless unforeseen delays occur it is hoped that the building will be ready for occupancy by the first of December. The original plans call for completion by the Christmas vacation, but owing to the excellent weather the builder has been able to make more rapid progress than he had anticipated.

The Committee has spent several months of preparation on the plans for the Rumford School. Bids which were opened last spring were disappointing, as they were far in excess of the funds at the Committee's disposal, which made it necessary to throw them out and revise the plans. This has been done, and a contract has been signed with our fellow townsman, Fred C. Alexander for the general construction. We were unable to obtain for this week's publication a cut of the building, but this with its description will appear in next week's issue.

At a meeting of the School Committee held last Friday evening, it was voted to name the building which we have previously called the New Chapin School, the "Lincoln School". Plans on this building have progressed to the stage where they have been advertised, and as a result of the bids opened on Sept. 10th, a contract has been signed with Leighton, Mitchell Company for the construction of the new building.

We are glad to publish the accompanying cut of this new building. Plans from the office of Messrs. Ritchie, Parsons & Taylor call for a two story building in northern Italian style, constructed of dark red waterstruck brick with cast stone trimmings, and a tile roof. The building will face Washington and Westley streets. On the lower floor will be rooms for a kindergarten, two progress classes, headquarters for Americanization work, and an auditorium to seat 400, together with toilets and shower baths. On the second floor there are eight class rooms, together with the necessary teachers' and nurses' rooms. The building will set well to the front of the lot, leaving ample room in the rear for play grounds.

It has been gratifying to the Committee to be able to let contracts on both of these buildings at figures within the sum which the town alloted for these two schools.

Considerable time has been spent in the preparation of plans for the Mystic-Gifford School, and final sketches have been approved, work begun on full size plans, and it is hoped that it may be possible to advertise for bids on this last building by the middle of November. These plans are also being prepared by Messrs. Ritchie, Parsons & Taylor who have designed the Lincoln School.

It is hoped that these last three buildings may be ready for occupancy when the school year opens next September.

ELKS MEET TUESDAY

Winchester Lodge of Elks will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday evening, Oct. 16th, in Lyceum Hall. Important matters will come up for consideration and discussion and a number of candidates will be balloted upon and numerous applications considered. There will be a class of nine candidates for initiation.

About 100 members and ladies are attending the chicken dinner and dance at Marlboro, and the whist parties are proving most enjoyable. Bro. John F. Malley, former Internal Revenue Collector, will give the Lodge a talk on Tuesday evening, Oct. 30th. He is a most interesting speaker. This evening will witness the first smoke talk of the season. There will be refreshments and music.

The gold fish in the fountain pool on the Common were taken out Saturday morning and placed in a tank in the office of Mr. Charles A. Lane, who will care for them this winter. There was, strange to say, considerable difficulty in obtaining a net to scoop the fish out with, but one was finally found. The small fish were left in the pool, it being found impossible to capture them as they buried themselves in the mud on the bottom.

A Lecture on Christian Science

Entitled

Christian Science: The Science of Right Living

by

Prof. Hermann S. Hering, C. S. B.

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The lecture on Christian Science given at the Town Hall last Monday evening, under the auspices of the local Christian Science Church, was well attended by our townspeople as well as by many from neighboring places. The lecturer was given very close attention. He was introduced by Mr. George L. McNeill, who said:

The members of First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Winchester are pleased to share with their friends and neighbors the privilege of listening to an address on Christian Science by one who is particularly well qualified to speak on the subject. We have found Christian Science to be a very practical religion. It has brought us help in times of need; it has given us comfort in times of sorrow; it has brought us hope and peace in times of discouragement and doubt; it has given us a clearer vision of that which is eternal. We are grateful for these blessings and for all the good we see about us; for the many earnest and conscientious men and women who are trying, according to the light which has been given them, to make this world a better place in which to live. We want to make our contribution to the general welfare and as one of the means of doing so, have provided this lecture. We appreciate your acceptance of our invitation and are confident that as you return to your homes, you will realize that you have spent a very profitable evening. Our lecturer is one who has been a faithful student of Christian Science for many years; one who has, both for himself and for others, proven the truth of its teachings; one whose training and experience make him a valuable member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. It is my privilege and pleasure to introduce Prof. Hermann S. Hering, C. S. B., of Boston.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS SELECTED

James J. Quinn of Turners Falls Chosen

Boston papers received information from the Winchester School Committee Friday evening of the appointment of Mr. James J. Quinn of Turners Falls as new Superintendent of Schools to succeed Mr. John R. Fausey, who resigned last summer.

Mr. Quinn was born at Whitinsville, in 1888. He attended Worcester Academy and later Amherst College, from which he was graduated in 1912. He took his Master's degree at Harvard in 1914, studied at Columbia University in 1914-1915, and again at Harvard in 1915-1916, and in 1920 took a special course in accountancy at the College of Business Administration of Boston University.

After leaving Amherst, Mr. Quinn taught one year at Cushing Academy. He was principal of the High School at Warner, N. H., in 1916, and of the grammar school at Spencer, Mass., in 1917. Following this, he was superintendent of the School District comprising Randolph, Holbrook and Avon for three years. In 1921, he became Superintendent of the Montague Schools (Turners Falls), which place he now holds.

Mr. Quinn is married and has one child. He has taken an active part in the business, social and church life at Turners Falls. Among other organizations, he is a member of the Congregational Church and of the Rotary Club. It is sufficient commentary upon the place Mr. Quinn had won for himself in Turner's Falls after only one year's residence there, that when the leading business and professional men in that community organized a Rotary Club, they unanimously chose him to be its first President.

APSEY—EASTMAN

Among the early fall weddings is that of Miss Olive Hill Eastman of Brookline, to Mr. George Wills Apsey, Jr., of this town. This wedding took place in the Universalist Church of Good Tidings at North Weymouth, where the bride's parents have their summer home.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Grace E. Price, as matron of honor; also two bridesmaids, Miss Olga Eastman, another sister, and Miss Louise Orr of Winchendon. The groom was attended by Mr. William J. Apsey as best man, and Mr. Robert S. Apsey and Mr. Lawrence S. Apsey acted as ushers.

A reception was held in the church immediately after the ceremony.

The winner of the "under 18 months" prize at the Legion baby show was credited last week to Mary Sullivan. This should have been Mary Gertrude Gibbons, and we hasten to correct the error. Mary Gibbons has already won three prizes in baby show contests and she still retains her winning points.

THE CITIZENS OF THE TOWN ARE INVITED TO A MEETING TO BE HELD IN THE ASSEMBLY ROOM OF THE HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING ON TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 16th, AT 8 O'CLOCK

In this connection the Planning Board have undertaken to prepare By-Laws which will provide through Town Planning for a wise and economical development of streets that will best meet the demand of the Winchester of the future. Also a plan for zoning the town to insure an orderly and consistent development of the various sections of the town as regards the locating of residences, industries, garages, etc.

Every owner of a home or of real estate should be vitally interested in this matter, as zoning helps to maintain and stabilize neighborhoods, communities and values.

The meeting will be addressed by Mr. A. A. Shurtleff, an expert on town planning; and Mr. John P. Fox of New York on zoning. The addresses will be illustrated by stereopticon.

PRINCIPAL FARNHAM RESIGNS

It was announced the first of this week that Principal Clinton E. Farnham of the High School had tendered his resignation to the School Committee. His letter, dated Oct. 2, was not made public until Monday.

Principal Farnham was appointed in July 1922, and succeeded Principal Edward E. Thompson. No date for his leaving the school has been set, and it is understood that he will remain in charge until such time as his successor is appointed. Mr. Farnham is leaving school work to enter business.

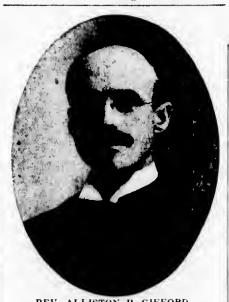

CORNER STONE LAID

Impressive Ceremonies at New Methodist Church

With fitting and impressive ceremony, the corner stone of the new Methodist Church under construction at the corner of Church, Pine and Dix streets, was laid before a large crowd of Winchester people and invited guests from other places Sunday afternoon. The new church represents the latest effort of the Methodist Society after completing its first church 50 years ago.

The new church replaces the original edifice at the corner of Mt. Vernon street and Converse place, sold to the Winchester Laundries in 1920. Since July, 1921, the Society has held services weekly in Waterfield Hall.

The exercises took place at 3 o'clock in the presence of a gathering of nearly 1000. The stone was set in place at the southwest corner of the foundation by Bishop Edwin E. Hughes of Malden, assisted by Rev. Alliston B. Gifford, pastor of the church. Rev. Mr. Gifford presided at the ceremony, which was preceded by a selection by a brass quartet, led by D. Albert Ives, cornetist, and which also rendered selections during the service.

REV. ALLISTON B. GIFFORD
Pastor of Methodist Episcopal Church

Rev. Orville C. Poland, pastor of the Asbury Temple Methodist Church of Waltham and pastor of the Winchester Methodist Society in 1913; Rev. James Coons of Malden, superintendent of the Lynn District; Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church; Rev. George Hale Reed, pastor of the Unitarian Church; Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., rector of the Church of the Epiphany; Rev. C. W. Blacket of Newton, a former pastor of the Winchester Church, and Rev. John E. Whitley, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, took part in the exercises. A sermon by Bishop Hughes preceded the actual laying of the stone. Dr. W. G. Richardson, a retired Methodist clergyman and a student pastor at the time of the organization of the church society in Winchester in 1872, gave the benediction.

RUSSELL—ADAMS

Miss Dorothy Marion Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Benjamin Adams of 15 Manchester road, was married at the Unitarian Church on Saturday evening to Mr. Clarence Wilson Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Russell of 9 Ravenscroft road. The ceremony, performed by Rev. George Hale Reed, pastor of the church, at 8 o'clock, was witnessed by a large gathering of society people of this and surrounding places. The church was handsomely decorated for the wedding with fall flowers and greenery.

The bride wore a wedding dress of silver lace over white chiffon, ivory satin and silver lace train, with orange blossom trimming. Her veil was crowned with orange blossoms.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Boynton Darling of Arlington. Mr. Wellington Lord Caldwell was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Pauline Crosby and Miss Madeleine Thacher of Arlington, Mrs. John M. Crory of Melrose Highlands and Mrs. Willard Hart Furbish, Jr., of Melrose. The bridesmaids wore a combination of rainbow colorings, each gown composed of two colors of chiffon combined by silver hemstitching. The maid of honor's dress was a combination of the eight colors. All carried single color fans of the predominating color of their gown.

The wedding march and incidental music was rendered by Mr. Charles T. Scott. The ushers for the ceremony and the following reception were Messrs. Willard Hart Furbish, Jr. of Melrose, Lloyd W. Goddu of Southbridge, Robert A. Johnston of Malden, Morris B. Kerr, Francis Locke and Chandler W. Symmes.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the church parlors, which were attractive with yellow chrysanthumums, roses and greenery. The newly married couple were assisted in receiving by their parents. Upon their return from their honeymoon they will reside in West Medford.

ROWSE—McKALLOR

The wedding of Miss Ruth Mather McKallor, formerly of Binghamton, N. Y., daughter of Mr. Edgar C. McKallor, and Mr. Richard Edson Rowse of Lexington, took place on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. George Stetson, of Lawson road. Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock.

The bride's dress was her mother's wedding gown of ivory satin and rose point lace, with simple basque and full skirt and train. Her veil was of tule, bound with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley and orchids.

Miss Mary Trotennick was maid of honor, wearing green chiffon and carrying pink roses. Mr. Howard Loizeaux of Plainfield, N. J., was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Marion A. Moore and Miss Emily D. Phelps of Binghamton, N. Y. They wore orchid chiffon and lace, and carried bouquets of yellow roses.

A reception followed the ceremony, the ushers being Messrs. Robert Merriam of Lexington and Edgar M. M. McKallor of this town. The house was most attractive with decorations of white chrysanthemums and pink roses.

After a wedding trip to White Sulphur Springs, Va., they will live in Binghamton, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Whittlesey of Lawson road are the parents of a son.

WHO SPEAKS ON "PUBLIC QUESTIONS OF THE HOUR" TUESDAY EVENING

Miss Richards is said to be "the best known and most popular lecturer on current events" in America today.

Her recent European travels included a month's stay in Italy where she studied Facism, and personally met Mussolini. She presents "close-up" of Lausanne during the "hottest" days of the Turkish conference; Geneva, the home of the League of Nations; and the "dead cities" if Triest and Fiume.

An unusual opportunity is ours to clarify our knowledge of important events, at home and abroad by hearing this brilliant speaker Tuesday evening.

Assessors' Notice

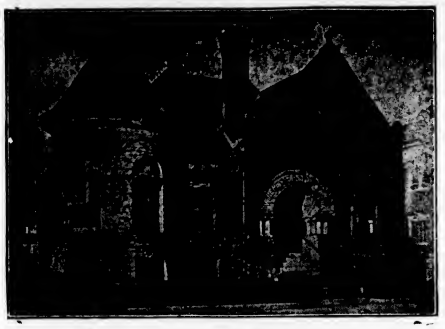

Taxpayers wishing an adjustment of their taxes must first file a sworn list of their personal estate at the Assessors' office, and no request for abatements can be considered until such list is in the hands of the Assessors.

This is in accordance with Massachusetts State law and is compulsory.

Winchester was again called upon for assistance by the city of Woburn to aid in fighting a menacing fire last Friday night when the Mechanics Building at that place was burned. The fire is believed to have started about 12:40 a. m. in the toilet on the upper floor. The fire was a bad one, and was so fierce that the firemen could not enter the building at all. Among the firms burned out were Arnold & Colgate. Several tenants were also burned out. Winches sent up the auto pump and 1 and Stoneham also sent a co over.

MRS. WALTER N. STEVENSON

Mrs. Violet May (Davis) Stevenson, wife of Mr. Walter N. Stevenson of 33 Hemingway street, died at the Choate Hospital, Woburn, last Thursday night. She had been in poor health for a considerable time, and on Wednesday was taken to the hospital for an operation, which was performed on Thursday. She failed to rally.

Mrs. Stevenson was 31 years old and was born in Winchester, being the daughter of Charles H. and Agnes Davis of Hemingway street. She leaves besides her husband and parents, two children, Winona Elizabeth, aged 6 years, and Alice Louise, aged 4 years. She also leaves one brother, Mr. Lester Davis, and a sister, Miss Gertrude Davis. She was Past Noble Grand of Victoria Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., and a past treasurer of the Lodge, also a member of the Past Noble Grand Association of Stoneham.

Funeral services were held at the residence on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the Congregational Church, of which the deceased was a member, officiating. There was a beautiful display of floral offerings. The interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

FOLEY—CORBETT

Mr. Patrick Foley of this town and Miss Ellen Corbett of Lexington were married on Sunday evening at St. Bridget's Church, Lexington, by the Rev. William J. McCarthy. Miss Alice Corbett of Lexington, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid. The couple left after the ceremony on a motor trip to Atlantic City.

Everyone is asking for Supreme Ink at Wilson's. Have you tried it?

FIREMAN INJURED

Mr. Walter B. Lord of 16 Hancock street, a call fireman attached to Engine 1 Company of the local department, was quite badly injured Sunday evening by falling from an automobile at the Central fire station. Mr. Lord suffered a bad cut over his left eye and on the side of his head when he struck the curbstone.

He was riding with a fellow fireman, John G. Mulrenan in the auto of A. E. Hartford of Everett, who had picked them up and was taking them to the Central fire station. Before the auto stopped, Lord jumped out and was thrown, his head striking the curbstone. He was knocked unconscious and appeared badly hurt.

Fellow firemen carried him into the fire station and Dr. Sheehy was called. Coach Ernest Roberts of the High School, who happened to be in the vicinity at the time, rendering efficient first aid services. Lord was taken to his home after receiving treatment by the doctor. He was not seriously injured. The fire which he was answering was that in the residence of Mr. W. E. Robinson of Cambridge street.

WINCHESTER LODGE NO. 1445, B. P. O. ELKS, WHIST

The second in a series of whists will be held in Waterfield Hall, Thursday evening, Oct. 18th, at 8:15 p. m. Many valuable prizes will be awarded to the winners at this party. There will be two capital prizes given at the end of the series, one to the lady holding the highest score and one to the gentleman with the highest score. As was announced at the last party the capital prizes will be on exhibition at this party.

FUNERAL OF MISS LUCY BORDEN

Funeral services were held Sunday at one o'clock for Miss Lucy Mabel Borden, at her late home on Prince avenue. Rev. William Adriance conducted the services which were attended by a large number of friends and neighbors.

Miss Julia Steele of Stoneham gave several solos. The remains were taken to Lawrence to be buried beside her mother who passed away two months ago. Miss Borden died Thursday at the Winchester Hospital of abcess on the brain, after only two days illness, and was 42 years of age and had resided here about 30 years. She was an only daughter of Mr. William Borden.

It is expected from returns now in that the recent carnival given by Winchester Post, American Legion, will net in the vicinity of $1700.

MR. WILLIAM H. GORHAM

Mr. William Henry Gorham, aged 78 years, passed away in his sleep on Friday night at his home, 17 Eaton street. Although in poor health for a long time, his indominable will and courage kept him up and about each day up to the time of his death. He was known to many Winchester people, all of whom held him in high esteem.

Mr. Gorham was a native of Boston. His parents were Josiah and Harriet (Barber Gorham. He followed the sea when a young man, and arose in his profession until he commanded a large sailing vessel. His health compelled him to give up the sea and he found occupation in one of the old shoe factories in Stoneham, where he worked for a number of years. Following this, he became associated with the late George A. Guernsey of Eaton street, working with him in the care of the large property which Mr. Guernsey owned.

He married Miss Lucy A. Hallett of Yarmouthport, who survives him, together with a daughter and son—Miss Edith M. Gorham of this town and Mr. Walter Gorham of Stoneham. He was a member of Columbus Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Stoneham and was a former member of the Winchester Unitarian Church.

The funeral services were held at the residence on Sunday afternoon. The Odd Fellows service was conducted by the Waterfield Lodge of this town and Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian Church conducted the church service. There was an abundance of beautiful flowers from old friends. The pall bearers were Messrs. T. W. Hartley, H. D. Fisher, Arthur Irwin and F. T. Dotten. The remains were buried in Wildwood Cemetery.

Work has been started on reconstructing Winthrop street, Medford, from Winchester line to Winthrop square with a six-inch bituminous macadam roadway. The roadway is being rebuilt on the Winchester end near Oak Grove cemetery. The work is to be done by Nov. 15th and the contract price is $48,470.40, of which about $14,000 will be paid by Middlesex County.

STEAK SUPPER AT CALUMET CLUB

The Calumet Club announces this week the first of the fall socials activities in the way of a steak supper and smoke talk. This will be the opening occasion for old and new members to become acquainted, and only members of the club will be eligible to attend.

The supper will start at 6:30, tenderloin steak and onions, with one or two relishes, comprising the substantial part of the menu. An entertainment will follow the supper, starting at 8 o'clock.

The Club's calendar has also been arranged, a number of entertaining events being scheduled for the month. The first ladies night will take place on Friday, Nov. 2nd. This will be a formal dance, with Lew Collins Rivoli Boys' Orchestra furnishing the music.

On the afternoon of Wednesday, Nov. 7th, an afternoon bridge will be held for the ladies. Tickets for this will be required, and may be obtained of Mrs. Harris S. Richardson, Mrs. John Hart Talyor and Mrs. Ralph L. Garner.

An interesting evening of sport is announced for Friday evening, Nov. 16th. Paul Poehler and Archie Walch champion bowlers, will give an exhibition of their skill on the alleys, and John Shields, in the billiard room, will entertain with "finger billiards" and trick pool.

The annual turkey roll will be held at the club on Saturday evening, Nov. 24th, from 7:30 to 11 o'clock.

SCHOOL NOTES

An extension course on "Motivation in Education" opens at the High School, Oct. 11. The course, primarily for Winchester teachers, will be given by Professor Johnson of the Harvard Graduate School of Education. While for the benefit of Winchester teachers, the privilege of this course is extended to any teacher who wishes to avail herself of the opportunity.

The course will consist of 15 lessons carrying two points credit. The fee will be $16. Meetings will be held at the High School on Thursday afternoons at 4 o'clock, the 15 weeks totaling the required 30 points. Further information may be obtained at the office of the Superintendent of Schools, Prince School Building.

The furniture for the new Wyman School has been ordered and some of it is already delivered. In this connection it should be noted that the School Building Committee has taken a survey of the furniture used in the present schools which are to be supplanted by new buildings with the idea of using as much of it as possible. The cost of furnishing a school room averages $500. The use of the present furniture will allow the use of considerable money with which to meet the increased costs of construction.

A leave of absence for one year has been granted Miss Louise Taylor, kindergartner at the Chapin School. Miss Taylor will spend the year traveling in California with her family, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan H. Taylor. Her position will be filled by Miss Helen Wightman.

Educational week will open on the 18th of November. Arrangements have been started for its observance in the Winchester schools.

EUREKA SUPPER AND INSTALLATION

The Eureka Sorority, an organized class comprising 14 young ladies of the Second Congregational Church Sunday School, held their first supper and installation last Friday evening.

About 100 people sat down to a very enjoyable supper which was served by the well known "Pathfinders." The suoper committee were as follows:

After the supper the following class officers were installed by a very impressive service conducted by Rev. Mr. Whitley and Miss Laura B. Tolman:

Ruth Farnham—President.
Ruth Whitley—Vice President.
Helen Webber—Secretary.
Marion Twombley—Treasurer.
Christine Higgins—Color Sentinel.

The installation was followed by a very enjoyable musical program, consisting of piano solos, piano duets, mandolin solo, trio of banjo, mandolin and guitar.

A monologue by Russell McElhiney followed by a replying monologue given by Ruth Farnham was presented.

The last number on the program was "The Happy Hour," a one-act play given by seven girls of the Sorority. This was the striking feature of the program as every girl acted her part exceptionally well. The characters were as follows:

Mrs. Marlowe, a middle aged woman, mother of the bride ..... Althea Fogg
Anne Loring, friend of bride ..... Clyra Lamb
Kitty Fern, country dressmaker ... Mrs. Fogg
Opal Gregg, newspaper reporter.

Mrs. Tatlock, a country woman, cousin of bride, who is angry because her daughter is not asked to be bridesmaid ... Hazel Bowles
Polly Tatlock, her daughter ... Myrtle Dotten
George Guick, the groom. Winslow McElhiney

M. C. O. F. OFFICERS INSTALLED

The following officers were installed for the coming year by the Winchester Court, M. C. O. F. in Lyceum Hall, last week by officers of the St. Benedict Court of Somerville.

Mrs. Catherine Rossley, C. R.; James J. Callahan, V. C. R.; Thomas Donnelly, Treasurer; Michael Miskell, Financial Secretary; Thomas McCormack, Rec. Sec.; Mrs. Mary Mawn, Sen. Conductor; Mrs. Annie Rogers, Jun. Conductor; Mrs. Mary Rooney, Inside Sentinel; John Doherty, Outside Sentinel; Trustees, Mrs. Catherine Rossley, David Miskell and Thomas Fallon; Chaplain, Father Joseph M. Fitzgibbons.

The Waverly House in Charlestown, one of the city's historic landmarks and of which Dr. Irving T. Cutter, formerly of this town, was one of the owners, has been sold. It was once one of the best known hotels of the Hub, but of late years has been used as an apartment house.

CHILD ASSAULTED

Selectman Dotten's Daughter Choked By Unknown Man

Phoebe Dotten, the 14 year old daughter of Selectmen Walter H. Dotten, was seized by an unknown man on Highland avenue Tuesday evening and choked and beaten after being taken into the bushes at the roadside. The police of this and surrounding places are scouring the territory in an endeavor to arrest him.

The assault occurred at about 5:45. Phoebe was returning to her home after taking a music lesson. As she neared Appalachian road, a densly wooded section, the man seized her by the throat and pulled her into the bushes. He told her he would shoot her if she cried out. She was able to escape when he became frightened by a passing automobile, and made her way to the home of William P. McAuley nearby.

Not until nearly an hour later, when she was able to go to her home, was the matter reported to the police. Aside from being bruised and scratched about her throat she was uninjured, although suffering from the nervous shock. She described the man as about 35 years old and wearing a beard.

THE WEEK'S FIRES

The local fire department experienced quite an active week, being called upon a number of times for town fires as well as to help Woburn at its big fire Friday night.

Last Friday noon burning grass at Yale and Wildwood streets took some apparatus out on a telephone call, no damage being done and the fire quickly extinguished. At 3:35 in the afternoon burning grass on the Brooks Estate off Grove street required attention, and at 12:50 the motor pump and about 15 men put in about four hours work at the big fire at Woburn.

There was an alarm on Saturday at 1:40 p. m., a brush fire in the pine woods on the Brooks estate requiring attention, and a second call came at 7:05 when box 573 was sounded for a partition fire in the residence of Mr. W. E. Robinson on Wildwood street. A fireplace fire in some manner got into the partitions, doing some damage. An hour and a half was consumed in extinguishing it. At 12:30 a. m. box 271 was rung in for the woods fire at the Brooks estate, the fire having eaten deep in the ground during the afternoon and started up again.

Sunday passed without any fires, and on Monday afternoon burning grass on the estate of Dr. Alfred E. Knight on Grove street necessitated the attention of the firemen.

WINCHESTER MOTHER'S ASSOCIATION

The members of the Mothers' Association are urged to come to the next meeting, Wednesday, Oct. 17 at Lybelive exist in our country. Until plements, pictures for children's scrap books and pieces of cloth for dressing dolls, to help prepare a Christmas party for some real Americans in the mountains of Kentucky.

Miss Carrie Mason who used to be the industrial teacher in the schools of Winehester is now teaching at the Hindman Settlement School, Knott County, Kentucky, and she has described conditions which it is hard to belive exist in our country. Until last year some of the children had never seen a Christmas tree and did not know its meaning. They have not sufficient clothing in the winter, many of them have tuberculosis and yet they are proud, patriotic and teachable people.

There will be round table discussions of the following subjects: "Table conversation at home." "Co-operation with teachers," "Sending children away to school."

Refreshments will be served as usual and a kindergartener will care for young children. Please notice change in place of meeting.

THE LINCOLN SCHOOL

The School Committee on Oct. 5th voted "that the school building to be erected at the corner of Washington and Holton streets shall be named 'Lincoln School,' and that the building to be erected at the corner of Madison avenue and Main streets shall be named 'Mystic School.'"

The school to be named the "Lincoln School," presumably should be placed at the corner of Washington and Westley streets, it replacing the present Chapin School. The existing Chapin School has been suggested as a trade school. With this exception, all of the new school buildings will bear the name of the building they replace.

TONY SARG AND HIS MARIONETTES COMING TO STONEHAM

The Teachers' Club and Parent-Teacher Association of Stoneham present Tony Sarg's Marionettes in Armory Hall, Oct. 19.

Afternoon performanee at 4 o'clock, stages "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Hansel and Gretchen." Tickets, children, 25c; High School students, 35; adults, 75c.

In the evening at 8, "Don Quixote" will be given. Tickets, reserved seats, $1 and 75c; general admission 50c.

Tiekets may be obtained by mail from Mrs. Waterman, 3 Gilmour street, Stoneham or purchased at the door.

REPRESENTATIVE DALLINGER TO SPEAK HERE

Announcement was made this week that Representative Frederick W. Dallinger, our representative in the National House, is to speak at the First Congregational Church on Sunday evening, Oct. 21, at 7 o'clock. His subject is to be the "Future of American Democracy."

Rep. Dallinger is a good speaker and an interesting man to Winchester people, and the public is cordially invited to attend the meeting and hear him.

Mr. Franklin Barnes is spending the week at his farm at Chebeague, Me.

WINCHESTER LOST AGAIN

In a loosely played game on Manchester Field Saturday afternoon, Winchester High lost its third game, Dedham High beating the local eleven 6 to 0. Both teams played ragged football, but Dedham, although considerably lighter than Winchester, was clearly the best team. The visitors made their touchdown after F. Walton had intercepted a forward pass, Keaney running through the scrimmage for the down. Dedham failed to score on the kick.

D. F. Hyde	89	24	75

An automobile accident occurred Sunday afternoon at the corner of Church, Cambridge and High streets when a Ford runabout skidded into a Chevrolet sedan, smashing both cars. According to reports of the accident the Ford, driven by Fred Brancone of Boston, was turning from Cambridge into Church street when a front tire blew out. This car then hit the coupe, which was driven by Albert Rivard of Andover. The Ford had its mudguards broken, axel bent and both tires ripped off, while the coupe had bent mudguards.

ACCIDENT AT BACON AND CENTRAL STREETS

A bad automobile accident occurred at the corner of Bacon and Central streets, the scene of numerous accidents, on Friday evening at 8:15. A touring car owned by Mrs. Anna S. Woodbury of Manchester road and driven by her son, Robert S. Woodbury, was traveling up Bacon street. It collided with a sedan driven by Mr. Eben B. Page, coming out of Everett avenue. Mr. Page was accompanied by Mrs. Page and two ladies.

After the collision the Woodbury auto swung to the side of the road and hit a pole head-on, badly wrecking its front end, one wheel being demolished. The Page car had its bumper and several windows smashed, and the ladies, besides being badly shaken up, were cut and scratched by flying glass.

On Friday afternoon a Maxwell sedan and a G. M. C. truck were in collision in the centre at Miss Bunker's store. The sedan, a New York car, had been stopped by traffic, and it was hit in the rear by the truck, the rear end of the sedan was damaged by the crash.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

We must not dream of harvests, and neglect the toil that produces them.

It is bad enough to cry over spilt milk, but many of us do worse; we cry over milk that we think is going to be spilt.

Many of us merely exist, and think that we live, what we should regain at all costs is freshness and intensity of being.

Both joyousness and gloom exist, there is a plenty of both, but why drag in gloom.

WILL your widow have the comforts your wife has?

The next step in the centre traffic problem is to instruct pedestrians to watch the semaphore sign as well as the autos. It does little good to drive a car into a group of men standing in the centre of the roadway, even though the sign does read "go"

With this unprecented dry weather, Winchester may well congratulate itself on the foresight of those citizens of other days who planned and built its reservoirs. We, at least, are experiencing no lack of good water. And when you consider the situation, do not forget to include the work now underway by our present Water Board!

And now the treasury department is flooded, so it is said, with letters of protest over a dollar bill which has been discovered with the portrait of an unnamed pope, the word "Leo" and a cross. Further agitation will probably follow regarding our currency, since it is also rumored that several bills bear the picture of various presidents of the United States.

The Star learns that if this town does not experience a Hallowe'en observance this year that is clean and sane, it will not be because the parents of our boys and girls are not trying to make it so. There will undoubtedly be numerous parties, the most important thus far announced being under preparation by Principal Pinkham for the Wadleigh and Prince schools. In this connection Mr. Pinkham states that he can use the $5 mentioned by a Star subscriber very handily—not for ice cream cones, but to purchase apples and real Hallowe'en refreshments.

The new school house to be erected at the corner of Washington and Westley streets is to be named the "Lincoln School." It appears that there has been some little agitation to rename the new school buildings under process of erection, but with this exception, the original names will be retained. As the "Lincoln" school is so far removed from Chapin, which it replaces and which will possibly be used as a trade school, it appears to the Star that the name may well be chosen. The Star is likewise gratified to note that the names of the other schools are to be retained.

The most dangerous place in town at the noon hour is Mt. Vernon street between the Wadleigh School and the centre. The school closes at 12 o'clock and also the Winchester Laundry; when they are well planned. Added to this flow of traffic are the many others workers about the centre hurrying to their homes, numerous light delivery trucks flying about with late orders, and the usual additional noon passing. Mt. Vernon street is filled with running boys and girls, trucks and bicycles to an alarming extent. It has been suggested that as a factor of safety the school be dismissed either ten minutes before or ten minutes after 12 o'clock, and the idea appears well put.

A new traffic semaphore was placed in the centre Monday afternoon. With a heavy iron base, the signal, with arms labelled "stop" and "go" stands about ten feet high. It has been in operation during the week and the officers consider it an improvement over the former hand signaling, although considerable trouble is being experienced from drivers passing over the railroad tracks and stopping other cars on the rails. These drivers are being held up and warned that they must stop on the far side of the crossing where the lines are drawn on the street.

Apparently some auto drivers need further instruction regarding the running on a one-way street. The habit of backing out of these streets is growing, especially among the ladies. One car was noticed last week which backed up the whole distance on Common street from the Post Office to Church street. Another car backing rapidly out of Converse place this week narrowly missed running down a pedestrian. Whether these drivers imagine they are immune from the law if they run their cars backward or not is open to conjecture, but the danger is greater than running headon.

Town Planning should be thought of as money-saving planning. In the past so much waste has taken place for want of foresight that the cities and towns of the Commonwealth have arrived to look ahead to make savings. These savings can be made, for example, by planning the location and width of new streets to accommodate the growth of towns, consequently the cost of subsequent street straightenings, extensions and widenings is avoided. In a well planned street system fire departments can respond efficiently, and therefore no expensive duplication of men and apparatus is required. Moreover, well planned streets permit water mains and sewers to be laid at a minimum expense because the pipes are free from costly and wasteful dead ends, jogs, deep profiles, and unnecessary elbows. Money for schools goes farther with a well thought-out street plan because the school teachers and the children can reach the schools without waste of time in making detours. Consequently the school districts can be larger and the schools fewer. Parks and playgrounds are also more easily reached. Fewer streets are needed for there is less cost for construction and less dust, glare, and noise. Last, and best, homes are within easier reach of all the parks, schools, and the railway stations. There is more money left for the families because none has been wasted either in doing work over again or in doing it badly. Town Planning has become a necessity in every growing community of the State to secure comfort and convenience, without waste of money or opportunity.

But above and beyond all other reasons, is the absolute necessity to provide straighter and wider thoroughfares for the pleasure and business traffic which today is greater than our highways can take care of, but is sure to greatly increase in the very near future.

THE ADVERTISING SIGNS

To the Editor of the Star:

I have read with interest under "Chamber of Commerce Notes" in the "Star" of Oct. 5, that due to the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce the Coca-Cola advertising signs in the centre have been removed.

I happen to know that the Coca Cola officials crossed off Winchester locations for large advertising signs from the list submitted by the advertising sign company, but through an error the Advertising Company painted signs in the centre. Our fellow citizen, William D. Elliott of Grove street of the Coca Cola Company, never intended to decorate Winchester centre with signs advertising his Company's product, and while his original intentions miscarried it is due to his efforts that the obnoxious signs have been removed.

Respectfully yours,
Robert F. Whitney

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, OCT. 8

The Board met at 7:30 p. m. All present.

The records of the meeting of Oct. 1, were read and approved.

Conventions, Etc.: A letter was received from the Commissioner of the Bureau of Education, Department of Interior, Washington, D. C., calling the Board's attention to the observance of "American Education Week" from Nov. 18 to 24 inclusive. The letter was ordered filed.

Forest Street: The matter pertaining to the street repairs in the track areas on Forest street suggested by the Superintendent of Streets was laid over again another meeting.

Jurors, 1923: Chief of Police as a constable of the Town appeared with a venire calling for one Traverse juror to serve at the Criminal Superior Court now in session at Cambridge on Monday, Oct. 15, 1923, Mr. Jere A. Downs, 2 Arlington street was drawn.

Acceptance of Streets and Building Lines: The Board decided to make a survey of the streets with a view to determining what private ways to recommend to the town for acceptance, and also to make a general survey of the condition of the streets. Mr. Pond who was present stated that the planning Board could be joined to make the survey with the Board of Selectmen. Next Saturday was the day decided upon for the survey. The Town Engineer is to have ready the list of streets which he recommends should be put before the Town for acceptance next March, and also to have his street program for next year ready for the Board to look over on Saturday.

Traffic Regulations: Mr. Newman appeared to call the Board's attention to the congested condition on that part of Mt. Vernon street abutting the Baptist Church. He stated that cars were being parked on each side of the street, making it hard for automobiles to pass in between the parked cars. The matter was referred to Mr. Bryne and Mr. Berry to interview Mr. Wolcott, minister of the Church and see what is the best action to take in the matter.

The meeting adjourned at 9:30 p. m.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen

Friends of "Bill" Murray, life guard at Sandy Beach this summer, will be interested to learn that he is enjoying a brief trip to New York and Philadelphia before entering upon his winter's duties.

WADLEIGH-PRINCE PARENT TEACHER ASSOCIATION

The October meeting of the Wadleigh-Prince P. T. A. was held at the Wadleigh School on Oct. 8th. Mrs. Denison, the president, was in the chair. Reports were read by Miss Daley, the secretary and by Mr. Tompkins, the treasurer.

A committee, consisting of Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Capron and Mrs. W. L. Parsons was appointed to consider the Wadleigh resolutions adopted two years ago, suggesting regulations of study hours and social activities for the children. Resolutions passed at Lexington, based on the Wadleigh resolutions, were read. Pittsfield is another town that has copied our example of suggestions for pupils.

The Wadleigh and Prince Schools are planning exciting Halloween parties to be held at the schools with games and refreshments on Halloween.

A dancing class for Wadleigh students is under consideration. A teacher is available and other Wadleigh teachers have agreed to act as chaperons. The only requirements for admission are clean hands, clean face, clean ears, hair brushed, shoes well shined and politeness.

A committee of five—Mrs. Eastwick, Mrs. Ryan, Mr. Ash, Mr. W. L. Parsons and Mr. Russell was appointed to bring in its report at the next meeting as to how to improve the Wadleigh playground and bicycle room. The playground, below the street, is at present a bed of ashes. If it rains it becomes mud. As soon as the children play at recess, such a dust is raised a person cannot see across the playground—an excellent way to spread colds and soil clothes. Do Winchester parents like that kind of a place for their children to play?

The bicycle situation needs attention. There are often 75 bicycles thrown together and piled on top of each other. It is the only way to get them into the building. If left outside, they get stolen. There are racks for only about one-third of the bicycles. It is a difficult problem for a child to get a bicycle and his books out of the building without damaging one or the other. It is hard work pulling a bicycle out of the mass, and a slow process, involving 15 minutes wait if your bicycle is at the bottom of the pile.

Parents are invited to drop in to the Wadleigh basement and see the bicycles, and to walk across the playground at the rear and test the quality of the dust.

Miss Davis and Mrs. O'Sullivan's rooms had the best attendance of parents. They will share the P. T. A. banner during this next month.

FORMAL DRIVE STARTED

On Sunday evening, Oct. 14, in the Second Congregational Church, located on Cross street, the formal drive for a new church building will be started. Mr. Franklin P. Shumway and Rev. Howard J. Chidley have been secured as speakers, and Mr. Chester Miller will appear in several tenor solos.

Pre-drive contributions have been coming in in a very encouraging manner. After consultation with the architect, preliminary sketches of the proposed church have been started, and plans for the building are shaping up well along with the financial campaign.

Pledge cards will be offered on Sunday and everyone will be given the opportunity of contributing toward the fine new building to be erected in 1926.

Santa Maria, Catholic Daughters of America, will open a series of whist parties commencing Tuesday evening, Oct. 23.

FIRST MEETING OF MUSIC GARDEN

On Tuesday evening the Music Garden held its first meeting of the season at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Solov on Forest street. The members gave a delightful program, the first number being especially worthy of note, the newest member proving herself an artist of real merit.

An unusual but pleasing innovation was the introduction of a musical game, giving all an opportunity to show their capacity for recalling quickly many popular melodies.

The program was as follows:

Piano Solo—Scherezo, No. 2 ..... Chopin
Miss Lucy Wilcox

Trio—Longing Dear for You ..... Densmore
Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Dunham, Mrs. Abbott

Violin Solo—Chanson Arabe Kimsky-Korsakoff
Miss Gertrude Felber

Soprano Solo—The Ninety-Nine ..... Sheldon
Mrs. Morrison

Tenor Solo—Still Unexpressed .....
Carrie Jacobs Bond
Mr. Clarke

Reading—"Just What Happened" Miss Knight
Mrs. Knight

Piano Solo—Glockentone ..... Spindler
Mr. Knight, Mrs. Knight, Mrs. Clarke

Tenor Solo—I Love You Truly
Carrie Jacobs Bond, (by request)
Mr. Clarke

Trio—Goodnight, Goodnight, Beloved Pinsuti
Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Dunham, Mrs. Abbott

LADIES' WESTERN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The first regular fall meeting of the Western Missionary Society was held the first Thursday in October. A delicious luncheon was served at the usual hour, Mrs. Charles Lawson and Mrs. Albert Razee, acting as chairmen. The tables were decorated with an abundance of lovely flowers from Mrs. Razee's garden and afterwards most of these were sent to those shut in by sickness. The time was spent in sewing for the sale that is to be held the first of November, and at the business meeting the final arrangements were announced that have been made for the sale.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY

There will be a rally and supper for the Protestant young people of Winchester, of High School age and over, Oct. 26, at 7 p. m. This event is under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council, and in charge of a committee composed of members from all the churches. After the supper there will be community singing, and short addresses by speakers peculiarly fitted to interest the boys and girls. The rally will be in the Unitarian Church. Tickets, 50 cents each, will be in the hands of the committee Saturday, Oct. 13.

Mr. William J. Breen, Jr., who is a freshman at the Worcester Polytechnic School has made his class team in football.

EXCEPTIONAL RADIO RECEPTION

Following is a record of consistent radio reception made here in Winchester by Dr. Harold A. Gale with his five-tube Neutrodyne Broadcasting Receiver, a set just recently purchased from Laurence D. Trefry, and similar to the one that has been on exhibit at the Star Office for the past few weeks.

Besides having been able to receive consistently the local, New York and Philadelphia stations even hrough this recent poor radio weather, Dr. Gale receives regularly such stations as Chicago, Ill.; Cleveland, O.; Louisville, Ky.; Washington, D. C.; Cincinnati, O.; Zion City and Elgin, Ill.; Montreal, Can.; and many others equally distant, all with a comfortable intensity on a loud-speaker. Mr. Harry Cox, of Wedgemere avenue, with a similar receiver has an equally interesting list of distant stations from which to select an evening program.

Of particular note in regard to the value of radio in the home is the reception every evening by Mr. Harris S. Richardson and Mr. Elmer P. Randlett of Winchester on the Neutrodyne Broadcast Receiver of the KDKA, Pittsburg, little Symphony Dinner Concerts. These are being received so clearly that they assist greatly in making the dinner hour the most enjoyable of the day.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Marriage intentions have been filed with Town Clerk Mabel W. Stinson during the past week as follows:

Patrick Leo Sullivan of Medford and Miss May Frances Crampton of 5 Clark street.

New Idea in Electric Sifter.

A manufacturer of a successful electric sifter, which has been used as a sand riddle on the molding floor of foundries and for similar purposes, has developed this idea in making a device that sifts out material suspended in liquids. The machine is wholly inclosed except for the half-closed top which prevents the liquor from splashing over.

Thought for the Day.

The World today has made notable and worth-while advances in its modern interpretation of Religion, but it seems to have cost us some things which are well worth the keeping. I am thinking of our Respect-ibility to God or the needs of our Christian Stewardship. The more man becomes self-dependent, the more he becomes "a law unto himself," so he loses his sense of responsibility to God, of Christian Stewardship. In the final analysis we are God's creatures. More than that we are God's children, and we owe to God all the capacities of the soul, mind and body. He is a faithful Steward who holds himself as God's trustee for all that he is and has.

On Sunday, friends gathered at the residence of their only son, Arthur, at Medford Hillside and made a pleasant celebration. There were many gifts of flowers, gold coin and a beautiful electric lamp. Refreshments were served all who called and a pleasant celebration was had. Mr. Burnham is a railroad man, having been all his life in the employ of the Boston & Maine until recent years, when he was obliged to retire on account of poor health, although his health is better than for some years. WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The officers of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce feel much encouraged by the interest taken by the voters of the town to bring into a new life the organization. Our whole aim is to give us a better Winchester in which to live.

We wish to make it an educational institution in which we can come together and work with united forces and get out of the drifting condition in civic matters we are now in.

Our neighboring cities and towns profit much by the guidance of their Chamber of Commerce. Arlington, with its 600 members, is a strong power in shaping the destiny of their civic affairs and they have accomplished much that is beneficial to the town.

In the near future, Winchester Chamber of Commerce headquarters will be in the Winchester Star office. There will be a young lady in attendance who will receive all communications and give any information desired concerning the doings of our organization.

We are making a great drive for increased membership. Many application blanks will be mailed next week. Any voter who does not receive one is cordially invited to call at the office and get one. By the support of all the citizens grat things can be accomplished.

Gas Man

It may surprise many of our customers to learn that we are serving them with gas service at a loss. Such is the fact, however. Investigators at Washington have studied this condition and have found that "in many towns more than one-half of the gas consumers are carried at a loss because they use so little gas that the cost of standing ready to render service and delivering the gas is more than the income received."

The reason for this, say these investigators, is our disintegrated home-life situation and habits of makeshift meals. Woman's greatest career is homemaking, they state, and anything that makes home-meal service more attractive is worth while. In the course of their report they give credit to the gas industry for assisting in "the preservation of the family life of the nation."

A LECTURE ON CRISTIAN SCIENCE

Prof. Hering spoke as follows:

Christian Science, as discovered and founded by Mary Baker Eddy, is today so generally recognized as an instrument for good, that we are interested to know what this Science teaches regarding the unrest, evil and suffering so prevalent in human experience and to hear what solution it has to offer for them. We are interested in the cause of this grievous condition and to learn if possible of an adequate remedy for it, as well as to find what part each one of us plays in the situation, to what degree we are responsible for it, and to what extent we can aid in alleviating and healing it.

At the outset it should be recognized that the world is an aggregation of individuals, hence its prevailing conditions are but the composite product of the lives and mentalities of its people, and of their habits of thought, their ethics, their ambitions and their resultant conduct.

Thus the character of human living is an essential factor in the world's condition and it follows that this can be improved only as the lives of its people are improved. It is this phase of the question to which we shall give especial attention by analyzing the Science of right living, together with the Principle and law involved, in order to see how these may be demonstrated in human activities.

Recipe in the Bible

St. Paul writes: "For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."

The Bible contains many clear and definite statements of the healing law of the gospel in its relation to every form of evil thinking and wrong living.

Have you ever thought what this world would be with all its sin, sorrow, suffering and sickness removed? And have you ever realized that an understanding of the teachings of Christ Jesus, with strict adherence thereto, would bring about this heavenly condition? This should be evident to all while he studies.

When looking, therefore, for a solution of the world's problems, need one look further than to a demonstrated understanding of the teachings of the Master? Did he not set a standard of right living upon a spiritual basis which he declared he made it possible for all to follow? And in connection therewith did he not heal all manner of evil and disease through divine power and did he not teach his followers to do the same thing? Is it not evident then that Christian living involves not merely right ethical or moral conditions, but right physical and mental conditions as well; health, harmony and wholesomeness in every direction?

Christian Living Includes Healing

We thus see that Christian healing is an essential element in Christian living. From the inception of Christianity, however, only a few have accepted fully our Master's teachings, caught their spirit and manifested this Christ-spirit in healing works, notably the early Christians who, during the first three centuries of the Christian era, did such marvelous healing, and led such self-sacrificing and consecrated lives, until the time when Christianity was engulfed in formalism and its vital spirit was quenched.

One reason why so many do not believe in Christian healing is because it is difficult for the human mind to see and admit that a mental effort alone, such as prayer, faith, and right thinking, can bring about a physical change. Yet this is what our Master's teachings and his practice involve.

It is evident that Christ Jesus considered this healing work an indispensible factor of his ministry; indeed, he made it a test of Christian discipleship, for he said, "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also;" a statement which clearly means that he who is a Christian will be able to heal spiritually. Moreover, he made no distinction between the healing of sin and of disease. He said, for example, to the impotent man whom he had healed of a serious physical condition, "Sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee," unmistakably implying that the disease had been due to sin, and definitely stating that continued indulgence in sin would result in a worse form of disease.

Healing Understood Spiritually

Since, therefore, Christian healing is such an integral element of our Master's Christianity and is thus essential to the demonstration of Christian living in all its wholesomeness, it is important to understand it. The Bible says that spiritual things must be spiritually discerned, and since Christian healing is accomplished spiritually, no other means being used, it is evident that it can be explained, understood and demonstrated only spiritually, that is, from a spiritual basis. Physical science and medical science cannot possibly explain the healing work done by Christ Jesus and by his immediate followers, nor by Christian Scientists today, for these opposite methods have nothing whatever in common.

Since all have been educated to look at things materially, and since it is impossible to understand Jesus' teachings and works from that basis, it is evident that a new point of view must be obtained, apart from physics, in the realm of its opposite, divine metaphysics, for his healing work was all accomplished mentally.

In gaining this new viewpoint it may be necessary to engage in a line of thought to which some have not been accustomed. Therefore I must ask such to be patient and indulgent while this new viewpoint is considered.

It is not, of course, the purpose here to attempt to prove that healing was accomplished by Jesus and by his disciples or that it is accomplished today by Christian Scientists, since this fact is already well established, although not generally believed. The endeavor will be to explain away some of the difficulties involved in accepting it and to show that the world's miseries can be healed through spiritual means.

Physical Sense Testimony False

A moment's thought will show us that mortals are conscious of existence mentally and only so, for everything that enters into their life, all activities and experiences, enters it mentally through some action of thought, for do they not think what they see, hear, feel, smell or taste? They are conscious only of mental impressions presenting themselves as mental concepts which are accepted as existence. Indeed, there is no evidence of existence apart from consciousness. Thus it is seen that human existence is wholly mental.

Since the five physical senses play so important a part in the formation of the so-called physical sense of existence, it is necessary to analyze them in order to determine whether they can be depended upon. In the case of sight, for example, if one looks down a straight railway track, the rails seem to converge, but this appearance is not true, for they are parallel. A large house seen in the distance appears to be a small house, but this again is not true. Such examples prove that the sense of sight testifies falsely and requires corrections and explanations before intelligent concepts can be formed.

So also in the case of hearing, echoes and sounds in the distance are deceptive until they are explained and corrected. In the same way it is well known how often we have been and how easily we can be deceived through the other senses, the senses of touch, taste and smell.

Now if a business man has five employees whose daily reports he cannot accept without making many corrections and allowances, will he have implicit confidence in these employees in every other respect? Certainly not, for we know how hard it is ever to believe a person again who has misled us once. Then is it sensible or logical to have such implicit confidence in the testimony of the five physical senses when it is known that they testify falsely all the time? Should we not rather be eager for further explanations that we may not be deceived by them at all?

It is very important to see that the five physical, corporeal, or personal senses cannot perceive truth; consequently, anything that is true. For example, suppose two persons to be looking at a mathematical computation, one understands mathematics and the other does not. Would they both see the truth involved by simply looking at the physical figures with their physical eyes? Certainly not, for mathematical truth can be seen only through mathematical understanding, and those who do not have this understanding cannot see this truth, no matter how long they may look at the figures.

For the same reason, the five physical senses cannot perceive absolute Truth. They cannot, in other words, see God, Spirit, Mind, Soul, Love,—they certainly cannot see Principle, for Truth can be seen only through the understanding, spiritual understanding—a faculty entirely apart from physical sense If, therefore, the five physical senses cannot see Truth, it follows conclusively that what they do see is not true.

Mental Nature of Existence

Those who have studied physics and chemistry have been taught that any material object may through mechanical, chemical and electrical processes be reduced to a form of energy,—to infinitesimal units of electrical force vibrating with great velocity. Since then a material object is an aggregation of units of force, nothing else having entered into its composition, it must be simply force. Mrs. Eddy writes in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 484), "Physical force and mortal mind are one." Therefore, any material object is wholly mental.

Those who have studied psychology and philosophy know that the only evidence of the existence of a material object is a mental concept. Thus so-called material consciousness experiences various mental impressions appearing as objectified mental states, and these constitute what is known as material existence, there being no other evidence of this existence whatsoever. Thus we see that not only is such existence wholly mental, but also that everything that enters into it is mental and even that matter itself is but a mental phenomenon.

It is very important to recognize this mental nature of mortal existence, for otherwise it is impossible to understand the teachings of Christ Jesus, and especially his healing work.

In the initial step that has been made no reference has been made to the teachings of Christian Science, except the one brief quotation which has been introduced from Mrs. Eddy's textbook. I have simply called your attention to, or reviewed, if you please, what is common knowledge; that is, what everybody knows or can know by going to school, by reading, and by thinking along the lines pointed out. It is true that I have correlated this knowledge in perhaps an unusual way, but this has been done for the purpose of showing the mental nature of material existence, which any one can convince himself of through simple human reasoning based upon common knowledge.

Appreciating the difficulty involved and realizing that Christian healing is an essential element of our Master's Christianity and is vital to the demonstration of Christian living, an endeavor should be made to understand this particular question a little more clearly, especially from a spiritual viewpoint. Therefore, a few of what seem to be points of difficulty will now be considered, and some of the teachings of Christian Science introduced.

Matter Not Substance

First, the universal belief in matter as substance, which hinders the apprehension of the unsubstantial nature of matter as taught in Christian Science, and which makes it so difficult for many to accept Christian Science. This causes many to say that Christian Science may be very helpful for mental or nervous diseases, but cannot possibly be successful in organic or structural diseases, a position in which, of course, they are wrong.

Now what is substance supposed to be? It is that from which things are made, that which gives them their being, their body, their structure, and so on, and that which prevents them from being destroyed. The dictionaries define substance as that which is substantial, that which has real, lasting, perpetual existence, that which is actual and not illusory; from which it follows that real substance must be that which is indestructible and permanent. Does matter come up to these specifications and requirements? Is it not a fact that all material things can be destroyed, and, if let alone, will they not naturally decay and disintegrate? Does this not prove that matter is not substance, since it has no lasting, perpetual existence?

It was shown a moment ago that an apparently substantial material object could be reduced to a form of energy; though even this, it should be remembered, is mainly a theory. Then is such a material object actual or illusory? Physical scientists themselves do not know what constitutes a physical object, they can only theorize about it. Then if matter is not substance, what is? Is there anything that is indestructible and eternal? Yes, Truth. Take, by way of analogy, the mathematical idea that two and two make four. This is mathematically a true idea with real, lasting existence. Therefore, this idea is substantive, for the fact that two and two make four cannot be destroyed; its truth is its substance. It is also evident that truth is that which makes things what they are, gives them their being and prevents their being destroyed. Thus it is seen that truth is substance, and therefore wholly mental, and that eternal, indestructible, real substance, is divine Truth, the divine actuality, the infinite Being. Mrs. Eddy teaches that divine Truth is divine Spirit and that this Spirit, which is infinite, indestructible, eternal, is real substance, the substance of which God made all "that was made,"—is, in fact, that which constitutes all real being. It is this infinite, indestructible, divine substance of Spirit, Truth, which is counterfeited by the finite mental concept called matter, but which exists entirely apart from matter.

Appearance Not Real

Another point of interest lies in the finite, dimensional appearance of things, which certainly makes them seem very real. Let us look at this also from a mathematical angle. Take, for example, the mathematical idea or quantity, seven. This is a mathematical value, everywhere present, indestructible, as idea, wholly mental, involving no element of time or space, for it does not take any time for seven times one to make seven, and we can remain in one place and know and have all there is in mathematics.

This mental idea, seven, is represented to physical sense by means of a line called a figure seven, which obviously is not a seven at all, but is merely an imperfect, unstable, physical representation, an outward symbol of the idea seven, which gives no correct concept of the universal quantitative value. Furthermore, whatever may be done to the numeral, will not affect the idea, even if the numeral is destroyed.

Now there is very nearly the same relationship between the finite, material concepts of the physical universe and the infinite spiritual ideas of God's universe as there is between the figure seven and the idea seven.

Mrs. Eddy has been much maligned because she has called attention to this great fact. Yet we know that if we look at a man through a piece of bent glass we shall see a deformed man, and if we do not know any better, we shall think he is a deformed man; whereas, if we get a look at the man apart from the glass we shall see that he is a normal man. That is precisely what Mrs. Eddy has done for us. She has shown us God as He is, also the real man and the real universe, so that we can understand that the finite, distorted concepts obtained through the five physical senses are not real.

Attention must be called to the fact that mathematics, the human concept of the science of numbers, is not spiritual. It is here used simply as a stepping-stone from the concrete to the abstract, to make it easier for some to reach the metaphysical.

Matter Not Life

Still another point is the belief, or claim, which merely means the demand made upon us for belief, that there is life in matter and that life depends upon matter. Let us examine the question for a few moments. It is a fact that one of the fundamental characteristics of real life is continuity of existence. In the light of our analysis, can this be predicated of matter? Does it not appear that all material things begin, live for a span, die, decay, disintegrate? Is not this indeed the recognized routine or cycle of material living? Evidently this is not real living, but simply a repeated effort to live, a counterfeit living.

If matter had life, would it not sustain itself? Then since all that is material dies, decays, disintegrates, does this not prove that matter has no life? If matter cannot sustain itself, how can it sustain us? When we say that food does not eat life, do we not eat what is dead or dies? Then can we get life from its opposite, death? Can we get light from its opposite, darkness? Is it sensible then, for it certainly is not logical, for us to depend upon matter for life when it has no life to give us? Are we not leaning upon a broken reed when we do so? The chemical action which results from the eating of material food, and which produces a certain electrical activity called physical life, is really not life at all, since it has no continuity of existence. Then if matter is not life, what is?

God Is Life

The Bible declares, and frequently implies, that God is our life. It also states that "man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God," and Jesus said that he came "that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." Now what is that life?

Since God is, He is Truth and continues to be. Since God creates is, is true and continues to be. Therefore truth is continuity of being, and it follows that Truth is Life, and Life is Truth. Consequently real Life is divine Truth, the great I AM, immortal, infinite, conscious being, God.

The Bible teaches further that God is the Creator; therefore He is Principle, for Principle is basis, foundation, cause, origin, without which there can be no existence. Principle is that which is that which manifests itself as idea, the basis of all law and right action. Therefore Principle is absolute, self-existent, dependent solely upon itself, independent of all else, unaffected by any modifying conditions or influences. God is Life, Life is Principle, and is absolute, depending solely upon itself, upon its own immortal being, independent of all else and therefore unaffected by matter or by any condition, state or belief of matter.

Even as mathematical truth is not affected by anything which may be done to the figures, so the real life of man cannot be disturbed by what may be done to its material appearing or symbol. Life is therefore neither in matter, nor of matter. It is God's very being and nothing else.

The Bible declares through St. John that "God is love;" therefore real Life is divine Love, and thus we see that there is but one infinite, eternal, divine Life, which is indestructible Truth, absolute Principle, immortal Love.

Real Life Bases Right Living

Now which would we rather have if we were given the choice? The unsatisfactory, uncertain, mortal belief of life, or the perfect, divine, immortal Life? We really are given that choice, and we should never lose sight of this fact, for whether we believe it or not, God made man in His image and likeness, therefore man reflects the divine Life, and we have only to awaken to this truth to experience the blessings it involves.

How then can we do this? Once more reasoning by analogy from mathematics, we know that when we think rightly of the multiplication table, that is to say, when we become conscious of its truth, then we know it, we reflect it and it is ours by reflection; we have it because we know it. Similarly, when we think rightly of God, then we become conscious of divine Truth, then we know divine Life, we reflect it, it is ours by reflection; we have it because we know it. What said Jesus,—"This is life eternal, that they might know Thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." Therefore, according to Jesus, knowing God is real living; and since Mrs. Eddy has made it possible for all to know God aright and to know rightly His Son, Christ Jesus, we can begin here and now to have in us the spirit of Life which was in Christ Jesus, as St. Paul declares,—a state of consciousness which is indeed needed so badly today.

What a great change takes place in our lives, our homes, our business, as we begin to reflect that divine Life and to live in obedience to Principle, doing right because it is right to do it, governed by Spirit not matter, reflecting Love not hate, doing the healing works of the Master! Would it not make a great change in the whole world if all would just begin to have that Life and to live it instead of believing that there is life in matter and depending upon it? Would it not eventually solve all the world's problems?

The Science of right living is, therefore, based fundamentally upon the knowing of what real Life is and on the living of that Life. There is no other way of demonstrating Christian living. Mrs. Eddy has made it possible for all to begin to do this; and Christian Scientists testify gratefully to the fact that they have begun to know that Life and have already experienced great blessings therefrom, and they are rejoicing at its infinite possibilities and are daily striving for a higher spiritual understanding.

The knowing of what real Life is has a very marked healing effect to which attention should here be called. Suppose, for example, a man were on a sickbed, having been given up by, perhaps, many physicians, pronounced incurable, and with no further materialistic remedies available, hopeless, helpless, despairing, gazing perhaps into the dark, dismal chasm of an uncertain beyond. Suppose now that some one were to bring to that man a glimpse of his real Life, telling him of this one infinite, eternal, divine Life which is Truth, Principle, Spirit, Love, the Life which is the God-given life of man and which matter cannot possibly take away from him. Might not that man begin to listen, and as he listens would he not turn away from belief in material dying to belief in spiritual living? Would not his eyes brighten as a consequence, the color return to his cheeks, activity be resumed and the man be healed? Thousands have been healed in just that way, many of them while reading Mrs. Eddy's textbook, wherein she makes this point so very plain, and lays such stress upon it.

Healing a Mental Process

It was shown a moment ago that human existence is wholly mental. Therefore the conditions of this existence depend largely upon the condition of consciousness. Does it not follow, then, that with a change of consciousness will come a change in the condition of existence? A mortal's selfhood, his consciousness of being, is obviously mental. Therefore, his body, which is the embodiment and externalization of his mentality, is just as mental as the rest of human existence.

Discordant conditions of the body are therefore due to discordant conditions of human sense; and it can be readily seen that, if the light of the Christ-truth is brought to bear upon the dark, despairing consciousness of a sick, sinning, dying mortal, it will illumine it, brighten it with the divine light and tint it with the divine hues—a spiritual change which will be manifested as harmony of body as well as of mind.

According to the Scriptural accounts, the healing wrought by the Master and his disciples, was accomplished through mental or spiritual means alone, that is, through some action of right thought. Christian Science healing is brought about in the same way. In both, the healing Principle and law are recognized as mental, and we therefore need to consider briefly the nature of divine Mind and of true Mind-action.

Christian Science teaches that Mind is much greater than mere human thought; it includes the cause and manifestation of all true existence. Real Mind, infinite consciousness, is the divine Being, which expresses true ideas and constitutes all reality; the intelligence and creative Principle and substance of the universe; the omnipresent good; the basis of all manifestation and right thought, the absolute Truth. Real thinking is therefore the activity of real Mind.

The knowledge of God as Life, Life is Principle, and is absolute, depending solely upon itself, upon its own immortal being, independent of all else and therefore unaffected by matter or by any condition, state or belief of matter.

Now which would we rather have if we were given the choice? The unsatisfactory, uncertain, mortal belief of life, or the perfect, divine, immortal Life? We really are given that choice, and we should never lose sight of this fact, for whether we believe it or not, God made man in His image and likeness, therefore man reflects the divine Life, and we have only to awaken to this truth to experience the blessings it involves.

How then can we do this? Once more reasoning by analogy from mathematics, we know that when we think rightly of the multiplication table, that is to say, when we become conscious of its truth, then we know it, we reflect it and it is ours by reflection; we have it because we know it. Similarly, when we think rightly of God, then we become conscious of divine Truth, then we know divine Life, we reflect it, it is ours by reflection; we have it because we know it. What said Jesus,—"This is life eternal, that they might know Thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." Therefore, according to Jesus, knowing God is real living; and since Mrs. Eddy has made it possible for all to know God aright and to know rightly His Son, Christ Jesus, we can begin here and now to have in us the spirit of Life which was in Christ Jesus, as St. Paul declares,—a state of consciousness which is indeed needed so badly today.

Mrs. Eddy has made it possible for all to begin to do this; and Christian Scientists testify gratefully to the fact that they have begun to know that Life and have already experienced great blessings therefrom, and they are rejoicing at its infinite

Those who have studied physics and chemistry have been taught that any material object may through mechanical, chemical and electrical processes be reduced to a form of energy,—to infinitesimal units of electrical force vibrating with great velocity. Since then a material object is an aggregation of units of force, nothing else having entered into its composition, it must be simply force. Mrs. Eddy writes in her textbook, "Science and

Matter Not Substance

First, the universal belief in matter as substance, which hinders the apprehension of the unsubstantial nature of matter as taught in Christian Science, and which makes it so difficult for many to accept Christian Science. This causes many to say that Christian Science may be very helpful for mental or nervous diseases, but cannot possibly be successful in organic or structural diseases, a position in which, of course, they are wrong.

Now what is substance supposed to be? It is that from which things are made, that which gives them their being, their body, their structure, and so on, and that which prevents them from being destroyed. The dictionaries define substance as that which is substantial, that which has real, lasting, perpetual existence, that which is actual and not illusory; from which it follows that real substance must be that which is indestructible and permanent. Does matter come up to these specifications and requirements? Is it not a fact that all material things can be destroyed, and, if let alone, will they not naturally decay and disintegrate? Does this not prove that matter is not substance, since it has no lasting, perpetual existence?

It was shown a moment ago that an apparently substantial material object could be reduced to a form of energy; though even this, it should be remembered, is mainly a theory. Then is such a material object actual or illusory? Physical scientists themselves do not know what constitutes a physical object, they can only theorize about it. Then if matter is not substance, what is? Is there anything that is indestructible and eternal? Yes, Truth. Take, by way of analogy, the mathematical idea that two and two make four. This is mathematically a true idea with real, lasting existence. Therefore, this idea is substantive, for the fact that two and two make four cannot be destroyed; its truth is its substance. It is also evident that truth is that which makes things what they are, gives them their being and prevents their being destroyed. Thus it is seen that truth is substance, and therefore wholly mental, and that eternal, indestructible, real substance, is divine Truth, the divine actuality, the infinite Being. Mrs. Eddy teaches that divine Truth is divine Spirit and that this Spirit, which is infinite, indestructible, eternal, is real substance, the substance of which God made all "that was made,"—is, in fact, that which constitutes all real being. It is this infinite, indestructible, divine substance of Spirit, Truth, which is counterfeited by the finite mental concept called matter, but which exists entirely apart from matter.

Appearance Not Real

Another point of interest lies in the finite, dimensional appearance of things, which certainly makes them seem very real. Let us look at this also from a mathematical angle. Take, for example, the mathematical idea or quantity, seven. This is a mathematical value, everywhere present, indestructible, as idea, wholly mental, involving no element of time or space, for it does not take any time for seven times one to make seven, and we can remain in one place and know and have all there is in mathematics.

This mental idea, seven, is represented to physical sense by means of a line called a figure seven, which obviously is not a seven at all, but is merely an imperfect, unstable, physical representation, an outward symbol of the idea seven, which gives no correct concept of the universal quantitative value. Furthermore, whatever may be done to the numeral, will not affect the idea, even if the numeral is destroyed.

Now there is very nearly the same relationship between the finite, material concepts of the physical universe and the infinite spiritual ideas of God's universe as there is between the figure seven and the idea seven.

Mrs. Eddy has been much maligned because she has called attention to this great fact. Yet we know that if we look at a man through a piece of bent glass we shall see a deformed man, and if we do not know any better, we shall think he is a deformed man; whereas, if we get a look at the man apart from the glass we shall

NEW METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
The Corner Stone of the Fine Edifice Was Laid Sunday With Fitting exercises

CORNERSTONE LAID

Bishop Hughes, in his address, took issue with the prophecies of men, "who, posing as later day Jeremiahs, have predicted and announced the passing of the Church of Christ from its place and great work in the world.

A recognition service was held in Waterhell Hall Sunday forenoon in connection with the exercises attendant on the laying of the corner stone.

Rev. Alliston B. Gifford, presided, and the copper box of the corner stone of the first edifice on Mt. Vernon street, laid in 1875, was opened. The contents were some church records, a copy of the Woburn Journal, a Boston newspaper and other religious papers and documents. They were in a good state of preservation.

The copper box placed in the corner stone of the new $200,000 church were assembled from the various organizations and official committees of the society in an impressive manner.

Rev. Mr. Gifford called upon each representative of the church activities to give recognition to the work done in connection with the erection of the new edifice. Those who took part in the service were Frank E. Crawford, chairman of the trustees; Leon E. Crouch, secretary of the trustees; L. I. Taylor, secretary of the building committee; H. B. Seller, superintendent of the Sunday School; Hamilton Gifford, president of the Epworth League; Mrs. Leon E. Crouch, president of the Ladies' Aid Society; Raymond Quimby, secretary of the quarterly conference committee of the church society, and Alonzo D. Nichols, chairman of the corner stone committee.

Those were sealed in the box: A Bible and hymn book, copy of the discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist 1923 year book, the 127th session minutes of the New England Methodist Conference, a copy of Zion's Herald, Winchester Star, extracts of minutes of local church societies relating to the new church, list of members and officers of the church, donors to building fund, pictures of site, old church, coins, etc.

Rev. Mr. Gifford preached on the theme, "The Promised Land." He reviewed the efforts of the church the past 50 years, told of the erection of the first church in 1875 on Mt. Vernon street, spoke of the sacrifices made by the original society of Methodists formed in 1872, in Winchester and the work being done to secure the new church's completion within a year.

A quartet consisting of H. S. Richardson, tenor; E. Lillian Evans, soprano; Jane Hill, contralto, and Benjamin Hill, bass, sang.

Among those present and also at the corner stone laying ceremony was Annie Dodd, aged 77, of 3 Mystic avenue, the oldest member of the church. She was presented to Bishop Hughes at the conclusion of the corner stone laying and the bishop congratulated her on her religious zeal and seeming good health at her advanced age.

A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

lation. She saw that because there is one infinity of Spirit there is no place for its counterfeit, matter, even though a false sense may attempt to claim otherwise. Since there is one infinity of good, there is no place for its reflection, evil. Because there is one infinite, divine Mind,—one infinite, divine Life—there can be no opposite, other than a false dream sense.

This divine actuality is the scientific, spiritual basis on which all Christian Science healing is demonstrated, and upon which Mrs. Eddy established her church and her Cause. The Scriptures, spiritually understood, reveal this truth, but Mrs. Eddy first stated it in scientific and metaphysical terms; which, when understood, make it possible for any one to begin to demonstrate it.

Consequently a very sharp line must be drawn between what God made and what He did not make, between the infinite, divine actuality and the finite, human seeming; in other words, between the real and the unreal. Unless this differentiation is clearly made, thought is not spiritual, for Spirit is Truth, and we cannot think spiritually unless we know Truth.

Denial of Matter Essential

It is an obvious fact that no one could be sick, miserable, sinning or dying were it not for the belief in matter. Hence, the great need of awakening from this illusion in order to be freed from the false bondage, a bondage never imposed by divine authority, for the second record of creation is false. Mrs. Eddy requires the First Readers in all Christian Science churches and societies to read from her textbook at each Sunday service, her "scientific statement of being," which says, "There is no life, truth, intelligence, nor substance in matter. All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all. Spirit is immortal Truth; matter is mortal error. Spirit is the real and eternal; matter is the unreal and temporal. Spirit is God, and man is His image and likeness. Therefore man is not material; he is spiritual." (Science and Health, p. 468.). This is a requirement which constitutes a very timely reminder, and one which should be kept in mind always. It should be recognized that this "scientific statement of being" is not a mere theory or invention of Mrs. Eddy's, but is a spiritual, scientific revelation of divine Truth.

In one of my later interviews with Mrs. Eddy, she emphasized strongly the need of recognizing the mesmeric nature of matter and its glamour. This has moved me to include an analysis of the subject in all my lectures, and in calling your attention emphatically to this subject, I feel that I am carrying out her wishes. We need to see that this belief in matter is the "lust of the flesh" (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 165) which hides spirituality, and which must be rent before spiritual truth can be rightly seen and spiritual healing demonstrated.

Healing a Corrective Process

Thus it is seen that Christian Science healing is fundamentally a corrective process wherein the falsity of discordant material conditions becomes evident from the basis of absolute Truth. It involves knowing divine truth, recognizing human error and applying Truth to the error, which brings about a change in consciousness; right concepts are established in the place of wrong concepts, and harmony is externalized. Knowing that sin is not real and that God's man has no sinful appetites and is not the slave of passion nor the victim of vice, but that man is the idea of God, reflecting divine Love and governed by divine Principle,—this heals the sinner.

It is helpful to know that error has no location a fact which may be illustrated by recognizing that two and two do not make five anywhere. Also that we can never know error; we can never know, for instance, that two and two make five; we can only believe that they do. We can know only Truth. If, therefore, we become conscious of Truth, the error naturally disappears.

It is important to distinguish clearly between Christian Science healing as revealed by Mrs. Eddy and taught by her in the last edition of her books, and the effort to heal through any form of mental suggestion advocated and used by the many mental healing sects, for she says (Retrospection and Introspection, p. 47): "But before entering this field of labor he must have studied the latest editions of my works, be a good Bible scholar and a consecrated Christian."

Human Consciousness Renewed

It can now be seen that all aches and pains and misery are really not material at all but are merely false mental phenomena which have their seeming existence in the human consciousness, as Mrs. Eddy calls it. Hence it is here that they must be healed by applying the truth. Any one can begin here and now to think what is right, true and good, and thus to neutralize the wrong.

Mrs. Eddy has revealed absolute Truth and good. It is, therefore, possible at any time to detect what is not true and not good by comparing it with her divine standard. Then the truth can be applied to the error, to neutralize it and cast it out, and thereby gradually will be accomplished what St. Paul indicates when he says, "put off the old man with his deeds," which means the Adam-man, the dust-man, the dream-man, the man typifying the false belief that there is life, truth, intelligence and substance in matter. Then, and not until then, can be put on the "new man," the real, divinely created man, the image and likeness of Mind, Spirit, Love, by knowing the truth about this man. Thus we can begin now, to be transformed by the renewing of our mind, as St. Paul puts it, that is, by the renewing of our human consciousness.

This is the state of consciousness to which Jesus appealed in his teaching and healing, wherein reformation and regeneration take place, where good can be brought to bear upon evil to destroy it and where Truth can meet error and correct it.

When finally all evil is destroyed in us through the presence of divine Truth and good, we shall have attained the real, divine consciousness of the real man, we shall have worked out our salvation through Christ, for we shall have overcome all evil, and we shall have demonstrated our at-one-ment, our unity with the Father.

When a man seems to be "down and out" he is as though he were in a deep, dark hole. If we speak to him and tell him how beautiful it is above we may catch his ear; but unless we appeal to him in a way that reaches his human sense he is likely to remain in a hopeless state of mind, not believing that he can ever get out. What that man needs is a ladder which will reach down to his grasp; that is, something which he can get hold of and by means of which he can climb out. This saving power is the Christ, the divine Truth coming to the human consciousness through Christian Science, with which any one can begin to work out his salvation, his deliverance from evil.

Mrs. Eddy writes that "sin and disease lose their reality in human consciousness and disappear as naturally and as necessarily as darkness gives place to light and sin to reformation. Now, as then, these mighty works are not supernatural, but supremely natural. They are the sign of Immanuel, or 'God with us,' a divine influence ever present in human consciousness" (Science and Health, Preface, p. xii).

Think of it! A divine influence always present, which makes it possible to be healed and saved by the appearing of the Christ, Truth, in consciousness, there developing spiritual understanding, through right knowing and right living. Thus it is the Christ which awakens us from the Adam-dream in this present state of existence.

Mary Baker Eddy

Is it any wonder that Christian Scientists love Mrs. Eddy as they do and are so grateful to her, not only for her great discovery but because she has made it possible for them to begin to demonstrate its truth, to begin to understand Jesus' teachings and to experience his promises? Her uplifted human consciousness was so closely allied to God through simple goodness, that she was enabled to perceive the divine idea,—the nature of spiritual being,—and this vision of perfect God, perfect man, perfect being, made her the Discoverer of this hitherto unknown Science underlying all true existence.

Her one great objective through many years was to know God, to find the infinite source of good, to understand the true nature of being, that healing might come to burden-bearing humanity. Her single-mindedness, interrupted by the world, undismayed by the weakness of the flesh, undaunted by the enmity of evil, held her true to her ideal, and brought her to the longed-for goal, the demonstrable working understanding of the Christ-method, with unmistakable signs following.

The marvel of these modern times is not the phenomenal rapidity and variety of material development, but the spiritual appearing to the transparent thought of one pure-minded woman, of the Christ, Truth, revealing the universe of infinite Mind and its ever-present reflection.

Christian Scientists recognize Mrs. Eddy as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science because of her preparedness and because they have been able to demonstrate the truth of her teachings. This latter fact is a very important point, because any one can prove its truth for himself. When a schoolboy proves that ten times ten is one hundred he virtually proves that a thousand times a thousand is a million, although this latter quantity may be beyond his mental grasp. So Christian Scientists in demonstrating simple fundamentals prove the truth of Mrs. Eddy's entire revelation. In what an unfortunate position then is a person who declares that the teachings of Christian Science are not true, when he himself could prove that they are true, if only would.

Because Mrs. Eddy has revealed the wonders of infinite Truth, Christian Scientists recognize the fact that she must have understood divine Mind, God, in a transcendent degree, and hence was far more capable than any one else of declaring what should be done with her Church and her Cause. They are eager, therefore, or should be to know what she teaches and advises in order that they may be benefited by the wisdom of her superior spiritual understanding, an understanding which is so evidently far above their own.

Her Writings Her Interpreter

They are seeking the revelation as the revelator has given it, knowing that their safety lies in doing this. They study Mrs. Eddy's writings very thoroughly, and more carefully than ever before, in order to make sure, by securing an interpretation of them directly from her own words, that they are really gaining a correct understanding of them, and are thereby avoiding the great danger of misinterpretation by some uninspired human thought. Mrs. Eddy is her own interpreter.

In pursuing this study, Christian Scientists use very largely her two concordances, books which contain nearly all the words in her writings. If they wish to know what Mrs. Eddy's teaching is regarding any question, a problem of their own, some disputed point, or some religious teaching, they look up in these concordances the words involved, read and ponder the use which Mrs. Eddy makes of these words in all her books, not some uses only but all of them, carefully study the meanings with which she uses them, and make accurate differentiation between the human and divine meanings; then they invariably receive a scientific, spiritual thought which will be a satisfying one to them if they are honest, if they are really seeking the revelation.

Do we not see, then, why Christian Science is truly the Science of right living? It involves the knowing of divine Truth, which is the Principle of right living, the recognition of the deceptive character of matter and evil, the cause of wrong living, and the operation of the divine healing law, the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus, the law of divine Principle which makes the healing of all inharmony possible, and bestows the blessing resulting from Christian living.

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." (Phil. 4:8.)

By thus reflecting divine Truth and Love, we have begun to heal ourselves, to help others and to benefit the whole world.

Gentlemen:

I take pleasure in writing a recommendation of the Magee Gas Range which we have now used for nearly a month.

My wife is very much pleased with it. I seldom come home nights without hearing something new about the stove. Yesterday she said it supplied the brains which she lacked. The stove itself with its insulated oven saves a great deal of gas. My gas bill this month is just about half what it has previously been.

The thermostat arrangement is really the brains of the stove and it is this combined with the stove which makes it an ideal piece of kitchen equipment.

As an illustration of the above my wife told me an incident which happened the other day. She lighted the oven for cake and while mixing the cake a neighbor called. She left her work and talked with the neighbor for some time forgetting that her oven was going. When the neighbor left she rushed back to the stove thinking it was over-heated but found that the faithful pilot was on duty and the thermostat had entirely shut off the gas. The oven therefore was just right for the cake although it had been going some time. It is little things like this which make it a constant source of pleasure to her.

Yours very truly,

"NATURE ROAD TO HEALTH"

Mr. C. Putman Thayer, formerly associate director of physical education at the national military academy, Morro Castle, Havana, Cuba, and now supervisor of physical education of the Winchester public schools, has in the publisher's hands an interesting and educational volumn soon to be distributed to the booksellers—"Nature Road to Health."

The book has been compiled by Mr. Thayer with the idea of presenting in a simplified form a systematic course which may be followed in maintaining health. The thought today is to prevent the many ills which the human race is subject to. By following "Nature's Road to Health," one can attain health and happiness. Mr. Thayer divulges no secrets, but simply asks his readers to follow instructions in attaining this supplement to clean daily living.

We are all born with a debt of honor payable to nature. We become a child of Her creation, equipped for repaying this debt agreeably and ultimately, happily. For we pay through our body, using it either judiciously of precariously, and in what measure we guard and cherish our body investment, so shall our debt be quickly discharged and everlasting health and happiness be the reward. He endeavors to guide rather than adivse; to advocate rather than admonish.

The paragraphs of the work are as follows:

1. Keeping Faith With Nature.
2. Keeping Faith With the Stomach. (Proper diet; its rigid enforcement).
3. Keeping Faith With the Tissue Building.
4. Keeping Faith With Sleep. (How to Sleep for Health).
5. Keeping Faith With Exercise.

Winchester people will doubtless be much interesting in the book when it is placed before the public.

Miss Gretchen Ginn was a bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Susan Lane Fessenden and Mr. George Pope Buel at the second Church, Newton, Saturday afternoon.

A daughter, Catherine, was born last week to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Penny of Holland street.

The automobile taken by the police in the recent State "hold-up" on Main street remains at the police station. When this car was stopped the driver jumped out and ran away. It was later learned that the number plates were stolen. The car has now been turned over to the State police for disposal. Another car has been left at the Horne garage on Main street for a fortnight, the owner not being located.

The fire department was called out Wednesday evening for a return trip to the woods fire at Dunster lane, seven blows being sounded to collect the call men for the long trip.

Miss Rebecca Barrett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Barrett of 88 Bacon street has been placed in charge of the dormitory dancing in her house at Wellesley. This is considered quite an honorable position because there is much responsibility to insure the success of the party.

Last Saturday evening the Sophomores who serenaded the Freshmen were led in their class cheer by Miss Carolyn Breen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Breen of the Parkyay. Miss Rebecca Barrett assisted on the side lines.

Sparrow Hawk Useful.

There is a long list of hawks in the country, and the sparrow hawk is the smallest of the family, says Nature Magazine. In so far as our interests are concerned, it is a most useful bird, for it feeds on mice, on not a few insect pests, as crickets and grasshoppers, also on spiders and the rest.

AN UNUSUAL EVENT

SCENE FROM WINCHESTER LAUNDRY PAGEANT

BURYING THE LAST SPECK OF DIRT

The Winchester Laundries, Inc., in the interest of Industrial Cleanliness, staged a pageant on the company's grounds Tuesday afternoon.

The company's aim is to be the cleanest laundry in the world, and with this in mind they first banished the coal pile and are now burning oil, thereby eliminating a great deal of dust and smoke.

The object of the pageant was to enlist the support of its employees and convince the public that of all the places, a laundry must be scrupulously clean in order to produce clean work. They are so intent on this subject of cleanliness that they insist that every speck of dirt be personally chaperoned out of the plant.

The trunk so carefully guarded from mid-night Friday until Tuesday noon was used to attract attention, and, figuratively speaking, contained the last speck of dirt.

The story of the pageant follows:

It is the beginning of the day and as the fellow workers of the laundry are preparing for the day's work a trumpeter announces to the public how the employees of the Winchester Laundries, Inc., are trying to serve it. How they, through experiment and research, have replaced old machinery with the latest and approved type. How a number of things used in our grandmothers time, and were awfully handy then, have been cast aside to serve the purposes of a modern laundry. How wooden pencils had been found wasteful and the cause of dirt and annoyance, and, finally, how the automatic would take their place.

The trumpeter introduces Miss Old Pencil, also Mr. Automatic. Two stenographers are starting their day's work, one with a wooden pencil, the other with an automatic, each ready for dictation. As Mr. Business Man enters his office, Miss Old Pencil addresses him (defending the stenographer equipped with a wooden pencil) saying that altho thin and worn she had worked faithfully for many years.

Mr. Automatic likewise speaks for his stenographer, saying that while he respects what has been said, he would bid sentiment depart and take merit in its stead, and suggests a race that he may prove his statement.

Mr. Business Man agrees to the race.

The trumpeter gives the signal. The pencils shake hands, and the race is on. For a while Miss Old Pencil keeps very near Mr. Automatic until her lead starts to run down, and then, fearful that she will be put out of the race, enters a sharpener in order to get sharpened up in the hope of continuing. Meanwhile, Mr. Automatic is gayly tracing his way ahead of her down the page, noticing as he passes, the dirt and dust everywhere that falls while Miss Oldpencil is getting sharpened.

She comes out ready for the race

NEW RUMFORD SCHOOL

SCHOOL BUILDING NOTES

We are glad to be able to print today a cut of the new Rumford School building now in process of construction on the lot lying between Hemenway and Canal streets.

Bids for building this school which were opened earlier in the season, were found to be in excess of the amount that the Committee had at its disposal for constructing this building. The architect, Mr. Charles G. Loring has redrawn the plans, simplifying the architecture and making some changes in the specifications. This has been done without material sacrifice, and the plans and proposals as finally accepted, call for a building of Colonial type of architecture, constructed of red brick with a slate roof and cast-stone trimmings, to contain an auditorium, six class rooms and a kindergarten, together with the necessary toilets, shower baths and teachers' room.

Great care and thought have been given to placing the building on the lot in a position which will give the best light in the class rooms, and at the same time reserve an ample space for playground purposes. The playground will be on the higher level on the Hemenway street side, and from this approach the building will be one story in height. On the Canal street side, towards which the land slopes sharply it is possible to gain an extra story.

On the upper level is an auditorium which will accommodate 250, four class rooms, kindergarten, principal's room, girls' toilet and shower baths. Entrance to this level is made at grade from a driveway running from Canal to Hemenway streets. On the lower level are two class rooms, the sloyd room, boys' toilet and shower baths, and the necessary boiler and janitor's rooms. Entrance to this lower playground on lower level is made directly from the Canal street side, which will be used by the children in the first and second grades.

The contractor, Mr. F. C. Alexander is already at work on the foundation, and it is hoped that rapid progress can be made before extreme cold weather sets in.

It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy in Sept., 1924

FAMILY CHURCH DAY IN WINCHESTER SUNDAY, OCTOBER, TWENTY-FIRST, SPONSORED BY THE INTER-CHURCH COUNCIL — SEVEN PROTESTANT CHURCHES COOPERATING

Attend Divine Worship Next Sunday by Families. Revive the Family Pew Idea. If You Have No Church Home You Will Find the Latch-String Out at Any of the Winchester Churches. Help Make This a Great Church Day For Our Community.

REASONS FOR FAMILY WORSHIP

1. The family is the smallest, the most compact, and the most intimate social group. If there is to be any social worship of God, if persons are to express their adoration, love and trust toward God by social groups, then it is most natural and necessary that they should do so by families.

2. A family exists for the nurture of children. The chief responsibility and the chief joy of the Christian family is the Christian nurture of its children. How can this Christian nurture proceed if it does not have in it the essential element of worship?

3. Family worship as a source, and as the consummation, of a Christian family life tends to perpetuate itself. A goodly heritage is precious not only in itself but also because it perpetuates itself through many generations.

4. Life in the family is a preparation and a training for life in the larger social groups. The virtues which the children learn in the Christian family are the virtues which when practised in the larger social groups will further the Kingdom of God.—Harold McA. Robinson and The Auburn Seminary "Chapel Bell."

FAMILY CHURCH DAY

The Winchester churches are to observe "Family Church Day" next Sunday in line with a national observance of "Go-To-Church-Sunday." The special emphasis in Winchester will be on attending church by families, and in this connection Theodore Roosevelt's nine reasons for going to church are interesting:

1. In this actual world, a churchless community, a community where men have abandoned and scoffed at or ignored their religious needs is a community on the rapid down grade.

2. Church work and church attendance mean the cultivation of the habit of feeling some responsibility for others.

3. There are enough holidays for most of us. Sundays differ from other holidays in the fact that there are 52 of them every year—Therefore on Sundays go to church.

4. Yes, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees, or by a running brook, or in a man's own house just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of cold fact the average man does not thus worship.

5. He may not hear a good sermon at church. He will hear a sermon by a good man who, with his good wife, is engaged all week in making hard lives a little easier.

6. He will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if he is not familiar with the Bible, he has suffered a loss.

7. He will take part in singing some good hymns.

8. He will meet and nod or speak to good, quiet neighbors. He will come away feeling a little more charitably toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance.

9. I advocate a man's joining in church work for the sake of showing his faith by his works.

LLOYD—WOOD

Miss Doris Cameron Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Wood of 266 Highland avenue, was married at the Unitarian Church on Friday evening last by the Rev. George Hale Reed, pastor of the Church, to Mr. Arthur Wilfred Lloyd of Eaton street, son of Mrs. Edith Lloyd. The ceremony took place at eight o'clock in the presence of a gathering of friends and relatives of the couple to the number of 60.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Mrs. Alma Wood Nutter, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Mr. James E. Lloyd, the groom's brother, was best man. The ushers were Dr. Harrie Y. Nutter and Mr. George Stevens.

A reception followed the ceremony, it being held in the church parlors, the young couple being assisted in receiving by their parents.

The bride, who has been in charge of the children's department at the public library, is a graduate of the High School and of Simmons College. The groom, also a High School graduate, served overseas during the World War.

They are now enjoying a honeymoon in Canada, and will be at home after December first at 20 Eaton street.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Mrs. Theo. P. Wilson is visiting friends in Philadelphia. Before her return she will make stops at Atlantic City and New York.

Flannel Pajamas.—F. E. Barnes.

The semi-annual or quarterly excavation of our centre was commenced on Tuesday. Traffic over the railroad tracks is routed by way of the south crossing going towards Boston and by way of the north crossing going west and north. The white posts aid greatly in the general confusion and congestion. Possibly by the next "tear-up" the Town will own this portion of the centre, which will be greatly welcomed by all.

Mr. Arthur W. Turner of Wildwood street, who was taken ill on his way home from business Monday night and taken to the Winchester Hospital to undergo an operation Tuesday, is recovering satisfactorily. He was operated upon for an intestinal trouble, and is reported resting comfortably.

Extra long Braces.—F. E. Barnes.

DR. PUTNAM

No death has come to the people of Winchester with a greater shock than that of Dr. Ralph Putnam. He died Wednesday evening following an operation for meningitis by Dr. Harvey Cushing at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston.

Dr. Putnam visited his patients on Sunday as usual. That evening without any previous warning save that he had been suffering from a slight cold, he suddenly developed an ear trouble. After a night of suffering Dr. Philip Hammond was able to give him much relief and it was the opinion of both Dr. Hammond and Dr. Dennett who was attending him that with a day of complete rest his trouble would pass. On Tuesday, however, he grew rapidly worse becoming unconscious during the night. His two attending physicians decided to rush their patient to the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital early on Wednesday morning fearing that he was suffering from meningitis. Following a consultation at the hospital, Dr. Cushing operated in the afternoon for meningitis finding a very critical situation. Dr. Putnam never regained consciousness, passing away at nine o'clock in the evening.

DR. RALPH PUTNAM

As only a few close friends knew of his sudden illness the news of his tragic death was a great shock to the townspeople.

Dr. Putnam came to Winchester and began the practice of his profession here just 20 years ago. He had become widely known in the town having taken broad interest in its affairs. He was the organizer of the Winchester School physical department and one of the leading physicians of the town. He had held membership in both the Winchester Country Club and the Calumet Club. He was also a member of the Monday Club of Winchester.

He had always been identified with the Parish of the Epiphany and had served several years on its vestry. His was the unusual and wonderful faculty of being to his patients not only a skilled medical advisor but also a devoted and intimate friend. Even in the midst of the busy life of a physician he found time for valuable public service both as a town official and as a high minded citizen.

Dr. Putnam was born in Chelsea, attended the Chelsea High School and received his degree of AB in 1898 from Harvard College. In 1901 he was graduated from the Harvard Medical School. From 1901 to 1903, Dr. Putnam was house officer at the State Hospital at Tewksbury. In January, 1903, he was appointed assistant physician at the Massachusetts Hospital for Inebriates at Foxboro. Later in the year he began his residence in Winchester.

He is survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrill Putnam of Winchester; two sons, Robert Mitchell Putnam and Henry Mitchell Putnam, and a sister, Miss Beatrice Putnam.

Services will be held at his late residence, 409 Main street this Friday, at 3 p. m., Rev. Allan Evans, Jr., officiating, assisted by the Rector Emeritus, Rev. John W. Suter.

BENEFIT DANCE AT COUNTRY CLUB

The class of Mr. George S. Tompkins of the Congregational Church, gave an informal dance, at the Winchester Country Club on last Thursday evening, for the benefit of the Parish House fund.

Thedance, though attended by comparatively few, was a most enjoyable affair. About 40 couples were present.

Mrs. George S. Tompkins, Mrs. Leslie Hartwell, Mrs. Fred Mitchell and Mrs. Ralph Smith acted as matrons. The music was furnished by Boone's Orchestra.

Praise is due the members of the committee in charge of the dance for their efforts to make the affair a success. The committe consisted of Leslie Hartwell, Chairman; Roy Jordan, Scott Emerson and Ralph Smith.

Citizens of the West Side

A HEARING BY THE PLANNING BOARD WILL BE HELD TUESDAY EVE., OCT. 23rd, AT 8 P. M. IN THE HIGH SCHOOL ASSEMBLY HALL

In this connection the Planning Board have undertaken to prepare By-Laws which will provide through Town Planning for a wise and economical development of streets that will best meet the demand of the Winchester of the future. Also a plan for zoning the town to insure an orderly and consistent development of the various sections of the town as regards the locating of residences, industries, garages, etc.

Every owner of a home or of real estate should be vitally interested in this matter, as zoning helps to maintain and stabilize neighborhoods, communities and values.

This will be the first of five hearings to be held to consider how Zoning shall be applied to Winchester. This district includes all the territory west of the railroad and south of Vine Street, including Woodside Road, commonly known as the West Side and Hill District.

WINCHESTER COUNCIL, K. OF C. OFFICERS INSTALLED

The officers of Winchester Council K. of C. were installed last Thursday evening with impressive ceremony at the K. of C. Home on Vine street, by District Deputy William J. Shanahan of Mt. Benedict Council of Somerville, who was accompanied by a suite of the members from that council headed by John Sheehan, warden.

The installation was attended by a large delegation of visiting officers and members of Mt. Benedict Council, headed by Grand Knight Francis J. De Celles and of Arlington Council, headed by Grand Knight John Ryan, besides more than 100 members of Winchester Council and members of Woburn and Stoneham Councils.

The officers installed were:

Patrick J. Kenneally, Grand Knight.
Terrence D. Cullen, Deputy Grand Knight.
Frank E. Rogers, Chancellor.
Thomas Farrell, Recorder.
Edmund A. Goggin, Financial Secretary.
Angus McFeeley, Treasurer.
Daniel D. Dineen, Warden.
Michael C. Ambrose, Advocate.
George Sullivan, Inner Guard.
John Creamer, Outer Guard.
William Murray, Trustee.
John Pecoli, Lecturer.

Walter E. Shaughnessy, the retiring grand knight of the council, and also the youngest man to hold that office in the history of the council, was presented with a fine leather traveling bag, in appreciation of his service to the council during the past year. Past Grand Knight John S. O'Leary made the presentation on behalf of the members. Past Grand Knight Shaughnessy expressed his gratitude for the gift and asked the members to support the new officers.

District Deputy Shanahan, Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, assistant at St. Mary's Church; Grand Knight John J. De Celles of Mt. Benedict Council, Somerville; Grand Knight John Ryan of Arlington Council and Grand Knight Patrick Kenneally were among those who spoke at the conclusion of the installation ceremony. The growth of the council and its work with the Knights of Columbus Building Corporation to secure the present home on Vine street, formerly the Winsor estate, was discussed and plans made for the reduction of the mortgage debt of about $10,000 during the coming council year.

Refreshments were served and a musical entertainment held after the council meeting.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce will be pleased to hear from those who received applications for membership, as the success of the Chamber depends on the interest the public takes in supporting it in its work of bettering the civic affairs of the town.

The cooperation of every citizen is hoped for and anyone who did not receive an application blank is invited to call at the Winchester Star office and get one.

At the next meeting of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce which will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 6, in White's Hall, the matter of Railroad fares will be taken up for discussion. This is a subject of importance to everyone and a large attendance is looked for. Several other business may be brought before the meeting at this time.

WAS OLD WINCHESTER RESIDENT

Mr. Herbert A. Wilder of Newton, who died last Friday, was an old Winchester resident. He is remembered by many of our people, having made his home here for a period of 10 years about 30 years ago. He was 86 years of age and was actively engaged in business as a paper merchant.

There were about 150 residents and visitors present at the meeting held in the assembly hall at the High School Tuesday evening when the local Planning Board gave a very interesting summary and outline of advantages of town planning. Exceptionally good were the views and talk presented by Mr. A. A. Shurtleff, town planning expert. Further interesting remarks were given by Mr. John P. Fox of New York on zoning. Chairman Preston Pond of the Planning Board presided.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BANQUET

On Friday evening, Oct. 26, a banquet will be held in the vestry of the Unitarian Church under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council for all the young people of the Protestant Churches of Winchester. This means all of High School age and up who would logically work with the young people's group. Two very fine speakers have been procured. Mr. John Robinson of Boston University School of Theology, who made a great record as a college athlete in California, and Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt, D.D., of the Harvard Congregational Church, of Brookline. There will be a live sing from community song sheets and a social evening which aims to make the church young people of our town better acquainted with one another. The supper will be served by a strong committee with four representatives from each of the co-operating churches. At least 300 hundred young people should sit down to enjoy the fine dinner these ladies will serve, and catch the spirit of this great church night for the young people of Winchester.

57TH ANNIVERSARY

Although Superintendent of the Water Department William T. Dotten and his good wife were somewhat disposed to make light of the event, their friends about town did not fail to recognize the significance of their 57th wedding anniversary last Monday. They called in large numbers, and during the evening hours Mr. and Mrs. Dotten were the popular centers of an impromptu reception, which left little doubt in their minds at its conclusion of the esteem and friendliness in which they are held by a host of friends and neighbors. They were the recipients of many gifts of flowers and good will, to which the Star adds its hearty congratulations.

The President's Cup at the Winchester Country Club was won by Herbert T. Bond this year. As Mr. Bond has now won the trophy on three years, he will retain it, and next year play will start anew for another cup.

MANY ENJOYED ELKS DINNER AND DANCE

There was a large attendance of members and friends of Winchester Lodge of Elks on the occasion of the dinner and dance at the Elks home, Marlboro, Thursday evening. The party left the local lodge rooms at 6:30, a large number of autos conveying them to Marlboro. A chicken dinner was served, after which dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. As a souvenir of the evening, each lady attending was presented with a gold mesh pocketbook. The dancing music was provided by the Lou Collins Rivoli Boys Orchestra, which will be heard here on Nov. 2d, on the occasion of the ladies night at the Calumet Club.

WINCHESTER HIGH WON

Winchester High won its first game of the season at Wakefield Saturday afternoon, defeating Wakefield High 13 to 6 in a rough game which nearly turned into a riot. During the second period Wakefield players began to heckle McCarthy of Winchester, a colored player. Seeing one of them strike him, his father is reported to have told the boy to defend himself, whereupon the players and crowd turned on the man and handled him pretty roughly until he was rescued by the police. Winchester easily proved its superiority over Wakefield.

WINCHESTER MAN MARRIED AT WOBURN

Mr. Joseph Francis Duran of 13 Middlesex street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duran, was married at St. Charles Church, Woburn, Sunday evening to Miss Mary Catherine Fay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fay of 22 Carter place, Woburn. The ceremony was performed at seven o'clock by the Rev. William L. Kevillle.

The bride wore a wedding dress of Copenhagen chiffon velvet trimmed with squirrel, with hat to match trimmed with silver lace. Miss Gertrude I. Fay was bridesmaid. She wore a dress of fawn chiffon velvet with hat to match. Mr. Joseph Duran of South Boston was best man.

Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Duran will make their home in Billerica on Boston road.

Mrs. Elizabeth Reynolds, mother of Mrs. W. F. Smart of Dix street, the most venerable resident of our town, will reach her 100th birthday on the 25th of this month. Mrs. Reynolds, although confined to her home, is bright and mentally alert, and receives her friends daily.

STIRRING ADDRESS BY MISS HODDER

Last Thursday afternoon was the first of a series of excellent meetings which have been planned for the coming season by the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittendon League. Mrs. Bowen Tufts was hostess. In spite of the glorious autumn weather which tempted one to remain out of doors, there was a large audience to hear Mrs. Jessie D. Hodder of Sherborn Reformatory, speaker of the occasion. Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott introduced Mrs. Blake, President of the Arlington Circle who sang two delightful songs, "The Happy Song" and the "Dance of the Faries." Mr. Chidley spoke with appreciation of the work of the Winchester Circle which he said had contributed $5000 to the building fund of the League and had given a $500 gift besides. Mrs. Olfene, of the League, thanked the circle for its gift of scholarship to educate a girl in secretarial or other office work.

Taking as her subject, "Criminal Women and Social Well-Being," Mrs. Hodder prefaced her talk by saying that a reformatory should be an institutional home from which a girl should be received back into her community. She should, if she makes good, be re-established and it is nonsense to run such an institution unless this is to be true. "Stand by the girl," she said. "The world loves to scrap people. When can society afford the cost to itself of taking from an individual his self respect.?"

Mrs. Hodder placed great stress on the fact that many of the inmates of jails and reformatories are not criminally responsible because they are not normal socially but are feeble-minded, epileptic or insane. She deplores the fact that we have in this country no real clearing house for criminals in which they could be classified after conviction and before commitment. She showed enlightening charts of the progress in crime of feeble minded cases saying that the present-day Commonwealth manufactures criminals by not sending such cases to an institution which aims to keep them occupied as far as their mental capacities permit. "Approach the evil doer in the laboratory and send only the normal prisoners to penal institutions. It is a brutal society which clings to the unclassified prison," she said. A great many questions were asked showing the deep interest which Mrs. Hodder had aroused in her audience.

After a second group of songs by Mrs. Blake, the meeting adjourned for a social half-hour over the tea cups.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Numerous automobile accidents occured about town over the week-end. Starting in Saturday morning cars owned by Harry J. Sconey of Woburn and George Ferguson of Haverhill collided at the corner of Mt. Vernon street and Highland avenue. This accident occurred at 8:30 a. m. Kenney was driving a Moon touring car and Ferguson a Ford. The Moon had its rear fender damaged and the Ford escaped without damage.

At 6 o'clock Mrs. Martha Schmidt of Irving street reported to the police that she stepped on a rope trailing from a car driven by Joseph Lanigro of Swanton street, being thrown to the ground and badly bruised.

At one o'clock Sunday an accident occurred at the corner of Bacon and Church streets, Albert Tredeau of Lawrence, driving a Durant touring car and accompanied by Mrs. James V. Mallow and Joseph Mallov of Lawrence, collided with a Ford sedan driven by Otto J. Godsoe of Boston. In the Ford was Mrs. Godsoe and Mrs. McCurran of Boston. Both cars were badly damaged, the Durant having front and rear fenders bent and twisted, its running board broken and doors smashed, while the Ford had its axel bent, steering gear smashed and lights and fenders twisted. Joseph Mallow was the only person injured, he being cut on the left ear by flying glass.

At 3:11 an accident occurred on Washington street when two cars traveling in opposite directions crashed. John H. Bryce of Main street was arrested after the accident charged with drunkenness. He was driving a Ford touring car. The car hit was a Maxwell, driven by James McAvoy of Woburn. Both cars were badly wrecked.

At 8:30 p. m. John Callahan of Middlesex street was struck by a car driven by Ernest Babcock of Woburn. This accident occurred on Main street near Water street. Mr. Babcock took the injured man to Dr. Stuart's office in Woburn, where he was found to be suffering from injuries to his leg above his ankle.

WEDDED SUNDAY EVENING

Miss Mary F. Crampton of this town, daughter of Mr. Michael Crampton, was married on Sunday evening at St. Mary's rectory by the Rev. Joseph Fitzgibbons to Mr. Patrick L. Sullivan of Medford. Miss Esther Lydon, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Mr. Michael Sullivan of Medford, brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's father on Clark street. There was a large attendance of friends from this and neighboring places and many handsome gifts were displayed. Following a wedding trip to Atlantic City, they will make their home in Medford.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A birthday party was given Mildred Hamilton of Wedge Pond road by her friends on Saturday evening, Oct. 13th. It being so near the "Spooky season," ghosts received the guests under veiled lights and many Hallowe'en games were enjoyed.

Guests were present from Brookline, Stoneham, Barre, Vt., Newton, Winchester, Quincy and Newport, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bowe are registered at the Marlborough-Blenheim, Atlantic City.

"Threescore Years and Ten"

Sleeping . . .	23 years	Eating	6 years
Working . . .	19 years	Traveling . . .	6 years
Amusement . .	9 years	Illness	4 years
Religious devotion	1 year	Dressing . . .	2 years

That's where the time goes to But why not an item on Waiting, one showing the time spent, the time lost, in waiting for one thing or another? It's a pretty big item, for with all our conveniences we can count on the fingers of one hand the things we do not have to wait for.

Try to think of one or two. Among the first to come to your mind will be one that serves you faithfully each day, that comes direct to you instead of your going to it; that responds instantly to your every demand; that at once eliminates all waiting by being constantly on tap—your gas service!

WAS MOTHER OF MRS. W. D. SULLIVAN

Mrs. Susannah G. VanHorn, who died on Sunday, was the mother of Mrs. William D. Sullivan of Fletcher street. She was 82 years of age and was the widow of Cornelius VanHorn, being a native of New Brunswick. Private services were held at the residence on Fletcher street Monday afternoon at which Rev. S. Winchester Adriance officiated. The remains were taken to Portland, Me., her former home, for interment, services being held there on Tuesday noon.

After a long summer at Chautauqua, N. Y., Mrs. S. F. Goff is the guest of her son, Mr. William L. Goff at his home in Ridgewood, N. J. Mrs. Goff will shortly return to her home in Brookline.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

When Winchester people read daily of the inconveniece and actual danger to health which surrounding places are undergoing through the drying up of their water supplies, they have more occasion than ever to congratulate themselves upon the fact that they live here.

Walter Channing was the broker in the sale of the Herbert E. Gleason property on Salisbury road, Winchester, to Mrs. Ethel Hudson of Medford. This property comprises 10,000 ft. lot of land on which has just been built a modern stucco house of 7 rooms, bath, every improvement, also a double garage. Mrs. Hudson will take possession at a future date.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

We may as well aim high as low, ask much as little, the world will not miss what it gives us, and our reward will largely be governed by our demands.

A good night's sleep and a new day—these are excellent things to look forward to when one is weary or in trouble.

The world is full of perplexed and lonely people, whom even a smile or a kind look will help.

Some of us find joy in toil, some in art, some in the open air and sunshine, but all of us should find it in just being alive.

A well-known automobilist of the west side reported to the police by telephone at 12:15 the other morning that he was unable to get into his house on account of two playful skunks. The police "sent their regrets" to the autoist.

Principal Raymond E. Pinkham of the Wadleigh and Prince Schools received early this week a check for $5 from the "interested Star subscriber" for the schools' Haloween party. Star subscribers usually fulfill their promises. Doubtless Principal Pinkham thoroughly appreciates the gift, which will be used for Halloween refreshments for the boys and girls. He has not been interviewed regarding further contrihutions, but they will doubtless be welcome.

We would call the attention of the citizens to the iportance of attending the Hearings announced by the Planning Board on the question of Zoning the Town.

The hearings are to be held on Tuesday evenings in the Assembly Hall of the High School Building.

The Board have districted the Town for temporary convenience. The hearings for the different districts and the dates are as follows:

Oct. 23, 1923

1. All the territory west of the railroad and south of Vine street including Woodside road and Pond street, commonly known as the West Side and Hill district.

Oct. 30, 1923

2. All of the territory east of the railroad and south of Mt. Vernon street but inclnding both sides of Mt. Vernon street.

Nov. 6, 1923

3. All of the territory north of Mt. Vernon street and east of Washington street including the easterly side of Washington street.

Nov. 13, 1923

4. All the territory north of Mt. Vernon street lying between Washington street and the main line of the Boston and Maine Railroad including the westerly side of Washington street.

Nov. 20, 1923

5. All of the territory north of Vine street and west of the main line of the Boston and Maine Railroad including Vine street.

WAS FORMER CALUMET PRESIDENT

William S. Olmstead Died Unexpectedly Saturday Evening

Mr. William S. Olmstead died on Saturday evening at Manchester, Vt., where he had gone with a party of friends to spend a few days. His death came after a short illness and was caused by heart trouble. He was in company with Messrs. W. D. Eaton, George W. Fitch and Paul D. Poinier. The party arrived at Manchester last Thursday night, intending to spend the holiday golfing. On Friday he was indisposed, it being thought that he was suffering from indigestion. His condition not improving Saturday, a specialist was called, but it was found that nothing could be done to save his life.

Mr. Olmstead was born in Rye, N. Y., his parents being Benjamin S. and Marion (Gantz) Olmstead. He was for many years a teller at the First Mercantile National Bank, Broadway, N. Y., and he resigned that position 17 years ago to take the treasurship of the firm of Joseph Middleby, Jr., Inc., bakers and confectioners supplies. He had made his home in this town for this period.

He married Miss Maude B. Walden of Brooklyn, N. Y. She died 15 years ago, and he is survived only by one brother, Mr. George S. Olmstead of West Grove, Penn. He also leaves a step-mother, Mrs. Benjamin S. Olmstead of this town, and three step-brothers, Mr. Augustus C. Stearns of New London, Conn., and Messrs. Edwin F. and Herbert S. Stearns of Springfield, Mass.

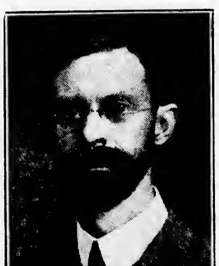

Mr. Olmstead was active in the social and political life of Winchester. He had a host of friends and was most popular with all who knew him, being affectionately known among his intimates as "Big Bill." He was a member of the Church of the Epiphany, William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Aberjona Council, R. A., and the Winchester Country Country Club, where he had served upon important committees. He was a past president of the Calumet Club and member of the Board of Governors.

Largely attended funeral services were held at the Church of the Epiphany on Tuesday afternoon, business and social associates and delegates attending. The display of flowers was very profuse and beautiful. Rev. Allan Evans, Jr., rector of the Church, conducted the service, and the honorary pall bearers included Messrs. Charles A. Gleason, George W. Fitch, W. D Eaton, Paul D. Poinier, Robert B. Metcalf and Arthur W. Dean. The active bearers, representing the Masonic bodies and the Calumet Club, were Messrs. Wallace F. Flanders, Edward B. Smalley, Robert A. Reynolds, John A. Maddocks, John H. Tayler and Dr. Hubert N. Bernard.

The remains were placed in the receiving tomb in Wildwood cemetery, and will later be intered in Woodlawn cemetery, New York.

FELLOW CITIZENS

You are cordially invited to hear your Congressman, Hon. Frederick W. Dallinger, speak on "The Future of American Democracy." The meeting will be held in the vestry of the First Congregational Church at 7 p. m., on Sunday, Oct. 21st and will last about an hour.

HON. FREDERICK W. DALLINGER

Here is a splendid opportunity to learn the views of your representative on the World Court, the League of Nations, and national as well as international questions.

Mr. Dallinger has been our spokesman in the House of Representatives at Washington for several terms, dating back to 1912. He was chairman of the committee which expelled Victor Berger and he has made a thorough study of Soviet propaganda in this country. He has also been keenly interested in European problems and our duty toward our allies. He is a deep student and has a sound and broad point of view in the big problems of this country.

As Mr. Dallinger leaves for Congress in about six weeks, this will be the only time for many to hear him. Further, if you are interested in your representative, if you believe in backing him up, you will not miss this chance to be present.

Come and show your appreciation of a conscientious public servant! Come and get a real inspiration which we are sure he will give!

First Congregational Church,
Men's Club

A number of weddings are imminent in town shortly. Among the list are the following: Mr. Howard Allen Crossman of Needham and Miss Margaretta Gertrude Blanchard of Lewis road; Mr. Henry Bird Harris of Hillside avenue and Miss Isabel Walker of Malden; Mr. Harold Herbert Winchenbach of Somerville and Miss Eileen Elizabeth Murphy of 153 Washington street.

Kelley & Hawes Company have sold to Mrs. D. W. Pratt the house at No. 8 Lagrange street, formerly owned by Mrs. Margaret Abercrombie. Mrs. Pratt plans to make her home there.

BURYING THE LAST SPECK OF DIRT

again though quite a bit shorter. In her haste to catch up with her rival she uses only one side of her lead, finding out all too late how wobbly she is becoming. Seeing a second pencil sharpener near, and thinking of her poor stenographer, she makes one mighty effort to gain it tottering along on one side.

Mr. Automatic turns and notices he is alone in the race, and continues down the page.

With aching head and unsteady legs,the poor old wooden pencil again joins her companion, only to find in a short while she must retrace her steps to the sharpener before she can think of finishing the race. Amid a cloud of dust and wooden shavings she attempts for the last time to win. Worn down to a mere stub she rushes on after Mr. Automatic.

As they near the goal and Mr. Automatic triumphantly crosses and is proclaimed victor in the race, the poor old wooden pencil falls to the ground in a faint entirely worn out and unfit for further use. The two stenographers, in disgust, rouse her, telling her the game is up and she is beaten. Partly picking herself up, she turns to them and says, "I've got good lead inside of me, enough to write ten dozen laundry lists."

But it is too late now. The lead inside of her must be wasted; she is too small to use. A fire is started on the altar watched by two jesters, and the wooden pencils of the past are cremated. The ashes are borne to the grave by the jesters where Mr. Ingersoll stands with spade in hand ready to bury the remains. He says the last rites; the ceremony is over. Wooden pencils have had their day. Automaties have come to stay.

"NEW CHURCH" DRIVE STARTED

One of the most important meetings in the history of the Second Congregational Church was held on Sunday evening when the drive for funds for the new Church was formally lauched. The meeting was opended with a devotional service, conducted by the pastor, Rev. John E. Whitley. Special music was rendered by Mr. Chester Miller of Brockton after which Mr. Whitley gave the meeting over to Mr. Frederick L. Buckmaster, chairman of the Building Committee. After a short resume of the events leading to the movement for a "New Church for Winchester Highlands," Mr. Buckmaster introduced Mr. Franklin Shumway of Melrose who spoke most encouragingly.

Rev. Howard Chidley followed with a convincing speech on the need for the new Church.

A chart with blocks showing the various amounts registered the pledges as they were given and the enthusiasm occasioned by an anonymous gift of $500 in cash resulted in a splendid total.

With the $5000 already contributed by a good friend, the total is now nearly $8000 and much encouragement is felt for the success of the movement.

You May be Liable for Damages

The HOOVER
It BEATS... as it Sweeps as it Cleans

Why do some rugs wear longer than others?

This is something you should know.

Rugs wear longer when they are kept constantly clean, free from embedded, nap-cutting grit.

Therefore, you can see how necessary it is that you have a Hoover, because only The Hoover efficiently "beats, as it sweeps, as it cleans."

With The Hoover your hardest tasks of cleaning are made easy, a lot of your time is saved, and your rugs wear many years longer.

Let us demonstrate the Hoover

A Service for All Savers

You don't have to be planning for a home to be a shareholder in this bank. Fact is, we need several savers to furnish the funds for each borrower.

We make this statement because some people have the idea that we are seeking to sell shares to prospective home owners exclusively. We are glad to put any man's savings to work.

Also, we are fortunate in being able to assure him higher than ordinary dividends.

Twelve hens were recently killed on the estate of Mr. E. Arthur Tutein of Wildwood street by a dog. Following this the dog, it is claimed, started to kill some of the ducks but was driven off. A complaint to the police by Mr. Tutein, who stated that he intended to put in a claim for the damage to the owner of the dog, resulted in Chief McIntosh appointing Selectman Boyne, Mr Tutein and Mr. John A. Caldwell of Central street appraisers of the damage.

The first of the monthly vesper services will be held at the First Congregational Church in Stoneham at [illegible] next Sunday. The music will be provided by three members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra: Alfred Holy, Harpist; Carl Stockbridge, Cellist and Robert Gandersen, Violinist. The public is cordially invited.

MISS ELSA JOHNSON

Musical and social circles of this town are interested in the coming recital of Elsa Johnson, which is scheduled to take place at the Town Hall, Thursday evening, Oct. 25.

Miss Johnson is the possessor of a pure lyric soprano voice of excellent quality and is said to be an exceptionally talented and promising young artist.

She will be assisted by Mr. George Wheeler, Boston's distinguished young tenor. Mr. Wheeler is a member of the quartet at the First Congregational Church at Malden and has been very favorably received by Greater Boston audiences. Mr. Chester Cook, also of Boston, will assist at the piano.

The following are to be patronesses: Mrs. George E. Henry, Mrs. William A. Lefavour, Mrs. George H. Lochman, Mrs. Frank H. Knight and others.

Miss Johnson is at present a member of the quartet at the First Baptist Church of this town and a pupil of Theodore A. Schroeder of Boston.

THE FORTNIGHTLY

Next Monday afternoon marks the opening of the Club's season with a varied program followed by a reception to meet old friends and new members. Mr. Charles Ellis, tenor soloist at the Second Church of West Newton, accompanied by Mrs. Ellis at the piano and Miss Doris Goodspeed are to be the entertainers. New members will assist the social committee in serving refreshments. Club talent will furnish music after the regular program, Mrs. A. H. Abbott, piano; Miss Gertrude Felber, violin; and Miss Annie MacPherson, cello.

The Conservation Committee will meet the first Tuesday in every month at 9:30 o'clock at the Fortnightly room. Any member of the club who desires to hear about our native birds, trees, ferns, gardens, and parks is cordially invited to attend these meetings. As we are to study about the conservation of the natural resources of our vicinity, remember the health walks at 10 A. M. every Friday morning. Anyone wishing to go please call Mrs. Messenger, 121-M.

Mrs. William Stuart Forbes of Winchester, is a member of the committee on the Shakespeare Festival to be held at the Copley-Plaza on Nov. 16th under the auspices of the Frances Jewett Repertory Theatre Club.

WADLEIGH-PRINCE HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The Wadleigh and Prince Schools have practically completed arrangements for their Hallowe'en party to be held Wednesday, Oct. 31st.

The Prince School party is to be held at the Prince School and is scheduled to begin at seven o'clock.

The Wadleigh School party is to be held at the Wadleigh School and is scheduled to begin at seven thirty o'clock.

A kind gentleman has given the committee a check for five dollars. The boys and girls in charge are perfecting their plans for entertainment and refreshments. It is understood on good authority that the committee has arranged for plenty of laughs and eats for every boy and girl. You can't afford to miss it, boys and girls.

All parents have been extended a written invitation to attend.

The names of parents who have accepted invitations to act as patrons and patronesses will be published next week.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, OCT. 15

The Board met at 7:30, all present. The records of the meeting of Oct. 8th were read and approved.

American Legion Carnival: A letter was received from the Commander of the local Post of the American Legion thanking the Board for their kindness and consideration in allowing the local Post of the American Legion the use of the Town Hall grounds and Washington street for the recent Carnival.

Oak Street: The work of repairing Oak street having been completed, this matter was ordered dismissed from the docket.

Board of Survey: Miss Ella M. Emerson, Messrs. Pond, Rowe, Dean and Tompkins of the Planning Board, together with the Town Engineer appeared at the adjourned hearing of the Board of Selectmen acting as a Board of Survey relating to the petition of Ella M. Emerson and others for the approval of a certain street lay-out plan. As the Planning Board stated that they approved the lay-out as shown on the plan and as the Town Engineer also approved the same, the Board then approved the plan.

Dunster Lane: At the request of Mr. Pond the matter pertaining to the request of citizens of Dunster Lane for water service was laid over for two weeks.

Streets: The Town Engineer is to submit in writing a list of private ways which he suggests the Board to present to the Town for acceptance at the next annual town meeting. He is also to include in this list streets upon which he recommends building lines be established.

Traffic Regulations: A letter was received from the Chairman of the Winchester School Committee stating that the Winchester Chamber of Commerce has made a suggestion to the School Committee that danger signs be placed at the Wadleigh School and other schools. The suggestion of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, the Chairman of the School Board states, without question is worthy of serious attention and believes that the Board of Selectmen should carry out the suggestion so far as it is possible. This matter was referred to the Chief of Police for report as to what schools have no danger signs in their immediate neighborhood.

The meeting adjourned at 10.20 p. m.

Clerk of Selectmen

The fire department was called out Sunday for a rubbish fire on Harvard street and for a fire in the play house at the rear of the residence of Mr. Wallace G. Page, 6 Lawson road. The damage was slight in both cases.

McHUGH—McGILLEN

Miss Mary F. McGillen of this town and Mr. Patrick McHugh of Woburn were united in marriage on Sunday afternoon at St. Mary's Rectory at 4:30. Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her cousin Miss Anne Martin and a cousin of the groom Mr. Leo McHugh of Woburn was best man.

The bride's dress was of white satin, trimmed with Spanish lace, her veil was caught with a band of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

On their return from a wedding trip through Maine they will reside at 179 Washington street where they will be at home to their many friends.

Miss Janet Richards spoke in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening before a large gathering of ladies and gentlemen upon her recent European travels and the impressions gained in foreign countries of present day conditions. Miss Richards, who is credited with being the best known and most popular lecturer on current events in America today, spoke under the auspices of the Women's Republican Club of Winchester. Her talk was greatly enjoyed by her audience.

A tremendous responsibility is thrown upon our shoulders every time there is a transportation crisis or trouble in the coal fields. We must not only prepare long in advance for such things but we must be prepared on the moment to meet those changes which happen overnight, without any warning whatsoever.

On the other hand, it is not enough to make provision for gas service for tomorrow, next week, next month or six months from now and then rest easy for a while. The gas business never remains the same. It grows or it dies just as a town or city does. We must therefore provide today for an ample gas service in 1924, 1925, and even 1926.

Uninterrupted service is not a mere ideal with us; it is an actuality—made so because we are forever looking ahead. The same condition holds true of the other essential public services rendered by utility companies.

THE ROUND TABLE MEETING

The League of Women Voters' round table meeting, at Mrs. W. A. Bradley's home Tuesday evening, Oct. 9th was devoted to a consideration of the Massachusetts Civic Leagues' proposed law for the Classification of Prisoners.

Mrs. Wenona Pinkham, secretary of the Civic League, who spoke for the bill, compared the present partial classification of pr.soners by age, sex, degree of offense, and tuberculosis, with the new bills thorough classification on a more particularized basis, the fundamental being examination of the mental condition and capacity of each prisoner by a commission of three scientists appointed by the governor, and commitment thereafter to the institution best suited to the case.

Mr. A. L. Cutting, county commissioner for Middlesex, in his criticism of the measure was a friendly adversary, saying that he and the Massachusetts Civic League agree on many points, and are aiming at the same ideal—to turn the prisoner back to the community a safe citizen if possible. He, however, distrusts new methods with control by the State instead of by the county, and considers present conditions safer both for the prisoner and for the public. He frankly stated that he could speak only from knowledge of conditions in Middlesex County.

The period of open discussion following was largely used in questioning Mr. Cutter; and Mrs. Pinkham was asked to further explain the working of the new bill. It was throughout a pleasant controversy, and developed keen interest in one of the biggest problems of government.

At the preliminary business meeting, members were urged to take advantage of the great opportunity Wellesley College is offering the voters of the commonwealth in its school of local government and politics to be held at Founder's Hall, Oct. 23 and 24. Lectures, addresses, conferences, round tables, will occupy days and evenings; city, county, and state officials gladly co-operating with the Professors Beadly, Curtis, Downan, Mussey, Newell, and Orvis. Wellesley College offers its hospitality thoroughout the days and over night entirely free of any charge except the registration fee of two dollars, with 50 cents additional for luncheon.

The Winchester League has reserved registrations for ten, which reduces the fee to $1.50. These reservations are not yet all taken. If you wish one held for you, tel. Mrs. John P. Dabney, Win. 0643-J or Mrs. F. N. Hanerstrom, Win. 0227-W.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The Court is busily engaged in conducting its series of three whist parties the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the Christmas Charitable work.

The first whist which was held on Oct. 10th was largely attended, the fortunate high scorers being Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Abby Waters and Mr. David Meskell.

The second party in the series was held on Tuesday evening and was also a splendid success, the following obtaining high scores: Mrs. Boylan, Woburn. bu. apples; Harold Kelley, Woburn, R. R. book; Mr. Hannon, pillow cases; Mrs. Murray, house dress; Mrs. Humphrey, 2 lb. candy; Mr. David Meskell, ginger ale glasses; Mrs. Edward Fitzgerald, cut glass vase; Mr. Flanagan, hand-painted market basket.

There were 22 other prize winners with lesser scores. The consolation prize was eagerly competed for by several of the low scorers but was carried off by Mr. John McCarron who had 22 losses. When Mr. McCarron opended up his package, great merriment eusued . It was a most original black Mammy doll made and dressed by Miss Katherine F. O'Connor.

The third and last party of the series wil be held next Wednesday evening in K. of C. Hall. This is expected to be the most succesfsul of all the parties and will be accompanied by a sale. At this party the barrel of flour and ton of coal will be awarded.

Plans are under way for our 13th annual Hallowe'en Party which each year is looked forward to as one of the Court's most attractive entertainments.

Many of the members journeyed over to Malden on Wednesday evening to attend the shower given Miss Beatrice King, one of the younger members, who will be a November bride.

There will be a large delegation of this Court at Arlington tonight to attend the annual whist and dancing party of that Court.

SULLIVAN—O'CONNOR

Miss Anne O'Connor of Wellington became the bride of Mr. Daniel Eugene Sullivan of this town on Tuesday evening, when the couple were married at St. James parochial residence, Wellington, by Rev. Fr. Farrell. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock, the two ring service being used.

The bride's dress was of hand-made white French georgette, with beaded black pan velvet hat. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and orchids. Mrs. William Chisholm of Shreveport, La., was matron of honor. She wore pearl gray satin trimmed with black Canton silk and old rose hat of velvet. Her bouquet was of pink roses. Mr. John J. Sullivan of Medford, brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the bride's home, there being in the receiving line besides the newly married couple and their parents, Mrs. John McCarthy of Cambridge, Mrs. W. E. O'Brien of Charlestown, Mrs. John Lordan of Jamaica Plain and Mrs. John J. Sullivan of Wellington.

Following a wedding trip to New York and other places, the couple will make their home on Stone avenue, being at home after February 1, 1924.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert F. Pease and son Charles of Myrtle street have returned from Cambridge, N. Y., after spending several weeks with Mr. Pease's parents.

CLAM BAKE

Festive Occasion at Benedict Club Grounds Ends Season

With an attendance of members and friends to the number of over 150 the second annual clam bake of the Benedict Club of Park avenue was most successfully held on the club grounds last Friday. The first event, last year was the talk of the town. This year's "bake" proved more attractive.

During the morning hours preparations were made for the big "bake" which was held at one o'clock, the huge fire being lighted over a big pile of boulders as early as 6:30. The tennis tournaments held during the day had over 40 entries, and these matches started early in the day, being continued until dark. The men's doubles ran to ten matches and then held over with a tie between Theodore C. Hurd and Dr. Robert B. Blackler playing against Wallace Blanchard and James A. Riley. Hurd and Blackler won the honors in the finals.

The mixed doubles went to Mrs. Fabian J. Moran and James A. Riley, they winning in the finals over Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Hurd.

The "bake" proved everything which had been claimed for it. Baked in steaming seaweed, lobsters, clams, potatoes and onions were delicious, and supplimenting this the menu contained many other toothsome delicacies. A hurdy gurdy furnished a program of music during the "bake" and later through the afternoon.

Special games were played, headed by a base ball match between the Benedicts and the Visitors. It is whispered that the score of this game, which lasted eight innings and was called on account of darkness after four hour's play, was 69 to 63, and that some of the players were thoroughly "played out."

In the other sports Loring P. Gleason appeared to shine, he winning the egg and spoon race very handily, although well over the spoon age. Possibly this was his qualification. Of particular interest was the three-legged race, which furnished much genuine enjoyment. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Damon took first honors in this event. A leap-frog contest was won by C. S. Hilton, and Mrs. Roger Kennedy easily proved her superiority at wielding the hammer by taking first money in the nail driving contest for ladies. G. W. Stidstone won the clock-golf match from a large field.

The grounds were most attractive with strings of gaily colored flags and streamers of bunting, long tables being provided for the "bake" and many comfortable chairs for the spectators at the games.

Chairman A. S. Snow of the Social Committee deserves much credit for a very successful handling of the arrangements. R. O. Fernandez superintended the "bake" and others assisting were K. S. Hall, in charge of "midway" and C. Harold Smith, in charge of sports.

HELD FOR ASSAULT

William F. App Arrested in Phoebe Dotten Case

William F. App of Medford, out on bail on the charge of assaulting Grace Drew of Melrose in July, 1922, his case having been continued several times, was taken into custody by the Winchester police Sunday night in connection with the recent assault on Miss Phoebe Dotten, daughter of Selectman Walter H. Dotten. The police had been searching for App ever since the assault Oct. 9.

It appears that at the time of the assault Chief McIntosh suspected App as being the man involved. He was identified by Miss Dotten by photos shown her and later she saw him. He was taken into custody in Burlington, being found asleep in his car, but succeeded in escaping, leaving his car behind. Since that time he had been diligently sought by the police of several places. Sunday night he decided to give himself up and appeared at the Winchester police station and surrendered to Sergt. Harrold.

He was taken to the Woburn court on Monday and was held in $15,000 bonds for further appearance this Friday. He was identified by Miss Drew and pleaded not guilty. He was then taken to the East Cambridge jail.

MRS. ALFRED N. DENLEY

Mrs. Martha A. Denley, wife of Mr. Alfred N. Denley of 29 Maxwell road, died suddenly in the Lewiston, Me., railroad station on Monday morning of heart failure. With her husband she was on her way to Jim Pond Camp, Me., to spend a few weeks. They left Winchester late Sunday, spending the night at Portland. On the train from Portland, Mrs. Denley was taken ill and it was decided to stop at Lewiston. As they alighted from the train she was stricken, and all efforts to revive her failed.

Martha A. (Sharon) Denley was a native of this town, her parents being the late John S. and Annie E. (Johnson) Sharon. She was 37 years of age and a graduate of the local schools. She married Mr. Denley in 1911.

Besides her mother and husband, she is survived by two sisters, Miss Alice M. Sharon of this town and Mrs. Wilbur A. Tucker of Manchester-by-the-Sea, and one brother, John F. Sharon of the town engineering department. She was a member of the Unitarian Church, the Ladies' Friendly and The Fortnightly.

The funeral services were held at the residence on Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Joel H. Metcalf of Portland, Me., a former pastor, assisted by Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian Church. There was a beautiful display of floral tributes and a large attendance of many friends. The burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

CROSSMAN—BLANCHARD

Miss Margaret G. Blanchard, daughter of Mrs. Ella G. Blanchard of 7 Lewis road, was married on Saturday evening in Hotel Somerset, to Howard A. Crossman of Highland avenue, Needham. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Perry Bush of the Chelsea Universalist Church.

Mrs. Harold Bent of Framingham was matron of honor and Dr. Edgar A. Crossman, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Samuel Crossman of Melrose, J. Worth Brownville, C. Gordon Brownville and Willis Brownville of Needham; Dr. Chester R. Mills of Boston, Philip H. Walker of Whitinsville; P. J. Crossman of Needham; Irving E. Ross of Needham and A. Beverly Crossman of White Plains, N. Y., all nephews of the groom, and Harold Bent of Framingham.

Nearly 400 guests were present at the wedding reception. After a honeymoon at Mohunk, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Crossman will reside in Needham. The groom is in the grain business, and is a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

RUZICKA—TUTEIN

There was a large attendance at the wedding on Saturday evening last of Miss Phyllis Tutein, daughter of President E. Arthur Tutein of the Winchester National Bank and Mrs. Tutein, and Mr. Charles Ruzicka of Baltimore, Md. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Hale Reed, pastor of the Unitarian church, at the Tutein residence on Wildwood street, and took place at 8 o'clock. Society of this and surrounding places was represented by several hundred guests. The residence was beautifully decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and cut flowers, intermingled with autumn leaves.

The bride was dressed in white Salomy velvet, with rosepoint bertha and court train lined silver cloth. She wore orange blossoms in her hair and carried a bouquet of orchids and lillies of the valley.

Miss Henrietta Wing of Longwood was maid of honor, and Mr. Chester A. Tutein, brother of the bride, was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Marion E. Newman of Wilmington and Miss Georgianna L. Watters of Winchester. The maid of honor was dressed in green moon-glow and lace and carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds. The bridesmaids wore orchid moon-glow and lace, and carried pale yellow sweet peas.

The reception following the ceremony was held until eleven, the couple being assisted in receiving by Mr. Frank Timothy Parr of Baltimore and the parents of the bride. The wedding march was followed by a musical program during the reception was rendered by a stringed quartette.

The ushers for both ceremony and reception were Messrs. Horace Taylor Smith and H. Webster Smith of Baltimore, Md., and Richard Allen Tutein and E. Arthur Tutein, Jr., brothers of the bride.

Miss Tutein, a graduate of the Winchester High School, studied at Abbot Academy and at the House of Pendle, Norton. She is prominent among Winchester's young people and has taken part in numerous dramatic productions as a soloist. Mr. Ruzicka, who is the son of the late Dr. Charles Ruzicka, a famous surgeon of John Hopkins University and a graduate of a Baltimore College, served during the World War as a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy. He is practicing law in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruzicka will make their home in the Carolina Apartments, University Parkway, Baltimore, upon their return from their wedding trip.

WINCHESTER SOPRANO GIVES RECITAL

Elsa Johnson Heard in Fine Program at Town Hall

Miss Elsa Johnson, the talented and brilliant young local soprano gave her first public song recital at Town Hall last evening, Oct. 25, to an appreciative audience who evidently were delighted with her singing and that of her assisting artist, Mr. George Wheeler, a very capable young tenor. Miss Johnson's program comprised many novelties and one of the outstanding features of the recital was the singing of all songs in the vernacular. It is impossible to say in which particular songs Miss Johnson excelled for her tones were always pure and good to listen to—her phrasing musicianly and the interpretations highly artistic and effective. Possessed of varied talents as Miss Johnson evidently is she should go far in her chosen field of art. Miss Johnson is an artist pupil of Theodore Schroeder, the well-known Boston instructor.

Mr. George Wheeler roused his audience to splendid enthusiasm on several occasions and his lovely tenor voice was heard to best advantage in his simpler songs.

It is hoped both these fine young artists may again soon be heard in Winchester. Both artists were ably assisted at the piano by the sympathetic accompaniments of Mr. Chester Cook, the Boston pianist. Judging by the artistry, applause and evident pleasure the artists gave, the concert must be considered as a rousing success.

HEARING ON ZONING
TUESDAY EVENING, OCT. 30

Owing to the storm of last Tuesday, the Hearing announced for that date was postponed to the above date. At this time the Districts to be considered are

1. All the territory west of the railroad and south of Vine street including Woodside road and Pond street, commonly known as the West Side and Hill district.

2. All of the territory east of the railroad and south of Mt. Vernon street but including both sides of Mt. Vernon street.

Every owner of a Home or of Real Estate within these districts should be vitally interested in Zoning, as it protects Residential Districts from invasion by elements which detract both from property values and from personal health and comfort.

ARTHUR W. TURNER

Was Prominent in Business and Social Circles

Mr. Arthur W. Turner of Wildwood street, died at the Winchester Hospital on Sunday evening following an operation on Tuesday. The operation was apparently successful and a rapid recovery was looked for, but on Saturday morning his condition took a sudden turn for the worse and he sank rapidly until his death.

Arthur Winslow Turner was born in Bath, Me., although he had spent the greater part of his life in Somerville. He was 45 years of age and was the son of Hiram A. and Emily (Gray) Turner of Somerville. He moved with his wife to Winchester about two years ago, residing at 5 Wildwood street.

He attended the Somerville schools, and leaving the High School entered the insurance business. He was sole head of the firm of Gray & Turner of Boston. He had been in the insurance business for the past 25 years, and was a resident of Somerville for 25 years. He married Miss Ada E. Young of Somerville, who survives him, together with his parents, two sisters, Mrs. Charles J. Young of Somerville and Mrs. H. Fay Baldwin of Worcester; and three brothers, Mr. William O. Turner of West Newton, Mr. Walter F. Turner and Mr. Hiram Turner of Somerville. A neice, Miss Caroline L. Shawhan, made her home with him here also.

Mr. Turner was prominent socially and numbered a host of friends and acquaintances. He was a member of the First Congregational Church, Men's Club of this town; John Abbott Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Somerville; William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of this town; Aleppo Temple, Mystic Shrine; was a member and past president of the Central Club of Somerville, a member of the Calumet Club, the Belmont Country Club and the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The funeral services, largely attended by friends and business associates, were held at the residence on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the First Congregational Church. There was a beautiful display of floral offerings and the mourners included delegates from various social organizations. The selections, "Abide With Me" and "The Lord's Day Ends" were rendered by a male quartette. The burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

MARRIED SATURDAY EVENING AT MALDEN

Miss Isabel, Walker daughter of Mrs. C. Isabel Walker and the late Edward Mayo Clarence O. Walker, of 42 Dexter street, Malden, became the bride of Henry Bird Harris of this town at a quiet ceremony at the home of the bride, Saturday evening at eight o'clock. Rev. J. F. Dobbs, D. D. of the First Congregational church, Malden, officiated and the single ring service was used. The bride was given away by her eldest brother, Edgar C. Walker of Malden.

The bride was gowned in white satin with pearl and silver trimmings and a white tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Ruth Whitten, of Malden and Miss Emily Titus of Utica, N. Y. Miss Whitten was attired in pale yellow with gold lace and Miss Titus wore orchid with silver lace. They carried baskets of mixed flowers.

Harry F. Bigelow of Winchester was the best man and the ushers were Arthur Harris, brother of the groom; Kenneth Caldwell of Winchester and Nathaniel K. Walker, brother of the bride. The couple were the recipients of many valuable presents.

Following the ceremony a reception was tendered the couple and the bride's mother, Mrs. C. Isabel Walker, and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harris of Winchester and the bride's brother, Clarence Stevens Walker, assisted in receiving the guests. Mrs. Walker was attired in blue moire silk and Mrs. Harris was gowned in black velvet with lace trimmings. The house was attractively decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums and palms.

Miss Walker is a graduate of the West school and attended Malden High and is a graduate of Miss Capen's private school at North Hampton, Mass. She is a member of the Kappa Phi sorority of Malden High and also a member of the First Congregational church.

Mr. Harris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Harris, 4 Hillside avenue. He is a graduate of Winchester High school and has also attended the University of Pennsylvania. He is also a member of the Winchester Legion and served overseas as a first lieutenant with the 76th division. He holds a responsible position with the Boston Safe Deposit Co.

Following a wedding tour by auto the couple will be at home at 18 Hillside avenue, Winchester.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A very enjoyable evening was spent at Mr. and Mrs. Hugie Doherty's of 35 Campbridge street Monday, Oct. 20, when 20 of their friends surprised them at their home, and helped them celebrate their seventh anniversary. They were presentd with a beautiful mahogany library table, also several bouquets of flowers.

After the ice cream and cake was served music and dancing was enjoyed by all.

The third of the series of popular whist parties being given by Winchester Lodge of Elks is to be held next Thursday, Nov. 1, at Waterfield Hall at 8:15 o'clock.

EATON—MACDONALD

A society wedding of much interest to a host of friends was that which took place on Saturday afternoon at the Church of the Epiphany, when Miss Agnes Sterling MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene MacDonald of Bacon street and Mr. Charles Newell Eaton of Wedgemere avenue were married. The cermony at 4 o'clock, was performed by Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., rector of the church.

The bride wore a gown fashioned of crepe satin with trimmings of rare old lace and the usual court train, veil and orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of lillies of the valley and orchids. She was attended by a small niece, Miss Gene MacDonald, in a quaint costume of apricot voile and carrying a basket of Ward roses and larkspur. Her nephew, Master Sterling MacDonald, escorted his sister.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Roderic N. MacDonald (formerly Miss Eleanor Stearns Young of Brookline, whose wedding in historic Duxbury took place in June) wore a gown of golden lace over beige, with trimmings of fur. The hat was of brown velvet and her bouquet was of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums tied with golden gauze.

The ushers, chosen by Mr. Eaton, who is a Harvard man of the class of 1908, were mainly Harvard men. The best man, a classmate, was Mr. Samuel Eliot Henry of Toledo, Ohio. The ushers were Mr. Henry Beston of Topsfield, Mass., (Harvard '09), Mr. Andrew Kidder Henry of Brookline, Mass., (Harvard '14)., Mr. Roderic N. MacDonald of Cambridge, Mr. Harold Vinal Hovey, Mr. Alexander S. MacDonald (Harvard '10), and Mr. Shepard Pond (Harvard '10), all of Winchester.

The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams Eaton of this town. He served in the World War, going to France with a hospital unit before America entered, and later serving with our armies. He was the first Commander of Winchester Post, American Legion, and is a well-known member of the Calumet and Country Clubs.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, the house being most attractive with decorations of autumn leaves, chrysanthemums and asparagus vines. Mr. and Mrs. William D. Eaton assisted in receiving, Mrs. Eaton wearing a gown of black lace with black hat to match. She wore a corsage bouquet of sweet peas and orchids. Mrs. MacDonald was in grey blue beaded georgette and her flowers were orchids.

A motor trip, with White Sulpher Springs as the objective had been planned. They will reside in Winchester.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD

Winchester is fortunate in having a well organized branch of the Needlework Guild, one of 11 in the State of Massachusetts. It has been quietly at work for over 15 years and last year distributed 582 new garments or articles of household use. The following local or nearby welfare societies were benefited by these gifts:

Mother's Rest, Revere
Tubercular Society, Reading
Home for Aged People
Home Service Committee
Ladies' Aid, Methodist Church
Ladies' Friendly, Unitarian Church
Mission Band, Congregational Church
New Hope Society
Overseers of the Poor
School Nurse
Second Congregational Church
Visiting Nurse
Welfare Committee, Episcopal Church
Winchester Hospital
Winton Club
Bendcboard Society, Baptist Church
President—Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde

There is one meeting a year at which the directors and interested contributors and friends assemble for a short business meeting and then proceed to arrange the gifts which the directors have brought in baskets and bundles, to count them and list them for the secretary's report and directors carefully decide upon their distribution, which is promptly carried out within the week. This annual meeting will occur on Wednesday, Nov. 5, beginning at 10 a. m., at the Parish House of the Church of the Epiphany. "Hear ye, hear ye," all directors and members. Remember, a chain is only as strong as its weakest link and that any man, woman or child in our town may join in the work of this Guild.

The officers of our town branch are:
Vice President—Mrs. Louis Parta
Secretary—Mrs. Anthony Kelley

The above transactions were made thru the local office of Edward T. Harrington.

FUNERAL OF TIMOTHY SULLIVAN

Funeral services for Timothy Sullivan of 65 Nelson street, aged 71, stone mason contractor and resident for 55 years, were held Saturday morning at St. Mary's Church.

Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons was the celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem, Rev. Fr. Edward J. Maguire of St. Angela's Church, Mattapan, deacon, and Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Quigley of St. Mary's Church, subdeacon. Rev. Fr. Charles Donahue of Brighton sat in the sanctuary. Sister Mary Regina and Sister Sylvester of St. Dominic convent at St. Patrick's Church, Watertown, cousin of Mr. Sullivan's wife, Mrs. Mary A. Sullivan, also were present.

J. Roy McGrath, soprano, sang "De Profundis." The Gregorian music was sung by the regular choir.

Bearers were James H. Brine of this town, Frank L. Harkins of West Somerville, John D. Garvey of North Andover and Elmer Stowers of Malden, sons-in-laws; P. J. Sullivan of Charlestown, a cousin and David Sullivan of this town. Prayers at the grave in Calvary Cemetery, Montvale, were offered by Rev. Fr. Edward Maguire and Rev. Fr. Charles Donahue.

MEN'S CLUB DINNER

The annual business meeting and dinner of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church promises to be a delightful affair. It will be held on Friday, Nov. 2, in the church vestry, dinner being served at 6:30 by Group IV of the Women's Guild. Chorister George Willey and an orchestra led by J. Parker Clarke will direct the chorus singing which is always a prominent feature at these gatherings. The after dinner entertainment will be furnished by Mr. John Thomas, the well-known humorist, who is working up a special program suited to the occasion. The evening as a whole is in charge of the council of the club, no special committees having been designated, and a large attendance of members and guests is anticipated.

SERVICES FOR DR. RALPH PUTNAM

Funeral services for Dr. Ralph Putnam, who died last week Wednesday after a short illness, were held on Friday afternoon at the residence, 409 Main street. There was a large attendance of professional and social friends, including many members of town departments. The simple service was conducted by Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., rector of the Church of the Epiphany, assisted by the pastor emeritus, Rev. John W. Suter. The display of floral offerings was very large and beautiful. The pall bearers included Messrs. William D. Sullivan, Fred L. Patten, Raymond Merrill, Dr. George N. P. Mead, Dr. Daniel C. Dennett and Dr. J. Harner Blaisdell. The interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

RED CROSS

The efficient and prompt help which the American Red Cross sent to Japan proves first what the Red Cross stands for. Winchester responded generously to the call.

Mr. James Jackson, chairman of the Japanese Relief Fund Campaign, says in a letter, that the organization of the Red Cross still remains a tremendous medium for good in meeting emergencies as there are both at home and abroad. This disaster has, if nothing-else, proved to us the value of remaining intact and active as an organization. The membership in the Red Cross is the measure of its strength—its very existence is dependent upon it.

Let us hope we may double the membership in Winchester this year.

JOHN F. MALLEY TO SPEAK

Winchester Lodge of Elks will entertain former Internal Revenue Collector John F. Malley at its first smoker to be held next Tuesday evening. Mr. Malley will be the speaker of the evening and a most interesting talk is anticipated. His subject, "Elkdom," will be one which every member of the order will wish to hear. He is an interesting speaker and will give the lodge a lot of first hand information.

A musical program will be given by a list of talented artists during the evening, and refreshments will be served.

INTER-COLLEGIATE TEA

The third annual inter-collegiate tea will be held at 3:30 on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 13th at the home of Mrs. John Abbott on Arlington street. President Ada Louise Comstock of Radcliffe will be the speaker. All Winchester college women, whether graduates or not, are cordially invited to attend.

THE FORTNIGHTLY

The 43rd season of the Fortnightly opened auspiciously Monday afternoon with a good attendance and an exceptionally entertaining program.

Following the regular business meeting, Mrs. L. M. Crowell and Mrs. James Heaton delegates to the State Federation meeting in Swampscott in June gave interesting reports of that meeting.

The Club was highly appreciative of the musical numbers rendered by Mr. Charles Ellis, tenor soloist of West Newton who, ably accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Ellis, sang a number of beautiful selections. Mr. Ellis' program was a varied one ranging from the group "With You" and "Dawn" by Curran through the Scottish air, "Lassie O' Mine" and the negro melody "Romeo in Georgia" to the minor tones and blending melodies of "The Assyrian Love Song" by Strauss.

Falling not a whit behind these musical numbers in merit Mrs. Doris Goodspeed, reader, held the closest attention of her audience by her impersonations, first, of the old time Jew, trying vainly to cope with his modern daughter and the American idea—then of the Chinese as pictured in a sketch from East is West—then of the Irish, which might well be Miss Goodspeed's native tongue so much at home did she seem in it, and lastly by the small boy preparing to [illegible] music lesson, a familiar home [illegible] to many members.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sargeant new members assisted the social committee in serving the refreshments, while club talent, including Mrs. A. H. Abbott, pianist, Miss Gertrude Fesler violinist and Miss McPherson cellist, entertained with music.

The class in personality with Miss Evangeline Weed as instructor begins on Friday morning, November 2, at ten in the committee room.

The first ladies' night at the Calumet Club occurs Friday evening, Nov. 2d, when a Hallowe'en dance will be held. This affair will be informal and a special feature will be made of the music, an exceptionally fine orchestra having been secured.

CALUMET BOWLING BEGINS

Twenty Teams Started in Monday Night on Four Month's Schedule

The first six teams started in at Calumet Club last Monday night on the four month's schedule of the winter. Twenty teams will compete for the fine list of four team and eight individual prizes.

The bowling this year opens with the greatest enthusiasm ever displayed at the local club. Seldom has a list been made up of more active teams and very rarely has it been exceeded in number. Old and seasoned bowlers will compete, and in order that the newer men may have a fair show, secreting of all contestants takes place after the 6th and 12th matches.

The usual three strings will constitute a match, four points being counted, one for each string and one for the total. The rule of no postponed matches will prevail, and the foul line will be strictly enforced. The rule of not allowing a late bowler to take part in a string if he arrives after the first two boxes have been rolled it to be enforced, and no waiver of this rule may be requested.

The composition of teams and list of prizes are as follows:

Prizes For Tournament

1st Team having largest number of points.
2nd Team having second largest number of points.
3rd Team having third largest number of points.
4th Team having fourth largest number of points.
5th Highest individual average without handicap in scheduled tournament.
9th Highest single string without handicap.
10th Highest single string with handicap.
11th Highest three strings without handicap.
12th Highest three strings with handicap.
Class A rated as to scratch, inclusive.
Class B rated as to 85, inclusive.
Class C rated under 85.

The bowling this year is to be in charge of Messrs. James P. Heaton, Chairman of the bowling committee; William Adriance, Marshall K. Berry, Henry W. Hildreth and Harry L. Pilkington. Mr. Heaton has already shown his ability to conduct one of the big tournaments, his work of last season giving him much credit.

WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Through the kindness of the management of the Winchester Star, desk room was furnished and Miss Ruth E. Mathews has been employed as recording secretary. The officers believe in paying as they go.

There are many kind hearted people in the town, and as a result a roll top desk and typewriter were loaned for the present.

The owner of Lyceum Building has very kindly given the use of a room in which to hold the directors' meetings and when needed will loan a mimeograph.

The officers are well pleased with the list of new members. We hope for the good of the cause that we shall hear from many more of the voters, male and female, as the Chamber stands as an educational institution in civic matters relating to our town.

A meeting of the association will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 6, in White's Hall. The topic to be discussed will be the proposed increase of car fares within a radius of 15 miles of Boston.

A cordial invitation to attend is extended to the public.

The fire alarm from box 38 last Friday evening was for the dumpman's shanty on Black Ball pond. The structure was well burned out. How the fire originated is not known.

WINCHESTER LOST TO MELROSE

Melrose High Football team administered a decisive defeat to Winchester High Saturday afternoon at Messenger Meadow, Melrose, in a Mystic Valley League game. The local eleven lost the match 27-0, and were badly outclassed.

Shaw and Flint were the stars for the winners, each getting two touchdowns. Flint made a 30 yard run for a touchdown after blocking a punt. Melly played his first game of the season at center for Winchester and did fine work. Melrose started in scoring in the opening period and Shaw was the point getter. Flint made a touchdown in the second, while in the third session both Flint and Shaw made touchdowns.

The field was muddy, which prevented the best football playing. Melrose outweighed the Winchester team and used many trick formations and open football.

THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH SOCIAL

The Woman's League of the First Baptist Church held a social in the chapel for the mothers and daughters on the evening of Oct. 19.

Eighty were present at supper, which was served at 6:30. Words of welcome were extended by Mrs. Richard Taylor, president of the League, followed by a few bright remarks by the pastor, Rev. Clifton H. Walcott.

Mrs. Dolan, the retiring chairman of the Missionary Department, was presented with a beautiful bouquet to which was attached a small package containing a gift of love.

Rev. and Mrs. Dolan and family are about to remove to Melrose, greatly to the regret of the church. Mrs. Dolan has been an active worker in the Sunday School and all the activities of the church and the place left vacant by her removal will be hard to fill.

Another feature of the evening was an address by Miss Mildred Bruce, a student of Gordon College, and one of the assistants at Tremont Temple. "Working Together for the Lord," was the theme of Miss Bruce's message and made a deep impression upon those present.

The evening will long be remembered as a very delightful occasion.

GIRL SCOUT DRIVE

Everywhere throughout Massachusetts, at this time, subscriptions are being asked for the support of the Girl Scout organization, and in most cases the individual who is being asked for money calls up a mental picture of noisy, obstreperously healthy girls, with bobbed hair or pig tails hanging down their backs, all dressed in khaki, whom he or she once saw going off somewhere loaded down with blankets. Even if the individual is well informed, or has a scout daughter, the movement is apt to be thought of as something which is an imitation of the Boy Scouts, or has something to do with merit badges, whatever they are.

The truth is that in a field which is all its own the Girl Scout movement is doing something of tremendous importance to the United States and to Massachusetts, of which the khaki and the hair and the healthy noise are but an unimportant, amusing, surface aspect. The Girl Scout movement is the Future Citizens' Training Camp of and for those who some day, it is expected, are going to have a good deal to say about the running of this country.

Girl Scouting is something which may go on for years before its benefits are exhausted for any particular girl, it is something which is going to go on with increasing usefulness throughout the nation, if the older citizens will appreciate it, support it, and so stretch out a helping hand to the citizens that are coming.

C. D. OF A. WHIST

The third and last party in the series which Santa Maria Court, 159, C. D. of A., has been conducting in aid of its charitable fund was largely attended Wednesday night in K. of C. Hall. Many beautiful prizes were offered and the rivalry for the capital prize was keen. Mrs. Annie Humphrey of Woburn took first prize last night and also took the prize for the series, a barrel of King Arthur flour. Mr. John McCarron, Mr. Charles Boudreau and Mr. Eddie Martin were also high scorers for last night and Mr. John Murray and Mr. David Meskell were high runners-up in the series.

The ton of coal on chances was won by Mrs. Frances T. Conlon, the hand-made scarf was won by Mrs. Florence Rankerson and the bag of potatoes by Mrs. Katharine Kean of Linden street.

Miss Elsie Solis, daughter of Mr and Mrs. A. J. Solis of Church street, has been selected as a member of the cast for the "Comedy of Errors," to be given by the Sophomore class at Wheaton College this fall.

Why They Serve

OUR EMPLOYEES who devote their time and energies to serving the public with gas service will generally be found to be animated by something that transcends the mere matter of advancement or reward.

It is oftentimes called "the spirit of service"—the spirit that encourages these men and women to uphold the tradition that the gas business is a 24-hour, 365-day business, and that its fires never go out, winter or summer, good times or bad times, day or night.

To keep alive that tradition has meant the performance of tasks in the face of unusual discomforts and discouragements, even "above and beyond the call of duty."

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Some men fail and quit. Some succeed and quit, the wise refuse to quit whether they fail or succeed.

They say happiness is made up of two parts circumstances, and 98 parts mental attitude.

No man or woman is without a reason to be thankful, if we lack gratitude, the fault lies at least partly with ourselves.

ZONING

The Massachusetts Legislature of 1920 passed an act (Chapter 601, Acts 1920) which permits cities and towns, by ordinance, to regulate the use of buildings by the creation of separate building districts, that is, districts for residence, districts for industry, and districts for business. The purpose of the act is to prohibit the invasion of a residential district by buildings to be used for business or industry. The ever-present threat by owners of vacant land to locate a retail store, a garage, or a building for a similar objectionable use in a residential district will, under the operation of the act be removed. The act was passed as an exercise of the police power of the State, that is, the right which exists in the community to protect all its citizens against the acts of one or a few. The owner of a vacant lot may have a grievance because he has lost a sale, but the community says "if this sale is for an undesirable use, the community loss is a much more serious damage than the financial loss of the individual." Consequently no damages for individual losses of this kind can be paid by the community and no action at law or in equity lies by the individual against the city or town.

Zoning or districting has been recognized in Massachusetts for some time. The restriction on the height of buildings in Boston, which has been in force for more than 10 years, is such a recognition. In 1919 a Constitutional Amendment was adopted by the people of Massachusetts which recognized the principle that cities should be able to zone according to the use of buildings as well as according to the height or bulk of buildings. Chapter 601, above referred to, was passed in furtherance of this Constitutional Amendment.

Zoning laws are now in force in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Minnesota and California and several cities have tested their practicability. The testimony from all of these cities is one way, to the effect that such regulations have safe-guarded the health and life of the citizens and stabilized property values. In Massachusetts 12 or more cities and towns have led the way by adopting a zoning ordinance and many others are drafting such ordinances.

WINCHESTER'S ASSISTANCE APPRECIATED

The Town of Winchester, through Chief David H. DeCourcey of the Fire Department has received the following letter of appreciation from the City of Woburn:

City of Woburn, City Council

Resolved: That the City Council of the City of Woburn feeling that the exceptional assistance rendered by the Winchester Fire Department on the occasion of two recent serious night fires in the business district, namely: the Gorin block and Mechanics building, contributed greatly to the prevention of general conflagrations on both instances, the thanks of this body and of the people of Woburn is hereby extended to the Chief and the members of the Winchester Fire Department for their invaluable aid and for their unselfish and brotherly feeling displayed.

In City Council, Special Meeting, Oct. 8, 1923—Resolve Adopted

Presented to the Mayor, Oct. 17, 1923, Mayor's office, Oct. 18, 1923. Approved: Stephen S. Bean, Mayor.

The Winchester Council, Boy Scouts of America, hope that they will soon be able to give the people of Winchester the pleasure of listening to Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, the much famed captain of Commander Peary's boat, the Roosevelt. Capt. Bartlett was the only white man with Peary when they reached the 88th parallel. In 1913-14 he was the chief navigating officer of Stefansson's Canadian-Arctic Expedition. In 1917 it was Capt. Bartlett who, after two previous relief parties had failed, went into the north and brought back Donald B. MacMillan and his party. During the war and for some time afterwards, Capt. Bartlett was a Marine Superintendent in the Army Transport Service. At the present time he is engaged in making plans for another Artic expedition which it is hoped will solve a number of problems of climate and weather in the part of the world north of the equator.

PRIZE STORY

First Honors Won in School Contest

After a careful deliberation which occupied several hours yesterday, the committee selected to judge the winners of the prize story contest between pupils of the Wadleigh School, arrived at a decision last evening. There were 18 stories submitted in the contest. The subject was "Hallowe'en."

We print herewith the prize winner. The other stories will follow in subsequent issues of the Star.

The Hollow'en Spirit

"Hallow'en"! dark figures can be seen gliding between shrubs and houses. Yet a stranger could not tell which boys were out for good, clean, wholesome fun and those who intended to do as much damage as possible. As we all know Hallow'en is a night of merry-making. "But is it necessary to destroy property and endanger life to have a good time?" "I think not." There is a great deal of difference between good, harmless fun and what some boys call fun, but which is really nothing more than rowdyism. Ringing doorbells and "rat tatting" on windows is harmless but smashing windows, scattering garbage and smashing bottles and electric lights is not.

Some boys take it into their heads that ringing in fire alarms is a good joke, but when you stop to consider that the fire department's expenses are paid by your fathers in the form of taxes when you ring in the alarm you are really adding to this expense which will have to be paid by the town. Stop and consider this. Would a good citizen purposely try to add to the town's expenses? and you all are future citizens. Some boys have tried the scheme of stretching a rope across the road between two trees and watching autos run into it. Maybe some of those same boys will have a car someday. If so, how will they like to run into a stretched rope and perhaps break their headlights?

When boys shatter street lights they hardly realize that electric lamps cost money and do not grow on bushes, and as with false alarms the lights have to be paid for by the town. The boys who do all these things are really copying the "Reds" in Russia, though on a smaller scale. When boys do all these things they are violating the flag pledge and the Declaration of Independence which grants liberty to all. But how can people have liberty when their property is destroyed? The boys who are in the habit of doing these things should think deeply about this on Hallowe'en, and think whether they can't possibly have some fun without destroying property needlessly. They should follow the Boy Scout law, "A Scout is thrifty, he does not destroy property needlessly." And remember even though he is never caught, his conscience is apt to trouble him for some time. Think of all these things and see if you can't have a good, lively time without acting in an un-American-like manner.

INTER-CHURCH PROGRAM OPENS SUNDAY EVENING

The first "last Sunday evening of the month" union service of the fall will be held in the First Baptist Church under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The speaker will be Dr. Walter S. Athearn of Boston University, who is considered the ablest and most interesting speaker on questions pertaining to religious education in the country. His address will not be academic but brimful life and practical suggestion. Winchester must soon answer the question, "What shall we do about week day religious instruction." Every wide awake citizen of the town who wishes to hear this question and other pertinent questions discussed in a wide-awake fashion cannot afford to miss this meeting.

The seven Protestant Churches of Winchester are invited to co-operate in these union meetings. Next month comes the union Thanksgiving service, and in December the Council plans a young peoples night to be addressed by the great Christian statesman, Brewer Eddy. Get behind the Inter-Church Program and help cultivate a wholesome spirit of co-operation among our Winchester Churches.

The supper and smoker at the Calumet Club this Saturday evening, opening at 6:30, promises to be a big event in the fall entertainment. The steak and onion supper provides a menu which has appealed strongly to the members, and the entertainment which will follow is reported to have a pre-war flavor savoring strongly of the style introduced by a former chairman of the entertainment committee, Mr. Charles C. Rogers. It is said that several good wrestlers will appear.

A bad automobile accident occurred on Highland avenue in the hollow south of the Hospital during the rain on Tuesday afternoon. An Autocar truck owned by the Clearing House Farm Dairy skidded on the road, went through the fence and turned up on its top about nine feet down the bank. Cornelius F. Noonan of Somerville, driver of the truck, stuck to the wheel and went down the bank with it, being rescued by his helper, Frank Spille of Dorchester, who jumped when the auto skidded. Neither Noonan nor Spille were injured, and the truck was, strange to say, not badly damaged. It attracted much attention, standing on its top below the broken fence.

NAVY DAY

Once a year on Navy Day, the 27th of October, your country asks you to focus your attention on your Navy, your first line of defense, an institution of vital concern to you as an American, a business man and a taxpayer.

It is a privilege, after seven years afloat, to be within range of the "Star's" columns this year and submit a few facts to my home town. I have not always been in the Navy. For seven years I was a business man and know full well the limited time that business allots to the contemplation of things naval. An effort will be made, therefore, to be concise and illuminate only the most important facts.

The United States must maintain a Navy. Preparedness is the ounce of prevention and is the most effectual means of preserving peace. It gives backbone to our diplomacy and puts us in a position to propose with honor the limitation of armaments. Unpreparedness invites attack. It tempted a ruthless Germany to sink our ships wantonly and embroil us in a European war. We have over 100,000 miles of navigable American coast lines to protect in peace and prosecute in war. We have American trade to protect in every corner of the world.

Our Navy must be adequate. Germany's surface fleet was 80 per cent as strong as England's yet this slight difference of potential kept the German craft impotent. The 5—5—3 ratio now limits the number of contestants in the grim game of war. We must therefore train our restricted force well and give it the best equipment possible.

Ans a Navy cannot be created in a night. We can no longer fall back on privateers to issue from our Mystic River and creeks and give battle with pitchworks as in the days of our "Marine Lexington" at Machiasport. The populace no longer gathers on headlands to witness the progress of a John Paul Jones in combat. The period 1850 to 1865 inaugurated steam propulsion, armor, rifled guns, torpedoes and turrets and naval warfare became a science. Today a naval officer is in the making for over eight years and a sailor not entirely seagoing after two.

We need a merchant marine. If war threatened our "5" Navy would immediately become the skeleton for an augmented Navy. We would be in immediate need of men with sea legs and sea stomachs, men schooled to the life off shore. With a big merchant marine such men would be available. Moreover, if these United States were attacked, our greatest defence might lie in an offensive campaign and without a merchant marine to replenish our fleet such a campaign could not be protracted, for offensive warfare requires fighting ships, merchant ships and bases.

And aside from national defense, there must still lurk in every New Englander the inherited desire to see our flag in every port; for our heritage is the most maritime in America and our blood still a trifle salt.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, OCT. 22

The Board met at 7:30 p. m.; all present.

The records of the meeting of Oct. 15, were read and approved.

Main Street (Car Tracks): The Board voted to authorize the Superintendent of Streets to have the Highway Department pave in between the car tracks of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company in the center of the town. The Street Railway Company at the present time is laying new tracks at this location.

Sidewalks 1924, Granolithic (Common Street): The clerk was instructed to put on the docket when sidewalk budget matters for next year are being considered, the matter of laying a granolithic sidewalk on Common street from the square to the railroad station, and also the matter of laying a granolithic sidewalk on Main street in front of the store occupied by the Hersey Hardware Company.

Pole Locations (Pond Street): Mr. Edward Fleming of 44 Pond street, appeared before the Board to see what could be done about getting the Telephone Company to install a telephone in his house. A request has been received from the Telephone Company for certain pole locations in this locality, and the matter has been pending awaiting a report from the Street Light Committee. This matter was therefore put over until a report is made by this committee.

Street Lights (Pierrepont Road): The Board voted to request the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston to install one 60 candle power incandescent light on Pierrepont road, the exact location of the light to be given the Edison Company by the Town Engineer.

Snow and Ice: After some discussion regarding the need of truck equipment for snow work, the matter laid over one week.

Sidewalks (Gravel) Corner Highland and Lawson Road: A letter was received from the Superintendent of Streets enclosing a letter from Mr. Alfred H. Hildreth, who writes the Superintendent of Streets asking him if a gravel sidewalk cannot be laid in front of the house he is building at the corner of Highland avenue and Lawson road. As the season is late and the Superintendent of Streets suggests that possibly a granolithic sidewalk be laid here another year the matter was ordered placed on the docket when budget matters for next year are being considered.

Ridge Street: A letter was received from the Superintendent of Streets regarding the condition of Ridge street and referring to the Highway program this year which provides for work in Ridge street to the extent of $2000. The Superintendent of Streets states it is doubtful whether work can be done on this street this year. He suggests, however, that the County Commissioners be asked to contribute towards the expense of any construction work done on this street as it is a county street. This matter was referred to Mr. Bryne to take up informally with the County Commissioners with a view to seeing whether the County Commissioners will contribute anything towards the cost if the street is reconstructed.

Dangerous Corners (Corner Bruce Road and Edgehill Road): A letter was received from Mr. Albert B. Bent, 9 Edgehill road suggesting that a white line be placed on the pavement at the corner of Bruce and Edgehill roads, so as to act as a corrective influence over the present practice of automobile trucks in cutting this corner which he states particularly dangerous.

The meeting adjourned at 9:25 p. m.

A Service for All Savers

You don't have to be planning for a home to be a shareholder in this bank. Fact is, we need several savers to furnish the funds for each borrower.

We make this statement because some people have the idea that we are seeking to sell shares to prospective home owners exclusively. We are glad to put any man's savings to work.

Also, we are fortunate in being able to secure him higher than ordinary dividends.

OLD FASHIONED NOVELTIES

The Los Angeles Times of July 1 published the following editorial which carries a message well worth broadcasting. It is a pleasure to recognize the efforts of so many secular papers to call the church and the people back to the foundation truths.

The newest things we have today are rooted in the oldest. The youth of the present has climbed to eminence on the strong shoulders of the past. The giant oak that laughs at storms today must not forget its debt to yesterday. Our new day must remember that it has inherited old wealth. The highest peak that catches the first glint of today's sunrise must think thankfully of yesterday's hands of power which lifted it to its present place. We are having the new day because we had the old day.

Is the new thing a true thing? The wise man will put that question every day to his tractor, to his telephone, to his phonograph, to his radio, to his flying machine, to his child's teacher, to his doctor, to his tailor, to his preacher, to himself. The truth that is in the thing is the soul of it. That is the kernel of the nut. Everything else is shell. Is the new thing a true thing?

There was when every man in Athens specialized on the question, "Is there anything new?" The "Eye of Greece" was frantically alert for something new. The old values were going into the discard. But when the sense of the old values died, Athens died. Greece died. The pomp and pride of their "new day" broke like a bubble. History repeats failures as well as successes, tragedies as well as triumphs. Cannot we of these new days get the lesson from those men of the old days?

It is a singular and startling truth that Athens drifted from the true when her curiosity for the new was at its climax. Her hysterical eagerness for the new things made her forget the old things. The Greeks forgot, as others before them had forgotten, and as others since them have forgotten, that new things may flirt in false forms. They forget that, whatever the form, whether new or old, it is only truth that has abiding value.

There is always something old about worth-while novelties. Salt is as old as the ages. But what would our great meat-packing houses do without this old thing in this new day. Every element of light we have in this new day is as old as the universe. We boast about our modern heating system. The furnace, or the gas fixtures, or the stove may be new, but fire is as old as the hills. All our trains, street cars, factories and automobiles would suddenly come to a dead stop if you took away from them one of the oldest things in the world, the wheel.

How many wonderful worlds are compassed by the five senses. But these senses are old-fashioned. Even Darwinism would consent that the first finished man must have seen with his eyes, heard with his ears, tasted with his tongue, smelt with his nose and touched with his hands and feet. And the latest findings of science leave us in this new day at these same five points of sensuous contact.

With respect to these five senses the smartest new man stands in the footprints of the dullest old man of the world's long, long yesterdays. How would the new man and the new woman of this new day get along or carry on without these old-fashioned five senses.

Our mental world is also full of old-fashioned novelties. Marconi's logical processes are identical with those of Aristotle and Socrates. Some of our data may differ from some of theirs. But we move by the same mental processes from premise to conclusion. The logical links follow each other in the same order. The latest schoolboy thinks that two times two are four exactly in the same old-fashioned mathematical way that Euclid and Kepler thought it. Our new day has some new mathematicians, but it has the same old mathematics. The old day had Isaac Newton's number. And the graduate of this latest season has the same old Newtonian number. It is all very old-fashioned, but it is a fact. And the fact is the thing we are after.

Try out this theme of old-fashioned novelties in the wonder world of man-soul. How much is there here that is new under the sun. There are three great things that give the City of Man-soul its eminence. These great things are the everlasting experiences of Faith, Hope, Love. These are the only keys to life's temples of lasting satisfactions. These are the three great fresh-water lakes of life. All others are stagnant and scum-covered ponds breeding miasma and death.

What would the modern world with all of its boasted brilliancy do without these Everlastings of faith, hope and love. Ask the unanswering dust of Babylon, Nineveh and the world's extinct republics. Ask modern militaristic Germany, humiliated, embittered and baffled.

It is the same everlasting old truth that who breaks with faith, hope, love, breaks his own soul, be it a man or a nation. This is the triple foundation on which the house of humanity rests. It cannot stand on the sands of the merely new. It must rest on the rock of the eternally true. It is so in domesticity, in industry, in the neighborhoods, in homes, in nationalism, in internationalism that things will go to pieces without faith, hope and love.

Neither wealth nor wisdom nor power can hold human hearts or human homes together. The centuries are strewn with the wreckage of mere wisdom and wealth and power. All the golden harvests that have ever waved in the sun have grown from the sowings of faith and hope and love. He is a fool who sneers at these fadeless stars. Could his foolish sneer efface them it would leave the universe in the eternally unlit shadows.

Wherever a community, a home, or a nation has made much of these salients of the soul, Faith, Hope and Love—there peace has had her victories and life its coronation. It is easy to see that every worthy human activity and relationship must have perpetual contact with these perenial experiences of faith, hope and love. They are as indispensable to human welfare and happiness now in these new days as they were in the old days of Abraham and Sarah, Boaz, Ruth and Naomi. They are everlasting old-fashioned experiences, but they are as fresh and new as morning dew and as the new-fallen rain on the meadows of May.

Yes, fellow-traveler, the sun in the sky, the glint of the North Star, the Love boat and the moonlight on the river, the hollyhock at the door and the pink baby lips at the sweet breast of love—they are all very old-fashioned, but without them all in this new day our brightest summer skies would darken and the world's music would hush on the lips of death. God be praised for the eternally old-fashioned novelties of the dawn and the noon and the twilight, and love. Now abideth Faith, Hope, Love; but greatest of these is Love.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BANQUET

First Unitarian Church Tonight

One of the biggest events on the docket of young people's activities this year is the Young People's Banquet at the Unitarian Church, under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council, this evening. If all the promises are fulfilled it will be a long remembered occasion.

In the first place there will be such a banquet as only Winchester mothers know how to serve, prepared by a committee of mothers from the various Protestant Churches in town under the leadership of Mrs. Fred Hollins, Chairman.

In the next place, two of the best young people's speakers in the country have been secured. One is a layman, the other a minister. The layman is a former star athelete, Robinson, of the University of California. Some of our boys have heard him. They will want to hear him again. His subject will be: "Playing the Game." The other speaker is Rev. Addy Day Leavitt, D.D., rector of the Harvard Church in Brookline, who has something worth saying to young people and knows how to say it. His subject will be: "The Badge of Honor."

There will be an orchestra to lead the Grand March into the dining room and to give a gala air to the popular songs. Miss Margaret Blair will preside at the piano and Mr. Newton C. Setter will be song-leader. Dr. Childs, president of the Inter-Church Council, will be toastmaster. At the speakers' table will be the members of the Council and their wives.

The Committee in charge believe they have a program that will keep the enthusiasm at high pitch and that will send every young person away glad he was there. It is expected that Metcalf Hall will be full.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold A. Gale and family have closed their home on Myopia Hill and taken up their residence in Boston for the winter.

THE WELLESLEY SCHOOL OF POLITICS

The Wellesley School of Politics conducted, Oct. 23 and 24 by the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, with the invaluable cooperation of Wellesley College, was highly successful—wet skys and a water campus in no way dampening the interest of the throng of women citizens and college students who attended the sessions. Over 200 persons enrolled for the course.

Instructive and critical addresses and round tables by professors of Wellesley and by men and women of high political position in Massachusetts occupied the day sessions and Tuesday evening. At the closing session Wednesday evening, a large audience in the college chapel, had the great pleasure of hearing Hon. Frank S. Allen, president of the Massachusetts Senate; the Hon. Mr. James Page of the Minnesota House of Representatives—a resourceful woman of pleasing humor and exceptional charm, and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, who is a flame of enthusiasm from head to finger tips.

Members of the Winchester League who attended the school were Mrs. Bernard, Mrs. Hagerstrom, Mrs. Fitts and Mrs. Louis Snyder with her guest, Mrs. Edward Mahl of Hartford, Conn.

There was an attendance of nearly 500 at the Sunday evening meeting at the First Congregational Church to hear Representative Frederick W. Dallinger. The evening was held under the auspices of the Men's Club. Rep. Dallinger spoke upon current topics and problems before the nation. He was accorded a reception at the close of his remarks.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

The other day a building crew working on an extension came to the gas main serving the medical building of one of the big universities in this country. The foreman of the crew asked the medical staff for permission to remove the gas main for a day or two so they could proceed with the huge digging machine. The reply he received from the doctors was something like this:

"If you deprive us of gas for one single hour you will upset some important researches and experiments upon which we have been working for years. We cannot get along without gas any more than we can without air."

The result was that several hundred feet of gas pipe had to be laid on the surface of the ground for temporary use. To appreciate the importance of gas service, just imagine for a moment what your life would be without this wonderful convenience.

How Wrong Telephone Calls May Be Avoided

About 200 times every day telephone subscribers in Winchester start a call and abandon it before it is completed; that is, they hang up the receiver before getting an answer from the person called, or a "Don't Answer" report from the operator.

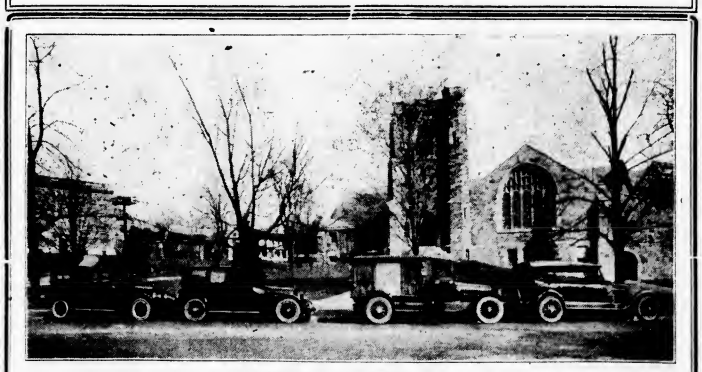

The result is that thousands of subscribers, answering the telephone bell, are needlessly inconvenienced by finding no one on the line.

In most cases these abandoned calls mean that the person calling has decided the call is unnecessary, or realized that a wrong number has been given.

Care in connection with this matter will reduce the number of such futile calls and assist in maintaining good telephone service.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Crowley and daughter, Miss Maude Crowley of Symmes road, returned this week from an extended European trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Morey of Oxford street returned from their farm at Poland, Me., and opened their Winchester residence, this week.

The will of William Streeter Richardson of 24 Pinckney street, Boston, who died Oct. 6, was filed this week. Among other bequests, it provides for a legacy of $500 for the Home For Aged People of this town.

Two Wadleigh School boys, Earl Anderson of Dunster lane and Francis Hooper of Foxcroft road, came together on their bicycles in the centre Monday noon. When they had picked themselves up, Hooper's bicycle was found to have a smashed front wheel. The centre has been a dangerous place during the week, the whole southern crossing over the railroad being closed and all traffic being forced into the small space between the tracks and the "white posts" on the north side. The clean-up of the centre crossing, continued through this week, makes our centre a stirring place. During the rain Tuesday evening, one autoist drove his car into the excavation at the point where the electric cars cross. For a time things looked serious, but he finally succeeded in running the car out under its own power. It was probably well racked and strained. The passage of every train furnished much excitement, and yesterday morning a build-up of seven minutes collected a half-hundred cars about the place. The whole crossing was shut off yesterday forenoon with the exception of a narrow passage at the southern end. There was much protest, and at noon a small opening was made in the north end. One physician drove his car through over the planks and sleepers. As a crossing the place has been a joke—except for trains and electrics.

Owing practically to the short notice, the attendance at the occasion of the annual inspection of our reservoirs was smaller this year than last. About 15 automobiles left Manchesterfield Saturday afternoon at 3, taking the hour and a half trip through the Fells. The roads were in excellent condition, due to the previous rain, and the beautiful fall foliage and cloudless afternoon made the trip one not soon forgotten. The party, led by Mr. Charles E. Kendall of the Water department, drove around all three reservoirs, noted the abundance of water and saw the excellent progress made in reforestation. Officer "Ned" Shea and Asst. Supt. Harry Dotten arranged for the guidance of the autos and policed the route.

OPEN HOUSE

Hallowe'en Celebrators Had Run of Town Wednesday Night

Hallowe'en celebrators had the run of the town Wednesday night. In fact it was a regular open house. From 6 to 12 no less than 18 alarms of fire were answered by the department, the fire whistle sounding box after box with hardly a breathing space between some of the rounds.

This was the outstanding feature of the celebration. There were several automobile accidents and the usual amount of shifting piazza chairs, gates and other lose articles. Jack-o-lanterns were much in evidence, together with bean blowers and tick-tacks. The celebrators, except through the early evening hours, were said to be composed largely of youths of High School age and over, the two grammar school pupils taking care of the youth of intermediate age.

The list of fires was as follows:

6:21, Box 451. Call to Woburn when two boxes were rung in there which Winchester answers.

6:40, Box 53. Curtains on fire in home of Mr. Carl Woods, 93 Bacon street. Caused by candle; little damage.

11:30, Box 64. False.

11:33, Box 35. False.

11:45, Box 37. False.

These 18 alarms of fire constitute the largest number of calls on the local department ever recorded in its history over the span of three times the period. The largest number of alarms to come in on any previous occasion is said to have been 9.

No damage was occasioned by the alarms, fortunately, and the only inconvenience of note experienced was at the Winchester Hospital, where some of the patients were greatly alarmed at the continual blowing and required considerable attention from the nurses in quieting them. These sick people were greatly disturbed.

Some milk bottles were smashed, but most of them had been taken in by householders. Electric lights, not being so protected, suffered somewhat. Reports came in of the theft of motor-meters from standing automobiles, and cartridges were placed on the electric car rail and trolley ropes cut.

There were numerous parties about town, including those for the boys and girls of the Wadleigh and Prince schools. These children are not suspected of having a hand in the excitement.

THE FORTNIGHTLY

A change has been made in the meeting place of the literature group which will now be the home of Mrs. Alfred J. Wallace, 9 Calumet road, on Monday, Nov. 5, at 3 o'clock. The life and works of Mrs. Margaret Deland will be reviewed and a part of Josephine Preston Peabody Mark's play, "Marlowe" will be read by the committee. All members are cordially welcome. Those who remember the enjoyable literature afternoons of last year should look forward to this one with an equal amount of pleasure.

The class in personality has been indefinitely postponed.

Those desiring to join the Parliamentary Law Class starting Tuesday, Nov. 6, at 10 a. m. in the Fortnightly room and meeting every two weeks for 10 lessons, will please telephone Mrs. Joseph Fessenden, 0484-W, or Mrs. Willard Bradley 0702-W before Nov. 2. The legislative committee has hopes of a very large class.

MISS MARY V. MELAUGH

Miss Mary Veronica Melaugh, aged 32 years, died suddenly at her home, 24 Mystic avenue, last Saturday morning. She was an employee of the Winchester Laundries, where she had worked for the past 12 years. She attended to her duties Friday, being taken ill during the night.

Miss Melaugh was a native of Winchester and was the daughter of John J. and Mary (Mulligan) Melaugh. Besides her parents she leaves six sisters and two brothers.

High mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons at St. Mary's Church on Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The pall bearers were Messrs. Thomas and William Farrow, Thomas Doherty, Samuel Rich, Edward Fitzgerald and Philip Kelly. The burial was in Calvary cemetery, Montvale.

PARLOR TALK BY MISS JANET RICHARDS

As many friends and admirers of Miss Janet Richards wish to hear her in a more intimate way than is possible in a large hall, a Parlor Talk has been arranged for the evening of Thursday, Nov. 15th, at 8 o'clock at the residence of Miss Mary Richards, 4 Black Horse Terrace. Her subject will be "Stirring Events of the Day at Home and Abroad."

HALLOWE'EN COSTUME PARTY

The decorations were attractive, the ground floor and living room being used. There was a great variety of costumes, some very attractive, and and many original and unique. A prize was awarded Mr. H. G. Grace of Medford in his costume being that of an Indian, and perfect in every detail.

The fortune-teller, who had her abode in a spooky corner, proved very popular, as was also the ducking for apples.

Refreshments were on sale, home-made candies were auctioned off by the pound by Mr. Fred Coggin, in a very lively and humorous manner.

The following young ladies, members of the Alumnae, contributed to the success of the dance; Miss Mildred Nelson, Mrs. Fred Coggin, Miss Louise Dempsey, Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Marion Francher, Miss Jessie Davis and Miss Thelma Smith.

The Alumnae is made up of the Winchester Hospital Training School graduates, whose aim is at present to establish a room in the Hospital for the benefit of the Alumnae members. This can only hope to be realized thru the co-operation of the townspeople and friends of the Alumnae. Dances, sales and whist parties will be held at times during the winter, these to be announced later. It would seem that certainly this organization is worthy of attention and should interest everyone in Winchester.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY CHAPTER MEETINGS

The first regular meeting of the Committee of Safety Chapter, D. A. R., of Winchester, Mrs. Charles S. Beaudry, Regent, was held at the home of Mrs. William Furlong, Waverly on Saturday, Oct. 27th. The special business of the afternoon was to vote a sum of money towards the Chapter's quota for the new dormitory of the American International College that is to be built by the Massachusetts' daughters.

The social program of the afternoon was in the hands of the hostesses, Mrs. William Furlong and Mrs. Percy F. Catuna who gave a most pleasant afternoon to the Chapter and guests in the form of a whist party, the proceeds of which were turned over to the dormitory fund. Delicious refreshments were served.

The next Chapter meeting will be held at the home of the Chapter Treasurer, Mrs. Charles E. Corey, 226 Mystic Valley Parkway on Thursday, Nov. 15th at 2 p. m. The speaker will be Mrs. Gertrude E. W. Young, Registrar of Old South Chapter who needs no introduction to D. A. R. members. Her subject will be "Why I Am a D. A. R."

Residents of Winchester who are eligible to membership also those who are members of other Chapters and members-at-large are most cordially invited to be present.

CAPT. BARTLETT HERE NOV. 16th

The Winchester Council, Boy Scouts of America, hope that they will soon be able to give the people of Winchester the pleasure of listening to Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, the much famed captain of Commander Peary's boat, the Roosevelt.

Capt. Bartlett will speak in the Town Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 16th.

Capt. Bartlett was the only white man with Peary when they reached the 88th parallel. In 1913-14 he was the chief navigating officer of Stefansson's Canadian-Arctic Expedition. In 1917 it was Capt. Bartlett who, after two previous relief parties had failed, went into the north and brought back Donald B. MacMillan and his party. During the war and for some time afterwards, Capt. Bartlett was a Marine Superintendent in the Army Transport Service. At the present time he is engaged in making plans for another Arctic expedition which it is hoped will solve a number of problems of climate and weather in the part of the world north of the equator.

PAVLOWA BALLET ORCHESTRA BROADCAST

A most remarkable entertainment will be furnished by Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores, Boston, on Saturday night, Nov. 3, at 8:15 p. m.

The broadcast will be from the Boston Opera House by the orchestra of the Anna Pavlowa Company. This orchestra is under the direction of Theodore Stier.

A synopsis of the ballet the characters and incidents of the ballet will be given before the overture and between the acts.

Radio fans should not miss this beautiful music and the interesting feature of the ballet.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Edna Barbara Cassidy, daughter of officer W. E. Cassidy and Mrs. Cassidy, entertained a party of seven playmates, it being the occasion of her birthday. She was a surprised young lady when she received many beautiful gifts and the many wishes on her second year. Those present were:

Margaret Doherty	Dorothy Cassidy
Francis Doherty	Mrs. John Peterson
John Doherty	Mrs. Neil Doherty
Carl Peterson	Mrs. Sarah McCaffrey
Anne Peterson	Mrs. W. J. Cassidy
Thomas Cassidy

STAR TO GIVE FOOTBALL GAME

The Harvard-Tufts football game will be given play by play by radio at the Star office tomorrow. A new type loud speaker has been ordered and is expected to be received in time for use which will make the returns available for listeners on the Common.

FATAL FIRE

Philip J. Blank Died From Burns

Mr. Philip J. Blank of 280 Highland avenue died at the Winchester Hospital early Monday morning of burns received at his home on the night before. The fire, which was in Mr. Blank's room, was discovered by members of the household who telephoned the alarm to the central fire station. Box 66 was rung in at about 9:38.

When the firemen arrived at the house they were informed that the fire was upstairs. Asst. Chief Gorman and fireman Kimball went up and found the door to Mr. Blank's room closed. Upon opening it they found the room filled with stifling smoke. Gorman groped his way into the room and found Mr. Blank laying across the bed, which was on fire. With Kimball's aid he was carried down stairs, while other firemen extinguished the fire and threw the burning matress and clothing out the window.

Mr. Blank was badly burned on his left side and was unconscious. His condition was such that Chief Gorman immediately called the ambulance and Dr. Simon. He was taken to the hospital and never recovered consciousness. It is presumed that he was smoking and set fire to his clothing, inhaling the flame and smoke.

Mr. Blank was widely known in this town, having passed the larger part of his life here. He was 68 years of age and the holder of considerable real estate on Highland avenue, residence was one of the show places of the town. Although he was born in Dedham, he had resided here about 52 years. For many years he was associated with his brothers, John S. and Benjamin F. Blank, in the manufacture of leather, with factories here and in Stoneham. This firm, known as Blank Bros., was in existence for about 30 years. Twelve years ago Mr. Blank retired. He leaves his wife and two brothers.

He was a member of William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., the Woburn Lodge of Odd Fellows and the M. S. P. C. A.

Funeral services were held at the residence on Wednesday afternoon under the direction of William Parkman Lodge, Rev. Clifton H. Walcott officiating. The burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

LADIES' FRIENDLY MEETING

The meeting of the Ladies' Friendly Society held on Oct. 23 was largely attended despite the stormy weather. The luncheon, which was the first one of the season was in charge of Mrs. W. E. Miller and Miss M. W. Studley. After luncheon the members heard very interesting talks on different branches of the Alliance work. Mrs. Charles E. St. John told of the International work, Miss Mary C. Sawyer of the work of the Fellowship Committee, and Dean H. E. Johnson about the Tuckerman School.

Miss Barbara Goddard gave a very interesting report of the Conference of Young People at Star Island, to which she was sent as a delegate last summer, by the Ladies' Friendly Society.

Miss Betty Bird sang several songs. Miss Dolly Bird was at the piano.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

About 50 attended, all in costume. Each one wore something different and it was a most pleasing sight. Prizes were offered for the prettiest, the most original and funniest costumes.

A most pleasurable evening was spent in playing appropriate games. A fortune teller was busy foretelling the future. Refreshments were served which concluded a very enjoyable party.

The committee in charge of the affair were as follows:

Entertainment
Marion Twombley, Chairman
Ruth Whitley Helen Lasson
Olive Robinson Alma Lemp

Decoration and Refreshments
Hazel Bowles, Chairman
Ruth Farnham Althea Fogg
Helen Webber. Beatrice Frost

AUTO THIEVES CAPTURED

After an exciting chase Tuesday night in a commandered auto, officer William Cassidy captured a Winchester and a Woburn boy, aged 16 and 17 years, charged with stealing an automobile owned by John Sweetser of Woburn earlier in the evening. The report of the thieft had been sent to the Winchester station, and when officer Cassidy saw the car on the Parkway, he immediately gave chase, persuing it from Bacon street to Manchester road. The car was taken from the rear of the Dow block in Woburn. In court Wednesday the boy's cases were continued until Saturday.

WINCHESTER MOTHERS' CLUB ENTERTAINS

On Tuesday evening the members of the Winchester Mothers' Club entertained at White's Hall about 50 guests at a supper dance given in honor of their first anniversary.

The hall was attractively trimmed with Hallowe'en decorations. Twelve small tables were arranged around the hall and were prettily decorated with candlesticks, Hallowe'en trimmings and favors.

The early part of the evening was spent in receiving and dancing. At 10 o'clock the members escorted their guests to their respective tables where a delicious collation was served in the soft glow of the candle-light from the tables. A most enjoyable evening was spent by all and the guests departed at a late hour.

The Mothers' Club was organized about a year ago by Mrs. Simon Barksdale for social recreation for the 12 mothers who are the members. The meetings are held twice a month at the homes of the different members, the first meeting of the year being devoted to business and at the second meeting a musical or literary program is given by one of the members. The meetings of the coming winter are looked forward to with much interest by the members. A millinery class is being organized and it is also planned to have two or three prominent colored club women speak at different meetings.

THIEVES TOOK $1000 LOOT

When Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Connell of 15 Mystic avenue returned from an evening spent with friends in West Medford Tuesday night, they found their home ransacked and about $1000 worth of jewelry and clothing stolen. The missing articles included one $400 diamond ring, several other diamond rings, three watches, two beaded bags full of money, silver, clothing and other valuables.

A side door of the residence was jimmied and plenty of burnt matches were strewn about the floors. Several rooms were ransacked. About 8:30 during the evening neighbors noticed lights moving about in the house and notified the police. The thieves had departed when the officers arrived. A man was noticed during the day acting in a suspicious manner in the vicinity, and during the evening an auto on the Parkway was noticed. It is supposed that the thieves made their escape in this auto.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Wednesday afternoon a Ford truck driven by Gregor O. Ritchie of Stoneham, coming out of Westley street onto Washington street, was in collision with a Ford runabout owned by Fred F. Croto of Kendall street, and driven by Gleason Ryerson of Main street. The truck was overturned and Hugh Bailey of Stoneham who was riding with Ritchie was thrown out and badly hurt. He was taken to the hospital.

At 6:15 p. m. a Ford sedan driven by Arthur W. Smith of the Parkway and a Nash touring car driven by Clem H. Taylor of Lowell crashed at the Parkway and Main street. Both cars were damaged but no one hurt.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The "Stumble-in-Boys" of Cross street gave a Hallowe'en party Wednesday evening which was attended by five couples, including the Misses Margaret Agnes and Christiana Haggerty, Margaret and Jeanette Munroe, together with the Messrs. Harry Chefalo, John McCormack, Walter and Edward Crowley, and Roderick Munroe.

Various games were enjoyed, including "ducking for apples." Mandolin selections were rendered by the Misses Haggerty and Miss Munroe. Mr. McCormack rendered a few vocal solos, including the "Cat's Meow." Eddie Crowley presided at the piano. Refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed.

LOCAL BOY STARS ON TUFTS TEAM

"Van" French, of Highland avenue, former captain and star of Winchester High School football teams and now a stellar member of the Tufts backfield has been attracting much attention by his exceptional playing with that team.

In the five straight victories that Tufts has won this season, French has been the outstanding star of the game.

In each game he has broken away for at least one long run, in some instances to score the winning points of the contest. His brilliant work against Middlebury last Saturday has aroused much favorable comment among critics and a great deal is expected of him tomorrow when Tufts meets Harvard in the Stadium.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

There was a splendid attendance at the annual Hallowe'en masque on Wednesday evening and a general good time was enjoyed by all. The following ladies contributed in good measure to the success of the entertainment which was in charge of Mrs. Helen Studley and the following committe:

Mrs. E. McDonald	Mrs. M. Noonan
Mrs. M. O'Connor	Mrs. F. Conlon
Miss Mabel Coty	Miss Bessie Noonan
Miss Mary Martin	Miss Anna Martin
Mrs. Helen Studley	Mrs. J. O'Brien
Mrs. Alice Martin	Miss Sadie Cassidy
Miss Ethel Kean	Miss G. Gilmott

The hostesses were Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, Mrs. Nora O'Melia, Mrs. Anne Poland and Mrs. Mary Smith. Cider, coffee and doughnuts were served.

The 15 members of the Court who attended the recital in Symphony Hall last Friday evening were surely amply repaid and experienced a great pleasure, the memories of which will remain with them for many years to come. For Fr. Lawrence Bracken, the soloist, who sang under the patronage of the Massachusetts State Court, C. D. of A., gave a splendid rendition of the many beautiful selections which he chose for his concert. Especially delightful were his exquisite Irish melodies, with "Mussels and Cockels" the favorite, to which he was forced to respond with many encores. Fr. Bracken is Chaplain of the N. Y. Police Department and, in recognition of this, the Boston Police Department subscribed for 500 seats for his Boston Concert.

Next Saturday evening the Massachusetts State Court, C. D. of A., will conduct its annual banquet at the K. of C. Headquarters, Boston, with Miss Mary Duffy of New York, the newly elected National Regent of the order as guest of honor. The following members will represent the local Court on that occasion: Grand Regent Alice Martin and Past Grand Regents Anne Poland, Elizabeth C. McDonald and Frances T. Conlon.

WINCHESTER RESIDENT DECORATED

Dr. William Orr of this town, former Deputy Commissioner of Education of Massachusetts, has been decorated by the Polish government with the Order of Polonia Restituta, in recognition of his services as a Y. M. C. A. secreary in giving aid to the Polish Ministry of Education. His home is in this town.

The new republic of Poland has created a public school system out of the fragments it inherited from the former provinces of Germany, Austria and Russia. The former schools differed in language. Those of Russian Poland were few and in very poor condition. As an unofficial advisor, Dr. Orr has been able to render valuable assistance to the Ministry of Education.

Dr. Orr has been engaged for the last four years in extending the Y. M. C. A. educational activities in Europe as a member of the general European staff of the International Committee of the North American Associations. Much of his time has been spent in Warsaw and other Polish cities where local associations have been created and where a large work of service and instruction for refugees from Russia was conducted. He was the moving spirit in founding a training school at Osada for Polish young men who desired to enter the Y. M. C. A. of that country as secretaries.

In addition Dr. Orr [illegible] the establishment of the technical and other schools for Russian and other refugees in the last four years in many European centers. Nearly two millions of Russian refugees alone wer scattered over Europe as the result of war and revolution in Russia.

Dr. Orr entered the Y. M. C. A. service in 1916 and during the World War was director of the educational bureau of its War Work Council. He was also chairman of the committee on education of the Commission Training Camp Activities of the War Department. He is a graduate of Amherst, class of '83. He was principal of the Springfield, Mass., High School from 1900-10, and later curator of the Museum of Natural History there, and a trustee of the Y. M. C. A. College at Springfield. He has written numerous educational, geological and other scientific articles for magazines and newspapers. He is a native of Philadelphia. Mrs. Orr, who was Miss Charlotte Pettis of Westfield, Mass., has spent much time in Europe with her husband.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON CIRCLE

The monthly sewing meeting comes on Thursday, Nov. 8, at 10 in the morning. It is hoped that a great many members will help in this part of the work as the committee have planned for the making of many garments during the year. Luncheon will be served after which there will be talks by Mrs. Arthur G. Wellman, social worker of the Newton Court and the Florence Crittenton Circle, and the Rev. George A. Lawson, chaplain of the Florence Crittenton Home.

The Mystic Motor Co. reported to the police Friday that about $40 worth of parts had been stolen from a Vim truck stored by the firm in a barn on Middlesex street.

VISITING EXPERTS APPRECIATE OUR WATER SUPPLY

The following letter, received by our water department, is self-explanatory. It holds much weight as coming from the Massachusetts Forestry Association, the foremost organization of its kind in the country.

Oct. 30, 1923

Winchester Water Board,
Town Hall,
Winchester, Mass.

Gentlemen:

I want to express the hearty thanks of the executive committee of this association for your kind invitation to visit the plantations made by your board on the Winchester water shed. Through the courtesy of your Mr. Charles E. Kendall and Mr. Preston Pond we had a most delightful visit to the water shed last Friday.

I want to take this opportunity to congratulate your board and the citizens of Winchester on the splendid work that has been done in the protection of your water supply. I doubt very much if there is to be found in the Commonwealth a water shed which has greater protection, or one on which the plantations have been more successful. In fact, I am sure there is no place within the Metropolitan district with so large an area for water supply purposes that is entirely free from dwellings. You are especially fortunate in having your water shed located within the Middlesex Reservation because you not only have the benefit of the protection on the land on the 408 acres of land that you own, but sanitary control of 400 acres of the Fells.

Your water supply is unique also, due to the fact that it is not dependant on streams but fed by underground springs, which gives you a great advantage over many of the other towns which must pump their water from driven wells. The policy that your board has followed in changing the forest from deciduous to coniferous is undoubtedly a wise procedure, and you can well be proud of the work already done in the planting of the 120,000 young trees.

Again please accept our hearty thanks for this opportunity to learn more about the good work you are doing.

Very truly yours,
Harris A. Reynolds,
Secretary

FRANCISCANS BUY SPURR ESTATE IN ARLINGTON

Howard W. Spurr has sold his large estate at 308 Mystic street, Arlington, to the Franciscan Order of New York. This estate consists of a mansion house, barn, cottage and other outbuildings, and about five acres of land, with a frontage on Mystic street of 835 feet.

It is a sightly estate set up on high ground well back from the street, about one quarter of a mile from Arlington and overlooks Mystic Lakes.

Miss Beatrice King was tendered a shower by her fellow-workers, of the local Telephone exchange, on Monday evening at her home, 38 Salem street. There were 50 present. The house was attractively decorated to carry out the spirit of Hallowe'en. Miss King will become the bride of Mr. Joseph Crowe of Malden, on Monday, Nov. 5th.

THE HALLOWE'EN STORY

Second Prize Awarded in School Contest

In last week's issue of the Star there was printed the story winning the first prize for the best essay on Hallowe'en. Below is printed the story which received second honors. 18 stories were submitted by scholars of the Wadleigh School, and the judges had much difficulty in making their selection.

The Proper Hallowe'en Spirit

The proper Hallowe'en spirit is one of fun. Very often, however, it is one of mischief. The best way to celebrate Hallowe'en is to have or attend a party. If you must go out do only tricks such as ringing doorbells. Most boys do not realize what a nuisance it is to have to clean up messes made by spilling garbage, breaking milk bottles, and writing on windows with a candle. I used to think such tricks were fun but last Hallowe'en I was cured of all such mistaken ideas. A gang of my friends and I had been out all evening overturning slop-cans and having what we termed a "good time" generally. Finally someone suggested we go home. Others demurred. Finally we agreed to go to one more house. On the back porch of this house we found two full slop-cans which we emptied on the back porch. We then saw two or three milk bottles which we placed before the door. We rang the bell and ran. I wished to see the owners rage when he found what we had done, so, instead of running to a safe distance, I dropped down into the long grass in the next field. The man rushed out and his anger was all that I had expected. After a minute he started to look for us. He saw me lying there but advanced in a different direction until he was quite near me. Then he ran for me. I tried to escape but his legs were much longer than mine and he fairly ate up the short distance between us. Soon I was caught and ignominiously dragged back to the house by my ear. I was given a severe lecture and had to tell my name and address. Then I was given a broom and shovel and made to clean up the mess. While I was cleaning it up the man next door, who knew my father, came down and asked who had been caught. My captor told him and he said, "Charles Bryan! I never would have thought him that bad!" I felt like braining that man with the shovel, but did not make the attempt. After a space of what seemed to me some ages he let me go. At the time I was very angry but on thinking it over I decided he was right. Then, for the first time, I saw that such nasty tricks were not good-hearted, harmless jokes. If you think this over you will arrive at the same conclusion but, to see it in the clearest way possible, you will have to clean up a mess made by one of these tricks, as I had to do.

The following three stories were worthy of note:

The Right Way to Celebrate Hallowe'en

We are now going into the sitting room where children are enjoying themselves. They are playing one of my favorite games which is pin the tail on the donkey.

We are now going to the dining room where refreshments are being served. At each place at the table is a favor, my favor happens to be a paper pumpkin filled with candy. The room is decorated in orange and black paper on which is designated cats, witches and pumpkins and those sort of things.

We will now return to the sitting room where there will be a few moments of dancing, after that we will duck for apples. We are now returning home after a night of enjoyment which will always be remembered.

Lois Day, Grade 6

A Hallowe'en Feeling

Many people who own property regard Hallowe'en as a nuisance. Ringing door-bells, setting fires and breaking fences are some of the causes for this feeling. Hallowe'en for many years has been a night for merry-making, but that is no cause for injuring or destroying other peoples property. Besides, in the spirit of fun the lives of others as well as your own are often endangered. I myself like to have fun celebrating Hallowe'en but I try to keep in mind this motto: I will protect the property of others as I would my own.

Marjorie Symmes, Grade 7

The Right and Wrong Way to Celebrate Halowe'en

Should Hallowe'en be a night of dread and distruction, or should it be a night of fun and of good times?

The boys and girls of today do not take Hallowe'en in the right way. Destroying property and maybe injuring someone's life is not fun, nor does it show good sportsmanship. No one would like to have other people destroy their property, so why do it to others? Why not have a good time bobbing apples, popping popcorn, and roasting chestnuts? It is lots more fun to be ghosts and witches than it is to be a troublesome boy or girl! Lets all try to make this Hallowe'en the best and most spooky one of all.

Dorothy Ash, Grade 8

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wiggin have returned to their residence in this town from a visit to Mrs. Wiggin's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cotten, at the beautiful estate "Clyburn," near Baltimore, inherited by Mrs. Cotten from her first husband, the late Mr. Jesse Tyson. The visit was somewhat in the nature of a reunion of the Cotten family, one of the finest old lines of the South. Mrs. Wiggin as Sally Cotten was herself famous from her own Carolina home of Cottendale Plantation to Boston before her marriage as a great beauty and belle.

THE WORLD GROWS BETTER BECAUSE YOU HELP

In a window at the square stands framed a bit of optimism: "The people make the world; and the world grows better." Somehow it seems not complacement, but wistful—as of a man groping to find justification for himself, something to encourage him to keep on doing what he can to help the world along. If your faith needs fortifying there is much to sustain it in a consideration of the advance of the Red Cross Association.

We may take pride in the fact that American humanitarianism and American initiative played an influential part in the creation of the original organization at Geneva, in Aug., 1864. When the military representatives of the 11 convening nations were opposing, as impossible, Dr. Dunant's proposition—that belligerants recognize as neutrals volunteer doctors and nurses for the battlefield—the two men sent by our government as observers ("to give and to receive helpful suggestions") were able to certify that this very thing had been done successfully in the United States throughout our Civil War. Their testimony swung the convention and the Red Cross then had its birth.

Our own association was formed, and adhesion to the Treaty of Geneva ratified in 1882. There followed years of relief activity with far-reaching results. The value of Red Cross service was increasingly demonstrated, and in 1905, the organization received its present charter at Washington, and became the relief agency of the Government of the United States with duties not a matter of choice, but of obligation, and its field of service so wide as to be practically immeasurable. Think what it was to us, and to the Allies, during the great war; to Europe in the years immediately following; think of its widespread and thorough child relief work recently completed in Central Europe.

Its activities all come under three purposes set forth in its charter. The first relates to wartime services on the field of battle; the second to work as a medium between the people and their army and navy; the third to national and international relief to mitigate sufferings caused by pestilence famines and all great calamities, "and to devise and carry on measures for preventing same.

Thus we see the logic of its life-saving service, to instruct in water-safety methods; its first aid to the injured instruction; its nutrition service; its public health work, and home hygiene.

Five million children are enrolled in the Junior Red Cross, helping lay foundations of mutual understanding between themselves and children of other lands.

An enrollment of 40,000 graduate nurses maintained for the Army, the Navy, Public Health Service, Veterans' Bureau, and for its own services, leads the world in numbers and in effectiveness or organization, and exerts an incalculable influence for high standards in other nations.

The primary duty of our Red Cross is, and will continue to be, the aid it renders to our disabled ex-service men and their families. For this purpose it expended, in the year ending June 30, 1923, $5,866,255. In the same period it expended $297,468 for relief in 110 disasters.

It is the recognized agency to which all communities turn for help in time of disaster, and it is continually prepared to meet emergencies with a direct efficiency that has no parallel elsewhere. It is worth everything to suffering humanity to have a relief agency organized and functioning. We still feel a thrill of pride and thankfulness for the speed and effectiveness of our Red Cross relief to Japan. It was a wonderful performance, and to remember that our desire to succor the stricken Japanese was by the Red Cross transformed into actual relief so nearly on the instant, is also to have faith that people are indeed making this world better, and that we can help. If you have been a member of the Red Cross Association, be sure to continue your membership this year. If you have never joined before—the privilege awaits you now.

WINCHESTER OUTPLAYS ARLINGTON IN 7—7 TIE

Winchester High was held, last Saturday, to a 7 to 7 tie by Arlington High at Arlington. Arlington had all the breaks of the game and even with the score, as it has been officially recorded, there is much room for criticism of the outcome.

In the first period Winchester, by Fitzgerald's powerful line bucking, reached Arlington's 30 yard line. McCarthy playing his first game in the backfield scooted the end for that 30 yards and Winchester's only touchdown. Fitzgerald kicked the goal.

The game during the next two periods was nip and tuck. Winchester received numerous penalizations and as a consequence Arlington managed to get within striking distance and Lane scored their only touchdown. Lane also kicked the goal.

Winchester received and after an exchange of punts reached Arlington's 25 yard line. Here they were held and as time was lacking to exchange punts Tansey elected a drop-kick. Fitzgerald made an excellent kick over the bar but while the ball was in the air the whistle was blown. The referee declared that the three points would not count and the game ended 7 to 7.

HIGH SCHOOL TO HAVE OPEN HOUSE NIGHT

Plans are underway to hold another evening session of the High School for visitation by parents. A regular session will be held, similar to that of last winter, the school being open from 2:30 to 8 p. m. This will afford the fathers working in Boston opportunity to visit. The usual program will be carried out, as was done last year, with the regular school lunch served to the visitors.

The date set for the "Open House Night" is Nov. 23d. It is planned at this time as coming in "Educational Week". The High School Parent-Teacher Association will have charge of the visitation as last year.

RECEPTION TO NEW MEMBERS

A unique social will be held at the Second Congregational Church on Wednesday evening, Nov. 7. This is to be a reception from the church to the new members who have joined the church during the year 1923. The evening is in charge of the Bethany Society and a cordial invitation is extended to all. A fine entertainment is being planned and refreshments are to be served.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Capital is the harness of natural resources.

The job is always interesting to the man who does his work well.

If you're not having a lot of fun out of life, you're missing something, and you might as well know it.

There is a story of a man who laid a foundation of Honesty, erected walls with Fair Dealings mixed with Courtesy and Hospitality, and decorated his structure with Cheerfulness, this his friends called a product of Success.

Our fire alarm appears in good working order—as demonstrated on Wednesday night. It is lucky that we are motor equipped; it would have been a shame to have run horses about the way the gasoline motors were called. Fortunately there was no damage—likewise no arrests. Probably next year it will be advisable to cut off the fire whistle.

No doubt some of Winchester's citizens who have viewed with considerable grumbling the mess in our centre for the past three weeks, wish they had given more assistance years ago in the efforts to eliminate the grade crossing. Through the efforts of Chairman George M. Bryne of the Selectmen, we learn that a permanent construction is to be put in at the crossing in the spring. Although this means another mess in the square, the news is the most encouraging the Star has heard in connection with the nuisance in many years.

There is no question but what Mt. Vernon street is a difficult and dangerous place to drive an automobile when the Baptist Church is in session. Two cars have hardly enough room to pass, and at night, with the dazzling headlights, it is particularly bad. Why not utilize the open space at the rear of the Wadleigh School opposite the church for parking? It would make an ideal one-way parking space, with entrance from Myrtle street and exit on Mt. Vernon street.

The only fire of importance at Woburn on Hallowe'en was the pump room at the Atlantic Gelatine Factory. This is one of the places spoken of in connection with the pollution of our river during recent years, and without its pump it is reported that the waste will be difficult to care for. However, the installation of the new pump there will undoubtedly remove this plant as a possible source of pollution. It will be interesting to watch the river during the interim, although it is so filthy already that any further change may be difficult of detection.

WESTERN MISSIONARY SALE

The annual Thanksgiving sale of the Western Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church occurred Thursday and was a satisfying success. The several tables were decorated with appropriate decorations and well filled with pretty holiday gifts. The goods sold readily. After an inspection of the tables a short play was given in an amusing manner to a large audience. Those taking part were well known by the audience and always are received with pleasure. The name of the play was "Elizabeth's Young Man." The opening feature of the entertainment was a quartette of "Nobuddenosoo," from Spookville, who were discovered on the street on Hallowe'en eve playing on mysterious instruments, and invited to play for this occasion. This music by the costumed artists was very musical (?) and well received. Those taking part in the play were Mrs. Orr, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Lanning, Mrs. Alice Huber, Miss Bertha Kelly, Dr. Martin, Pearl Dearborn. The music was in charge of Mrs. Lefavour, who was also master of ceremonies.

The following tables were represented:

Food Table Mrs. Lelacour, Mrs. Blood, Miss Elliott, Miss Janette Mason, Mrs. Charles Adams.
Children's Table Mrs. Charles Lawson, Mrs. Bazee, Mrs. Knight.
Candy Table Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. James Corey, Mrs. Connell, Mrs. Nelson Davis.
Flower Table Mrs. James Henry, Mrs. Bridge, Mrs. Herbert Butler.
Book Table Miss Emma Freeman.
Tea Tables Miss Swett and Miss Fetts.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

The Building Commissioner has granted permits for the week ending Nov. 1, as follows:

John C. Nelson, 101 Sheridan circle, garage at same address, 10x18 feet.

Mrs. N. Ainsworth, 129 Forest street, alterations to dwelling, same address.

Charles H. Rodd, Waverley, alterations to dwelling at corner of Pine and Curtis streets.

Walter A. Wentworth, Cambridge, summer house at J. A. Downs, Arlington street.

WE quote from "The Greatest Family in the World" a little book published by the Bank of the Manhattan Company, New York. Contrasting America and Russia, it says:

"Have we given the American scheme a fair trial? If so, has this trial made it possible for more and more people to secure a growing share in the material good things of life?

"Fortunately we have an institution which, by the application of American ideals, principles and methods, has grown so great and been tested over so long a time, that, in its history and in the results it has achieved, we can find an answer to our question."

"That institution is Life Insurance."

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, OCT. 29

The Board met at 7:30 p. m., all present.

The records of the meeting of Oct. 22, were read and approved.

Jurors 1923: The Chief of Police as a Constable of the Town of Winchester appeared with a venire calling for one man from the Town of Winchester to serve as a Traverse Juror at the Superior Crmininal Court to be holden at Cambridge within and for our County of Middlesex on the first Monday of November. Mr. Edmund C. Cottle, 7 Lewis road was drawn.

Man Holes (Church Street and Washington Street): A letter was received from the Superintendent of Streets stating that under date of June 26, of this year he reported on certain changes and alterations in six New England Telephone and Telegraph Company man holes in Church street, on two man holes in Washington street, and concerning a duct line in Forest street at the Washington street end.

The Forest street duct line has already been granted by the Board.

The Superintendent of Streets recommends that since the changes and alterations in the man holes proposed are in the nature of added facilities for the Telephone Company that permission be granted, provided the work is completed not later than Nov. 15.

The Board voted to grant the Telephone Company permission to make these alterations in the man holes, provided the work is done under the supervision of the Superintendent of Streets.

Mystic Valley Parkway and Lakeview Road: Mr. Bryne reported that he had interviewed the Metropolitan Park Commission about surface drainage conditions at the intersection of Lakeview road and the Mystic Valley Parkway, and the Metropolitan Park Commission were going to install a drain.

Street Lights (Orient Street): A letter was received from Mr. A. Miles Holbrook representing the Fairmount Associates petitioning the Board to install electric lights on Orient street. Mr. Holbrook asks that one light be placed at the corner of Maple road and Orient street and another one semi-distant from Maple road to Washington street. This matter was referred to the Superintendent of Streets for report.

Street Lights 1923 (Irving Street): A letter was received from Fanny Doherty, 95 Irving street, asking that a street light be installed on Irving street. The letter states that the signers have applied for a light on this street two years ago, but up to the present nothing has been done about the matter. This matter was referred to the Street Light Committee for report.

Town Stables: The clerk was instructed to put in the Winchester Star an advertisement calling for bids for alterations to the Town Stables and for a heating plant for the same.

The meeting adjourned at 9:45 p. m.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen

CALUMET CLUB BOWLING CONTEST

On Friday, Nov. 16, Paul Poehler and Archie Walsh are to bowl against two club members, as yet unknown. To pick the two who can give the champions a rub, a special contest is to be held on Saturday afternoons and evenings, Nov. 3 and 10th. The two who have the highest three strings will have the honor of representing the Club.

Have you seen the new auto registration holder Wilson the Stationer is selling. There are many on the market, but this is brand new. It is a little steel cylinder, which is waterproof and may be carried in the pocket, on one's key ring or hung in a hiding place in the car. You need one.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Taylor and the Misses Taylor left town Wednesday for California.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus S. May and Miss Phoebe May are in Los Angeles, Cal., where they are stopping at the Hotel Ambassador.

Yesterday morning at 7:35, Miss Edith Olson of Woburn was found by four men traveling up the Parkway near Mt. Vernon street, laying on the ground under a horse in a dazed condition. She had evidently been riding and was thrown off. Dr. Simon was called, who found her injuries consisted of a badly scratched face. He ordered her taken to the hospital for observation.

A slight automobile accident occurred in the centre Saturday night at 10:15, when a Ford sedan driven by Joseph Griffiths of East Boston collided with a Packard limousine driven by Miss Helen C. Hartford of 17 Everett avenue and owned by Miss Helen L. Clay of the same address. The Ford was not damaged, but the Packard was scratched considerably.

The fire department was called out for two grass fires over the week-end at Richardson and Hemingway streets. There was no damage. On Monday morning at 4 o'clock Box 61 was sounded for a fire in the residence of Mr. George Coit on Hillside avenue. The family was awakened by smoke, which filled the house. Investigation revealed the charred remnants of a coat hanging in a hallway, which had evidently caught fire in some way. Although the wall was hot, garments hanging beside the coat had not taken fire.

The Needlework Guild of America will be 40 years old in 1924. Every year it's work has increased til last year it distributed 1,102,463 garments—all new.

Miss Bessie L. Norton, superintendent of the Winchester Hospital, left on Saturday to attend the annual conference of the American Hospital Association to be held in Milwaukee from Oct. 29 to Nov. 3.

Mrs. T. H. Emerson and her daughter, Miss Emerson of 4 Crescent road, left Thursday for Deland, Fla., to spend the winter.

Mr. Whitfield L. Tuck held an open air meeting on the Common Saturday night in protest over the 20 per cent fare increase between here and Boston on the Boston & Maine Railroad. Mr. Tuck was delegated to appear at the hearing to be held next Monday and enter a protest on behalf of Winchester citizens.

Another accident occurred at the same place at 7:50 in the evening. A Ford coupe driven by Thore W. Swanson of Watertown and a Packard truck driven by Dominick Demodunce of Lowell. The Ford suffered a smashed wheel and other damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Loring P. Gleason of Warren street entertained 15 couple at a Hallowe'en party on Wednesday evening. During the evening a two-act play was given, featuring Mr. P. Stewart Newton as leading man.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. O'Leary of Nelson street are the parents of a son, born at the Winchester Hospital, Wednesday, Oct. 31.

For the "Little People" we invite you to call and see our lines of fine knit wool sweaters, mittens, bootees, jackets, socks, bonnets, robes, dresses, blankets, quilts and carriage robes. Franklin E. Barnes & Company.

A serious automobile accident occurred yesterday noon at the corner of Bacon street and Everett avenue when cars driven by Mrs. H. G. Etheridge of Lloyd street and by Mrs. Marshall K. Berry of Wildwood street crashed. The Etheridge car was running out of Everett avenue and the Berry car along Bacon street. The Etheridge car was wrecked, landing on the sidewalk. The Berry car had its front end damaged. Neither lady was injured.

The Hallowe'en parties at the Wadleigh and Prince Schools entertained about 400 pupils and parents Wednesday night. Games and refreshments were enjoyed. At the Prince School several High School boys walked in and joined in, the teachers in charge making the best of the situation. These boys are reported to be responsible for the alarm of fire rung in from that school. Other High School boys joined in at the Prince School, one being caught during the evening going through the desks and breaking all the rulers.

Among the approaching weddings in town this fall is that of Miss Beatrice M. King of Salem street, a well known and popular member of the force at the Winchester telephone exchange, and Mr. Joseph M. Crowe of Malden.

The case of William F. App of Medford, charged with assaulting Miss Phoebe Dotten, daughter of Selectman Walter H. Dotten, Oct. 9, came up at Woburn yesterday. App was held for the grand jury.

Outside of the exceptional number of fire alarms, very little damage was done in this town Hallowe'en. In comparison with other surrounding places, our boys and girls behaved themselves exceptionally well.

A meeting of the Planning Board with interested citizens on zoning matters on the West Side and east of the railroad tracks, was held at the High School Tuesday night. The attendance was small considering the importance of the matter under consideration, and it is hoped that there will be a larger gathering at next Tuesday's hearing, when an important section will be considered. Several excellent ideas were advanced by the meeting for consideration. Every resident should interest himself in this work.

Mrs. Huntington Wilson of New York and Washington and Miss Adelaide Ogden of New York have been the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell of Knollwood. The bridge-mah jong given at Knollwood was most interesting as Mrs. Girard Foster of Lenox, who has just returned from the Orient was able to give authentic rules for mah jong. Miss Ogden's engagement was announced to her Boston friends on this occasion.

Calumet Club members enjoyed an exceptionally fine evening last Saturday, when they sat down to an appetizing steak supper and afterwards witnessed some excellent boxing and wrestling bouts. The supper was served in the bowling alleys. Tenderloin steak, French frys and onions, with ices and coffee, placed every one in a receptive mood for the following program. There were five boxing bouts and three wrestling matches, Messrs. Edward B. Smalley and George E. Willey being the judges. The prizes for the two biggest eaters at the supper, a big pig and a little pig, were awarded to Mr. O. C. Webster and Rev. Howard J. Chidley, the latter gentleman acknowledging the presentation for the winners. Chairman Harry W. Stevens of the entertainment committee was master of ceremonies.

Chief of Police McIntosh notified all contractors about town to have watchmen on any construction jobs they might have underway Hallowe'en night. As a result of this timely warning, very little damage was done at these points.

Mr. Frederick S. Snyder and Hon. Samuel W. McCall are members of the general committee for the 50th anniversary endowment fund of Boston University.

Shop in Winchester for your contribution to the Needlework Guild. They have what you want, warm, serviceable garments.

The Winchester police received word Tuesday of the thieft of a valuable canoe from the estate of Mr. N. W. Hall, residing just over the Arlington line on Cambridge street.

Woburn had 15 alarms of fire on Hallowe'en night, Winchester exceeding it by three calls.

The police were notified Tuesday of an accident on Church street, when Miss Betty Morrill, riding a bicycle, collided with a Cadillac coupe. The young lady was not injured, but her wheel was damaged. The auto was driven by James Cullen, chaffeur for William S. Forbes.

Those desiring luncheon at the Florence Crittenton League meeting on Thursday, please tel. Mrs. De Camp, Win. 0244-R.

JAPAN'S GREAT BUDDHA ESCAPES

The great bronze Buddha of Kamakura, the escape of which from damage by the recent earthquake is reported to be the subject of much rejoicing among pious Buddhists of Japan, is one of the truly wonderful statues of the world, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Huge as the statue is—fifty feet high in a sitting posture—it is faithfully proportioned and its features show a beauty and calm serenity that could hardly be excelled in a carefully modeled small image. This is seen to be an accomplishment indeed when it is realized that the eyes alone are four feet long. The eye balls are of solid gold, and a large jewel-like boss in the center of the forehead is made of a 30-pound lump of silver.

Has Weathered Other Storms

The Great Buddha, or the Daibutsu as the Japanese call the image, has sat in its present position since 1252 and in its nearly seven centuries has looked out upon more than one great catastrophe. It has itself been endangered on several occasions. It was originally enclosed by a great temple structure, but this was destroyed by tidal waves in 1369 and again two years after Columbus discovered America. Since then the Titanic figure has sat unsheltered towering against its background of green trees and hills.

The Kamakura Daibutsu, like most bronze statues consists only of a shell of metal and is hollow inside. A passageway leads to the interior from which one may climb on ladders to a level of the shoulders and may peep out through tiny windows.

Only in Japan can be found today a bronze statue to compare with the gigantic image at Kamakura. There is one other Daibutsu, at Nara, near Osaka, which is 53 feet high. This was the original colossal bronze Buddha of the islands and was cast in 749 A. D. Unlike the Kamakura statue it is still sheltered by a building.

Kamakura Once Japan's Capital

The Christ of the Andes on the Chile-Argentine line, one of the largest bronzes outside Japan, is 26 feet high. The Colossus of Rhodes, perhapes the best known of ancient huge bronze statues, is believed to have been 90 to 100 feet high in a standing posture. An earthquake, interestingly enough, brought about its destruction before the Christian era.

The Daibutsu is one of the few remaining symbols of the past greatness of Kamakura, now a modest fishing village and watering-place, but once the real capital of Japan. There in 1192, Minamoto Yoritomo seized the governmental power and set himself up as the first Shogun, leaving the Emperor a mere puppet at Kyoto. The new capital grew rapidly and before many years had a population as great as Cleveland or St. Louis. It was burned by an invading army in 1333, but partly restored. After 1445, however, when it lost even minor government institutions, it declined rapidly.

Kamakura is only about a dozen miles south of Yokohama across the little peninsula that helps enclose Tokyo Bay on the southwest. Being thus in easy reach of Yokohama and Tokyo and the teeming plains nearby, the Great Buddha of Kamakura draws annually many thousands of pilgrims from the Buddhist portion of the population and is probably much better known that the slightly large Daibutsu at Nara.

Work of Genius.

All the means of action, the shapeless masses—the materials—lie everywhere about us. What we need is the celestial fire to change the flint into transparent crystal, bright and clear. That fire is genius!—Longfellow.

Origin of Prayers.

In Genesis occurs the sentence: "Then men began to call upon the name of the Lord." That was supposed to be about 3875 B. C. Pope Gregory, in 532, instituted the manner of praying with the face to the east.

The Life of a Church depends upon the strength of those men and women who are its members. The Church's Life grows and deepens just in proportion to the interest, the help and the service that its members render. It is a wonderful fact that the Church accomplishes so much when we consider that it is made up of purely voluntary membership and that the work that is done is not done through personal motives, but with the desire to do one's share in God's work. And this very fact makes the strength of the appeal for your interest and loyalty.

True Delicacy.

"There's a lot more I might say," concluded the bargee after his argument with the careless yachtsman, "but, bein' a perfick gentleman, I don't 'old with class warfare."—London Daily Express.

Friendly Philosophy.

You may dam the little stream or may change its course, but unless you check it at its source you cannot stop the flow. Likewise with trivial faults of our own. Check them at the outset and the greater errors will not occur

Entailing of Estates.

The entailing of estates began in England in 1285. In 1534 a law was passed breaking the entail in case of treason. An entailed estate must be sold when the holder becomes bankrupt. Virginia abolished entail in 1776.

What's an Abecedarium?

This was a machine constructed by William S. Jevons and described by him in his "Principles of Science." It designed, by using symbolic terms, to perform analytic reasoning without making a mistake.

Mothers of Four Great Americans.

The maiden name of George Washington's mother was Mary Ball; of Abraham Lincoln's mother, Nancy Hanks; of Daniel Webster's mother, Abigail Eastman, and Theodore Roosevelt's mother, Martha Bulloch.

Can Rise Above Circumstances.

"He who wills can do," said the ancient philosopher. Life itself is largely exercise of will power, rather than the result of circumstance. To plead the latter is virtually to confess weakness of mind and heart.

Lowered the Temperature.

I proposed for the first time to the girl of my heart on the crowded platform of an elevated station during the well-known rush hour. It was a cold, miserable evening and I wasn't warmed up at all by the young lady's curt, firm and cutting refusal.—Chicago Journal.

Fashions Here and There.

A South Sea island maiden beautifies herself with a brass ring in her nose. An American woman of fashion does the same with a pearl in her ear. The ring is more serviceable—you can hold her by it, if nothing more.—Voo Doo.

This Never Happened.

"I'll give you all the money you need but don't ever come to me for advice, for that is one thing I never will give you," said the rich uncle to his hard-up nephew.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Gives Clear Polish.

To clean windows place two tablespoonfuls of ammonia in two quarts of water and use without soap. This will give the windows a clear, bright polish.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Several physicians were talking about beliefs (they called them "notions") that persist with laymen, even after wide spread publicity has showed the "notions" up as little superstitious. "For instance", said one medical man, "the notion that boils and abcesses are caused by bad blood." Such afflictions are caused by an infection from the outside and not from the blood. Still you hear people, seemingly educated people, talk constantly about poor blood and boils." "And then there are gall stones," said another physician." "Some people persist in believing that a certain diet will dissolve such stones when it has been shown again that an operation is the only way to get rid of them." "And then there is potato for the infant", said another physician. "So many, many mothers believe that potato is the first chewable food to offer a child; that no harm can possibly come from potato. Just a little diet education would show that there are other things to come before potato." "And that toast dries the blood, and tomatoes cause cancer, and sugar gives a child, woman, etc., said another." People cling to their superstitious beliefs about food more fondly than they do to any other beliefs.

"Cause and effect"—the words are uttered here in Winchester about every minute of the day, and often the one is taken for the other. Superstitions that have lived for centuries may be slow in dying; but it is hard to manufacture new ones. For instance, not one person in a hundred thousand can really have any objection to a two-dollar bill though many will regret that they have not more of them. It may be in some quarters a fad to pretend that the bill is of ill omen, but if a bill of $100.75 is due, the creditor receives four 20 dollar bills, a ten dollar bill, a five dollar bill, and $5.75 in small change will not be willing to make a discount. The two dollar bill way is talked about, but the twentieth century needs money too badly to regret it. If the bill is discontinued it is because currency can dispense with it.

It was an unwritten law in a certain Winchester household that mother was not to be called to the telephone during the dinner hour. Mother had so many interruptions all day long, that it was understood she was to be allowed to eat her dinner in peace. Nevertheless, there was a ring on the phone and a message that a son, who was taking the evening meal out, wanted to speak to her. "And he says it is very particular and important," mother was told. "What is it, sonny?" she called over the phone in some anxiety. "Well, m - m - mother, I've eaten three frankfurts, may I eat a fourth one?" "Goodness," said mother, "is that what I'm called to the phone for. Yes, eat a fourth one, but don't dare eat a fourth one unless you expect a dose of rhubarb when you return to Winchester." There was an aftermath to this incident, however. "Those four frankfurts didn't hurt me at all, mother", said the son next morning. "I didn't have the nightmare or anything. All I dreamed was that I was in school shooting serpents with a revolver, and I was walking head down from the ceiling, hanging on like a fly. No, I didn't have any bad dreams at all."

One afternoon a boy bolted out of a Winchester school with a big "whoop." As he bolted he ran into a teacher. "Why all this exuberance?" she asked. "Gee, its Friday and no school till Monday and I'm the first boy out of the building!" Whoop-ee!"

FIRE PREVENTION EXERCISES

Thursday morning, Oct. 11, the pupils of the Wadleigh School marched out on the playground in front of the school. The 7th and 8th grades formed a semi-circle, facing the Town Hall. Eighteen boys and girls from the French and Latin 2 Divisions of the 8th grade then gave their program which they had prepared in their Science class.

The program follows:

Latin II. Program

Louise Vittinghoff—Fire loss in United States.

Latham Ovens—Importance of fire prevention.

Ruth Kingsbury—Usual sources of fire.

Bowen Tufts—The Pyrene Extinguisher.

Nathan Tufts—How our Homes should be protected.

French Division Program

Ronald Olmstead explained the different methods of rescuing unconscious and helpless people from burning buildings while Henry Knowlton, Paul Kendricks, Donald Dalrymple, Archangelo Omico, Edward Woodbury and Benoie Chitel demonstrated these methods as Ronald explained them.

The program was an interesting one and enjoyed by all.

During the afternoon the program was enacted over at the Prince School for the benefit of the younger children.

Latham C. Ovens, Latin, 2- Grade 8

Origin of Crests.

The Cretans are credited as being the originators of crests. Richard I of England wore a crest on his helmet like a plume of feathers. In the Fifteenth century the crest was described as a figure on a coronet.

Ancient Gas Attacks.

Gas attacks as a means of a oncoming an enemy are recorded as far back as 189 B. C., when jars were filled with feathers which were set alight, the smoke being blown with bellows into the faces of the foe.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

The Town of Winchester is comparatively young, 73 years old, and yet one of the noted towns of the 403 cities and towns that make up the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Nature has done much to beautify our town. Only a few towns are so beautifully located, and the high standard of citizenship has made our town as a whole a real garden of beauty.

As a town we owe much to the patriotic love and devotion of the many men and women who gave freely of their time, patience and money to develop the town of Winchester.

We may not all realize that we are one of the cleanest governed towns in the Commonwealth, or in other words there are only a few of the town officers who receive remuneration for their services rendered.

More than 100 officers are serving the town in a most, whole-hearted way, without compensation. We are a $23,000,000 corporation as a town, and each family about 1700 in number, is a stockholder in this corporation and therefore should have a peculiar interest in the success of this, their town. The latest census stated there was 10,381 inhabitants in the town and that we are expending nearly $700,000 per year governing ourselves.

One of the great questions of the day is, as to how to obtain the greatest efficiency for the money expended on municipal affairs. Our town meetings occur once a year and between these meetings ought we not to get together as one large family and unite our strength and strive for an improved civic condition.

A live Chamber of Commerce can and with the support of the voters do much to clarify the civic atmosphere of the town and be of assistance to the finance commission and other town officers. Come, let us reason together.

HOW POSTAL SERVICE SAVED BRIDE'S TEARS

Everything was ready for the wedding, everything but the wedding gown. It was expected to arrive by special delivery from the maker. But when the messenger arrived he had only wedding presents for the Chase residence, 62 Winthrop street, Winchester.

"We will look into it at once," said the store manager in answer to the frantic telephone call.

Something had to be down quickly or the bride would be in tears. Finally the error was located in the store's shipping department. The gown was riding peacefully on its way to 62 Winthrop street, Medford. At this juncture the Postal Service was called into the emergency; "Can you do something for us pronto, speedy?" "Sure thing, quicker than that" replied the postoffice official. Meeting the emergency is something the Postal Service does best. Soon the wires were humming. When the orchestra began "Here comes the bride" the Postal Service aimed to see that the lady of the hour marched out dressed in the gown of her choice. Weddings are important.

Sometime later, but in time, a postoffice truck slid to a stop in front of 62 Winthrop street, a plume of steam whistling out of its radiator cap. The carrier leaped out and took the steps at a jump. The gown was delivered.

Needless to say the sender was profuse in his thanks for service rendered, as was also the bride.

A Boston bound milk train collided with the rear end of an ice train standing at the West Medford station Sunday morning, causing quite a wreck at the Grove street bridge. The locomotive and two cars of the milk train were wrecked, together with the two rear cars of the ice train. Early trains were considerable delayed. There was no one injured, the engineer of the milk train jumping before the crash. A thick fog, preventing the engineer from see the signals, is said to be the cause. The wreck was cleared during the day.

Pie Still "Landed."

The ancient ceremony of "Landing the Pie," founded in the reign of Henry VIII, was revived at Eel Pie Island, Richmond, Eng. The pie was rowed around the island and then borne ashore by the crew in full regalia.

Woman's duty is not only to make a real home, but to be the main ornament in that home. After all, this is the desire of every ambitious woman. But how often desire vanishes when housework becomes drudgery!

Men grow tired of tired wives. Yet men who demand the most up-to-date, labor-saving equipment in their offices will often permit their wives to use gas-burning appliances that should have gone to the scrap heap years ago.

An examination of modern gas ranges, water heaters, room heaters and other equipment for the home will be a revelation to you. They are not only beautiful in appearance but they have economy and efficiency built right in them. You owe it to yourself to see them.

Building for Growth

Like an advance of actual work telephone construction must be foreseen, engineered and financed.

Many tasks are heavy machines, manned by you, are working to provide you and your neighbors with adequate service.

If you had magic eyes, you could see, all over America, thousands of tasks where work is in progress. Every working day the Bell System's belt for new construction is over three-quarters of a million dollars.

All of this new construction benefits you. Every extension of telephone facilities, anywhere, increases the value of telephone service everywhere.

Every dollar's worth of new Bell System construction enables each community better to work out its own destiny and knits it and other communities more closely together into a national commonwealth of speech.

REV. FR. HENRY LYONS HONORED BY FIREMEN

Danvers Pastor Former South Boston Curate

A detail of Boston firemen, headed by Richard Roycroft of Engine 1, visited Danvers on Tuesday and showed their regard and friendship for Rev. Henry Lyons, who was a curate at St. Augustine's Church, South Boston, and was recently promoted to a pastorate at Danvers. The firemen presented Fr. Lyons with a solid gold fire badge of the Boston Department.

While in South Boston Fr. Lyons endeared himself to every one in his district. He was admired by all classes and creeds and there was genuine regret when he left, although friends were pleased at his promotion.

The firemen always found him a close friend and an excellent adviser. He was more or less a "spark" in the sense of chasing to fires, but he realized the dangers firemen met and kept them constantly reminded of their spiritual duties in a way that the firemen liked and appreciated. Firemen of South Boston sent a delegation to Commissioner Glynn asking for permission to present the badge and the commissioner willingly gave his consent.

The firemen wanted to make it a big celebration, but Fr. Lyons asked them not to, and, instead, at the presentation the firemen were guests of Fr. Lyons. Fr. Lyons expressed his appreciation and asked them to carry back his thanks to the entire department. He said that he will cherish the badge as long as he lives.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The annual Hallowe'en party given by the Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild will take place in K. of C. Hall, Vine street Monday evening, Nov. 5. It is hoped that all who attend will be in masquerade costume. Three prizes will be offered for the best costumes, one for the prettiest, one for the most unique and one for the most original. The judges will be Mrs. Elizabeth Blake, State Director; Mrs. Lena Droley, State Deputy, and Mrs. Josephine Kane of Cambridge.

The entertainment committee promises a program that will surpass any program of the past. A few of the numbers are as follows. Professor: Professor Be Journ with his troupe of acting dogs; a ghost circle, which consists of eight young ladies in "Are we going or coming"; a dance, "The Wooden Soldiers", by little Miss Murphy, and a butterfly dance by little Miss McKeon.

There will be a sale of fancy articles, cakes and preserves and Mrs. Lillian Ledwidge, chairman of the sale says, "Best Ever."

The usual Hallowe'en refreshments, coffee, cider and doughnuts will be served by Mrs. B. McFeeley. General dancing will follow.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Guild or by telephoning Win. 0979-J.

MRS. ELIZABETH REYNOLDS OBSERVES 100TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Reynolds celebrated her 100th birthday Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wellington F. Smart, 19 Dix street, where she has lived for 20 years.

Mrs. Reynolds was born at Washington, Conn., Oct. 27, 1823. Her great-grandfather was Elisha Mason, a Revolutionary War soldier. She was educated at the famous Gunnery School of Washington and taught school before her marriage to Dr. Rossell G. Reynolds of Waterbury in 1844.

Dr. and Mrs. Reynolds had five children, two of whom, Mrs. Smart and a son, Howard Reynolds of New York and Washington, Conn., are living. Four generations were represented at the birthday gathering.

Mrs. Reynolds recalls many incidents of her girlhood and of Civil War days when she lived in New York city.

Among the relatives who congratulated Mrs. Reynolds was a sister, Mrs. Cyrus E. Clark of Median, O., 97 years old.

HIGH SCHOOL PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

To the Parents:

The first meeting of the High School Parent-Teacher Association will be held on the evening of Nov. 5 at 8 o'clock.

The speaker will be Mr. James J. Quinn who has been recently elected to the superintendency of the Winchester School system. Following the address there will be light refreshments served and an opportunity given to meet Mr. Quinn.

A large attendance is desired. Come and bring with you any friends who may be in any way interested in our school system.

Very truly yours,

Albert Quinn of 128 Garfield avenue, Woburn, was near death by suffocation last Friday afternoon when he was buried by the sudden fall of sand in the pit near Woburn. He was playing in the pit with other boys at the time. Six workmen at the pit dug him out and Dr. Sheehy was called, who ordered him removed to the hospital. The boy was found to be uninjured, although his eyes and ears were filled with the sand.

Miss Doris Puffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Puffer, Jr., of Wildwood street left Tuesday to visit friends in New York.

MAKING THE RIGHT FRIENDSHIPS

If you have a little fairy in your home, or a big one for that matter, that's just the place where a subscription to the Youth's Companion will fit in. When the young folks bring new acquaintances to the house you are mighty careful to find out about them before admitting them to intimacy. In the same way you should make sure whether the mental friends that they make through reading are of a kind to inspire them or to destroy all the ideals that you have been at so much pains to implant. Try the Youth's Companion for a year. See how quickly it becomes an indispensable member of the household, one of unfailing charm [illegible]

Mr. Frederick W. Aseltine of Cabot street, president of the Hill, Welch Company of Lynn, is one of the appraisers for the damage done at the $1,500,000 fire in the warehouses of the Thompson & Kelley Co., 374-378 Congress street, on July 19, last. The receivers include George A. Shepard, vice-president of the Federal Trust Co., who was named by the Thompson & Kelley Co.; Mr. Aseltine by the 35 insurance companies interested, and Brig.-Gen. John H. Sherburne, who represents Insurance Commissioner Monk. The storehouse of the Thompson & Kelley Co., at the time of the fire, was filled with army surplus goods, consisting of wool, yarn, leather goods, etc., and a quantity of this was salvaged after the fire.

This beautiful home is located in the delightful Wedgemere section; the house, which is of solid brick construction, has all the refinements and the equipment of the most costly home and still it retains the charm and "hominess" of the moderate sized house.

Such features as "Crattex" walls and a "No-kol" oil heater reduce the housekeeping problems to a minimum. There is a 2-car garage located from the house; the lot contains over 18,000 sq. ft. and is well laid out with many shrubs and shade trees. Altogether an ideal suburban home. The price $35,000, is far below replacement value. Appointments may be made to inspect the property.

He laughed at first-- but the Japanese disaster changed his mind

"Why should I join the Red Cross?" he asked. But three days later he picked up a newspaper chronicling the story of the Japanese earthquake and the immediate relief furnished by the American Red Cross.

It completely changed his mind. Today he is not only a member of the Red Cross, but one of its most ardent supporters in this city.

Since 1881, the American Red Cross has spent $20,000,000 in disaster relief. In six years it has spent $163,000,000 in service to America's disabled veterans of the World War and their families. Daily, the activities of the Red Cross Public Health Nurse are being extended to rural communities throughout the United States where proper health facilities are inadequate. Daily the Red Cross is prepairing four million children in American schools for a better citizenship.

SAMUEL WALKER McCALL

EX-GOV. McCALL DEAD

Pneumonia Responsible for Sudden End of Prominent Statesman

Ex-Governor Samuel W. McCall died at his home on Hillside avenue Sunday afternoon after a short illness. His death was caused by pneumonia. He had been in his usual good health up to the first of last week, when he contracted a slight cold. His condition was not considered serious until Saturday night, when he grew rapidly worse and pneumonia developed. He died Sunday afternoon at 2:15.

Samuel Walker McCall, Ex-Governor of this state and former member of Congress, was known throughout the nation. He was born in East Providence, Pa., Feb. 28, 1851, and was in his 73d year at the time of his death. He was the son of Henry and Mary Ann (Elliott) McCall. He received his education at the New Hampton (N. H.) Academy, from which he graduated in 1870, and at Dartmouth College, where he graduated in 1874, standing second in his class, which numbered over 60 students. During his college course he taught classes for a period in Greek and Latin at Kimball Union Academy, Meriden, N. H. He was admitted to the bar in 1875 and practiced law in Worcester and Boston. He came to this town in 1880 and had made his home here ever since.

He entered his political career in 1888, representing Winchester and Arlington in the Massachusetts Legislature in 1888, 1889 and 1892. His most important position was chairman of the Judiciary Committee. In 1888 he became associated with William E. Barrett and Henry Parkman in the purchase of the Boston Daily Advertiser, and became the editor-in-chief of that paper.

"BEAUTIFUL BRAZIL"

Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, D. D., comes to Winchester Friday evening Nov. 16. Dr. Spaulding was pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church here 25 years ago. It was during his pastorate that the parsonage was built on Myrtle street and the 25th anniversary of the Church was observed. In the early days of his ministry, Mr. Spaulding gave promise of marked ability. Since leaving Winchester he has been deeply appreciated as preacher and administrator. As a member of a commission to South America he brought the North and the South into closer and kindlier relationship. Dr. Spaulding's lecture on "Beautiful Brazil" which he will give Friday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, is full of information and sparkles with wit. The commerce and agriculture of Brazil are beautifully illustrated by the stereopticon and many choice slides.

WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Let us all do something for the civic benefit of our town.

Our membership is growing fast.

The Chamber of Commerce appreciates very much the kindness of the Board of Selectmen in allowing the organization the use of the small Town Hall for the last meeting, which was held Tuesday evening, Nov. 6th.

Red Cross Roll Call

Armistice Day to Thanksgiving

"The Red Cross is color, creed and race blind. It sees only suffering and follows the line of vision."

UNVEILING OF TABLET AT UNITARIAN CHURCH

At the Sunday morning service, Nov. 11, in the Unitarian Church, at 10:30, the tablet in memory of the Gold Star Boys, and others of the parish who served in the World War, will be unveiled. Mr. Reed will preach the Armistice Day sermon, and the choir will sing special music. The public is cordially invited.

Mr. Nathan Thumin is on a trip in the Canadian woods. He expects to bring home a moose.

Mrs. Bridget Kean, widow of the late Daniel J. Kean died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Brien, 24 Howe street, Dorchester last Saturday. Funeral services were held on Tuesday morning at St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, interment at new Calvary Cemetery. Mrs. Kean was a resident of South Boston for more than 36 years and had recently moved to the Dorchester District. She is survived by one son, Thomas J. Kean of this town and two daughters, Miss Ellen Kean and Mrs. Mary Brien of Dorchester. 19 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

ELKS' CHARITY BALL

Elaborate arrangements have been made for the Elks' Charity Ball of the Winchester Lodge of Elks, Thursday, Nov. 22nd, at the Town Hall.

George T. Davidson, Esteemed Leading Knight, is Chairman of the ball committee, and Fred H. Scholl has the entertainment in charge, and has engaged some of the best artists, including:

Scott and Bagel (The Two-Man Minstrels The "Perfect Performance" of its kind in the country.)

Miss Ruth Brewer Entertainer. One of the best.

Mr. Neil Patterson and Miss Mary McMahon, America's leading Scotch comedians.

Mr. Patterson is acknowledged to be one of the best Scotch humorists on the concert stage.

Music by Strachan's Orchestra.

The Grand March will be held immediately upon completion of the entertainment, following which dancing will be enjoyed until 1 o'clock.

Tradition has established the Elks' Charity Ball as the leading event of the season in many communities, and Winchester Elks are equipped to set a standard for their affairs entirely in keeping with the high character of the order.

Dress may be either formal or informal and no matter what your preference may be you are assured of a cordial welcome and most pleasant evening.

It seems well to again dwell briefly on the object of this affair. It is to raise money for charitable purposes and all funds received in excess of the expense of running the ball will be devoted to helping the needy of this town.

Already there has been calls for Elk assistance in accomplishing charitable work and Winchester Lodge intends that all such worthy calls shall be heeded promptly and cared for generously.

Once again we urge you to "Help the Elks help Winchester" and remind you that in so doing you are helping yourself to an evening of pleasure that will live long in your memory. Buy your tickets at the Star office or from any Elk in the Town of Winchester.

OLD FASHIONED SUPPER

First Congregational Church, Friday Evening, Nov. 16th

There is going to be a big time at the First Congregational Church when the women of the Guild serve their "genuine old-fashioned supper," the kind your mother used to cook and which seemed so delectable to your childhood appetite.

And the supper is not all! There is going to be an entertainment which in itself will be worth the price of admission. There are over five hundred women in the Guild organization, and their combined resources are being used in this the big church social event of the year. There is no age limit, upward or downward, to this supper as at the annual church supper. Bring the young folks. Dress will be informal and the big crowd will make for sociability. Supper will be served at 6:30 promptly. The tickets for supper, sociability and entertainment are 75 cents, to be had of Parker & Lane's or Barnes' Store. Proceeds for the Building Fund. Come, and bring your men and women friends.

GIRLS' FIELD HOCKEY

The W. H. S. Girls' Field Hockey team was overcome by the Melrose team at Melrose, Tuesday afternoon, in a close game. After the game the players were treated to a surprise which was served in their home gym, upon their return from Melrose. The surprise consisted of several kinds of sandwiches, a delicious cake, apples oranges, bananas, cookies, etc., all neatly packed in a lunch basket. The surprise was gotten up by W. H. S. girls interested in showing their appreciation to the girls on the team for their hard and faithful work this season.

The contributers were as follows:

Dot Bond	Kay Shuttis
Bud Bourne	Nancy Sherman
Betty Crowley	Molly Tufts
Peg Comins	Virginia Hunkins
P Larraway	Martha Rogers
Betty Dumper	Eleanor Healey
Connie Morgan

How's this for spirit shown among a few of the W. H. S. girls?

MISS JANET RICHARDS' TALK

An added interest in the Parlor Talk by Miss Janet Richards, at 4 Black Horse terrace, next Thursday evening is found in the fact that the proceeds of the lecture will be given to the Holy Ghost Hospital for Incurables at Cambridge. This is a most important and noble charity which appeals to everyone who knows anything of the admirable work carried on quietly and devotedly year after year at this admirable institution.

The lecture itself will be extremely interesting as Miss Richards has been gathering material of all kinds the past few weeks in Washington, and has even had a conference at the White House with the President, who gave her permission to quote him from the interview. The hour of the talk will be 8 o'clock.

Tickets can be procured from Mrs. Herbert Underwood, tel. Win. 0222-M; from Miss Mary Richards, tel. Win. 0397, and from the Winchester Exchange.

MR. CHIDLEY TO PREACH SUNDAY

Owing to an error in last week's calendar it was announced that a speaker from China was to preach next Sunday morning at the First Congregational Church. Mr. Chidley will be in his pulpit as usual Sunday morning and will continue his sermons on travel, speaking on "The Great Divide."

THE FORTNIGHTLY

The musicale of next Monday, Nov. 12, is one of special note and for that reason has been made an open meeting, so that those who are not members of the club may have an opportunity to hear the famous artists who are to appear.

Maria Conde, coloratura soprano, was formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Company where she appeared with conspicuous success opposite the late Caruso as Gilda in Rigoletto.

The first lecture on Home Decoration by Mrs. Chamberlain will be held on Friday, Nov. 16, at 10:30, at the home of the art chairman, Mrs. E. D. Chase, 3 Lakeview terrace.

So many requests for more card parties have come to the room committee since the recent bridge party in the Town Hall, that the committee are contemplating a series of card parties in private homes. Announcement of places and dates will appear later.

The prize winners at the Hallowe'en bridge party were: Mrs. McPherson, first prize; Mrs. Wadsworth, second; Mrs. Edelfson, third; Mrs. Berry, fourth; Mrs. Merrill, fifth; Mrs. Harte, sixth; Mrs. Doane, seventh; Mrs. Lord, eighth; Mrs. Jennings, ninth; Mrs. Pitman, tenth, and Mrs. Gillette, eleventh.

The committee wish to thank those members who gave the prizes, and the cakes, and the members who made the candies especially for this Fortnightly party.

Mrs. A. T. Wallace was hostess for the Literature class last Monday afternoon, when they met to discuss briefly their outline of study for the year. The outstanding literary events of the summer were reviewed and books read during the vacation period were commented upon. Mrs. W. W. Hill sketched the life and works of Josephine Preston Peabody Marks, drawing intimate pictures of her at various stages of her career. The play "Marlowe" was read in part by members of the committee. Tea was served and discussion was continued socially until the meeting broke up.

The Parliamentary Law Class had a large attendance and enthusiastic meeting at its opening, Tuesday, Nov. 6. The chairman of the legislative committee, Mrs. Joseph Fessenden will be glad to register new members until the second meeting Tuesday, Nov. 20.

WINCHESTER GIRLS WIN

The Winchester High School Girl's Field Hockey Team defeated the Stoneham team on Manchester Field on Thursday, Nov. 8. The game although not very exciting, from the observers' points of view, was a well played one, the score being 3 to 0. Much credit is due to the left wing, Kay Carlisle, who made two of the three goals, the other one being made by Janet Goddard. Isabel MacKenzie, playing left inside for the winning team was the unfortunate receiver of the ball in the face, which knocked out one of her teeth.

The lineup:

HEARING ON ZONING

TUESDAY EVENING, NOV. 13

IN THE ASSEMBLY HALL OF THE HIGH SCHOOL AT 8 O'CLOCK

At this hearing District No. 4, including all territory north of Mt. Vernon street, lying between Washington street and the main line of the Boston & Maine Railroad, including the westerly side of Washington street, will be considered.

Every owner of a Home or of Real Estate within these districts should be vitally interested in Zoning, as it protects Residential Districts from invasion by elements which detract both from property values and from personal health and comfort.

CROWE—KING

Miss Beatrice M. King of Salem street, daughter of Mr. Moses A. King and a popular operator at the Winchester telephone exchange, was married on Monday morning at St. Mary's Church to Mr. Joseph M. Crowe of Malden, house manager of the Malden Auditorium. Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons officiated and was celebrant of the nuptial mass. There was a large attendance of friends of the couple from practically every surrounding place, both being very popular and widely known.

Mr. John Crowe, Jr., brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Mary J. Kelley of this town was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Grace L. Crowe, the groom's sister, and Miss Dorothy A. King, cousin of the bride. Miss Beatrice King, the bride's neice, was flower girl.

The bride's wedding dress was of white crepe, cut on train. Her veil was fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms and her bouquet was of bride's roses and lillies of the valley. The maid of honor wore sunset taffeta with shepherd's crooks ornaments and trimmings, as did the bridesmaids, and the little flower girl wore a dress of yellow taffeta with butterfly trimmings. Messrs. Arthur, Charles, Clarence and Bernard King, all brothers of the bride, were the ushers.

A largely attended reception and wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's father, the house being decorated for the occasion with a profusion of autumn leaves and fall flowers.

RECEPTION AT HOME NOV. 22

The annual reception at the Home for Aged People will be held on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 22, from 2:30 to 5 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all to call and inspect the Home and spend a few minutes with the family there.

The committee in charge of the reception this year includes Mrs. Daniel C. Bennett, Mrs. Frank M. White, Mrs. Allan Wood and Mrs. George Goddu. There are 10 members resident in the Home, there having been no change in the family for the past two years. The directors will also be glad to have Winchester people become acquainted with Mrs. Moore, who has recently become matron of the Home.

Gifts of fruit, vegetables, preserves or money are always welcome by the directors and inmates, and are of a great help in providing for the comfort and health of the family. More than 14,000 individual meals were served in the Home during the past year.

SIGMA BETA BRIDGE IN LYCEUM HALL

November 17th at 2 p. m. Tickets 75 cents on sale at the Exchange, and from Mrs. Ruth Strawbridge, tel. 0438-R, Mary Whitington, tel. 0852-W, and Ellen Cloutman, tel. 0416. n9-2t.

Friday night an automobile operated by Thomas J. Rossley of 184 Cambridge street and an automobile operated by Louis H. Kunhardt of Franklin street, Medford, collided on Medford street near the bridge across the Mystic river. Both machines were damaged and Rossley was cut by flying glass.

ADDITIONAL CARRIER ADDED

Postmaster Lochman received permission this week to add another letter carrier to the local force. This will be done immediately, and the new carrier will be Mr. Charles Flaherty, who has been serving as a clerk in the office. The present routes will be rearranged and an additional route added.

WHIST POSTPONED

The ladies' afternoon bridge at the Calumet Club, to have been held on Wednesday afternoon, was postponed until next Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 14th. This was done in respect to the memory of the late Hon. Samuel W. McCall, an honorary member of the Club, whose funeral was held this week.

NEW MEMBERS WELCOMED

A very fine reception and social was held at the Second Congregational Church on Wednesday night, Nov. 7. The evening was planned by the Bethany Society of the Church, as a reception to all the new members who have joined the church during 1923. The church was well filled and a splendid entertainment was enjoyed. Miss Jean McLellan sang Tosti's "Goodbye" and there were several piano selections by Ruth Macdonald and readings by Ruth Kingsbury.

The humorist for the evening was Mr. W. McElhiney who entertained with amusing selections. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and fancy cookies were served. The evening was enjoyed by all and proved a good social time.

MRS. PATRICK J. HENNESSEY

Mrs. Mary A. Hennessey, wife of Mr. Patrick J. Hennessey, a well known contractor of this town, died at her home on Clark street Saturday after a long illness. She was 52 years of age and was a native of Ireland, having made her home in this town for the past 30 years. She leaves besides her husband, one sister and two brothers living in Ireland.

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's Church by Rev. Joseph A. Quigley on Tuesday morning. The pall bearers were Messrs. John Hannon, Richard Conlon, Henry, James and Joseph Holland and Daniel Murphy. The burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

At the annual meeting of the Andover-Woburn branch of the Woman's Board of Missions held on Friday at South church, Andover, Mrs. Joshua Coit, Mrs. M. D. Kneeland and Mrs. D. A. Newton were elected honorary vice-presidents. Rev. Mr. Pedley of Kyota, Japan was the speaker.

Psyche, the honorary literary society of Wheaton College has announced among the new members, Frances Hill Senior member, and Annette Mason, a Junior member.

WANTED

—a partner in a great humanitarian enterprise

Will you become a stockholder in the American Red Cross? Will you share in this great work of Disaster Relief, Helping Disabled Veterans, advancing Public Health Nursing, Home Care of the Sick, Nutrition Service, First Aid for the Injured, Life Saving Service, and preparing the coming generation for a better citizenship through the Junior Red Cross?

Since 1881 the American Red Cross has administered more than $20,000,000 in disasters; after the Japanese earthquake, $10,000,000 was contributed for relief through the Red Cross.

From July 1, 1917, to January 30, 1923, the American Red Cross spent nationally and through its Chapters more than $163,000,000 in service to the men who wore the American Uniform in the World War.

The Red Cross provides a reserve nursing corps of 40,000 trained nurses, ready for any emergency.

This is work in which you may participate. Can you think of any better way of spending a dollar?

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE BY CAPTAIN ROBERT A. BARTLETT, ARCTIC EXPLORER

Under the auspices of the different troops of Boy Scouts of Winchester, Captain Robert A. Bartlett, the Arctic explorer, will give an illustrated lecture on his North Pole experiences.

Captain Bartlett has always been a sea-faring man and started on his first Arctic Exploration in 1898, continuing up to 1917, when his last trip was a relief expedition which went into the Arctic regions and brought back Donald MacMillan and his party.

He has travelled farther north than any other white man, with the exception of Admiral Peary, and accompanied Admiral Peary on his different expeditions to the North Pole.

During the war, he was in charge of a part of the Army Transportation Service, with headquarters in New York Harbor, and at the present time is engaged in plans for another Arctic expedition, which calls for his party to go into the Northern countries and be frozen into the ice in the Behring Straits, and allow his vessel to drift with the ice and the tides, to study the Arctic winds and weather. Captain Bartlett will be the head of this scientific expedition, and will be gone for several years and it is hoped that this expedition will solve a number of problems of climate and weather in that part of the world north of the Arctic Circle.

Captain Bartlett is known to a great many people in Winchester and has a number of friends in town. This lecture will be well worth while and we hope the Town Hall will be filled to capacity, for the interest the public will take in this instance will be an evidence of the interest they have in the Boy Scout movement.

Tickets may be obtained from any of the Scouts, from the council, Mr. A. E. Butters, Scout Executive; Mr. T. H. Barrett's office, Star office, or Hevey's Drug Store and the Winchester Exchange.

The Winchester Council is offering as a reward to the Scout selling the most tickets, one of the Harding Memorial Medallions, which are being struck off by the United States Mint. This medallion is on view in the window of Hevey's Drug Store and whatever Scout is successful in obtaining same, will have a memento which will be well worth keeping, as President Harding, when in office, was the National President of the Boy Scouts of America and was the recognized chief officer of the Scouts.

"HAPPY IS THE CHILD WITH BOOKS"

"Children's Book Week, Nov. 11 to 17, is recognized the country over as the one week every year when schools, public libraries, book stores, Boy Scout troops, clubs, churches, magazines and newspapers, turn the attention of boys and girls and their parents to books; books to read—books to enjoy—books to own."

The Winchester Public Library will have an exhibition of books, catalogs, and book lists as suggestions for gifts and for the home. The children's department will make an intensive drive for the State Certificate Reading Contest during this week.

The Massachusetts Board of Free Public Library Commissioners offers a certificate to any child who reads and reports on five books on the graded lists.

The result of the contest was very gratifying last year. Winchester was the banner town for 1922, having done in two months what the other towns and cities had been trying to do for eight months. Still more graitfying results are expected this year, owing to the new Honor Certificate. This is to be given when a child has read and reported on 20 books. Five of which must be non-fiction.

We believe this contest is helping to direct the children's reading along the best lines.

Each year over a million children come to the reading age. The schools teach them to read; the public libraries furnish the opportunity to form the habit of reading. The child's ability to use books for information and for pleasure when he is older depends on his acquiring the reading habit when he is young.

18-HOLE MEDAL PLAY

Saturday's tournament at the Winchester Country Club was an 18-hole medal tournament. R. T. Damon and R. H. Boutwell winning in a tie with 68 net each. Damon had the best gross, an 86.

The scores:

R. T. Damon	86	18	68
R. H. Boutwell	94	26	68
F. A. Kelley	99	28	71
S. G. H. Fitch	100	28	72

P. B. Evans	91	18	73
R. F. Whitney	103	27	76
J. H. Wheeler	86	10	76

SPECIAL BOWLING CONTEST

On Friday, Nov. 16, Paul Poehler and Archie Walsh are to roll at the Calumet Club. They are recognized as leaders among New England's bowlers. Bart Stephenson and Earle Goldsmith as champion and runner-up last year, have been selected to bowl against them, since nobody seemed to care to try for places against them.

GUEST NIGHT OF THE WINCHESTER MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The Winchester Mothers' Association will hold its annual guest night in High School Assembly Hall, Tuesday, Nov. 17, at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Payson Smith, State Commissioner of Education, will give the address. All the teachers of our Winchester Schools have been invited and it is hoped many parents may attend.

At the conclusion of the Wellesley College Athletic Field Day, on Saturday, cups and letters were awarded to the captains of the victorious teams. A Winchester girl, Miss Katharine Pike, as head of the basketball team carried that honor and Miss Ruth Barrett was a "W" winner.

MEN'S CLUB SUPPER

A very enjoyable and appetizing supper was given at the First Congregational Church last Friday evening by the Men's Club, over 100 men of the parish attending. The supper, given by Group 4 of the Women's Guild, Miss Helen Hall, chairman, was voted one of the best the Club has ever had. The Group was paid for its efforts with five twenty dollar gold pieces. The table decorations of candles, streamers and flowers, were in yellow, the flowers being the gift of Mr. John C. Haartz from his Blossom Hill Farm.

President Ralph W. E. Hopper presided. Mr. William L. Parsons was elected president for the coming year, with Mr. Robert E. Fay, treasurer. Mr. Parsons accepted his new office in a witty and entertaining speech, and Mr. Hopper, in retiring, spoke of the Club's connection with the building fund, stating that it had voted to assume responsibility for the sum needed to make up the $150,000 of the Church towards the parish house, amounting to $6000.

A humorous dialogue was given by John Thomas of Gloucester, which occupied the remainder of the evening. The Men's Club now has a membership of over 300 members.

Tune "The Bowery"

Winchester people are proud of their place,
They have no movies to bring on disgrace;
No theatre have they each evening to pack,
Still of good pleasure there's never a lack.
Winchester town has its Clubs of note,
"Fortnightly", "Calumet", "Country", and "Boat"
Best of them all is the Club at the Church,
The others we leave in the lurch.

Oh! the Men's Club, the Men's Club!
They have such fun when their dinner is done.
At the Men's Club, the Men's Club,
We'll go there as much as we can!

Winchester women have formed a big Guild,
Money they're raising to help us to build.
When our new Parish House gets under way
Room there will be for our work and our play
Room for the Sunday School, room for a fair,
Rooms filled with daylight full of fresh air
Every church body will flourish and grow
And we can put on a good show

At the Men's Club the Men's Club,
They have such fun when their dinner is done.
At the Men's Club, the Men's Club,
We'll go there as much as we can!

Tune "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean"

Near the banks of the Wild Aberjona
As it flows madly down to the sea,
Stands a church with a well lighted vestry,
With its portals open wide for you and me
And within there's a gathering full joyous
And a feast like the days before the war,
'Twas prepared by some ladies of the Parish
Known to fame as the "Group Number Four".
Three cheers for the Group Number Four!
Three cheers for the Group Number Four!
When its time for the Club's yearly supper,
Then we shout for the Group Number Four!

JOIN THE WINCHESTER CHAPTER OF THE RED CROSS

Winchester people are requested to take care to pay their Red Cross membership dues, not to the Boston Chapter of the Red Cross, but to the Winchester Chapter, that local work may have the benefit of local resources. Membership dues are by regulation divided equally, half going to the National organization, and half to the local chapter. Help the work in your home vicinity by subscribing here.

The money that goes to Washington headquarters should be considered community insurance against disaster, for it enables the National Red Cross to come to the relief of any stricken district. Three times in the past year it has thus aided fire-swept New England towns where local relief was inadequate to the emergency. Your money at Washington also pays for Red Cross service to ex-service men in all hospitals of the United States wherever they may be sent. It in fact strengthens the Red Cross Association in all its national and international work.

The first responsibility of the Winchester Red Cross, as of the National Red Cross, is its duty to our disabled ex-service men. During the past year the Winchester Chapter has cared for more than 70 cases, and at present has 35 cases to which it is supplying home service, employing a Red Cross social service worker one day each week. In addition to this, it has, in the past year, maintained a dental clinic for pre-school children throughout the summer; paid for materials for many garments (the making of which has been contributed by various Winchester organizations and individuals); paid for materials for Christmas boxes for soldiers; maintained an active Junior Red Cross Association; and, through its motor corps, has transported Winchester school children to and from Boston clinics.

The chapter is for service; its strength is fundamentally in its membership; it asks your support. Please welcome its solicitors. Let Winchester show a service flag in every window.

COMMUNITY DAY NOV. 23d

Afternoon High School for Benefit of Winchester People

A second "communinty day" for the Winchester High School is to be held on Friday, Nov. 23d. This is in line with that of last year, when the innovation proved such a huge success. The school is to be kept open from 2.30 to 8.15 p. m., in order that every parent may call and inspect the work. The regular routine of classes and studies will be followed and the usual school lunch hour will be prolonged so that the visitors may sample the menu and not be obliged to return to their homes until ready.

Last year there was a record attendance of Winchester people at the school, and the visitation of the various classes proved most interesting. Guides will be present to direct visitors to any desired rooms, and programs will be given out with the list of classes in session each period. The program will be announced in next week's Star.

At the recent meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, under whose direction "community day" will be held, the following officers and committees were elected:

President Mr Joseph F. Ryan
First Vice President Mrs C. A. Riemann
Second Vice President Mr Ernest Beauramol
Secretary Miss Mary V. Perham
Treasurer Mrs Wadsworth Hight

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

Many Residents Meet New Superintendent of Schools

The first meeting of the High School Parent-Teacher Association was held on Monday evening, it taking the form of a reception to the newly appointed Superintendent of Schools, Mr. James J. Quinn. There was a large attendance of parents and friends.

President Joseph F. Ryan of the association presided, and the first speaker was Mrs. Edward C. Mason, long identified with the Massachusetts Association. She spoke upon the work of the State body, which now enrolls 550,000 members, and introduced the two magazines bearing particularly on the work—the State Bulletin and the Child Welfare Magazine.

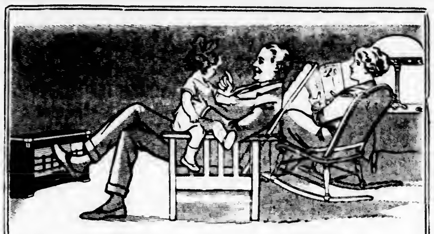

President Ryan welcomed those present and invited everyone interested in the schools and scholars of Winchester to become members, whether parents of High School children or not. He spoke of the coming "Community Day" at the High School on Friday, Nov. 23, when all Winchester people will be invited to witness the work of the school.

Supt. Quinn was introduced, and made a most favorable impression by his clear, straightforward and sensible talk, delivered in a pleasing and unaffected manner. He said in part that he believed that a steadily increasing sum should be spent on the education of our children, citing as comparison the $250,000,000,000 of wealth in the United States with its $70,000,000,000 yearly income. Of this vast sum $17,000,000,000 is spent yearly on luxuries, with $1,000,000,000 on schools.

As evidence of increasing school cost he mentioned that school buildings in 1913 cost 20 cents per cubic foot to 50 cents in 1920. In view of this increase in costs, he believed that care should be exercised in purchasing all supplies and economy be followed in their allotment and use. He stated that he would be exceedingly interested in what went on in the class rooms and wished to build up the kind of teaching that would make for thinking scholars—scholars that would not be the hit or miss kind, but those who would think before they spoke, consider all the facts, and try and get more than the facts in their text books before they formed their opinions.

He also wishes to build up in the scholars a pride and respect for their country and a desire to maintain the highest ideals for its institutions. He expressed the wish to develop the pioneering spirit of our forefathers, feeling that this can best be done by not making education too soft and too easy and making every scholar feel "that America is 1."

FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE

The annual bazaar of the Florence Crittenton League will be held in the Copley-Plaza ballroom Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 14 and 15. The bazaar will consist of various shops presided over by women from Greater Boston. Toys and games will be offered at the Winchester shop which will be conducted by Mrs. Newton Shultis and Mrs. W. Holbrook Lowell.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild will hold a whist party in K. of C. Hall on Monday evening, Nov. 12. It will be in charge of Annie M. Hanlon and Lillian Ledwidge. Many prizes have been secured and a large attendance is desired. Come and bring with you any friends who may be in any way willing to swell our charity fund.

A very successful Hallowe'en costume party and dance was given by the Guild in K. of C. Hall last Monday evening. The dorations were very attractive and there was a great variety of costumes. The three prizes which were awarded for the prettiest, most original and most unique costumes were captured by Mrs. Agnes Quinn, Mrs. Frank Vallely and Miss Elsie Sullivan. The social program of the evening was a very fine affair and each and every number was enjoyed by all. The little dancers, Miss Morrisey and Miss McKeon were delightful performers, while Professor Be Journ and his troupe of acting dogs were a decided hit.

Refreshments, home made cakes and jellies were on sale and aprons and novelties were auctioned off by Mrs. Thomas Fallon and Mrs. Lillian Ledwidge in a lively manner. The proceeds of the party will help to complete the Christmas charities of the Guild which include the Christmas tree and shoe fund for the Home for Destitute Catholic children.

The fire department received a number of calls over the week-end all of a minor nature. At 10.55 a. m. Friday, the men were called to the residence of Mrs. John Gorman, 16 Winchester place, the house being filled with smoke. This was from a chimney and there was no fire. At 3.52 p. m. burning grass near the residence of Mr. Thomas Quigley on Lake street required attention, and the alarm from box 41 at 7.20 p. m. was for the same fire. Saturday afternoon burning grass on Chesterford road required attention at 4.30. Sunday, at 12.40 p. m., box 7-541 was rung in for a brush fire at the rear of M. Lynch's house on Pond street. Monday afternoon at 2:35 burning leaves on School street required attention.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Many of us are very fussy about the price we pay for goods but who deliberately pay too much in money, time and health for our pleasures.

Man cannot reach perfection in a hundred years but he can fall in a day with time to spare.

If you are doing your best you have good reason to be happy.

It is better to scratch a little than to catch cold, don't wait too long before putting them on.

They say it pays to advertise, perhaps so, except when you advertise for a competent woman to do housework.

A Statesman

The Selectmen received and accepted on Monday night the Fire Chief's report that all fire alarm boxes have been tested and found in good working order. Superfluous information, considering that none of the board are deaf.

"I am here to co-operate with my associates. We have problems ahead, many men have many remedies. The best remedy is the observance of the Constitution and the laws. Not their enforcement, mind you. I am not now speaking of that. Of course, the Government will enforce the laws. That is far from enough. There must be a return of public opinion toward a self-control by the people, toward a great and overmastering desire to observe the law. When that is done, the other problems will fall away; there will be peace, prosperity, and progress."—President Coolidge in the Atlantic monthly.

Another rainy evening cut down the attendance at the hearing on zoning and planning Tuesday evening. This meeting was one of a series being held by the local Planning Board covering all sections of the town. Notwithstanding the weather, there was the largest attendance yet, showing that some of our residents are awaking up to the importance of this movement. Once you look into this work and you will become immediately convinced of its necessity. The Star insists that all citizens who have not attended the hearings will give our Planning Board a solid backing in its recommendations to come. We have one of the best boards in the State. If you are willing to allow its members to do all the work, do not fail to back it up.

The Star formerly controlled 12 points in Winchester for the posting of placards and paper posters. This was a relic of former days, when all local publicity was largely handled by this way. Billboards were erected and maintained at all important places about town by this paper.' In line with the desire to eliminate all detrimental features which would tend to retard the best growth of the town, the Star voluntarily removed these billboards and returned all rights for this privilege. Subsequently it was instrumental in the passing by the town of its vote to eliminate all such postings on trees, poles, fences, etc. It is, therefore, with regret that the Star notes a return to former conditions. Last spring and this fall has witnessed a liberal display of vividly colored posters placarded on poles at every vantage point about town. Where the right to smear up the town this way is received, the Star does not know, but the fact that our High School athletic teams are the chief offenders at present, does not speak well for the future elimination of the unsightly nuisance. The High School scholars may be exempt from any town by-law and may not be interested in maintaining a standard set by our older citizens, and undoubtedly when they later become office holders of our town we stand a good chance to revert to former conditions, but the Star is sorry to see the movement underway.

That we are living in a critical age no one denies. Whether civilization is to survive or not is a grave question. The old-fashioned international diplomacy has been tried and found wanting. Hence the recent war. Ruthless individualism and selfishness in the industrial world has also utterly failed. Serious minded men are casting about for a new basis on which to establish international and industrial peace. The remedy is so near at hand it is amazing it has not been tried before. It is the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would that others should do unto you." That is the essence of Christ's teachings. There is a great deal more to it than that, of course, but that is the kernel. Thoughtful men are beginning to see that it is the only way out.

The Church has been trying to drive home that doctrine for nearly 2000 years. But the world has never had the courage to try it out seriously and to go through with it. Some say Christianity has failed. The fact is, it has never seriously been tried. Men are now inclined to give it a try as a last resort.

The churches of this town, beneath all their distinctions of sect and creed, pin their faith to the Golden Rule as the way to a better world. If you believe in it, give your moral support to the church, some church. It makes little difference which: only support some church by attending it. In this way you will be contributing something to a better world.

THE SAMUEL W. McCALL SCHOOL

It has been proposed by interested parties that the new Mystic School to be erected at Symmes Corner to replace the school of that name, be called the "Samuel W. McCall School."

WHAT IS ZONING?

Zoning is the application of common sense and fairness to the public regulations governing the use of private real estate. It is a painstaking, honest effort to provide each district or neighborhood, as nearly as practicable, with just such protection and just such liberty as are sensible in that particular district. It avoids the error of trying to apply exactly the same building regulations to every part of a city or town regardless of whether it is a suburban residence section, or a factory district, or a business and financial center. It fosters civic spirit by creating confidence in the justice and stability of the protection afforded.

Zoning gives everyone who lives or does business in a community a chance for the reasonable enjoyment of his rights. At the same time it protects him from unreasonable injury by neighbors who would seek private gain at his expense.

Zoning regulations differ in different districts according to the determination of the land for residence, business, or manufacturing and according to the advisable heights and ground areas.

But these differing regulations are the same for all districts of the same type. They treat all men alike.

WHAT IS THE AMERICAN RED CROSS?

Three and one-half millions of Americans, members of local chapters and branches, banded together in a national organization which received from Congress a charter empowering it

"To furnish volunteer aid to the sick and wounded of armies in time of war;

"To act in matters of voluntary relief and in accord with military and naval authorities as a medium of communication between the people of the United States and their Army and Navy;

"To carry on a system of national and international relief in times of peace and to apply the same in mitigating the sufferings caused by pestilence, famine, fire, floods and other great national calamities and to devise and carry on measures for preventing the same."

The war work of the American Red Cross is known to every American. When the Armtistice was signed, chapters and branches requested a peace time program which should use the war experience and the war fervor to strengthen community life. In many places this was only a continuation of services carried on during the war, in others, it was planned to meet a need made apparent by the war.

The underlying principles of the peace-time war work are these:

1. The primary obligation of the American Red Cross is to disabled ex-service men. No peace-time work may be undertaken by a chapter or branch unless the work for disabled soldiers and sailors is being carried on satisfactorily.

2. The service must be selected by the chapter or branch according to the needs of the local community, after a study of local conditions.

3. Red Cross service must not duplicate the work of existing agencies.

4. It must be carried on in accordance with Red Cross standards. It is for this reason that certain limitations have been made in the kind of service which Chapters and Branches can carry on.

5. The Chapter must be directed by a strong Executive committee which takes responsibility for the development of the service in consultation with National Headquarters.

6. It cannot be made too clear that Red Cross peace-time service is community service, chosen, supported and directed locally. The National organization, through its knowledge of the entire country, makes possible an exchange of experience and the formulation of high standards.

SERVICE ACKNOWLEDGED

To the Editor of the Star:

It certainly was refreshing to your humble servant when I witnessed that magnificent outpouring of people of all walks of life to participate in the services held at the Church of the Epiphany Wednesday afternoon in memory of the late Hon. Samuel W. McCall, one of America's leading statesmen, who, for a large number of years, practically sacrificed his time to help shape the destinies of this great and glorious country, namely, the United States of America.

He was, as you are aware, our World War Governor. His name, I believe, will always be linked with our Civil War Governor, John A. Andrew, and I believe their names will be handed down to posterity as the two Massachusetts governors who faithfully served their constituents in the most difficult periods in the annals of American history.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell.

THE WAY IT HAPPENED

As he approached the corner of Church and Cambridge streets he noticed a girl standing on the sidewalk. So attractive was the vision that he failed completely to note the traffic sign, which he ran over and carried along beneath his car. Reaching Mr. Butterworth's residence he decided the car was not working properly and stopped, discovering the twisted and broken sign underneath. Disentangling it, he started to carry it back to the corner. A backward glance when half way there, showed him his car traveling down Cambridge street at a rapid rate, he having failed to set his brake. After a hot chase he captured the runaway just in time to save it from being wrecked on the curve at the Swan place. The incident being closed so far as he was concerned, he drove on his way.

And they are still trying to make our highways safe for travel!

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian Church officiated at the funeral of Mrs. Isabel A. Merrill, mother of Mrs. Minnie E. Lewis of 20 Manchester road. Mrs. Merrill, who was in her 89th year and who was the widow of the late Benjamin B. Merrill, died on Tuesday. The remains were taken to Windsor, Me., the birthplace of the deceased, for interment.

Dennis McGowan, 52 years of age, residing at 323 Loring avenue, was found unconscious on Swanton street Wednesday night, he having been struck by an automobile. The accident occurred near the beam house of the Beggs & Cobb Company as McGowan was on his way home from his work at the Puffer Manufacturing Company. He was taken to the hospital by Axel E. Berestrom, Jr., and Dr. Cunningham called. He was held at the hospital for observation through the night, although it was thought that he was not alarmingly injured. The driver of the auto never stopped, and search is being made for him by the police.

Have you seen the new auto registration holder Wilson the Stationer is selling. There are many on the market, but this is brand new. It is a little steel cylinder, which is waterproof and may be carried in the pocket, on one's key ring or hung in a hiding place in the car. You need one.

LETTER FROM FORMER RESIDENTS

To the Editor of the Star:

The enclosed letter was received from Mr. and Mrs. Phillips C. Simonds, who left Winchester early in September in their automobile for Seattle, Washington, at which place they arrived this week.

am sure that many of their friends in Winchester will be glad to hear from them.

Very truly yours,

My dear ——:

It is rather difficult to write letters while camping on a cross country trip, but we are in this hotel tonight so perhaps you will be interested to hear from us and what this "coast to coast" journey means. I could fill sheets about it, but will try and give you some idea in a few pages.

First the camps. They are certainly great institutions, and New England should wake up. St. Louis has a good example of the free kind. It is in the public park in the center of the city, near the Zoo and Botanical Gardens, has toilets, stoves, and shower baths. Then in Colorado, New Mexico, and this state, they have also pay camps, where for a dollar and a half you can have a one room cottage with stove, (wood also furnished) and a bed spring. At Albuquerque the cottages were around four sides with a long screened house in the center with stove and tables for those who used their tents. The cars are driven in beside the small cottages, and the whole looks very much like a soldiers barracks. We try to make a pay-camp if possible, as they are generally much better.

In the large camps like St. Louis, with from 50 to 200 or more cars, with all styles of tents and trailers, it is some sight around eight or nine o'clock. As usual, the Fords are very much in evidence. With two or three grown ups, a bunch of kids, and both running boards piled up with camping material, it does not seem as though they could pull thru.

We have met some very nice people, and among them several from Massachusetts. It reminds me of the stories I have read about the gold rush in '49. Ninety per cent are headed for California, and all want to know road conditions.

In every place you find the alarmists who tell you the worst of everything, but I have learned to take all they say with a grain of salt. So far we have been able to pull along by going slowly over the bad places.

At St. Louis, we said good-by to the wonderful cement roads, and started the real driving. Thru Missouri the 200 miles to Kansas City was over a dirt road filled with ruts and a steady up and down hill. By taking the advice of the Auto Club at St. Louis and waiting a day and a half for the road to dry out (it is almost impassable when wet) we made it in two and a half days, running mostly in second speed. Some of those who rushed along thru the mud were four or five days getting thru, and had to be pulled out of the mire half a dozen times by other cars. Kansas had some fair gravel roads, and then at Trindad we started our first climb over the Raton Pass, 8800 feet up. The road is a regular boulevard and 18 feet wide. The next was Glorietta, with a ten mile detour winding in and out among the hills down thru the dry river bottoms 25 or 30 feet deep, and over a red soil bed that is like ice when wet. The storms here are very frequent, and we had one small shower, but managed to get along without chains. That night people coming into camp late said there had been a heavy storm in the afternoon, and the cars were piled up on the detour with people camping just where they happened to be when it struck. Our next was the famous La Bajada grade. Starting early in the morning we went up a steep hill to a high mesa over this for five miles, and then down 1000 feet to the plain below, over a road that has 23 hairpin turns. Had been told that I could not make it with the trailer, but it is one of the finest examples of road engineering I have ever seen. With the engine in first speed, I used my brake only when going into the turns.

Thru New Mexico the roads were pretty rough, and nine out of every ten bridges are out owing to the heavy rains. This means driving almost straight down to the river bed, sometimes thru water three or four feet deep, but generally thru sand as many have dried up, then with the engine in first, push the gas button down to the floor and hang on until you are on the road again. You can imagine the pitch when I tell you we dragged the front end of the rear springs and the number plate on the rear of the trailer is bent straight out.

Then Arizona and our first breakdown. Between Winslow and Flagstaff—60 miles apart, and 17 miles from the nearest station, a little store and a gas pump, a wheel on the trailer went bad.

Our luck was still with us, for along came a fellow and his wife from Washington, D. C., whom we had met in different camps. He was an aviator in the war and some mechanic. You can imagine a road artist like myself, with two women getting along without help. He took off the wheel, found the bearings all chewed to nothing, filed out a washer to hold the thing together, and by packing it every little while, we drove the 17 miles. At the store, I got a new hub, and although the camp crowd looked pretty tough, decided to stop for the night, it was nearly dark, and have the storekeeper make repairs. Along came our friends again, took the wheel apart, put in the new hub and together we started the 30 odd mile drive. Road—there wasn't any. The floods had taken the top completely and you drove on the rock ballast. It took us three hours and a half, and we reached Flagstaff around ten thirty some tired believe me. How the tires ever stood up is beyond me. With only a day's delay, we are going again.

The Grand Canyon yesterday and a 130 odd mile drive today thru snow and rain, but over a good road, for which we are thankful. By tomorrow or next day we hope to be in warm weather again at the edge of the Mojave Desert.

At that we have been lucky, for other cars have been badly broken, and others have five or six punctures a day. We met one car back in Colorado, and when we saw them again at Flagstaff, they had been thru a cloudburst with hail as large as hens eggs. It dented the car, smashed the windshield, and cut the top in ribbons. The people had to wrap blankets around their heads until it was over.

We have seen sandstorms, and a small tornado at a distance. All in all it has been a great experience, and we hope our luck will hold thru to Seattle. The car has pulled wonderfully well, and the trailer makes a great place to sleep at night although it is some work to put it in shape twice a day. Have seen others that are lighter and easier to handle, but then we all have to learn from experience.

Enough is enough you will say, and

Sincerely,

Remember me to the crowd. We shall surely miss Winchester.

The success of an outfit in the Army during a drive depended largely upon the "morale" of the outfit. The morale of an outfit depended upon the confidence the men had in their officers and in themselves. There was no work too hard that had to be done, there was no sacrifice too great to be made when the "morale" was good. I have seen 25 men volunteer for a piece of dangerous work when only one was needed. Now the success of a church depends likewise on the "morale" of its members. That's all.

The meeting adjourned at 10:40 p. m.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen

The fire department was called out yesterday morning for a burning truck on Main street near the Medford line. Gasoline splashing through an open tank and falling on the exhaust pipe is thought to be responsible for the blaze, which was being checked by a hand extinguisher when the firemen arrived. The truck, which was owned by Woburn parties, was not badly damaged.

DRUMMOND'S MARKET

EX-GOV. McCALL DEAD

In 1892 he was nominated by the Republican party as its representative in Congress from the Massachusetts District, being elected over his opponent, John F. Andrew, a son of the famous war governor, by 992 votes. From then on he was re-elected to the House for ten consecutive periods, serving for 20 years. He was a member of the Committee on Ways and Means, Judiciary and Library, serving on the latter committee for four years as its chairman. He retired in 1912, his speech on Feb. 6 of that year, in which he opposed a third term for the President attracting great attention throughout the country.

He was elected a district delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1888, and a delegate at large from Massachusetts to the convention in 1900. He was also chairman of the Committee on Resolutions of the Massachusetts Republican Convention in 1892, and was president of the convention in 1896.

Mr. McCall delivered an oration on Daniel Webster at the Centennial celebration of Webster's graduation from Dartmouth College in 1901, and at that time the college confered upon him the degree of Doctor of Laws. In 1909 he was invited to become president of Dartmouth, but declined to continue his public service in politics.

He was ballot law commissioner in 1889, and he was also the author of a number of important works, the most prominently known being "The Life of Thaddens Stevens" and "The Life of Thomas B. Reed," both published in the American Statesman series.

In 1912, upon the retirement of Senator Crane from the national senate, Mr. McCall ran for the nomination, but was defeated by Senator John W. Weeks after more than 30 ballots. He refused the nomination for Governor of Massachusetts in 1913, but the following year he agreed to accept. He was defeated, but the next year, 1915, he was elected by an overwhelming majority, and was inaugurated Jan. 6, 1916. He was re-elected for two successive terms, 1917 and 1918. In 1920 President Wilson appointed him a member of the tariff commission.

Mr. McCall married Ella E. Thompson of Lydonville, Vt., May 23, 1881, the daughter of Sumner Shaw and Harriet Stark (Wiley) Thompson. They had five children, Mr. Sumner T. McCall of Evanston, Ill.; Henry McCall of Redmond, Oregon; Miss Ruth McCall of New York City, Miss Katherine McCall of this town and Mrs. Arthur Chatell of South Weymouth (Margaret). All of his family survive him.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at the Church of the Epiphany, Rev. Allan Evans, Jr., rector of the church, and Rev. John W. Suter, Rector Honorarius and a close friend and former pastor of the late Governor, conducting the simple exercises. There was the largest attendance of distinguished and notable mourners present that Winchester has ever received at the death of one of its citizens, the church being filled to the doors, with many standing.

Flags about town on public buildings, residences and offices were at half staff. All local business possible was suspended during the service. Town departments stopped work, mills, factories and contractors dismissed their employees at noon. In the public schools an interval of prayer was held and in the lower grades appropriate exercises took place. During the service the bells on the Town Hall and the churches were tolled. Through the orders of Governor Cox, every activity in the State House ceased for five minutes at 2:45 o'clock, the hour of the service, and at the same time every car on the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway stopped for one minute.

A guard of honor from Winchester Post of the American Legion went to the McCall home on Hillside avenue at 11 a. m., when brief prayers were said by Rev. Dr. John W. Suter and Rev. Allan Evans, Jr. Then the guard of honor accompanied the body on the short journey to the church, where it lay in state until the final ceremonies began. Inside the church the profusion of floral tributes had been arranged.

The distinguished mourners began arriving an hour before the time set for the funeral. Senator Lodge, who began his long career in the Senate on the same day that Mr. McCall was taking up his duties as representative at the other end of the National Capitol, headed the list of honorary pallbearers. The others present were Gov. Cox, former Gov. Foss, Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger, former Congressmen L. D. Apsley, Charles F. Choate, Jr., Alfred S. Hall and George A. Fernald of this town, former Congressman Samuel L. Powers, Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, Charles L. Stuart of Lyndonville, Vt., Arthur W. Eaton of Pittsfield and Judge George W. Anderson.

While the mourners were filing in J. Albert Wilson, the organist, played a prelude consisting of Lemaigre's "[illegible]," Guilmant's "Funeral March" and the "Funeral March" of Chopin. As the choir took its place the body was slowly moved up the aisle by the [illegible] pallbearers: Alfred Chatell, the Governor's son-in-law; Charles S. [illegible], Stanley R. Miller, former [illegible] James M. Swift, Congressman [illegible] A. [illegible] [illegible] Crocker and Capt. [illegible]

[illegible] McCall had [illegible] a few minutes [illegible] [illegible] the news of [illegible] Two of the Governor's daughters, Miss Ruth McCall of New York and Mrs. Alfred Chatell, were with their mother. The other daughter, Katherine, is ill in Washington, and the other son, Henry, of Redmond, Ore., could not reach Winchester in time for the funeral.

As the body was met at the entrance of the church by Rev. Allan Evans, Jr., rector of the church, and by Rev. Dr. John W. Suter who conducted the Episcopal Church service, the full vested choir of 45 men and boys chanted the 39th Psalem, "Lord, let me know mine end and at the number of my days." The lesson from the 15th chapter of the First Epistle to the Corinthians preceded the singing of one of Ex-Governor McCall's favorite hymns, "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand."

There was no eulogy, the service concluding with the Episcopal burial prayers for the dead, the singing of the closing hymn, "For All the Saints Who From Their Labors Rest," by the vested choir, followed by the playing of Beethoven's funeral march as the body was leaving the church, escorted by the American Legion and the honorary and active pallbearers.

In the group which accompanied the body to the cemetery were former Senator Lewis Parkhurst, Addison Pike, Herbert S. Underwood, A. B. Corthell, Alfred S. Higgins, E. B. Smalley, Preston Pond and Roland H. Sherman, all residents of this town, and who acted as ushers at the church.

Others in the distinguished company were: Former Gov. John L. Bates, Mayor James M. Curley and former Mayors Thomas N. Hart and John F. Fitzgerald of Boston, Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge, Sheriff John A. Keliher, Dist.-Atty. Arthur K. Reading, Asst. Atty.-Gen. Gardner W. Pearson, Congressman Robert Luce, Secretary of State Frederick W. Cook, Atty.-Gen. Jay R. Benton, Adjt.-Gen. Jesse F. Stevens, Executive Councillors Elwin G. Wright, John E. White, George E. Curran, William W. Ollendorf, Francis T. Aldrich and Eugene Frazer, former Councillors George B. Wason, James G. Harris, Lewis R. Sullivan.

State departments were represented by Chairman Henry C. Atwill of the public utilities department, who was attorney-general under Gov. McCall; Chairman George M. Klein of the department of mental diseases; Chairman Richard M. Flynn of the department of public welfare; James A. Bailey of the metropolitan district commission, David Montague of the Boston licensing commission, James F. Jackson and J. Frank O'Hare of the Boston Elevated trustees; Sanford Bates and Edward Bagley of the department of corrections.

Representing the Legislature of Massachusetts were Senator Charles C. Warren and Representatives Richard D. Crockwell, Lewis H. Peters and Joseph B. Cotton, as a committee appointed by the presiding officers, and others present were Representatives Bert S. Currier of Arlington, Richard J. McCormick of Haverhill and Harrison H. Atwood of Boston, and former Representatives Edward A. Scigliano, Thomas Vinson, Wintfield S. Prime and former Senator Wilton B. Fay.

Others present were Edward F. Hamlin, for many years secretary of the Governor's council; George Phelan, trustee of the George R. White fund; Robert L. OBrien of The Boston Herald, Wilder D. Quint of the Boston Post, Gen. Morris Schaff, Patrick J. Duane, William B. Lawrence of Medford, former Congressman Charles H. Allen of Lowell, Whitefield Tuck, Russell A. Wood, Henry N. Teague of Williamstown, Willard Howland of Chelsea, N. A. Sherman, former Congressman William S. McNary and Joseph H. O'Neil, former Atty-Gen. Albert E. Pillsbury, Frank X. Tirrell, former Secretary of State Frank J. Donahue, former Mayor Charles H. Adams of Melrose, Chester R. Gleason, Edward Horrigan, who was the Governor's bodyguard during his three years at the State House, Chairman Frank H. Foss and Secretary Joseph Martin of the Republican State Committee, Gen. John H. Sherburne, and J. Mitchell Galvin.

The remains were placed in the receiving tomb at Wildwood Cemetery, where a committal service was held at 3:45 o'clock.

ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE

The annual fair of the Animal Rescue League will occur on Dec. 3 and 4, at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston. The average person is more dependent on the services rendered by the public utility companies than he realizes.

A recent estimate by a competent authority showed that in a certain private home the equivalent of about fifteen tons of anthracite coal was used for heating, while the equivalent of about thirteen and one-third tons of bituminous coal came through pipes, wires and the kitchen door in the form of gas service, electrical energy and ice.

Engineers predict that in another generation coal will be seen in only two places—in the museums where it can be examined by school children, and at the mines. In those days, they say, the words "smoke," "soot," "ashes" will be obsolete and heat units in form of manufactured gas will supplant solid fuel

WOODROW WILSON BEFORE WEAF'S MICROPHONE

Breaking his silence of many years, Woodrow Wilson is making his first address to the American public through microphones installed in the library of his home at S street in Washington, D. C., which will be broadcasted by stations WEAF in New York and WCAP in Washington, D. C, Saturday night, Nov. 10.

The significance of this extraordinary event, following the broadcasting of Lloyd George's address through WEAF, is a great tribute to the importance and dignity of the radio audience. Rumors have been heard from many quarters that the former President of the United States would once more become active in the leadership of political affairs and the Democratic party and his address on the evening of Nov. 10, through WEAF on "The Significance of Armistice Day" once more brings him actively before the American public.

His subject, "The Significance of Armistice Day" is indeed one of which no man is better qualified to speak as he more than any other single individual is responsible for the declaration of the Armistice on Nov. 11.

The American people have long been curious to hear this voice from the past to which they once listened so eagerly for the conduct of the daily affairs during the crisis in the world's affairs. WEAF broadcasts on a wave length of 492 meters, 610 kilocycles and WCAP in Washington, D. C., on 469 meters, 641 kilocycles.

RADIO ROBERT

J. K Colton, in Gardner News

Meet Radio Robert and this is the truth
He knows all about what goes on in Duluth,
Far off Missouri and the news can break
But it always will find this smart fellow awake;
For he recently purchased a radio set
And there isn't a station that Robert can't get.

He loves bedtime stories of rabbits and sheep,
When insomnia threatens they put him to sleep;
He likes to hear health talks he gets good advice
And he isn't required to pay a stiff price
If he's tired and feels he's in need of a thrill
The referee reports give him far more than his fill

"I once heard from Cuba," said Robert to me,
But I'd rather not hear from those birds we set free.
They can sing very sweetly and play lovely tunes,
About waving palmettos and tropical moons;
I can stand all that nonsence, but it isn't good cheer
To recall that the Cubans can always have beer!

"In the old days we fought or we went to a show,
Sometimes to a dance in the Town Hall we'd go,
We'd take a short spin through the country and back,
Or sit into a game and lose most of our jack;
Now we stay in the kitchen and save our spare tin
And enjoy grand uproar from Minn'apolis, Minn."

HALLOWE'EN HOODLUMISM

Boston, Nov. 1st, 1923

To the Editor of the Star:

Dear Sir:

The enclosed notice—if incorporated in your paper—may enlighten the Winchester authorities as to what is being done in other towns and cities to protect residents' property from the "hoodlum" or "tough" element on Hallowe'en.

I speak as a property owner—owning my little home and keeping the grounds in a respectable condition—sometimes at a great sacrifice, and also expense. When Hallowe'en comes I am never sure the next morning whether I will have a hedge or any of my shubbery in a presentable condition—to say nothing of doors marked by something being thrown against them.

Winchester could well follow the example set by Salem, and punish one or two of these "entertaining" youths out for people who have no objection to innocent amusement but strongly object to vandalism. I am always glad when the evening is over, as there are only two women in the house, and we sometimes are at a loss what to do. Hallowe'en night they amused themselves by starting a fire almost in front of our place, by lighting some leaves. Fortunately a passer-by put that out before any damage was done, otherwise our hedge would be "no more" this morning.

I hope I have not taken up your valuable time reading this, but when I picked up a Salem paper in the office this morning I thought if we could have more protection in our little town against such work as was performed last night, we could all rest a little more easily on that evening.

I would appreciate your considering this confidential, although no objection to inserting the article if you wish, either this year or next.

Very truly yours,

* * *

Hallowe'en Hoodlumism

The local authorities are not going to stand for such acts of hoodlumism as have been perpetrated to a greater or lesser extent by gangs going about the city in the guise of Hallowe'en celebrants in former years, and who, in their "shuffl" mood, have caused considerable anxiety on the part of property owners in various sections of the city. Not only has there been considerable damage done to private property but the fire department has suffered in the past, because of numerous needless runs of the department to various sections of the city.

The police department will be ready tonight to handle the situation and any acts in violation of the law by these so-called Hallowe'en celebrators will be dealt with without gloves.

City Marshal Edward J. O'Leary has arranged for the entire day force of patrolmen, together with their superior officers and a number of reserve men, to patrol the streets this evening, in addition to the regular night force.

This does not mean that the observance of Hallowe'en cannot be carried on, but it does mean that no rowdyism will be tolerated. The sane celebrators, young or old, can have their lanterns, pumpkins, costumes and the like and enjoy themselves, but for those who are inclined to take advantage of the occasion by overstepping the bounds of common sense, there will be another chapter to record and it will be more expensive one, with its climax in the courts.—[Salem Evening News.

TEACHING PATRIOTISM

Part of the business of The Youth's Companion is cultivating a fine patriotism the love of country; not wrong, but right. The Youth's Companion started the movement for putting the flag on the schoolhouse, it formulated the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag that is repeated today in practically every schoolhouse in the United States. It has for a long time, now, been running a series of patriotic covers picturing striking events in the nation's history. Painted by the best historical illustrators in the country, they are reproduced in full color at frequent intervals on The Companion's cover. It is worth a year's subscription to The Companion to have these covers in our building of the nation pictured so graphically. They help greatly in fixing the memory of the events related in the school histories.

The 52 issues of 1924 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive:

Miss Clarinda Richards Will Address Men's Forum, First Congregational Church Sunday Morning

At the Men's Forum of the Congregational Church next Sunday morning, which is held at the close of morning worship at 12 o'clock, Miss Clarinda Richards, who has just returned from a year's service in Poland with the American Friends' Service Committee, will describe conditions in Poland. There are at present 200,000 orphans in Poland as an aftermath of the recent war. At the request of the Polish Government the Society of Friends is helping in the care and training of large numbers of these children. The Society of Friends are building an agricultural training school and an orphanage for these children and doing a notable piece of work. The public, both men and women, is cordially invited to hear Miss Richards. An offering will be taken for this reconstruction work.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMUNITY DAY

Next Friday Will Witness Open House For Inspection by Residence

Next Friday, between the hours of 2:30 and 8:15 p. m., you are invited to visit the High School and witness its workings. The regular school hours have been changed for your benefit, in order that you may inspect the school at your convenience. In order that you may not hunger, the usual luncheon served for the scholars, will be open to you, and you may go into class with Mary or John and see just how they behave and just how well they know their lesson, and just how Mr. or Miss Teacher conducts her class.

This is the second affair of its kind to be held here, it being conducted under the auspices of the High School Parent-Teacher Association, Mrs. W. Holbrook Lowell chairman, with the co-operation of the teachers. Last year it proved a great success. This year it is hoped it will be even more popular.

You owe it to yourself and your child, as well as to your interest in town institutions and affairs, to attend the school on this open visitors' day. Everything has been arranged for your convenience and comfort. The plan is on the same idea as a public inspection of any large plant or factory. A large reception committee has been appointed to welcome you, guides will be in attendance to conduct you to any desired class room, and you will be given a program covering the hours and rooms for each class.

All Winchester people interested in the High School are invited to attend this Community Day next Friday, Nov. 23.

The program which will be given visitors is to be as follows, it covering the regular courses of studies, with the hours, rooms and teachers; the instructions to the teachers and the special exercises to be held during the lunch period.

WELFARE OF THE EX-SOLDIER THE DEEPEST CONCERN OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

There are thousands of men who wore this country's uniform during the war who, with their families, need comfort and help today even more than they did while the war was in progress. They will continue in need of this help for many years to come. The Red Cross has not forgotten them, and will not. It is the only medium through which most of us can express our loyalty to and sympathy for the men who are suffering today because they fought for us five years ago.

The American Red Cross invites all to share in its inspiring responsibilities. It needs strength in numbers. Enroll when its solicitors visit you.

TO THE SPORT FANS OF WINCHESTER

Tomorrow, on Manchester Field at 2:30 o'clock, the Winchester High School football team plays its last and hardest game of the season. We hear that the Woburn team will be accompanied by a large number of fans, all of whom are confident that the game will be a victory for Woburn. Every Winchesterite is particularly eager that the local team beat Woburn. With this in view, Coach Roberts has drilled the team hard, and after the long strenuous practices of this week the team seems to be in better trim than at any other time this season.

If what we hear of the Woburn team is true, Manchester Field will be the scene of a real football battle tomorrow.

So, all out for the Woburn game—our last and biggest of the season. Everyone cheer the home team on to victory.

LEGION BANQUET

Complete arrangements have been made for the fall banquet at the Legion House next Wednesday evening, Nov. 21 at 6:30 p. m. From all indications this banquet promises to be "the" banquet of the season and all members who miss it will regret it to their last day. Members who have not returned their cards please do so at once so that the committee may be sure of room for all. Don't miss a lively show and some good chow.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Doris Lawson of Washington street gave a reception Monday afternoon at her home, the occasion being her 11th birthday. During the afternoon musical selections were rendered on the piano by Miss Lawson, and general singing enjoyed by the gathering, after which games were played and refreshments served. A most pleasurable afternoon was enjoyed by Marjorie Lawson, Betty Chidley, Octave Cooper, Olga Flack, Ruth Page and Helen Thompson. Miss Doris received many pleasing present.

TEA BY THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The League of Women Voters is giving a tea for members and their guests at the home of Mrs. William E. Schrafft, Arlington street, Winchester, on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 21, from four to six. In connection with the tea the ways and means committee has arranged a sale of Thanksgiving novelties, Christmas tissues, wrappings, and household paper novelties.

METHODIST GIFT SHOP

In a pleasant contest at the Methodist supper in Waterfield Hall, the Bancroft Table won first place. Many names for the annual fair of the Ladies' Aid, to be held Tuesday, Dec. 4th were submitted by the tables. At a meeting of the Ladies' Aid held at the home of Mrs. Harlan E. Ray, 3 Lagrange street, the judges selected the above named as the best for their Fair.

HELP THE ELKS HELP WINCHESTER

Elks' Second Charity Ball, Thursday Evening, Nov. 22nd, Town Hall

The social activities of Winchester folks for next week will not be complete without preparations for attendance at the Charity Ball of Winchester Lodge, No 1145 B. P. O. E.

This is the second affair of its kind held by the local lodge since its inception, and Chairman George T. Davidson and his committee have left nothing undone to ensure its success.

The funds from the Ball are used exclusively for Winchester Charities without regard to race or creed.

It helps Winchester to make possible a real Thanksgiving for many families, who would not enjoy the day were it not for this fund, and it helps to bring happiness to over 500 children at Christmas who would otherwise have but little to be happy over.

All good people of Winchester who have not been approached to buy a ticket, should make it a point to step into the Star office and at least take one ticket. "To help the Elks, help Winchester." For Charity in your own town.

"An Elks' time is always a good time." Aside from lending a helping hand to a deserving cause through the purchase of tickets, all those who will be in attendance are certain to enjoy themselves to the utmost.

Strachan's Orchestra, composed of 10 of Boston's leading musicians, will furnish the music for the occasion. An attractive concert program featuring several leading artists is being prepared and those townsfolks who are not interested in dancing will particularly appreciate this phase of the affair.

A ticket admitting a gentleman and a lady is but $1.50, and may be obtained from any member of Winchester Lodge.

Once again we urge you to "Help the Elks help Winchester" and remind you that in so doing you are helping yourselves to an evening of pleasure that will live long in your memory.

FRACTURED SKULL

William Robinson May Not Live From Injuries

A serious accident occurred Wednesday night at the corner of Church and Fletcher streets shortly before 8 o'clock when Mr. William Robinson of 32 Wildwood street was struck by an automobile and badly injured. He was hit by the mudguard of a Ford touring car driven by Daniel Hackett of Arlington, being thrown to the gutter, the head striking the curb stone.

Mr. Robinson is reported to have left an electric car which had just started, he walking across behind it into the automobile. No one has yet been found who saw the accident. Hackett stating that he did not know that he struck the man until someone shouted to him. He was only traveling at 15 miles an hour he stated.

Hackett took the injured man to the hospital where he was attended by Drs. Ordway and Simon. He was found to be suffering from a fractured skull and concussion of the brain, and his name was placed on the dangerous list.

HEARING ON ZONING

TUESDAY EVENING, NOV. 20

IN THE ASSEMBLY HALL OF THE HIGH SCHOOL AT 8 O'CLOCK

At this hearing District No. 5, including all territory north of Vine street and west of the main line of the Boston & Maine Railroad including Vine street, will be considered.

Every owner of a Home or of Real Estate within these districts should be vitally interested in Zoning, as it protects Residential Districts from invasion by elements which detract both from property values and from personal health and comfort.

RED CROSS

Speech by Dr. Thomas Greene, Publicity Department American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., at the High School assembly, Wednesday, Nov. 7. Reported by Miss Marion Twombly, a member of the Senior shorthand class of the High School.

I just want to tell you that this is fine. I find that going about from one city to another and one State to another gets very tiresome. When I found out that I was going to get up at 6 o'clock and go out to Winchester this morning I was glad. One thing I love to do is to talk to the boys and girls of the High Schools and I take a great deal more pleasure talking to the young people than I do to organizations because I get to be a very tired man talking to so many different organizations and Red Cross chapters. When I get into a town and am given a chance to talk to the boys and girls of a High School I go away thinking "that God is in His Heaven and all is right with the world." I was curious as to what I was going to find in Winchester. I find that you are not much different from the boys and girls that I talk to in other High Schools—the same graceful girls and the same gawky, ungainly boys. When you get through school and out in the world as the men and women in the next generation, larger and more useful Red Cross chapters will be established in Winchester than there are now. I do not know just where I should begin in making this talk this morning. As your principal has said, we are just beginning with next Saturday our annual membership roll call. During the war we had various campaigns and drives, but they were not all connected with the Red Cross. All that we are doing is going out and asking people to continue to become members. I am going to tell you what the Red Cross is and try to tell you why you should all belong to it. Of course you know what Red Cross is, but I wonder if you know where it came from and how it came to be? There are hundreds of people who out of the depths of very devoted souls are looking back to the great war and are saying that it should never be again, that peace should be the state of the world instead of war. The American Red Cross is one result of that reaction.

It was about the time of Florence Nightingale "the lady of the lamp" that Dr. Jean Dunant, a Swiss doctor, realized the necessity of relieving suffering. He was very much opposed to war but in his time it seemed to be very much of a necessity and he knew that something must be done. He got a view of things in America by reading "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and a view of things in Europe, because just at that time the war between Austria, Italy and France broke out. This war was the worst one ever fought and the first hour 46,000 men were killed. Everyone realized that something must be done so representatives of 11 nations met and formed the "Treaty of Geneva" which stated "that doctors and nurses be considered as neutrals on the battlefield."

OLIVER BURNERS APPROVED

Kimball & Earl have installed a large number of the Oliver oil heaters about town, all of which are now giving exceptional satisfaction. Although the demand for the heater is large, this firm is still making prompt installations. It should be noted that the Oliver may be placed in your house heater or range without disturbing the grate arrangement.

The Oliver heater and regulating device has been approved by the Fire Underwriters, notwithstanding statements to the contrary. It comes within your insurance requirements. You need have no hesitation regarding that question.

It was reported yesterday that the residence of Mr. Perley H. Randall at 17 Lloyd street had been entered by thieves on Wednesday during the absence of the family. Downstairs windows were open and the thief is supposed to have entered that way. So far as could be ascertained, nothing of value was stolen.

CHURCH WEDDING

Brilliant Ceremony at St. Mary's Wednesday Morning

At the largest wedding to take place in St. Mary's Church for many years, two well-known Winchester young people were united in marriage at nuptial mass on Wednesday morning, when Miss Katherine M. Crowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Crowley of 19 Cedar street became the bride of Mr. Eugene P. Sullivan, son of Mrs. Catherine Sullivan of 14 Spruce street. The church was crowded to the doors with friends of the couple from this and practically every adjoining town and city.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons of St. Mary's Church, who was celebrant of the nuptial mass. Seated within the sanctuary were Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, pastor, and Rev. Joseph A. Quigley, curate, of St. Mary's, and Rev. Charles A. Donahue of Winchester and Allston. The music was by the full choir of the church and by Mrs. J. Roy McGrath, soprano soloist. Miss Alice O'Brien of Woburn, a friend of the couple, was organist.

The bride was charming in a wedding dress of white canton crepe, with tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lillies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Nellie M. Sullivan, sister of the groom, who wore blue brocaded canton crepe with silver trimmings and silver mauve hat with ostrich plumes. She carried a large bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The best man was Mr. Walter W. Crowley, brother of the bride.

The ushers were Messrs. Robert J. Sullivan of this town and Edward G. Boyle of Woburn, both cousins of the groom. They served also at the reception which was held after the ceremony at the new home of the couple, 12 Spruce street, and which was attended by about 200 relatives and friends. A wedding breakfast was served by a caterer and a musical program was rendered by an orchestra. Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan left by automobile on a wedding trip to Atlantic City and Washington.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School. The groom is a business man, former treasurer of Winchester Council, K. of C., member of the Mystic Associates, John Redmond Court, Irish National Foresters and a call fireman for 15 years.

MRS. JEAN B. SLOCUM DEAD

Was the Widow of Dr. Joel Byron Slocum

Mrs. Jean Berkland Slocum, widow of Dr. Joel Byron Slocum, died suddenly at her home, 3 Myrtle street, Friday night. Death was due to acute indigestion.

Mrs. Slocum was born in Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 16, 1865. She was graduated from Knox College in 1884, and later from the Boston School of Oratory. She then became secretary to Dr. George C. Lorimer, former pastor of Tremont Temple.

In 1893 Mrs. Slocum married Joel Byron Slocum, who was graduated from Colby College and Newton Theological Institution in 1897. Dr. Slocum was ordained by Dr. George C. Lorimer.

Dr. Slocum was pastor of the Central Bantist Church of Norwich, Conn.; Greenwood Baptist Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Warburton Avenue Baptist Church of Yonkers, N. Y.; First Baptist Church of Dayton, O., and also had charges in Laconia and Concord, N. H.

Mrs. Slocumb is survived by two sons, Lorimer B. Slocum of Winchester and Jameson S. Slocum of Philadelphia, Pa.

Services for Mrs. Slocum were held on Sunday at her home, 3 Myrtle street. Interment was at Woodlawn Cemetery, Dayton, O.

W. A. ROBINSON DIED LAST NIGHT

Mr. William A. Robinson of 32 Wildwood street, who was struck and fatally injured by an automopile Wednesday evening at Church and Fletcher streets, died at the Winchester Hospital last night. He had just alighted from an electric car when the automobile hit him, throwing him into the gutter, his head striking the curbstone. He was taken to the hospital and never regained consciousness. Mr. Robinson was a native of Boston and was 56 years of age. He had made his home in this town with his father at 32 Wildwood street for the past 13 years. He was manager of the Ginter store in Watertown. He leaves his father, Mr. Frederick A. Robinson of this town, two brothers, Prof. Edward Robinson of Burlington, Vt., and Mr. Harold B. Robinson of this town, and two sisters, Miss Alida L. Robinson and Miss Amy Robinson, both of Winchester.

The funeral services will be held at the residence on Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian Church officiating. The burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

It may be of interest to note that those of you contemplating doing some Christmas shopping in Boston will do well to make their first stop in Philip Kreem's Gift Shop, 908 Friend street, near the North Station. Here you will find greeting cards for those nearest you, to the most distant friend. A large choice of attractive gifts will indeed make your visit a most interesting one. Gift suggestion folder and greeting card catalogue cheerfully mailed on request.

Miss Althea Fogg presided at the Christian Endeavor social given at the Woburn Congregational Church Tuesday evening. Delegates attended the affair from the Endeavors of all the towns and cities in this district.

AMASA HARRINGTON'S RESIDENCE ENTERED

When Mr. and Mrs. Amasa Harring of Sanborn street returned home Wednesday afternoon they found that their house had been entered and about $500 worth of money and jewelry stolen. The theft was discovered shortly after 3 o'clock, the house having been vacant for only an hour or so. Entrance was effected by prying up a window and breaking the catch with two screw drivers which were taken from the garage and which were left on the piazza under the window by the thief.

Money was taken from a safe in the house, which was found open, and two diamond rings were taken from a dresser, as well as two watches.

The theft brought out the fact that two other breaks, besides that at the Connell residence on Mystic avenue last week, have occurred lately. It is said that a watch and jewelry has been taken from the residence of Mr. Frederick S. Synder on Highland avenue to the value of $900, and about $700 worth of goods stolen from the home of Mr. Joseph Fessenden on Mt. Vernon street.

Mrs. John L. Sherman entertained with Mah-Jong at dinner on Wednesday.

THE FORTNIGHTLY

The open meeting of the Fortnightly, on Nov. 12th, proved a rare treat for all who attended. The artists for the afternoon were Marin Conde, soprano (accompanied by Aaron Richmond) and Joan Bedetti, cellist (accompanied by Arthur Fiedler). As both are musicians of national repute, they need no special introduction. Mme. Conde has a very lovely voice, clear and true, and great dramatic ability which lends much charm to her singing. She was most gracious and attractive in her pretty rendering into English of several Italian and German songs—a little touch that added greatly to the enjoyment of her singing. She was enthusiastically encored.

Mr. Bedetti is a music lover of deep sincerity. The eloquent appeal of his music is rare and beautiful. It can make one forget everything else for a time, and truly "brushes away the cobwebs of everyday life." Sometimes sad, sometimes passionate, often full of dreams, it brought great joy to those who listened.

The program follows:

Eastern Standard Time and continuing thru the night, a most delightful, as well as unique program will be given. Over 100 numbers are on the program and will be furnished by the Elks' Lodges from all over New England. Short addresses, vocal and instrumental numbers, monologues and orchestras are on this program.

The Elks' Toast will be given at 11 o'clock, E. S. T., and again each hour to conform with the same hours, Central Time, Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast. Elks' Lodges have been invited to listen for this Toast from Boston. Prizes are offered numbering many hundreds and include a complete Radio set, given to the lodge receiving the greatest written applause for their portion of the program. Distance prizes will be given and various stunts will have their award.

WADLEIGH-PRINCE, P. T. A.

The Wadleigh-Prince Parent-Teacher Association met at the Wadleigh School on Thursday, Nov. 8th. Mr. W. L. Parsons, Mr. H. W. Ash and Mr. J. W. Russell, Jr., were appointed a committee to confer with the School Committee and the Finance Committee regarding the condition of the Wadleigh playground and bicycle room and to see what improvements the Town would allow at Town meeting in March.

Hallowe'en suggestions for another year were discussed while the very successful party, just past, was fresh in mind.

General regret was expressed that the Town had not granted money to buy magazines for Wadleigh reading this winter. The children miss them and have often asked if any were to be available.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Y. Nutter served refreshments after the meeting. Mrs. Ryan's room is the proud possessor of the P. T. A. banner for this month. The attendance of parents for that room was much larger than of any other.

FORMER WINCHESTER COUPLE ENGAGED

Mrs. Henry Lincoln Houghton of 176 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, has recently announced the engagement of Miss Florence Elizabeth Kirby, daughter of the late Mrs. Florence L. Kirby, to Mr. Edward Phillips Walker son of Mrs. George B. Walker of 25 Chestnut street, Boston, and the son of the late George B. Walker. Miss Kirby and Mr. Walker have been former residents of this town.

IN MEMORIAM

A Requiem High Mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church on Friday morning at 8:30 for the soul of the late Mrs. John P. Marston. The pastor, Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, officiated and music was by the Girls' Choir. The children of St. Mary's School attended in a body as an expression of their deep gratitude and esteem toward the memory of a faithful benefactor.

Mrs. Marston is well remembered for her work for the Red Cross during the World War. The meetings of Mystic Bank unit held in St. Mary's School under her able direction were an evidence of the power that her wonderful personality exerted over others.

She gave of herself freely and her charity was not limited to those of any particular creed or station in life. Those who knew her may well cherish the memory of a true friend.

FISHERMEN ATTEND CHURCH

A unique feature of the service at the First Congregational Church last Sunday morning was the presence of a group of fishermen who have on various occasions fished with Mr. Chidley in Maine. Twenty-six invitations were sent out by Mr. Charles A. Lane to the forest and stream friends of the pastor, and 24 acceptances were received. The occasion marked the beginning of Mr. Chidley's ninth year of service as pastor of the First Congregational Church, and the fishermen provided the pulpit decorations, which consisted of 24 dozen chrysanthemums. Some of the fishermen came from Worcester, Melrose and Newton for the service. Reference was made by Mr. Chidley to the death of Mr. Arthur Turner and Mr. William Olmstead, who were in the fishing party last spring, and who died within a week of each other this fall. Mr. Chidley paid a fine tribute to these men as being good comrades of bivouac and stream. The flowers which were used for decorations were distributed to sick and shut-ins after the service. The occasion was an impressive illustration of the friendliness developed among men who camp and fish together in the Maine woods each year and to the popularity of Mr. Lane's fishing parties. The following men were invited: William A. Marshall, Jere A. Downs, Dr. J. Churchill Hindes, Arthur A. Kidder, Cutler B. Downer, John Marston, Foster Goodwin, W. Pray Wadham, Frank W. Pray, C. B. Goss, Arthur Dean, James B. Lord, G. A. Rivinius, Vincent Farnsworth, Dr. D. C. Dennett, J. A. Dolben, Dr. H. S. Parsons, T. G. Abbott, H. S. Richardson, William A. Kneeland, William Hall, E. Henry Stone, C. A. Gleason, H. J. Chidley, C. A. Lane, Frank H. Beach and William R. McIntosh.

Asst. Supt. Harry W. Dotten of the local water department attended the monthly luncheon of the N. E. Water Works Association at the Boston City Club Tuesday.

NEEDLE WORK GUILD

The Winchester Branch of this well known National organization held its interesting and potent annual meeting at the Parish House of the Church of the Epiphany, on Wednesday morning, Nov. 7. Twenty directors were present or represented and as many well packed boxes and baskets were placed upon tables.

A short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde, President. Mrs. Anthony Kelley read her report as Secretary and Mrs. Alonzo P. Weeks, Treasurer read her's, always a brief one, for the good work of their society is done with very little money. For the first time, there has come this year, a call for extra contributions of money from the National Headquarters in Washington. Next year being the 40th birthday of the Needlework Guild of America it is proposed to celebrate by a Thank Offering to be used for extension purposes. Members are asked to give in units of four—four dollars for an individual, 40 for a Town Branch, 400 for a city. The Directors voted to try to raise 40 dollars before the next annual meeting, by small subscriptions, new money members, etc.

It was the spirit of the meeting that this was another good reason for feeling thankful that Winchester is still a town.

Presently the boxes and baskets were unpacked and over 500 new garments, towels, pillow cases, sheets, etc., were counted and laid upon tables. The distribution followed and the following welfare organizations were remembered:

Mother's Rest at Revere
Tuberculosis Society at Reading
Social Workers in Charlestown
Home Mission in Southern California
Hindeman School, Knotte County, Ky.
Home for the Aged, Town
Ladies' Aid, Methodist
Mission Union, Congregational
New Hope, Baptist
Welfare Work, Episcopal
Women's Benevolent, Baptist
Winchester Hospital
Winchester Visiting Nurse
Overseers of the Poor, Town

THREE AUTO ACCIDENTS

There were three auto accidents here over the week end. The first one occurred about 5:50 p. m. in the centre, when two Ford sedans met head on. One was owned and operated by Gertrude A. Lockword of Meridan street, Malden, and the other was owned by Mary A. Knowles of Wyman road, Billerica, and operated by John W. Bowman of Forest street, Medford. Both cars had their headlights smashed and they were otherwise damaged. The second accident occurred near Bacon street on Church street. Mr. Leonard Worcester of Sacramento street, Cambridge, operating a Chevrolet sedan reported to the police station that he bumped into a Ford touring car while making the turn. Both cars were damaged. The final accident occurred about 5:15 p. m. Sunday in the square, when a Ford sedan operated by Andrew Brandin of Columbia street, Cambridge, while standing near the curb in front of the News Company was run into by a Ford runabout operated by George Williamson of Woburn. Both cars were damaged and Williamson was taken to the police station charged with operating a car while under the influence of liquor and also for operating without a license.

MEMORIAL DEDICATED

The marble memorial tablet to the three young men of the Unitarian Church who made the supreme sacrifice during the World War and to 60 others of the church who served in the World War, was dedicated Sunday in connection with the Armistice Day service at the Unitarian Church.

Rev. George Hale Reed conducted the service which was attended by the families of the three men who gave their lives in the World War. The men were Mahlon W. Dennett, who died from wounds in France; Chester R. Tutein, who was killed in an aeroplane accident in France, and Stewart G. Lane, who died of pneumonia in camp in this country.

During the unveiling of the tablet by Robert Lane and Spencer Tutein, young brothers of two of the honored dead, the choir and congregation sang "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand." Rev. Mr. Reed gave the memorial address.

The tablet was viewed after the service by several hundred persons. It is located on the interior of the north side of the church.

THREE ALARMS FOR ONE FIRE

Considerable excitement was occasioned Wednesday noon by three alarms of fire, all coming in one after the other. Box 31 was sounded, followed by two rounds from Box 36. The fire was found to be in the old McCall house standing at the corner of Washington and Oak streets, now occupied by Ovid Lafleur. It was caused by an exploding oil stove, and the firemen found a hot blaze in an upstairs room. Hand chemicals soon put the fire under control, one room and the hall being damaged by flames, and other rooms by the smoke and heat. It is assumed that excited persons pulled the boxes one after another. Woburn department, as is customary on the third alarm, answered the call, sending down apparatus.

FORMER MRS. MURPHY DEAD

Mrs. Caroline Hutchinson Bowles, formerly Mrs. Hermann D. Murphy, died on Sunday night at her home on Highland avenue. Mrs. Bowles had made her home in Winchester for many years, more recently spending considerable time in traveling. Since early summer she had been residing in the studio on her property at the head of Mt. Pleasant street, and she had been in very poor health. She was 56 years of age, and was the daughter of Col. John Bowles of Kentucky. She is survived by one son, Mr. H. Dudley Murphy, and a daughter, Miss Carlene Murphy, who made her home with her.

Rev. John W. Suter, former rector of the Church of the Epiphany, conducted services at the home on Wednesday afternoon. The remains were taken to Mt. Auburn for cremation.

THE WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

In the reception room of the Chamber of Commerce in the city of Rochester, N. Y., are these words: "In the intercourse of social life, and on all occasions involving the interests of our young city, let us forget our politics and our party and seek only the public good."

A sentiment of this nature is what the Winchester Chamber of Commerce is striving for and living to accomplish.

Voters of Winchester, come, let us bind ourselves together, for, unitedly, we can do much to improve our civic life.

Winchester's Growth

We may not all of us know what a trying period our town has passed through, financially speaking, for five years previous to Jan. 1, 1923.

From the year 1917 to the year 1922, inclusive, there were erected in our town 117 houses, or an average of 23 2-5 houses per year.

From the year 1913, to the year 1917, inclusive, 243 houses were constructed; an average of 48 3-5 houses per year in this five-year period, which may be considered a normal growth under ordinary circumstances.

During the five-year period up to, and including 1922, occurred many of the horrible results of the World War, financially and otherwise, and the valuation of our town was very largely increased as well as the tax rate, in order to obtain money with which to govern ourselves.

We are still living under the old law of "cause and effect," and as there is a very great shortage of houses in our town, would not the subject matter be a fruitful topic of discussion at a meeting of our Chamber of Commerce?

It is unfortunate for our town when the young and newly married couples have to seek homes out of town, when we are so much in need of their assistance to help in the building up of our town.

It has been said that it is darkest just before dawn, and in looking over this present year's house construction we are pleased to state that there is already constructed and under construction, 55 new dwellings which would indicate that we as a town, are passing from a state of adversity to a more prosperous condition financially.

There is still great need for each of us to assist in all ways possible in the up-building of one of the noted towns in this Commonwealth.

The Chamber of Commerce is pleased to see that the Swanton street bridge which was discussed by the Chamber some time ago, is being constructed under the direction of the Board of Selectmen and the Boston & Maine Railroad.

The matter of the Ridge street property pertaining to water and sewerage has been brought to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce for action. At the open meeting of the Chamber which was held in the small Town Hall on Tuesday, Nov. 6th, Mr. Harris gave a very interesting talk on the Red Cross drive giving us the purpose of the drive and the good that is done every year by the Red Cross.

ELKS MEET TUESDAY

Winchester Lodge of Elks will hold its next regular meeting on Tuesday evening, Nov. 20th, at which time considerable important business will be transacted as well as a number of new candidates initiated. At this meeting the returns of tickets for the coming Charity Ball will be made.

The Lodge will hold special services on Sunday, Dec. 2nd, in observance of Elks' Memorial Day, and on Dec. 4th, DDGER Michael H. McCarron and suite of Woburn Lodge, will make an official visit.

Messrs. Thomas Fallon, Arthur W. Day and Harry W. Dotten have been appointed by ER Frederick D. Clement as additional members of the entertainment committee, and have also been commissioned to arrange a bowling tournament with Waterfield Lodge of Odd Fellows, the latter body having extended an invitation to use their alleys during the coming season.

CLOSE FOOTBALL GAME

Winchester High lost to Watertown High in a Mystic Valley League game Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field by one point, the visitors winning 13 to 12. The game was the best exhibition put up by the local boys yet, they putting up a strong defense and their offensive playing being above the average. Bridge played a fine game at centre, and although very light, was a mainstay of the team. His playing was particularly noted.

The score:

BOX SOCIAL

The Cornerstone Class of the Second Congregational Church is planning a box social for Monday night, Nov. 19, at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that everyone in the community will feel welcome and come. Ladies are to bring a real fine and appetizing lunch all done up in a box and these boxes are to be auctioned off to the gentlemen. There will be no identifying marks on these boxes so there will be quite a little excitement and curiosity over luncheon partners. A fine entertainment is planned which will be well worth while, with entertainers from Boston.

Three Winchester ladies Mrs. Newton Shultis, Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott and Mrs. W. Holbrook Lowell, are in charge of a very attractive doll table at the annual Florence Crittenton Bazaar being held at the Copley-Plaza this week.

Heat With GAS

It costs approximately 43c to build a furnace fire! It takes thirty minutes of your time, more time waiting for the house to heat up and more time cleaning away the ashes. That's a waste of time and money when you only need a little heat in certain rooms at morning and evening.

Gas Steam Radiators

for Homes, Stores, Offices, Churches

No boiler or basement heating plant required. Each radiator operates individually. Light the gas at the radiator (which boils the water in the pipes) just as you need warmth in that particular room or hallway.

Let our heating engineers examine your rooms and estimate the cost. There are different sized radiators for different sized homes.

UNVEILING OF TABLET AT UNITARIAN CHURCH

The tablet in memory of the young people of the Unitarian Church who served in the World War was unveiled Armistice Day, at the regular morning service. A large congregation was present, including the parents of the Gold Star boys. Mr. Reed spoke of the duty of remembering these boys by living for the things for which they gave their lives, and Mr. Scott, and the quartette gave music especially appropriate for the day. The tablet is simple and beautiful in design, of soft grey marble. The names of the Gold Star Boys are: Mahlon W. Dennett, Stuart G. Lane, Chester R. Tutein, with three gold stars, are followed by the inscription, "Victorious in the Strife for the Prizes that are Undefiled." Robert Lane and Spencer Tutein unveiled the tablet. It was erected by the Society, and designed and executed under the direction of a committee of which Mr. John B. Wills was chairman.

These are stirring times! Come and be informed by Miss Eunice Avery on Wednesday, Nov. 21, at 3 p. m. in the Town Hall. A list of new fall books will be given and discussed. Single admission $1, or nine lectures for $4.50.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

If defeat strengthens and sweetens character, it is not defeat at all, but victory.

A thief steals from himself, and a swindler swindles himself, what he considers apparent gain is an actual loss.

If you have ceased to smile, you have lost out, in the game of life whether you be rich or poor.

If you are to get a lot out of the next year, you must make up your mind to put a lot into it.

The young man of today should not wait to become a great man—he should be a great boy now.

Of course you tuned into the new station, WTAT, at Woburn, Massachusetts, Monday night!

Residents in this vicinity are still wondering when Uncle Sam's parlor airship, the Shenandoah, will find the weather propitious for visiting Boston. It is lucky we do not need this sturdy ship for fighting purposes.

The Boston Traveler in its editorial columns said not long ago:

"It would be well if those who are honestly seeking to cure the ills of society would first find out what is the basic ailment.

"The front pages of newspapers are replete with accounts of burglary, of murder, of suicide, of charges of corruption in high places. These are but the most obvious symptoms of the social disorder. But group them altogether; analyze and study them, and what do you find to be the basic trouble?

"It is, we believe, 'pleasure madness.' Too many people have lost their advantage to religion or the home or whatever it was that once restrained them and have gone absolutely insane on the subject of 'a good time.' They are unable to be content with the pleasures that can be reached by honorable means. Passion drives them to break every law, human or divine, that stands in their way. No matter what it may be that they have set their desires upon—whether money or political success or illicit love or the destruction of a rival—they go to it as if there was nothing else in the world to consider. Only when they have committed some irreparable wrong do they discover the truth—that pleasure bears no more resemblance to happiness than black does to white.

"Pleasure-madness is the disease. The learning of self-restraint, in the schools, the churches and the homes, is the only known remedy.

"The Churches are the strongest bulwark against this return to barbarism. If their light goes out the world sinks back into savagery. Your church is doing its share to keep this community decent and to spread the ideals of Christ beyond its walls. Give worthily to her support, both by your attendance at her services and of you means, that she may carry on her campaign effectively. There is no other investment which pays such enduring returns."

WHY DO WE NEED ZONING?

Some one has asked, "Does your city keep its gas range in the parlor and its piano in the kitchen?" That is what many an American city permits its household to do for it.

We know what to think of a household in which an undisciplined daughter makes fudge in the parlor, in which her sister leaves soiled clothes soaking in the bathtub, while father throws his muddy shoes on the stairs and little Johnny makes beautiful mud pies on the front steps.

Yet many American cities do the same sort of thing when they allow stores to crowd in at random among private dwellings, and factories and public garages to come elbowing in among neat retail stores or well-kept apartment houses. Cities do no better when they allow office buildings so tall and bulky and so closely crowded that the lower floors not only become too dark and unsatisfactory for human use, but for that very reason fail to earn a fair cash return to the individual investors.

"Live and let live" is a better motto for the modern city than the savage one of "dog eat dog."

It is this stupid, wasteful jumble which zoning will prevent and gradually correct. We must remember, however, that while zoning is a very important part of city planning, it should go hand in hand with planning streets and providing for parks and playgrounds and other essential features of a well-equipped city. Alone it is no universal panacea for all municipal ills, but as part of a larger program it pays the city and the citizens a quicker return than any other form of civic improvement.

The November vesper service will be held at the Congregational Church in Stoneham, Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The choirs of St. James Methodist Church and Mystic Congregational Church of Everett will unite with this church in a chorus of 70 voices. The ministers of the three churches will participate in the service. The public is cordially invited.

We quote from "The Greatest Family in the World," a little book published by the Bank of the Manhattan Company, New York. Speaking of the agent it says:—

"He sells personal service plus company service. By fitting the right kind of a policy to the conditions of the individual who buys it, the agent makes possible a home for the family, education for the children, a care-free old age, protection for business, strength in credit and the creation of an emergency fund."

CALUMET BOWLING TOURNAMENT

With the opening of this week the first revision of ratings in the bowling tournament at the Calumet Club took place, chairman Heaton of the committee posting figures based upon the actual rolling of this season.

Tuesday evening's matches, under these new figures, saw team 15 win all four points from 18, 29 take three from 17 and 14 a like number from 11. As 14 and 15 stand well up near the top, they appeared to be rolling true to form. Pitman was high bowler with 333 on a string of 121, while John Tarbell rolled 311 with 115. Other good scores were: Wolfe 118, Hull 111, Moffette 109, Engstrom 106, Pond 104, Gilpatric 102, Seller 101, Begien 100 and Smith 100.

The teams rolled as follows:

Team 15 vs 18. Team 15—Sargeant 87, 97, 88, 272; Tuttle 78, 90, 97, 265; Chamberlain 74, 80, 87, 241; Begien 100, 92, 86, 278; Pitman 121, 109, 103, 333. Team totals 494, 502, 495, 1491. Team 18—Brown 73, 84, 74, 231; Engstrom 106, 103, 90, 299; Kelley 80, 80, 80, 240; Moffette 75, 109, 78, 262; Swift 80, 80, 80, 240. Team totals 419, 491, 337, 1377.

Wednesday night's matches resulted in wins for teams 9, 2 and 16, teams 10, 1 and 13 losing. Goldsmith was high with a total of 364 and a single of 162, exceptional bowling. Newell Purrington rolled 318 with 123, Sidney Blanchard 312 with 114, Sanford 312 with 112, Fairchild 114 and Higgins 110.

The scores:

Team 9 vs 19. Team 9—Fairchild 114, 79, 94, 287; Stackpole 82, 82, 82, 246; Adams, 91, 104, 90, 285; Dickson 102, 92, 84, 278; Goodale 103, 104, 90, 297. Team totals 493, 462, 441, 1395. Many radio fans received a brand new station Monday evening when WTAT broadcasted from Woburn. The occasion was the electrical show being held at Times Hall, and the broadcasting station was the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston. An excellent program of music by the Bostonian Orchestra was given on a wave length of 244 meters.

Some people think that the Red Cross is a religious symbol. It is not. Not that I do not believe in religion but the Red Cross has not the least connection with religion. It is the Swiss bag turned inside out in honor of Dr. Jean Dunant, who first started the movement. Our charter wasn't made until 1882 and since then we have gone on doing the thing that the treaty of Geneva said that we were to do. We take care of the more than 27,000 men in the hospitals that will have to stay there until they die as a result of shell shock, gases, tuberculosis, and shattered brains. The American Red Cross strives to do the things that are necessary to keep them comfortable. Many and many a joyous thought comes into the mind of the American people when they think of the Red Cross. It acts as a relief agency in time of disaster. People say, "Why don't they stop now the war is over?" Because a few weeks ago there came the earthquake in Japan.

President Coolidge turned and said, "We must help Japan. We need $5,000,000. The American Red Cross will act as relief agency." It is the relief agency of the American government. President Coolidge signed that proclamation at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and by 11 o'clock on Friday more than 2563 Red Cross chapters situated all over the U. S., Guam, Hawaii, in foreign cities—2563 had been notified of the President's proclamation and what it had called for and inside of eight days the American Red Cross had collected more than $11,000,000. That was so not only because the American people are willing, but because they are right on the job.

President Coolidge said "I am sure that the confidence which the country has in the Red Cross has not been misplaced. When disaster strikes we can turn to the Red Cross. We know that we shall not look in vain, for the Red Cross has never failed us."

You do not know when half of Boston is going to burn, you do not know when an earthquake is going to strike and thousands of men, women and children are going to stand out in the rain without food until the Red Cross comes to help them. My time is up but I want to tell you one thing. I wonder if you know what we did when we raised the $11,000,000 that the American people gave to Japan? You have been reading about war with Japan. I have been in Japan and I know a great many Japanese statesmen. The Japs have at least got common sense. No Jap is going to think of the possibility of 6,000 people packed in a little island going 5000 miles across the ocean to fight 12,000,000 people. With $11,000,000 given in the name of friendship and loving kindness, the American people have tied Japan to America with bands of friendship that will never be forgotten. America never bought so much in all her life as she has bought with $11,000,000 when she has made peace forever between America and Japan.

Before I close I am going to tell you the story of how the robin got his red breast as it was told to me by an old peasant guide when I was in Europe:

Many and many years ago the robin was just like any other bird with a brown breast, then the story goes on to tell that once upon a time there came a day so full of terror that the whole world trembled. Three crosses were set up and on those three crosses three men were hung one to die. Two of these men were thieves but the one who hung in the middle was white and lovely with only a smile for those who had hung him. No complaint came, but only the words that God might forgive them who had hung here. In the noon day there became a sudden hush—the birds came fluttering back to their nests, the eagle gave one glance at the darkness and with a terrible screech went to his nest, the dove came flying with heavy wings and saw beneath the crown of thorns the quiet face. The robin flying by saw the blood drop and flew straight to the crown of thorns and tried to tear them off, but then there was a clap of thunder and the robin fluttered down to the foot of the cross and when the light came they found that the robin's breast was all red from the blood. Then God said that because the robin tried to do a loving, helpful thing he should wear as a badge of honor his breast of red.

RESIDENTS SHOULD AVAIL THEMSELVES OF THE OPPORTUNITY

To the Editor of the Star:

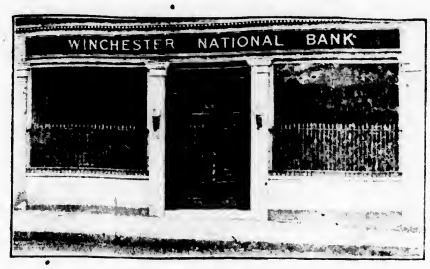

The citizens who have attended the recent hearings on zoning given by the Planning Board have been impressed with the practical need of the prompt adoption of a zoning by-law in this town.

The attendance at some of the hearings has been small. This may indicate the confidence of the public in the Planning Board and their proposed scheme of zoning. However, there appear to be conflicting views as to the details of the plan and it seems desirable that all voters should avail themselves now of the opportunity to become acquainted with the zoning plan which has been prepared and should offer now their suggestions. This will not only assist the Planning Board who are giving their time gratuitously in a real public service, but will tend to avoid controversy when the zoning by-law is presented to us at the Town meeting, and will make possible its prompt adoption.

Yours truly,
W. L. Parsons

An afternoon bridge was held for the ladies of the Calumet Club on Wednesday, the affair being in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. Harris S. Richardson, Mrs. John H. Taylor and Mrs. Ralph E. Miss Barbara Forbes daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Forbes, is one of the "Orange" girls at the Shakesperian Festival at the Copley Plaza today. This is one of the social events of the season. Miss Forbes represents one of the "Orange" girls of the old Globe Theatre of Shakespeare's time.

While riding horseback in the Fells Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Dean Blanchard heard the screams of a woman near the old Molly's Spring. Riding into the woods he startled a group of young men who were later said to be assaulting a girl residing on Highland avenue. The men fled in all directions, and Mr. Blanchard, after caring for the girl, who was 15 years of age, notified the police. Winchester officers rounded up the men, who were taken in charge by the Metropolitan District police, under whose jurisdiction the offence was committed. The chief offender was identified by the girl yesterday.

Patrick White of Dane street, Somerville, night man at the Central Garage, was handling an oil heater Sunday night and was quite badly burned about his face and arms when the stove exploded. He was given first aid at the police station by officers Hogan and Noonan, and fire chief DeCourcey, later being taken to his home.

Alberico Luongo of Swanton street was in court the first of the week as the result of an automobile accident at Church and Dix streets last week Tuesday. There were three cars in the smash, the Ford driven by Luongo, a truck of the Richardson Market and a Dodge touring car. Luongo was arrested for driving at an unreasonable rate of speed. He was fined $100 and the fine suspended until next August.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland K. Reed of Philadelphia are the parents of a son, Roland K. Reed, Jr., born yesterday. Mrs. Reed will be remembered by many Winchester friends as Miss Helen Ireland, the daughter of Mrs. Annie Ireland.

Mrs. Adelaide Pavson Heath was taken ill while visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. Wilder Marsh in Derry, N. H., and died there quite suddenly on Nov. 13. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. Wilder Marsh and Mrs. Dwight D. Elliott, and three sons, living in Maine. She was a member of the First Baptist Church. Services were held today in Camden, Me., where interment took place.

Have you seen the new auto registration holder Wilson the Stationer is selling. There are many on the market, but this is brand new. It is a little steel cylinder, which is waterproof and may be carried in the pocket, on one's key ring or hung in a hiding place in the car. You need one.

TRIBUTE TO DR. PUTNAM

To the Editor of the Star:

On returning from my home in New York State I have been shocked to learn of the death of Dr. Ralph Putnam.

For 18 years Doctor Putnam was the school physician of the school department in the Town of Winchester. During that time he was largely responsible for establishing standard, efficient care for the health of the children in the schools which served as a model in other towns and cities. Skilful, sympathetic, judicious, patient, he, and his associates under his wise direction, made real for a multitude of boys and girls the vision of good health which is a fundamental basis for happiness and well-being in youth and thereafter.

He was a modest gentleman and did his day's work without thinking of either praise or blame. By those who are interested in the tomorrow of our country he will be remembered with thankfulness that such as he have been in the service of the schools.

Yours very truly,
Schuyler F. Herron

To Remove Beans From Nose.

If children put beans or other small objects up the nose in such a way as to make the removal difficult rub cayenne pepper upon the upper lip to induce sneezing. In this way the small impediment is usually expelled with no need for summoning the physician.

Fly Is Champion Germ Carrier.

As high as 25,000 germs have been found in the digestive tract of a single house fly, and as high as 4,000,000 on its hairy legs and body, it is claimed.

Message From the Principal

No. 3—Sept. 5, 1923

Suggestions for the conduct of the supervised study period:

The length of the period is 60 minutes. The first 40 minutes of this time may be used for recitation and assignment, and at the ringing of a bell at the end of this time, the last 20 minutes should be given to supervised or directed study. The following are a few suggestions for the proper conduct of the supervised study period.

1. Be punctual in closing the recitation and assignment when the bell rings marking the beginning of the supervised study period. It is desirable, if possible, to finish the recitation and assignment before the ringing of the bell so that more than the regular time may be given to supervised study.

2. If for any reason either the recitation or the assignment demand the use of the entire 60 minutes, no home assignment should be given for the next day.

3. The most important function of the teacher in the matter of directed study is to teach the pupil how to study. This should be done through the medium of constructive assistance to the pupil.

4. The time of the supervised study period should be considered sacred to the subject concerned. Under no circumstances should the period be used for studying a subject other than that assigned to the period.

5. While the first 40 minutes of the period or such time as is used for recitation and assignment is for dealing with the group as a whole, the supervised study period should be given over to dealing individually with the pupils.

6. Ordinarily the best procedure for the teacher is to spend at least a part of the period inspecting the work being done at the pupils' desks. The teacher should feel himself responsible for knowing what each pupil is doing during the supervised study period.

8. An excellent way to promote industry and be sure of accomplishment is to give frequently a three-minute test upon the work assigned for the supervised study period.

K. OF C. COUNTRY CIRCUS

Winchester Council, 210, Knights of Columbus, is making elaborate preparations for the indoor Carnival and Country Circus which this organization is to conduct in the Town Hall on Dec. 20th, 21st, and 22nd.

The objective in view this year is a most praise-worthy one and one, in which, it is felt, all the townspeople will be interested. It is proposed by the Council to open up in its new home on Vine street a Recreation centre where all the youths of the town will be given a hearty welcome and where Victrola selections, an interest in Radio, and a good supply of the best books will furnish a counter attraction to the mischief in which many of our boys indulge. This is being done in accordance with the desire of the National Council of the Knights of Columbus which has made such a splendid record in its postwar social service work.

All the fraternial organizations in town are to be invited to lend a hand with the Carnival, either in sending a delegation to participate in the parade which will open the Country Circus on Dec. 20th or in taking charge of a booth at the Carnival or in doing both.

Mr. Daniel F. Dineen is chairman of the Carnival Committee with Mr. Henry Murphy as Secretary, and these gentlemen are being assisted by a hustling Committee who have earnestly at heart the future welfare of the local Council, K. of C.

REV. HENRY LYONS HONORED

Rev. Henry Lyons, a former Winchester boy and recently chaplain of Pere Marquette Council, K. of C., now a pastor in Danvers, was tendered a testimonial last Sunday evening by the members of Pere Marquette Council, K. of C., for whom Fr. Lyons served as chaplain for almost 10 years. Fully 500 members crowded Pere Marquette Hall, N street, South Boston, where the testimonial of deep affection and appreciation for his work was given.

The members planned for a much larger demonstration but on learning the plans Fr. Lyons requested them to have the celebration in their own hall and among their own members.

Fr. Lyons was given a right royal welcome when he entered the hall, Andrew J. Gleason, PGK, of Pere Marquette Council, who was the chairman of the general committee made the presentation speech. He told how Pere Marquette members owed the former chaplain more than they could ever pay. He reviewed some of the activities of Fr. Lyons and said that it would require a book of many volumes to enumerate all that he has done for the council. Mr. Gleason said that Fr. Lyons has been missed from the community because he had been a part of it so long and he had done his work so well. He then presented the former chaplain with a purse of gold.

Fr. Lyons said that he worked for Pere Marquette because he loved the council. He extolled Pere Marquette for its record and urged the members to greater activity in the future. He said that he felt sorry that he had to leave South Boston and the people whom he had met in the district. There wasn't a dry eye among the throng when Fr. Lyons sat down.

The Knights of Columbus of Pere Marquette Council were not alone in their praise. Mayor James M. Curley and Fire Commissioner Glynn paid their personal respects to Fr. Lyons and both said they knew of no clergyman who had demonstrated more spiritual guidance than Fr. Lyons in his service in South Boston.

An excellent entertainment was furnished by Wiley and Phipps, John O'Brien, Lloyd Chase, Joseph Mikolewjewski and Patrick Barrett, Joseph Madden, Billie Keene and Mr. McLaughlin.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON CIRCLE

On Thursday morning the first sewing meeting of the Circle was held at the First Congregational Church with a small number of busy workers in attendance. An excellent luncheon was served by Mrs. DeCamp and her committee. Rev. George A. Lawson, Chaplain of the Florence Crittenton Home gave an appealing talk upon the girls as he knows them at the Home.

All sewing meetings are to be at the First Congregational Church and it is hoped that many more members will help in this necessary part of the work. Always telephone Mrs. DeCamp in advance when wishing to stay for luncheon.

Miss Doris Puffer of Wildwood street, returned home this week from New York where she has been visiting friends.

This Friday evening will witness an important night of sport at the Calumet Club, when Paul Poehler and Archie Walsh will bowl against two Calumet members on the local alleys. Poehler and Walsh have visited Winchester before, appearing at the same club. They are expert bowlers and have always carried off the honors on previous contests here. In addition to the bowling, Prof John Shields, the billiard expert, will give an exhibition of finger billiards and fancy shots.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

Of course you are looking forward to the Thanksgiving dinner. But have you thought of it from the viewpoint of your wife or mother, who will spend nearly the whole day in the kitchen?

What kind of gas cooking equipment will she use? Is the range rusty with age, wasteful, inefficient? Or will the Thanksgiving dinner this year be prepared on a modern, automatic, oven control range which makes cooking a real pleasure and insures perfect results?

On this particular range you set the control, put in the roast or dinner, and at the end of time set, the dinner is done to a turn. No one has to be in the kitchen in the meantime. And no match is needed to light the gas.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

On Saturday evening, Nov. 3rd, six representatives from the local Court, Grand Regent Alice Martin, Past Grand Regents Anne Poland, Elizabeth C. McDonald and Frances T. Conlon, Monitor Jane King and Mrs. Minnie Noonan, attended the State Banquet of the Catholic Daughters of America held at K. of C. Headquarters, Boston, where over 1000 women were present, a fair representation of the 10,000 members of the order in this State. The guests of honor included Rev. William B. Finegan, State Chaplain of the order and Miss Mary C. Duffy of New Jersey, newly-elected Supreme Regent of the C. D. of A.

Fr. Finegan delivered a stirring address, thrilling his hearers repeatedly, as he related the achievements of this great order in all the states of the union, in the Philippines, Panama and Canada. Again and again Fr. Finegan was interrupted by applause and at the conclusion of his talk he was accorded an ovation, having ended his address with the statement that the young Catholic girl of today may find a glorious standard in the Catholic Daughters of America.

Miss Duffy, the Supreme Regent, recently returned from a trip whose itinerary included all the states west of the Rockies and a return by way of the Gulf States, told of the splendid Clubhouses which the Daughters have built at Spokane and several other places and of the Americanization work that is being carried on in several of the states. She stressed most emphatically the power which may be exercised, especially in behalf of good legislation and against bad laws by this great thinking organization of over 200,000 Catholic women. Miss Duffy, also, was given an ovation and a warm reception which assured her of the loyalty of her Massachusetts members.

At the regular meeting last night a session of sorrow was conducted for Mrs. Genevieve H. Walsh of New York City, former Supreme Regent of the order and by far the most efficient organizer that the organization has yet developed. In her passing the order has lost one of its great leaders and the local Court mourns a dearly-beloved friend.

Plans are well under way for the annual Christmas whist, to be held under the auspices of the Charitable Committee, Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, Chairman.

Trustee Mary Kelley, who has been quite ill at her home on Hill street, is reported as improving. The Court looks forward to Sister Kelley's early recovery as she is a splendid worker and a regular attendant at meetings.

The prizes at the Hallowe'en masquerade were awarded to: Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Minnie Noonan, Miss Helen O'Connor, Miss Dorothy Horne, and Mrs. John O'Brien.

LADIES' FRIENDLY FAIR

Do your Christmas shopping early at the Unitarian fair at the Church, Dec. 4th at 3 o'clock. Many worthwhile novelties will be on sale, such as bulbs in pottery bowls, small plants, fancy articles and holiday wrappings for Christmas packages. WINNER OF PHYSICAL TESTS

Bruce G. Bond, son of Herbert T. Bond of 16 Hillside avenue, has passed with distinguished credit an interesting series of physical tests at Tilton School, where he is a senior. The school authorities, desiring to test and develop every boy—not merely the members of the various teams—require all not excused by physician's advice, to take what is called the simple manhood test. To pass this, one must run 100 yards in 14 seconds, make a running broad jump of 12 feet, climb an eight-foot fence from a still hang, throw a baseball 127.3 feet through a 10-foot target, and make a running high jump of three feet six inches. All passing this are given a second test, which requires the boys to run 100 yards in 13 seconds, make a running broad jump of 15 feet, climb the eight-foot fence in six seconds, through a baseball the same distance as before through an eight-foot target, and make a running high jump of four feet six inches. One hundred and twenty-four boys passed the first tests, but only two were able to do everything required by the second. One of these two was Bond.

SEAL OF THE TOWN OF WINCHESTER MASS. WATERFIELD 1638 WINCHESTER 1850

School Building Committee

PROPOSAL FOR MYSTIC SCHOOL

The School House Building Committee of the Town of Winchester invites sealed proposals to erect and complete an elementary school building on the corner of Madison avenue and Main street, Winchester, Massachusetts, to be called the Mystic School, as shown and described on the drawings and specifications prepared by Ritchie, Parsons and Taylor, architects, which may be seen at the office of said architects, Ford Building, Boston, Massachusetts on and after Monday, November 19, 1923.

Separate sealed proposals are also invited (1) the plumbing; (2) the heating and ventilating; and (3) the electrical work, to be done in said school building in accordance with said drawings and specifications. The plumbing, heating and ventilating and electrical work will be let as separate contracts.

Each proposal should be upon a blank form to be obtained from the architects, signed with the legal signature of the bidder and enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Winchester School House Building Committee, marked "Proposal for the Mystic School" and either "General Construction," "Plumbing," "Heating and Ventilating," or "Electrical Work" as the case may be. With each proposal for General Construction there should be a certified check payable to the order of the Town of Winchester for $1500, and with each proposal for the Plumbing, Heating and Ventilating, or Electrical Work there should be a certified check for $750. All such proposals should be delivered at the office of Ritchie, Parsons and Taylor, Ford Building, Boston, by twelve o'clock noon, Wednesday, November 28, 1923.

At that time and place all proposals made and delivered in accordance with the foregoing direction will be publicly opened and read. No other proposals will be considered, and any proposal received after said time will be returned, unopened. If any bidder whose proposal is accepted refuses or neglects to sign a contract therewith with satisfactory bond as provided in the proposals within fifteen days after such acceptance, the check accompanying this proposal will be retained, collected and the proceeds will become the property of the Town. All other checks will be returned upon the signing of the final contracts.

The School Building Committee reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to accept any proposal if it shall deem it for the interest of the Town so to do. Any proposal shall be considered as rejected unless it is accepted by the Committee as noted in the proposal.

Plans and specifications may be obtained at the office of said architects, and a deposit of $25.00 will be required for each set of plans and specifications taken for estimating purposes, such sums to be refunded only in case plans are returned with the estimate. In any case plans are the property of the architects and must be returned to them. Extra sets may be purchased for $15.00 each, and must be returned without refund.

THOMAS F. McCAULEY

Popular Police Sergeant Died Last Friday Evening

Sergt. Thomas F. McCauley of the Winchester police department, after a long and wasting illness, died at his home on Elm street last Friday night.

Sergt. McCauley was 52 years of age and a native of Woburn, being the son of the late Patrick and Susan (Gilgun) McCauley. He received his early education in the public schools of Woburn and upon his graduation went at once to work, being in the employ of Mr. James W. Russell for a period of 14 years.

He was appointed a member of the Winchester police force in 1907, and in 1915 was appointed a Sergeant. He was one of the best known officers in this section and was a most efficient and able servant. His unfailing courtesy and strict adherence to duty won him a high place in the estimation of the citizens of the town and his superiors.

Sergt. McCauley was married in June, 1898, to Miss Maria G. O'Rourke of this town, who survives him, together with four daughters, the Misses Esther M., Alice B., Elizabeth and Helen; two sons, Messrs. Joseph T. and Francis T. McCauley, and three sisters and five brothers—Mrs. Susan McDonough, Mrs. Mary Ward, Miss Rose McCauley, Messrs. Patrick, Martin, John, James and Charles R. McCauley, all of Woburn. His brother, Charles R. McCauley, is prominently known as the chief of the Woburn police department.

Sergt. McCauley was a charter member of Winchester Lodge of Elks, a member of the Massachusetts Police Association and of St. Mary's Holy Name Society.

A service was held at the residence on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock by members of the Winchester Lodge of Elks of which he was a member. Exalted Ruler Frederick D. Clement, Esteemed Leading Knight George T. Davidson, Chaplain Robert Bolling and officers of the lodge conducted the service, during which Postmaster George H. Lochman sang "The Vacant Chair."

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's Church on Monday morning, the Church being filled to overflowing with town officials and friends from this and surrounding places. Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt was celebrant, Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, deacon and Rev. Joseph A. Quigley, sub-deacon. The ushers were Messrs. William P. Callahan, Joseph Blackham, Leo Mawn and John Blackham.

The service was attended by members of the Winchester police department in uniform under the leadership of Sergt. John A. Harrold, the officers acting as an escort to the body. Seated in the church were many prominent officials: Selectmen George M. Bryne, Walter H. Dotten and Edward W. Berry attended with Town Counsel Addison R. Pike. Included in the attendance were also Chiefs of Police McIntosh of Winchester, Colman of Reading, Urquhart of Arlington, Ex-Mayors Golden and Heneby of Woburn, Lieut. Mulkeen of Woburn, Sergt. Belyea of Arlington, Town Treasurer George H. Eustis, A. W. Marchant of the Boston Post, Chief David H. DeCourcey of the Fire Department and prominent ex-officials of the town and many members of public works.

The burial was in Calvary cemetery, Montvale, the pall bearers being Messrs. Patrick, Martin, John, James and Charles R. McCauley of Woburn, brothers of the deceased, and Michael McDonough of Woburn, a brother-in-law.

DR. MOTT A. CUMMINGS HONORED

Dr. Mott A. Cummings, one of Winchester's oldest physicians, was honored by his brother practitioners on Saturday night when a complimentary dinner was given him at the home of Dr. Clarence E. Ordway on Main street. There were present Drs. Mead, Simon, Dennett, Gale, Sheehy, Brown, Emery, Cunningham and the host of the occasion, Dr. Ordway.

During the evening a complete fishing outfit was presented to Dr. Cummings by his associates, and although much surprised and greatly overwhelmed by the honors bestowed upon him, the doctor accepted the gift in his usual graceful manner. Dr. Cummings is to spend a complete fishing and next spring will go to Maine. He has tendered his resignation to the local Board of Health.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE

Look out! They're coming to Winchester Friday and Saturday nights, Dec. 14th and 15th.

With the pirates will be associated a number of people well known to Winchester music lovers. The music will be under the direction of J. Albert Wilson, organist and choir-master of the Church of the Epiphany, and the coach will be Henry Dale, well-known on the stage 15 years ago.

Tickets for Friday night, Dec. 14, may be obtained at anytime from Miss Mary French, 469 Main street, tel. Win. 0252, and for Saturday night, Dec. 15, from Mrs. Chester Porter, 16 Norwood street, tel. Win. 0809-M.

WINCHESTER UNITARIAN SOCIETY

Representatives of the Alice F. Symmes Society will call within the next week for used books. Each family of the Society is expected to give at least one book for the sale Dec. 4th, 1923.

The motto of the Anti-Bonus Society, of which Mr. Richard B. Neiley of this town has recently been elected treasurer, is "For the disabled, everything; for the able bodied nothing."

ROBERT P. GAY

Mr. Robert P. Gay, aged 70, until his retirement about six years ago connected with the shoe finding business for about 50 years, died Friday, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. John Challis, 99 Beacon street, after a long period of failing health. Mr. Gay had lived in Winchester for about 27 years since the death of his wife.

Mr. Gay was born in Castine, Me., and went to Boston as a young man, where he was employed first as a clerk and bookkeeper for the firm of Nichols & Farnsworth, later the firm of Farnsworth & Hoyt, of which he became a partner in 1890. He remained as an active member of that concern for 28 years, being the treasurer of it at the time of his retirement from active business, in 1918.

He resided in Winchester and led a quiet life, except for his close attention to his interest in the shoe finding business, in which he was widely known in Boston.

He is survived by three sisters, Miss Lucy Gay of Castine, Me.; Mrs. John Challis and Mrs. Ellen B. Page of this town; also by two brothers, Henry D. Hooke of this town and William S. Hooke of Castine, Me.

The funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon at the residence at 2 o'clock, Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian church officiating. The remains were taken to Castine, Me., for interment.

TEA BY THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The Winchester League of Women Voters entertained its friends at a tea Wednesday afternoon in the beautiful home of Mrs. William E. Schrafft on Arlington street. Mrs. Schrafft and Mrs. Louis K. Snyder, chairman of the Winchester League, received in the living room, where white window spaces look far to the sunset horizon and a cat logs blazing in the fireplace added their charm to the early autumn-decked room.

In the dining room a delicious tea was served. Those who poured were Mrs. Frank Ripley, Mrs. Magoon L. Brown, Mrs. W. B. French and Mrs. A. T. Hunnewell, and they were assisted by many charming young women.

Miss Dorothy Charlton sang, accompanied by Miss Doris Hamlin, and Mrs. Theodore Smith played the violin, her accompanist being Mrs. Arthur Abbott. The exquisite beauty of their music gave great pleasure to the large representation of Winchester women who thronged the rooms enjoying the gracious hospitality of Mrs. Schrafft.

Arrangements for the tea were made and carried out by an enthusiastic committee under the efficient leadership of Mrs. Frank H. Merrill and Mrs. Lewis Wadsworth. Mrs. Willard Bradley, chairman of the social committee, had charge of the dining room; Mrs. B. Bernnard was chairman of hospitality, and Mrs. Root of transportation.

THROWN TO FLOOR BY STRANGER

When Mrs. Chester W. Butterworth of Grove street answered a rap at her door bell Monday evening shortly before 10 o'clock, she found a young man standing in the vestibule who she understood to ask the way to Madison avenue. As she stepped out to direct him, he quickly stooped and seized the rug on when she stepped, pulling it out from under her and toppling her back onto the floor. When she fell she dropped her pocket book, the money falling and scattering about the floor. She was also badly bruised.

Mr. Butterworth, in company with Mr. Eugene Ayer, was at work in the cellar. He heard his wife scream and the noise of someone falling. The two men rushed upstairs and found her laying on the floor with a badly bruised eye where she had struck the door in her fall.

What the intruder wanted is a mystery, for he made no attempt to take the money, but ran away immediately after the act. The matter was reported to the police, who are investigating the affair.

MR. WILLIAM H. BORDEN DEAD

Mr. William H. Borden, long a resident of Prince avenue, this town, died of heart trouble after a short illness at 4 Steadman street, Brookline, on Tuesday. He was 70 years of age and was a native of Tiverton, R. I.

Mr. Borden had suffered for years from heart trouble. Recently he suffered the death of his wife and then his only daughter, Miss L. Mabel Borden. Since that time he had made his home in Brookline. He was an inventor and was associated with the United Shoe Machinery Co.

The funeral services will be held at 4 Steadman street, Brookline, this Friday noon, the interment being in Bellevue Cemetery, Lawrence.

M. I. T. MUSICAL CNOCERT

A rare treat offers itself the night of Nov. 30. The M. I. T. combined musical clubs, the oldest undergraduate activity at Tech, will be on hand at the Town Hall, to give one of their popular concerts. These clubs have established themselves as being far superior to the average college musical and glee clubs. They are now in their 35th year of existence. Fifty men, selected by merit in competitive trials, comprise the personnel of the combined clubs. There will be a varied program to please all tastes and music furnished by the musical club's dance orchestra will give everyone an opportunity to dance after the concert.

Report has it that Mr. Henry A. Spates, formerly superintendent of streets of this town, is a candidate for the Board of Aldermen in Gloucester.

ELKS BALL

Town Hall Thronged Last Night at Big Affair

The second grand charity ball given by the Winchester Lodge of Elks was held last evening in the Town Hall with a record attendance, if such a thing is possible after the capacity gathering which attended last year's affair. The Town Hall was filled to its allotment, the great audience numbering guests from practically every town and city in this vicinity. Local Elks and their ladies turned out in force, and the lodge had practically 100 per cent of its membership present.

The hall was most attractively decorated for the affair. Prominent in the centre of the stage was a beautifully illuminated clock, used in the 11 o'clock toast, which was given by Bro. Joseph Schaefer, editor of the Eastern Elks' Magazine. The stage was decorated with palms and chrysanthemums, which with the national colors, made a beautiful setting. The hall was draped with the purple and white in an effective manner.

The affair opened with a concert and entertainment, the artists assisting including Scott and Bayrd, the two-man minstrels; Miss Ruth Brewer, Mr. Neil Patterson and Miss Mary McMahon. The music both during the concert and dancing was by Strachan's famous orchestra and was a distinct feature in itself.

The grand march was led by Exalted Ruler Frederick D. Clement and Mrs. Clara McKenzie, followed by officers of the lodge and visiting national and State officers. The dancing was enjoyed until midnight.

The ball was in charge of Esteemed Leading Knight George T. Davidson, E. L. K. Fred H. Scribner, E. L. K. Maurice Dinneen and E. R. Frederick D. Clement. The aids included Ted Connors, Esq., Charles J. Harrold, Bart J. Connolly, Lyman Flanders, Michael Quevrin, Frank E. Randall, James A. Donaghey, Harry W. Dotten, William C. Scholl, J. Albert Hunt, Parker Clarke, Joseph Blackham, Joseph T. McCauley, Daniel E. Hanlon, William P. Callahan, Charles A. Farrar and William H. Yayo.

A substantial sum was realized from the affair for charity, considerable of which will be spent for Thanksgiving and Christmas cheer. The charity fund of the lodge is the largest fund of its kind open for any immediate use in town.

MR. GEORGE H. SAYWARD

Mr. George H. Sayward, for many years prominently identified with the textile industry in new England and New York, died late Tuesday night at his home, 9 Grassmere avenue. Mr. Sayward, who was 72 years old, had been in poor health since the death of his wife last March. He was born in Farmington, N. H., Feb. 14, 1851. After his marriage in 1872 to Georgianna A. Adams of Brunswick, Me., he went to Boston to engage in the cotton business, but in 1884 went to Oswego, N. Y., to become general manager of the Standard Yarn Company. Returning to Boston, he became, in July, 1906, treasurer of the Pemberton Company in Lawrence and the Methuen Company in Methuen. He retired in 1920, and had made his home in Winchester for 22 years.

Mr. Sayward was for two terms a trustee of the Lowell Textile School and was a member of the Arkwright Club. Three sons survive him, Henry E. of Melrose Highlands, Edwin A. of Brookline and Ralph R. of Medford.

The funeral services are to be held this Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence, Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian Church officiating. The burial is to be at Dover, N. H.

APPOINTMENT TO MILITARY ACADEMY

Congressman Dallinger will hold an examination for principals and alternates for appointment to the Military Academy at West Point, under the auspices of the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Custom House Tower, Boston, Saturday, January 5, 1924. Candidates must be over 17 and under 22 years of age, and residents of the Eighth Massachusetts Congressional District, which comprises Cambridge, Medford, Melrose, Belmont, Arlington, Lexington, Stoneham, Wakefield, Watertown and Winchester.

Applications for permission to take the preliminary examination should be filed as soon as possible with the District Secretary, U. S. Civil Service Commission, Custom House Tower, Boston. The District Secretary will be able to give candidates full information concerning the examination.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OLD FASHIONED SUPPER

The old fashioned supper given by the Women's Guild of the First Congregational Church on Friday, Nov. 16th was a great success. The president, Mrs. Cutler B. Downer, and vice presidents, Mrs. George H. Hamilton and Mrs. Francis F. Brown had the affair in charge and were assisted by Mrs. Ernest Chase, Mrs. F. N. Kerr, Mrs. Annie Blood, Mrs. C. A. Dodge, Mrs. D. C Dennett, Mrs. R. E. Hall, Miss Eugenia Elliott, Mrs. Walter Rice.

The sale of tickets was most efficiently handled by Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell who had as her committee the chairmen of the Eight Groups with which the Guild is divided—Mrs. William Adriance, Mrs. Ernest D. Chase, Mrs. D. C. Dennett, Miss Helen A. Hall, Mrs. F. H. Knight, Mrs. S. E. Newman, Mrs A. C. Speedie, Mrs. J. H. Worthen, who in turn found their sub-committees and the tickets were disposed of quietly and with great dispatch. The tables were in charge of Mrs. W. H. Balcke and Mrs. Allen H. Wood, and Mrs. W. A. Lefavour had charge of the young people who served. And these young people certainly did serve the large gathering most efficiently. The supper was followed by a delightful entertainment in charge of Mrs. Walter Winship. Mrs. Winship chose as her committee Mrs. J. H. Worthen, Mrs. A. K. Huchins, Miss Barbara Fernald, Mrs. C. P. Wherf, Mrs. Kenneth Pond and Miss Marguerite Barr. There were songs in which Mrs. Hiram Edgerton Barr, Mrs. Walter Winship, Mrs. McGill—who most kindly assisted as she is not a Guild member—Mr. G. E. Willey, Mr. Carl Wood and Mr. Kenneth Pond sang, and their songs were illustrated by tableaux in which Miss Frances Lowell and Master Holbrook Lowell, Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Adriance, Mrs. Marcus Beebe, Jr., Miss Minnie Joy, Mr. Kenneth Caldwell, Miss Ida Anderson, Miss Charlotte Hoally and Mr. Harry Bigelow took part. Mrs. C. P. Whorf was at the piano, and the whole entertainment was most delightful and most enthusiastically applauded. Financially the supper was a great success.

ALL WINCHESTER WOMEN INVITED TO JOIN LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The Massachusetts League of Women Voters has been holding a Statewide membership drive. All local leagues are parts of the State league, and the success of the whole depends upon the success of each part. The Winchester Branch is now undertaking its drive, hoping to double its membership. All women voters are earnestly urged to join.

To women who are not yet voters the League would say: "You know you really ought to vote, it has become a woman's patriotic duty—and in the Winchester League you will find a cordial welcome, sympathetic coaching, fair-minded information, and entire independence as to your choice of political party. Join the Winchester League now, and register for voting at the next opportunity."

The League of Women Voters is organized for the political education of women. It seeks to inspire them with public spirit and a sense of personal responsibility to their country; and to this end it gives them, in its meetings, and otherwise, opportunities to gain knowledge of public affairs, and to develop a discriminating judgment in voting.

Indifferent voting makes a decadent democracy. The careless vote is a real menace to our government. The League of Women Voters has shouldered the heavy responsibility of fitting women for the franchise. Its strength is in proportion to its numbers. Public-spirited women not yet members are especially urged to join, to strengthen the league in its service for good government.

If you wish to become a member, please notify Mrs. Louis K. Snyder, chairman of the Winchester League of Women Voters, 7 Manchester road, telephone Win. 1581. Annual dues are one dollar.

HARVEST BAZAAR

The Church of the Epiphany will hold a Harvest bazaar and supper at the Town Hall Tuesday, Nov. 27. Sale opens at 3 o'clock. The general chairman is Mrs. Thomas Freeburn. The fancy table, doll and baby table will hold very attractive Christmas gifts, the food table will be very tempting, and the vegetable table will have on it all you need for Thanksgiving. An excellent supper will be served at 6 o'clock. Purchase tickets early, and at 8:30 there will be dancing. Madam Destiny will read fortunes. There are grabs, drinks and ice cream for the children.

MRS. ELIZABETH ANN HEMINGWAY

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Hemingway, the eldest inmate of the Home for Aged People, died Thursday, in her 89th year. She was born in Chester, N. H., Dec. 16, 1834, and married John W. Hemingway in 1863. They soon after settled in Winchester, where he conducted a milk business until his death 17 years ago. She entered the Home in 1913. She had an ill turn three weeks ago and before recovering received word of the fatal injury to her eldest son, John, in Chicago, which doubtless hastened her death. She is survived by two sons, Frank W. of Woburn, Charles E. of Haverhill, eight grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at the Home Saturday at 2 p. m. Burial in Wildwood Cemetery.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, NOV. 19

Under suspension of its rule 1 the Board met at 7 P. M., all present.

The records of the meeting of Nov. 12 were read and approved.

Boston and Maine Railroad: (Fares): A letter was received from the North End Improvement Association stating that this association had unanimously voted to go on record "as opposing the increase in fares on the steam railroad", and that it was further voted "that the Secretary write to our Honorable Board of Selectmen requesting them to take this matter up for the good of the public and do all in their power to prevent it."

The Board ordered a copy of this letter sent to the Public Utilities Commission and this Improvement Society notified of the action taken by the Board.

Licenses 1923 (Hackney Carriages) Taxi: Mr. Edward R. Dunn of 199 Auburn street, Medford, presented a petition asking for a permit to operate a taxi with stand at the Wedgemere, Boston and Maine Depot. He states in his petition that he has had a contract for a stand at this depot for the past year, and also stated that he had a federal taxi license. This matter was referred to the Chief of Police for report and his recommendation.

Accounting System: A letter was received from the Director of Accounts of the State of Massachusetts stating that he is planning to take up the audit of the Town of Winchester sometime next week (week of Nov. 19), and that he hopes to be able to start the regular system a year January 1, 1924 as possible. Letter was ordered filed.

Snow and Ice: A letter was received from the Mystic Motor Company, of Winchester calling attention to the Fordson Tractors with Stark Snow Plow attachments and asking that the Board consider this type of tractor and snow plow if they contemplate purchasing any snow equipment. After considerable discussion the Board decided to go before the Finance Committee recommending that the Town purchase a ten-ton tractor and snow plow complete, a 5-ton tractor and snow plow complete, and two sidewalk tractor plows.

Later on in the evening the Secretary of the Finance Committee stated that the Finance Committee had voted to approve the purchase of two sidewalk tractor plows as a cost not to exceed $3500.

Sidewalks Lights, 1923 Manchester Field): The Clerk was instructed to write the Metropolitan Park Board and ask them to install a light on the foot bridge over the Abbiona River on Manchester Field near the foot of Mystic avenue.

The meeting adjourned at 11:05 p. m.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen

K. OF C. INDOOR CIRCUS AND COUNTRY FAIR

The most energetic committee which the Council has assembled for many years is fast completing the details which will insure the success of the Indoor Circus which will be held on Dec. 20th, 21st, and 22nd in the Town Hall. Realizing the value of the objective in view, that of establishing a Recreation Center for the young men of our town, many of the local organizations are lending a willing hand to insure the success of the affair.

The entertainment will be of a novel and original nature and is sure to attract young and old. Santa Claus will be there with his clown band and also Farmer Jones with his menagerie of tame animals and birds. Si Stubbins will bring a big load of turkeys, geese, ducks, chickens, apples, potatoes, squash and pumpkins all to be given away to fortunate winners. There will be many other entertainment numbers all to be announced later.

Many booths will contain useful and attractive articles for Christmas gifts, all to be disposed of at reasonable prices. The booths themselves will be beautifully arranged and decorated, and the hall itself will be a bower of beauty.

The three-day circus will open with a parade on Thursday evening, Dec. 20th. On Thursday and Friday afternoons from 4 to 6 there will be a special entertainment for the children and Saturday will be children's day all day with a nice big Christmas tree to wind up the festivities. Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings will be replete with entertainment and amusements for the grown-ups and will also provide all with an opportunity for doing their Christmas shopping at home, thereby saving money for themselves and doing their bit towards helping the K. of C. boys to establish their recreational center.

Mr. Daniel F. Dineen is Chairman of the Committee in charge with Mr. Henry Murphy, Secretary.

MRS. CARL LARSON

Mrs. Ida M. Larson, wife of Mr. Carl Larson, the well known painter, died at her home, 993 Main street, last evening in her 52d year. She had been ill for the past year.

Mrs. Larson was a native of Sweeden and had made her home in this town for the past 17 years. She was a member of Woburn Lutherian Church. Besides her husband she leaves six sons, Carl Jr., Harold, Bernard, Conrad, Frederick and Ralph, and two daughters, the Misses Elma and Evelyn Larson. One sister, Mrs. Alma Anderson of Woburn, also survives her.

The arrangements for the funeral services have not been completed at this time.

MISS ELLEN CLOUTMAN SHOWERED

At a bridge party given at the home of Miss Dorothy Kelley, Thursday of last week, a kitchen shower was given to Miss Ellen Cloutman. While refreshments were being served, a dishpan full of various kitchen utensils, a miniature bridal bouquet in the center, was presented to the prospective bride. Each gift was accompanied by a poem, and the reading of these caused much amusement. Those who contributed to the shower were Misses Mildred Cummings, Barbara Goddard, Priscilla Lombard, Mary Tredennick, Maude Crowley, Elaine Utterback, Helen Raynor, Mary Whittington, Dorothy Riddle, Katherine Hunt, Betty Bird, Mrs. Harriet Matherson and Mrs. E. Hawes Kelley.

Another interesting surprise was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Whittington to Mr. Edgar Sherman.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Mary Alden Whittington and Mr. Edgar Jay Sherman. Miss Whittington, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Whittington of Woodside road, is prominent socially among the town's young people, a graduate of the High School and also a member of the Sigma Beta Sorority. Mr. Sherman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland H. Sherman of Everett avenue. He is engaged in business in Boston and is a graduate of Phillips Andover and Princeton.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Armstrong of Highland avenue observed their 50th wedding anniversary at their home on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong were married in this town and have made their home here ever since. They have six children: Mrs. Arthur P. Pratt of Greenfield, Mr. Robert W. Armstrong, Mr. Russell B. Armstrong, Miss Dorothy and Miss Elizabeth Armstrong of this town and Mr. F. Douglass Armstrong of Beach Bluff. Owing to a slight indisposition of both Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, the observance of the event was confined to the members of the family, although the couple received many messages of congratulation and gifts of flowers.

OPERATING UNDER LIQUOR BRINGS SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Charles T. Williams of this town was given a two months' sentence, suspended for six months, in the Woburn court this week for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

"FROM LONG AGO TO NOW"

The annual dramatic venture of the Wadleigh-Prince Schools will be held this year in the Town Hall, Friday evening, Nov. 23. It will begin at eight-twenty to accommodate the parents who are attending the open night of the High School and for this same reason many of the seats are reserved.

The boys and girls are presenting this year a pageant told in six episodes—"From Long Ago to Now." The various episodes should charm and delight all of the big audience who will witness them, for they are varied in their appeal. They range from the dignity and power of Episode One (the Christianizing of Ancient Britain in the olden days of King Ethelbert), through the merry antics of Robin-Hood's merry men in Episode Two, on to the always-loved story of our Pilgrim Fathers, the kindness of the Indians, and the brotherliness of the First Thanksgiving told in Episode Three—to the thrill of the spirit of '76 and the dainty charm of the colonial manners and dress as seen in the colonial garden party of Episode Four, to the pathos, the excitement, the thrill of that Civil War camp scene in Episode Five and to the deep patriotic stir of the listener pulses as Episode Six, "America Triumphant" leads us "To France" and then "To Thee O' Country."

You will love the simple sincerity and conviction of that appeal of the Christian march through the ages, "Adeste Fideles." You will laugh at Friar Tuck and clap the village lasses in their fun, and then how you will enjoy the Indian warwhoop and the Thanksgiving song! Didn't you always love the picture of the old man and the youngsters wounded perhaps but with heads held high drumming on to liberty? You will admire again the grace and unhurried courtesy of our colonial heros and heroines—but did you realize, I wonder, how small in stature are the Fathers of His Country and his stately Martha? You need not be ashamed of the tear that dims your eye as the sweet boy voices sing "Tenting Tonight" and "Just Before the Battle, Mother," but the tear will soon be dashed away in your spontaneous enjoyment of Joe and his band of camp followers—"a pickin' on the old banjo." We will be ashamed of you, however, if your vision of world peace does not brighten as our girls sing—"Sweet Bells of Peace" and if your patriotism does not wax more fervent as you watch the "Making of Our Flag."

Tickets will be on sale at the Box office this evening. A few good reserved seats are left at 60 cents and general admission is 45 cents.

Reserved seats and general admission tickets for the Wadleigh-Prince play—"From Long Ago to Now," may be obtained at the Star office or at the Box office in the Town Hall at the evening performance. The curtain will not rise until 8:25 to enable visitors at the High School to get to the play. Plan to get your ticket at once if you have not already done so because the play is the best ever given by the Wadleigh and the tickets are selling fast.

The last hearing on zoning by the Planning Board was held on Tuesday evening.

THE FORTNIGHTLY

"Across Siberia Alone," a tale of the thrilling personal experiences of Mrs. John Clarence Lee as told by herself, is the outstanding feature of next Monday's program. Mrs. Lee is recognized as an able interpreter of Russian life and thought and is a speaker of great personal charm. The club invites as guests girls of the Senior and Junior classes of the High School and members' daughters beyond High School age and not yet 20.

Last Friday morning Mrs. E. D. Chase was hostess for the art class at its opening lecture on Home Decoration by Mrs. Chamberlain. Judging from the large number of ladies present this course promises to be one of the most popular ones of the club year. The second and third lectures on art will be given in The Fortnightly committee room Nov. 23 and 30, at 10:30 o'clock.

HENRY M. WALRADT

Henry M. Walradt, widely known in educational circles and for many years superintendent of schools in various cities and towns in the state, died at his home Friday evening, suddenly, aged 72. Death was due to heart disease.

He was a native of Northbridge and studied at Yale, graduating with the class of '75. He afterward studied law at Yale and was admitted to the bar in Boston, but never practiced. He first taught at Bridgeport, Conn., where he was principal of the high school. Later he went to Norwalk. He established a school for boys at Darlington, Pa., which was afterwards removed to Mt. Holly, N. J. From there he went to Lynn.

His first position as superintendent of schools was at Winchester. Sometime later he was superintendent of schools at Needham for five years. For the last 10 years he filled a similar position in the schools of Coventry, R. I., and Wickford, R. I. He retired last summer.

He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and the Congregational Church of Whitman. Besides his widow he leaves a son, Prof. M. F. Walradt of the Ohio State College, and a brother, Arthur Walradt of New York city.

MR. JOHN T. FALLON MARRIED

News was received this week of the marriage at Canton, O., of Mr. John T. Fallon, formerly of 11 Forest circle, this town, and Miss Margaret Simmons of that city. The couple will make their home in Canton.

The fire department was called out Wednesday noon for a roof fire at the residence of Senator Lewis Parkhurst, Oak Knoll. The fire is supposed to have started from sparks blown from the chimney by the high wind. When the department arrived the blaze had eaten through the roof, but it was quickly exinguished with hand chemicals. A small hole was burned through the roof, but the damage was not large.

COMMUNITY DAY

Many Will Visit High School at Today's Inspection

Without doubt there will be a record attendance at the "Community Day" at the High School today. A regular school session, held between the hours of 2:30 and 3:15 p. m., makes it possible for all parents and interested friends of the school to call and inspect the workings of the classes. The regular studies are carried out without change, the only addition to the regular routine being a short program for the visitors in the assembly hall and a lunch period for their benefit.

Many parents will avail themselves of this opportunity to visit and inspect the school and classes. The innovation was first started last year, it being held under the auspices and direction of the High School Parent-Teacher Association. This year's day is held under the same direction. There should be a good attendance during the afternoon and through the evening hours. A large reception committee will be present and children taken care of as usual, Miss Phyllis Fitch having charge of the kindergarten room. During the afternoon and evening, Mr. James J. Quinn, recently appointed Superintendent of Schools, will give an informal reception and meet the parents.

The committee in charge of the affair includes Principal Clinton E. Farnham, ex-officio, chairman of the program committee, with Mr. William S. Packer, Miss Catherine C. Walker, Mrs. Horace W. Wadsworth and Mrs. Philip P. Bourne. The success of the enterprise will be largely due to the work and efforts of Mrs. W. Holbrook Lowell, chairman of the membership committee, assisted by Mrs. H. Wadsworth Hight, treasurer, with Mrs. S. P. Williams, Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Lewis L. Wadsworth, Mr. William H. Vayo, Mr. James H. Carr and Mrs. W. E. Healey.

The reception committee is directed by Mrs. Lewis Miss Charles F. Blackburn, vice-president; Mrs. Lewis L. Wadsworth and the following: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Farnham, Mr. Edwin N. Lovejoy, Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar W. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. William Barber, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Root, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice C. Tompkins, Mr. and Mrs. Danforth W. Comins, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wadsworth Hight, Mr. and Mrs. Stillman P. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Chamman, Mrs. Edward C. Mason, Mrs. Warren E. Healey, Mrs. Philip P. Bourne, Mrs. Roland H. Sherman, Mrs. Joseph T. Clarke, Mrs. James H. Carr, Mrs. Herbert Maynard, Mrs. H. H. P. Wright, Mrs. Newton Shute, Mrs. D. C. Dennett, Mrs. F. C. Alexander, Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Arthur North, Mrs. Horace Ash, Mrs. J. P. Dabney, Mrs. R. L. Palmer, Mrs. Arthur Butters, Mrs. Willard T. Carleton, Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Arthur Gates, Mr. W. H. Vayo, Mrs. T. W. Conlon, Mrs. W. P. M. DeCamp, Mr. James Barbaro, Mrs. Sewall E. Newman, Mrs. J. A. Maddocks, Mrs. W. A. Packer and Mrs. Maurice F. Brown.

The invitation committee includes Mrs. Stillman P. Williams, Mrs. Warren E. Healey and Mrs. H. Wadsworth Hight. The membership committee, which is active in increasing the numbers of the Association, includes Mrs. H. Wadsworth Hight, treasurer; Mrs. W. Holbrook Lowell, Mrs. S. P. Williams, Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Lewis L. Wadsworth, Mr. William H. Vayo, Mr. James H. Carr and Mrs. W. E. Healey. The publicity committee included Mr. T. Price Wilson, Miss Helen Bronson, Mrs. Marie Comins, Mr. Francis Smith and Mr. James Cusick.

President Joseph F. Ryan of the Association will welcome the visitors and members in the library and introduce Superintendent Quinn, who will be present with Mrs. Quinn, and who, in his official capacity, has done much to aid the Association and has been instrumental in the success of the affair. Miss Phyllis Fitch, who so ably handled the children left in her care last year, again demonstrates her ability in this direction, and will maintain a very satisfactory and efficient kindergarten during the hours of the visitation.

At the hour for lunch, 5 o'clock, the call by the bugle will collect the visitors in the assembly hall, where a musical program led by the school orchestra and glee club, will entertain during the period in which the scholars have their lunch.

The president of the Association, Mr. Joseph F. Ryan, and his assistants in charge, desire to express their thanks to all members who have rendered efficient and signal service in making the affair a success. They are indebited to a large number of our townspeople, and desire particularly to thank Mrs. W. A. Packer, Mrs. A. I. Lampee, Mrs. F. W. Aseltine, Mrs. W. H. Vayo, Mrs. J. A. Maddocks, Miss Kathleen Cassidy, Mrs. J. R. Livingstone, Mrs. H. A. Goddard, Mrs. E. C. Baugher, Mrs. Maurice F. Brown, Mrs. Dunbar F. Carpentar, Mr. John F. Cassidy, Mr. John P. Cassidy, Mrs. William A. Barber, Mrs. R. L. Palmer, Mrs. J. T. Clarke, Mrs. Maurice Dinneen, Mrs. W. P. M. DeCamp, Mrs. S. E. Newman, Mrs. A. T. Smith, Mrs. D. C. Dennett, Mrs. H. B. DAILY PHILOSOPHY

One of the most often heard of sentences is "I don't know what I am to do in the world." You can insist upon climbing to the top of the pole and waving the flag, or you can hold the pole while some one else climbs.

To fail is not a disgrace, the disgrace lies in not trying.

One of the greatest blessings in life is alteration, the ins become outs, the outs ins, the ups become downs, and the downs become up.

President Coolidge has said, "Our country can secure no greater commendation, in greater place in history, than to have it correctly said that the Red Cross is truly American. For the Red Cross has a deep faith in spiritual things tempered by a hard ... n sense adapted to the needs ... world."

... personal experience and various comments overheard, it appears that the acoustics of our Town Hall, long famed for their poor quality, have not been improved with the recent renovation. The Editor found it very difficult to follow Miss Janet Richards during her recent lecture on a most interesting subject, although she appeared to be a clear speaker with good volume. The lecture given by Capt. Bartlett last Friday evening was also very difficult to hear, although the trouble did not appear to be with the Captain's voice. If proper hangings will remedy this condition, they should be installed. This is the ... sizable hall in the town, and ... is a lamentable condition when we assemble in it to hear the gifted and interesting speakers who visit us without being able to distinguish more than a word now and then.

We quote from the announcement of the opening of a new radio broadcasting studio: "This is finished in taupe and mahogany, with large shaded lamps and a console table holding the guest book . . . . . the ceiling is carefully draped with heavy pongee, held in place by fluting of the same material. The windows are draped in blue and gold and the furniture upholstered in blue. The color scheme ... The walls are hung in the same heavy material," etc., etc., ad finum. You who do not possess a radio can well imagine what beautiful programs are broadcast from this studio, and you who listen in may close your eyes and picture yourself amid the blue, gold, rose and grey, mahogany and tapestry, lit by ruby lights.

Judge Gary, at the annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, made an address which is probably one of the most remarkable ever delivered before a business meeting of that kind in this or any other country. It was devoted almost wholly to the subject of religion and to the Bible, urging the members of the institute to study the Bible and to follow its teachings.

He said, "One of the most remarkable movements ever known in the history of this country, and perhaps in the history of all countries, is the broadening interest in the study of the Bible and the preaching of Christianity in offices, in shops, and from editorial chairs. Never in our experience has there been such a universal discussion and unceasing endorsement of Christianity in the newspapers of the country as is seen today. Hundreds of the leading daily papers of all sections are constantly publishing editorials about Christianity, many of them matching anything which is heard from the pulpit. A number of daily papers are publishing the Bible as a serial, giving a chapter day by day. Hundreds are publishing one or two Bible texts every day. Business men everywhere are, to a greater extent than we have ever seen hfore, emphasizing the supreme importance of religion; and today one who reads widely would probably see references to the necessity of the Golden Rule in business a hundred times more frequently than in former years."

DRUNKEN DRIVING

One in every three persons killed by automobiles in Massachusetts last year lost their lives because of the negligence of drunken or reckless drivers, according to a statement issued this week by the Automobile Legal Association.

In the other New England States the casualties caused by irresponsible operators were also extremely large. Furthermore, of drunken drivers convicted in 1922 less than 1 per cent served jail sentences, which leads the association to declare that something in the situation is radically wrong and that the menace must be met by "two-fisted resistance."

"Just why the convicted drunken driver of a motor vehicle with his black record escapes with a fine or, in rare instances, a few days in jail, is something the public should know," the statement says.

ZONING PROTECTS PROPERTY AND HEALTH

Suppose you have just bought some land in a neighborhood of homes and built a cozy little house. There are two vacant lots south of you. If your town is zoned, no one can put up a large apartment house on those lots, overshadowing your home, stealing your sunshine and spoiling the investment of 20 years' saving. Nor is anyone at liberty to erect a noisy, malodorous public garage to keep you awake nights or to drive you to sell out for half of what you put into your home.

If a town is zoned, property values become more stable, mortgage companies are more ready to lend money, and more houses can be built.

A zoning law, if enacted in time, prevents an apartment house from becoming a giant airless hive, housing human beings like crowded bees. It provides that buildings may not be so high and so close that men and women must work in rooms never freshened by sunshine or lighted from the open sky.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The Charitable Committee under Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, chairman is making splendid progress towards the whist and sale which will be held Friday evening, Nov. 30th. The proceeds of this annual whist are always devoted to the work of the Charitable Committee at Christmas time.

At the last regular meeting the Court voted to help the local Council, K. of C. with its December Indoor Ciruch County Fair. A committee was appointed with Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald, Chairman; Mrs. Frances T. Conlon, Secretary; and Mrs. Alice L. Martin in charge of subscription books. An efficient committee will aid these ladies and a splendid success is anticipated. The first affair in aid of the booth, which will be known as the "C. D. of A. Doll and ..." will be a Pie Social to be conducted by a committee of the Court's younger members, with Miss Betsy Noonan and Miss Mary J. Kelley, Co-Chairmen.

The Doll booth will specialize in all kinds of dolls at reasonable prices from the small knitted dolls so dear, to the babies to the larger and more elaborately dressed dolls. There will also be some Aunt Dinah dolls and character dolls. Any one desiring a particular kind of doll and wishing to order it in advance for Christmas may communicate with Mrs. McDonald tel. Win. 0673-W., and in this way save yourself the strain and inconvenience of Christmas shopping. There is no question but what the dolls and toys on this table will be sold out early during the Carnival. So those who face the duty of buying for the little folks must be sure to order as soon as possible.

Election of officers will take place at the next regular meeting on Dec. 6th, the meeting to be held after the Church service. Installation of officers will be conducted at the first meeting in January with Mrs. Frank Scanlon of Milton, the well-known lecturer, as speaker of the evening. The Court entertained Mrs. Scanlon some years ago and looks forward eagerly to the renewal of her friendship.

Splendid reports are being received from Mrs. Mary Kelley of Hill street who is now on the road to health after a most severe illness.

The sympathy of the whole Court is extended to Sister Maria McCauley and family upon the loss of a devoted husband and father.

39 GET DAMAGES FOR SLIPPING ON BATH SOAP

Hartford, Nov. 9—According to the report on accident claims, made public by the Aetna Life Insurance Co., the modern bath tub is a dangerous contrivance. Thirty-nine persons in the last 12 months, who were insured by the Aetna Co., slipped on the soap in the bath tub and were injured. The resulting claims cost the company $5750. The inoffensive rug was another dangerous thing. Five hundred and five insured persons were injured by tripping over rugs, and that cost the company $44,857. Three hundred and sixty-nine persons fell down stairs and collected $34,596.

Dancing is not entirely harmless, as shown by the fact that five persons put in valid claims for damages caused by colliding with other dancers in the ball room. Sixteen golfers received damages for being hit with golf balls, while nine others collected on account of falling into bunkers.—H. L. Larrabee is an agent for the Aetna in Winchester.

ATHOS: GREECE'S EVELESS PENINSULA

The Athoes Peninsula in Greece to which the Patriarch of Constantinople, head of the Greek Church, has retired because of pressure from the Turkish government, is one of the queerest communities and has one of the strangest governments in the world, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

On the 200 odd square miles of this rough peninsula which lacks little of being an island, it has been unlawful since 1045 for a woman to set foot. Moreover, so far is sex discrimination extended that female domestic animals are barred! Even the eggs and milk that the good monks of Athos eat and drink, must come, therefore, from farms safely across the border of the strange monastic republic that Athos harbors.

Preserve Treasures of Byzantium

The entire peninsula is given up to monasteries of which there are 20, mostly on the slopes or cliffs of Mt. Athos, the 6350 foot promontory that rises near the outer end of the headland. There are one or more monasteries for each of the countries, or in some cases the communities that accept the Greek-rite—Greece, Russia, Serbia Bulgaria, Anatolia, Constantinople and many others. The religious communities of Mt. Athos were the pampered children of Byzantium in its later days, and great wealth was showered on them by the emperors, a number of whom sojourned there. The monasteries are today one of the richest repositories of the illuminated manuscripts, statues, paintings, mosaics and other works of art produced in the heyday of that gilded Eastern Rome.

The monks of Mt. Athos have traditions of the beginnings of their establishments as early as the days of Constantine the Great, about 300 A. D. But history tells of the foundation of the earliest of the present monasteries, that of Larva, in 969. The latest was established in 1545, a century after the fall of Byzantium.

Monasteries Fortified

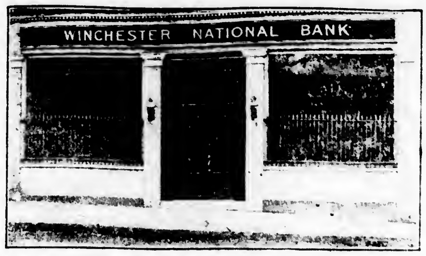

Athos is rough and heavily wooded, with many coves and indentations, but with few landing places. The monasteries are in every conceivable situation: some on gentle slopes near the sea, some on lofty crags overhanging the beating surf, and others inland on shoulders of the Sacred Mountain. All consist of walled spaces in which are churches, chapels, dwelling houses or dormitories, guest abodes, libraries, and in the case of the establishments under a non-individualistic regime, refectories. The East has always been turbulent, and Mt. Athos knows its East; so all the enclosures are fortified. Around the monasteries are olive groves, vineyards and other fruit plantations, worked by the monks and the lay brothers who together make up practically the whole population of this strange region.

The government of Mt. Athos has been republican in form for more than 850 years—since 1060, six years before the Normans conquered England. Each monastery elects a representative who is sent to the centrally situated village of Karyes which is the capital. There the delegate occupies a dwelling owned by his abbey and constituting a sort of "embassy" building. The 20 representatives sit as the Most Blessed Assembly of the Sacred Mount, a parliament more venerable than that of London, if that body be dated from the recognition of the elective principle. The executive of Mt. Athos is a body of five monks chosen by the monasteries voting in groups of four. Four of these executives each keeps in his custody a quarter of the great seal of the "republic" and the fifth, the secretary, carries a handle which locks the fragments properly together.

Rang Only Bells in Turkey

Until the Balkan Wars which preceded the World War, Mt. Athos was in Turkish territory. But ever since the advent of the Turks in Europe, the community has been privileged. It submitted to the Sultan Murad II even before the fall of Byzantium, and was dealt with leniently, though required to pay tribute. The monasteries of Athos for a long time had the only bells permitted to ring in the whole Turkish Empire, for bells are an abomination to the Moslem. But the use of bells was limited by the Turks, and the monks fell into the habit of pounding a suspended board instead. In many of the Mt. Athos monasteries it is still the dull thumps and whacks of such a bell-substitute that call the monks to rise in the mornings and to gather for religious services.

A fine orchestra has been engaged for dancing Nov. 27, at the Town Hall.

IT'S THE SERVICE THAT COUNTS

Courtesy of Cassell's Weekly

There is nothing that puts a man more in an unhappy frame of mind than sitting down to a turkey dinner, with the aroma of the bird finding its way in from the kitchen, his appetite sharpened by delay of thirty or more minutes, eating occasionally an olive and a piece of celery, as a time killer, to find that the bird when brought to the table was not cooked enough and had to go back to the kitchen. This is poor service.

Service is the same everywhere. You either get good service or you don't. I solicit one interview, with every live business man on insurance. My story is short, our policies plain, our strength demonstrated, and our service as good as we know how to give.

"BEARERS OF THE LIGHT"

Pageant by State Federation of Women's Clubs

A pageant which promises to be truly distinctive is that which is to be produced by the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, "Bearers of the Light," on Wednesday, Dec. 12, in Jordan Hall, Boston. There will be two performances, one at 2 p. m. and one at 8 p. m.

Bearers of the Light" is distinctly a Federation production. It is written by Mrs. Clara E. Webber, State chairman of literature. It will be given by club women representing a cast of 300 players chosen from various clubs of the Federation. Marie Ware Laughton of Boston is pageant producer and coach and Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, president of the Belmont Women's Club, is general chairman and stage director. Others who will assist in the production are trained workers of the Federation: Mrs. Mina G. del Castille, chairman of music; Miss Grace Horne, chairman of art, in charge of costumes; treasurer, Mrs. Frederick G. Smith; tickets, Mrs. Frank F. Spaulding.

The pageant pictures the development of civilization from the creation to the birth of the greatest light bearer of all time.

CAPT. EDWARD W. ABBOTT

Edward West Abbott, familiarly known as Captain Abbott, as a former captain of the Salem Cadets and an officer in the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, died at his home on Cabot street Saturday of pneumonia. He was 68 years of age and was widely known among Winchester's older residents, with whom he had his home for many years.

He was a native of Peabody and a graduate of the Peabody schools. For 40 years he was connected with the window glass trade in New England, being associated with the Boston Plate & Window Glass Co. as salesman for a period of 10 years. He was active in fraternal and social circles, being a 32d degree Mason, a member of Jordan Lodge, A. F. & A. M. and of Aleppo Temple. He was for 16 years a member of the Winchester Country Club and was a member of the Calumet Club. He was a Unitarian, and was a member of the Winchester church.

Capt. Abbott married Miss Linnet Baker of Somerville in 1900, who survives him, together with one daughter, Miss Dorothy W. Abbott. He also leaves two brothers, Mr. William S. Abbott of Lynnfield and Mr. Alfred A. Abbott of Peabody, and one sister, Mrs. George Brainerd of Jamaica Plain.

Largely attended funeral services were held at the residence on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30, Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian Church officiating. There was a beautiful display of flowers, and the pall bearers were Messrs. Wallace F. Flanders, Walter E. Chamberlain, Wallace G. Page, Arthur H. Richardson, Frederick B. Reynolds and Capt. William McKenna of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. The interment was in Harmony Grove Cemetery, Salem.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

Our town is rated as having the largest number of homes connected with the public sanitary sewerage system of any town in the State, and as of Jan. 1, 1923, of the 2314 connections with the town water system there were 2084 of this number connected with the town sewerage system.

There is said to be more than 34 miles of trunk line sewers and house connections located in our streets.

With our splendid water system for domestic use and such efficient sewerage advantages we can offer the best of reasons why people seeking homes should locate in our town.

The selectmen are advocating tractors for the care of snow and ice this coming winter. Let us all give them our hearty support so that we can have our streets taken care of.

It would seem advisable for the town to consider some of our private lots of land that might be cleared up so that the appearance of such would be more pleasing to the town.

Our clerk was very successful in the collection for the Red Cross in her tour among the merchants in the center of the town.

MRS. BRIDGET CAULFIELD

Mrs. Bridget Caulfield, an old resident of this town, where she had made her home for the past 25 years, died on Sunday night at her home on Holland street. She was 66 years of age and had been in failing health for a considerable time.

Mrs. Caulfield leaves her husband, Mr. Thomas E. Caulfield, one son, Mr. Martin J. Caulfield of Medford, formerly a member of the Winchester post office staff, and one daughter, Miss Mary Caulfield.

High mass or requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's Church on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. The burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Montvale.

CLOSING OPPORTUNITY TO ENROLL IN THE RED CROSS

The Red Cross in Winchester expects to complete its roll call this week. It has received appreciative support, and hopes it has visited every home. Of course at some places the family was away and perhaps has not been seen by a Red Cross solicitor. Such are urged to help by enrolling through Mr. William E. Priest, Winchester Savings Bank, Mt. Vernon street, or Mrs. B. Bernnard, Curtis street. Take advantage of this closing opportunity to join. Membership dues, $1. Winchester will make this its banner year.

IS THE MODERN PARENT A FAILURE?

By Alfred J. Talley, Judge of the Court of General Sessions, New York

The real trouble with the average parent is the blind obsession that a parent's duty ends when a child is clothed and fed. The need of entering into the life of the growing boy and girl, trying to understand their activities and giving attention to their associates, seems to be a thing of the past.

How many fathers go out for an evening with their growing sons? How often are a father and son seen together at a baseball game? How often does a mother answer the craving of a daughter for something outside the home by dressing and going out with her? How often is either parent willing to depart for an evening from domestic routine to allow the children to have their companions at their own homes for a visit or a little party full of youthful noise and foolishness? Not many indeed. Father must have quiet, and Mother must have peace, and so the child, in its wisdom, knowing the weak spots, either nags or cajoles and is off to the movie to see something that, it is certain, will not improve its mind, to meet companions that may destroy its morals. But Father and Mother have peace that evening and are quite content and satisfied with themselves, unmindful of a wanton neglect of duty and of a woeful disregard of their responsibility to the Creator, who sent them children to be a staff and prop for their declining years.

If mothers of today were not neglecting their duties to their daughters, the actual depravity manifested in the indecent mode of dress would be impossible. From the dawn of civilization the veil of modesty has always been the safeguard of virtue in womanhood. The unfailing barometer of the morality of a nation has always been the respect shown towards womanhood. The greatest nations of the earth began to decline in power and importance when woman began to slip from her high estate to which the motherhood of the race entitled her. But woman will only receive that degree of honor which she herself demands and by her conduct and example deserves. And respect can never be accompany positive indecency, which is the dominant feature of present-day woman's apparel.

Obeying the Daughter

The mothers of young daughters know this, but they reverse the divine injunction and obey their daughter's demand that the offensive garments must be worn solely because of the dictates of fashion. It is not half so much the fault of the girl as it is of the parents. It is easy to understand how a light-headed girl may indulge in extremes of dress, ignorant of the danger involved; but it is difficult to deal patiently with the mother who, with her broader knowledge and experience, knows better and yet tolerates extermes in dress in a daughter of a most unstable and impressionable age.

What this country needs most at this time is the re-establishment of the home. If woman's recent advance, so called, has been in a direction away from the home, then woman of today, with her powers widened and augmented by the ballot, "purifies politics" at the expense of the lessening of her influence in the home, the country would be safer with politics less pure so long as the American home were preserved and made what it should be—the sure foundation of a God-fearing people.

Neither the Church nor the school can ever hope to accomplish the same degree of character building as is possible in the home. And if either of the former fall short, it is because of the lack of initiative or support from the latter.

Frequently earnest and conscientious teachers are heard to complain of the lack of interest in the schools on the part of parents. Is it not literally true in our larger cities that from the time the child enters the school until he leaves, the parents never see or know the teacher to whom is entrusted his education? And when occasionally the parent of an unruly child is sent for, it is usually in a spirit of belligerency and not of helpfulness that the visit is made. And the child is too often made to feel that the teacher was too exacting or too severe, instead of being made to understand the necessity of respecting the principle of authority which the teacher typifies. This want of respect for duly constituted authority is one of the curses of American life today and one of its most ominous manifestations. Unhappily, it is most conspicuous in the young, and in most instances has its beginnings in the home owing to the shortsightedness of the parents. Unless the child is made to understand the imperative necessity of respecting his parents and elders, it is too much to expect that he will respect his teachers when he enters the schoolroom. If he is not compelled to respect those in authority over him in the schools, it is but a short step towards disrespect for those in authority in the Church and in the State. If he goes out into the world with irreverence for the restraints of religion and of the law, he becomes a menace to the society in which he moves.

Seekers of Pleasure

It is this disregard of the demands of right living and the dictates of plain justice that has resulted in the loss of ideals and high standards of conduct that is manifest in every phase of American life today, and that undoubtedly accounts for the high ratio of youthful depravity and criminality that is becoming so alarmingly apparent. We are becoming a people characterized by a mad pursuit of pleasure, in the quest for which all that is permanent and enduring is ruthlessly swept aside. We must speed along with all the risks that haste invites. The slow and steady growth which nature and experience teach is the only permanent and enduring growth, has been relegated to the days of the pyramid builders. Neither wealth nor power nor vast extent of territory has ever given perpetuity to any nation. The character of its men and women is the only sure foundation of a people whose institutions will endure.

And let us ever remember that America's destiny lies in the hands of the children of today, who are the men and women of tomorrow.—[Reprinted from The University Society.

ATTENTION RADIO FANS

To the Editor of the Star:

I have just called on a man in Winchester who has been confined to his home for the past five years; bearing his cross bravely, patiently and without complaint. It occurred to me that if he could have a radio (a one-tube set would be just the thing) that much sunshine and happiness could be brought into his life.

If you have a radio that you have put aside and do not care to use any longer, would you be willing to loan or give it to this man or sell it to me at a reasonable price. I will see that it is properly installed.

Would be glad to give further details if you are interested.

Yours truly,

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

Customers sometimes ask us: "Why is the heating value of gas so much higher in summer time than it is during the cold winter weather?" They seem to think that gas like everything else gets cold in winter.

The fact is that the heating value of gas is actually higher during cold weather than it is during hot weather. The reason for this is that the heating value is increased one per cent for each five per cent decrease in temperature of the gas.

However, the starting temperature of the food and water that must be heaten in cooking will be colder in winter than in summer; therefore, a larger quantity of heat will be needed to bring the food or water to the boiling point. This explains, briefly, why more gas is used for cooking in winter than in summer.

HOLDS PEOPLE'S FAITH

The American Red Cross is an organization which seemingly holds the full faith of the people. It has been judged by its works and it has not been found wanting.

Not a year and rarely a month go by without bringing need for the ministrations of the Red Cross. In war, in flood, in fire, in famine and in pestilence the Red Cross has stood as an agent of saving and of mercy. The tribute which President Coolidge paid to the organization can stand unabridged as the tribute not only of Americans but of the people of the nations.

It may be that in the course of the years of its service that the Red Cross has made mistakes, but if so evidence of them has been covered by the blanket of good works. During the war there were attacks made upon the organization. In every case it was learned that its assailants were agents of men and of societies who wished America ill in its attempt to carry on. The Red Cross in the war won a deeper affection because of the enemies it made.

SUCCESSFUL BOX SOCIAL

The Cornerstone Class of the Second Congregational Church held a very successful box social last Monday night. A fine program was enjoyed with piano selections by Miss Helen Lassen, Miss Ruth McDonald and Paul McElhiney. Mr. Charles Parker of Boston entertained by humorous monologues in dialect and kept the audience well supplied with laughs and jokes. Vocal solos were well rendered by Mr. Wallis McElhiney. The exciting part of the evening was the auction with Mr. Russell McElhiney as auctioneer. The ladies had brought many beautifully decorated boxes and baskets well filled with goodies and these boxes were auctioned off to the highest bidder. The auctioneer was wide awake and full of vim and kept the bidders hustling. Some of the boxes sold as high as ten dollars and the total sum realized from the sale was $103.25. The social hour followed, when the bidders opened their boxes and claimed their partners. Hot coffee was served and everyone had an enjoyable time.

PASTOR AND WIFE SURPRISED

Rev. and Mrs. John Whidley and daughter Ruth were surprised at their home on Lebanon street last Friday evening, to receive a visit from about 60 friends from the Second Congregational Church. The house was filled with the visitors before the pastor had time to recover from the surprise. Each guest brought a small gift in token of friendship.

A greeting to the pastor and his family and an expression of appreciation of their work in the Highlands was given by Miss Mary McElhiney in behalf of the friends present.

Games were planned and music enjoyed. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the committee representing the church people.

WHEN SCHOOLS WERE BEST

My daddy says that to ear see
The schools ain't what they uster be
When he was small, about like me
Along in 1913
They cost 'em less and taught 'em more
Back there in 1891.
And he says they was going some
With "Granny" and Hill and Morrison
The Old Brick school was then the "High"
And bardin' there was triple-ply.
The old White School in daddy's time
Was simply called "the Number Nine."
The teacher knew an awful lot.
She served up knowledge piping hot
And youngster never tried to fool her,
She knew two ways to use a ruler
Them good old days! They can't be beat.
They had no furnace, no steam heat,
No towels, bubblers, bowl or sink
Where kids could wash and get a drink.
The toilet room where flies did feast
Was primative, to say the least
The teacher drew three hundred per,
Considered pretty good for her
The little boys were always neat
They never swore, nor cut a seat
But did their lessons, learned their lines
In them happy olden times.

It wasn't so, no, not a bit
But that's how dad remembers it.

My granddad says in '69
They taught 'em more in shorter time.
There wasn't no money wasted then
On Normal grads. They had real men
Who taught a school with either fist
And swung 'em hard and never missed.
No cash was spent to "transpotate"
The kids in 1868
Shanks' mare was all the transportation
Allowed, to get an education.
No teacher asked a raise in pay
Yes, schools were good in granddad's day
Two dollars bought a cord of wood.
Yes, schools in '69 were good.

But granddad's grandad said that he Learned more in eighteen three.
Schools then were run just as they should.
Yes, schools in 1803 were good.

So every real investigation
Of our free public education
Finds a crowd of folks who know
The best were schools of long ago
George Washington, its safe to say
When busy founding U. S. A.
Was urged to make a solemn rule
To have a good old fashioned school
The best schools, all agreed 'twas true,
Were those of 1492.

When Charlemagne was Europe's king
We'll bet the most annoying thing
He had to stand was the complaint
That "schools of these days surely ain't
As good as what they uster be Along in five or ten, B. C."

The Roman senators of old
Were up against a constant scold
From folks who thought the youth of Rome
Was badly taught in school and home.
Yet kicked against the teacher's raise,
And yearned for prehistoric days.

The school Neanderthal the First
Attended was the very worst
His dad had seen. It made him rave,
The hairy ape. "What! Use a cave!
I went to school in tops of trees
With your ancestral chimpanzees!"

And so it goes through History's pages,
And so it will, through all the ages
They'll wail in 1993
"Our schools ain't what they uster be."
But I've a hunch that day by day
They're getting better every way.

Thomas F. McCall of Thompson street, switchtender for the electric cars at the centre, crossing, was struck by a Ford coupe yesterday noon during the rain. He appeared not badly injured, but complained of his back and head. The coupe was driven by Clarence L. Ward of Woburn, manager of the Horn Pond Ice Co. According to the reports of the accident, McCall was stopping over placing a rag in the carburetor to keep the water out. As a car passed by him, Ward made a turn into Main street, not seeing McCall in his partly kneeling position. Ward was traveling very slowly and stopped in his tracks. McCall refused to go to the hospital and was taken to his home by Michael Queenin, where he was attended by Dr. Brown.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT HIGH SCHOOL

The second annual High School Community Day and visitation was held last Friday afternoon and evening with most gratifying results, the attendance of parents and friends of the school being the largest of the two events thus far. The school hours were changed from those customarily held during the day and the session opened at 2:30 and continued until 8:15 p. m. This was in line with the desire of the High School Parent-Teacher Association's idea of providing every means to facilitate the visitation by parents.

The usual schedule of studies was followed, the only exception to the regular routine of the school being exercises in the assembly hall in connection with the serving of the lunch, which was extended to include the visitors.

Parents were afforded an excellent opportunity of witnessing the working of the classes and of their individual children, and also given the opportunity to meet the teachers personally, as well as the new superintendent, Mr. James J. Quinn and his wife.

All who attended expressed themselves as greatly interested in the innovation and gained an intelligent insight into the workings of the school and the endeavors of the committee in its educational program.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

Grand Regent Alice Martin and several of the Court members attended the Charity whist in Stoneham on Monday evening. On the same evening Miss Mabel M. Coty, organist of the local Court, was soloist at the open meeting conducted by Court St. Agnes of Arlington. Miss Coty's voice was especially good and was the subject of much favorable comment among the large number present.

On Monday evening, also, 25 of the local members attended the whist in Woburn conducted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in aid of their Christmas work among the disabled members of their organization. Two of the Winchester members, Mrs. Patrick Noonan and Mrs. Thomas Kean, were the fortunate winners of 12 pound turkeys.

Mrs. Alice Martin, G. R., will conduct a whist at her home this evening in aid of the Christmas Charitable work. Another whist for this same cause will be held in K. of C. Hall on Friday evening, Dec. 14th, by the charitable committee, Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, chairman.

The congratulations of the Court are extended to Miss Mary McGowan of Canal street, one of the younger members, who on Thanksgiving Day became the bride of Hugh O'Doherty of Woburn.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

On Thanksgiving Day Mrs. Arthur W. Turner of 5 Wildwood street announced the engagement of her niece, Miss Caroline Farquhar Shawhan to Mr. Roger Conant Wilde, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde of 9 Stratford road. Miss Shawhan is a graduate of the McDuffee School, Springfield, and is a member of En Ka Sorority.

Mr. Wilde, Dartmouth '21, prepared at Andover, is a member of the Kappa Kappa Kappa fraternity and concluded his studies at Hanover with a post graduate year at the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration and Finance. He is a member of the Dartmouth Club of Boston, the Winchester Country Club and is associated in business with The Parker Young Co. of Boston.

AND STILL THEY COME

With such posters as, "Fair Today" and "Fair Tomorrow" and "Fair Everyday," how can there be anything but good weather all the time? The Methodists are working like beavers to build their House of Worship and pay for it. Their Fair which is named, "The Methodist Gift Shop" is held in the Town Hall, Tuesday afternoon and evening, Dec. 4th. The luncheon at one o'clock is in charge of the Young Women's Class. The Gift Shop tables and their managers are as follows: General Manager, Mrs. Anna M. Dunning; Apron table, Mrs. A. B. Bent; Mrs. A. P. Welburn; Bag and Handkerchief, Mrs. E. I. Taylor, Mrs. B. F. Miner, Mrs. C. E. Hoey; Candy, Mrs. J. W. Moran, Miss Mary Hodge; Children's, Mrs. N. V. Osborne, Mrs. Walter Fancie; fancy, Mrs. C. A. Dodge, Mrs. F. A. Miller Food, Mrs. F. W. Roberts, Mrs. H. E. Ray; Kitchen, Mrs. C. H. Brown, Mrs. A. L. Brown; Stationery and Books, Mrs. G. H. McMillan, Mrs. A. D. Nichols; Twenty-five and fifty cent table, Mrs. G. R. Bancroft, Mrs. Fred Wildberger.

For several months the heads of the tables have been busy in making and soliciting articles for their departments. Silver teas have been held at Mrs. G. R. Bancroft's, Mrs. B. F. Miner's and Mrs. A. B. Bent's so that the total of the Fair might be the largest yet. The Gift Shop is under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society which continues to appreciate the encouragement of the public.

HARVEST BAZAAR AND SUPPER

A largely attended and highly successful supper and Bazaar was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday afternoon and evening under the auspices of the Church Service League of the Church of the Epiphany, Mrs. Thomas I. Freeburn, chairman. The sale opened at 3 o'clock, attractive booths about the hall doing a thriving business and receiving a substantial total for the fund. The supper was served from 6 to 8 o'clock, being in charge of a committee of ladies headed by Mrs. Elmer P. Randlett and Mrs. George W. Fitch. Dancing was enjoyed in the evening.

Those in charge of the principal booths were Mrs. William Smith, fancy booth; Mrs. Charles Kelley, flowers; Mrs. William Jackson, doll and baby booth; Mrs. Ralph Garner, food booth; Mrs. William Cole, candy table; Mrs. Marcus May, vegetables; Mrs Katherine Starr, grabs; Mrs. Edward Kelley, trash and treasure booth; Mrs. William Dennison, wrapping and odds and ends table. Mrs. Bowen Tufts was chairman of the ticket committee.

M. I. T. MUSICAL CLUBS CONCERT

The M. I. T. Combined Musical Clubs will give a concert tonight at the Town Hall at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of En-Ka-Sigma Beta and G. E. K. Tickets may be secured at the box office, $1.10 and 85 cents. Music furnished by the musical club's dance orchestra will give everyone a chance to dance after the concert.

MRS. IDA PORTER BOYER TO LECTURE IN WINCHESTER

The Women's Republican Club of Winchester announces a course of lectures on political subjects by Mrs. Ida Porter Boyer, on successive Fridays after the holidays. The series of lectures which Mrs. Boyer has just finished for The Massachusetts Republican Club proved so popular that she was immediately re-engaged to continue with another course

TO SING NEGRO MUSIC

The Tuskegee Institute Jubilee Singers from Booker Washington's famous school in Alabama, will sing at the vesper services in the First Congregational Church, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 2, at 4 o'clock. They will render a program of plantation melodies, negro spirituals and negro folk songs. In addition to the musical program, Frank P. Chisholm, a graduate of Tuskegee, and also one of the teachers there, will give a short address on Tuskegee's work. The Rev. Howard Chidley, pastor of the church, will preside, and introduce the singers and Professor Chisholm.

Tuskegee has enrolled this year 2300 students and has a teaching body of 200 members. Counting all, 2600 people make up the Tuskegee Institute community, and all of them are negroes.

Last year more than 500,000 negroes migrated north because of lynchings, economic conditions, the need of better housing and a desire for better educational advantages for their children. Tuskegee believes that the negro question will be settled below the Mason and Dixon line. It is therefore leading the movement to improve the industrial, educational and social conditions among the negro masses.

The meeting is open to the general public. A free-will offering will be invited for the benefit of the work of Tuskegee Institute.

EDUCATION WEEK IN THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Wednesday, Nov. 21, was Parent Visiting Day in the Elementary Schools. The children wrote letters inviting their parents to visit some time during the day, often designating some definite time, which might be of special interest. The parents showed their interest by attending in large numbers, which was a source of encouragement to the teachers and satisfaction to the pupils. In all 300 visits were made, which on an average represented 47 per cent of the homes.

Because of the over-crowded condition in the Wyman School, Parent Visiting Day was postponed until the new school is opened.

OPERA—THE PIRATES

For the simple reason that the music of the Pirates of Penzance is well worth listening to, and of course everyone will want to see the 16 daughters of General Stanley, and stop! there is a thrilling fight between the pirates and the police in the second act that is well worth the price of admission.

The cast is as follows:

Pirate King .... Henry Fitts
Samuel, his Lieutant .... Willis Doe
Frederic, a Pirate Apprentice, Dean Hanscom
Major-General Stanley .... Alden Symmes
Edward, a Sergeant of Police, Earl Sylvester
Mabel, General Stanley's youngest daughter. Carolyn Gilostric
Kate, Edith, Isabel, General Stanley's daughters ..... Ethel England, Annette Symmes, Hughes, Emma Hert
Ruth, a Piratical maid of all work, Jane Hill

Tickets for Friday night Dec. 14, may be obtained from Miss Mary French, 469 Main street, tel. Win. 0252, and for Saturday night Dec. 15, from Mrs. Chester Porter, 16 Norwood street, tel. Win. 0809-M.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. John A. Hall of 4 Holton street celebrated her 58th birthday by an informal reception and party given at her home last Thursday afternoon and evening. There were about 40 friends and relatives present from Boston, East Boston, Dorchester, Waltham, Salem, Somerville, North Woodstock, N.H., Woburn and Winchester. She received many congratulations and messages from friends not able to be present. Among these were letters from her sisters in Sweden and messages from relatives in Alaska and California.

There were vocal solos, piano solos and violin solos given and a bountеous repast was served. The feature of this was a mammoth birthday cake which was exquisitely and elaborately decorated.

Mrs. Hall was the recipient of many gifts including flowers, candy and other useful gifts.

EUREKA SORORITY SALE

The Eureka Sorority will hold its first sale at the Second Congregational Church on Friday evening, Dec. 14. There are going to be a number of unique attractions. Each booth is to be very artistically decorated. Cake and candy will be on sale. An unusually splendid collection of fancy articles, a unique grab booth, and for those who like to eat, a very seclusive and up-to-date tea room. Everyone come and visit.

At the "Penny-an-Inch" table a souvenir will be given to every one visiting it.

Don't forget the date, Dec. 14. Please come and help the girls of Winchester Highlands.

HOT FIRE WEDNESDAY

There was a hot fire in the kitchen of the house at 670 Main street Wednesday afternoon. How the blaze started is not known, but Mrs. Sadie Williams, who occupies the house first noticed it when burning embers fell at her feet as she was standing by the stove.

She threw a bucket of water on them, but the ceiling and walls were then all on fire. Box 411 was sounded and the firemen were obliged to put a stream of water on the blaze to extinguish it.

The fire ate through the kitchen roof and well into the partitions, doing considerable damage to the ell. The house is owned by Harry Good and occupied by Mrs. Williams.

RED CROSS

It will be a source of gratification to the people of Winchester to know that their recent Red Cross drive exceeded its quota. The result shows a substantial increase over last year's total.

MR. HENRY J. RICHBURG

Mr. Henry J. Richburg, long a resident of this town and one of the two surviving original members of A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., died at his home on Hemingway street Wednesday forenoon in his 82nd year. He had been ill for a considerable period.

Mr. Richburg was a native of Hersfeldt, Germany. He served during the Civil War for nearly three years with the 12th New Jersey Infantry Volunteers. He had made his home in Winchester since 1893, and with Mr. Henry Smalley, was one of the two surviving members of A. D. Weld Post. Messrs. Peter Walling and Henry Dunnell are living members of the Post, but joined here from other Posts. Mr. Richburg was for a time in the employ of P. Waldmyer and for a number of years was superintendent at the Woburn factory of Bryant & King, calf skin manufacturers. He retired from business 14 years ago. For 44 years he had been a member of Winchester Lodge, 158 Ancient and Honorable United Workmen, serving for 25 years as an officer.

He married Miss Bertha Wallace, who died 12 years ago, and is survived by six children—Mrs. Minnie B. Field of Auburn, Me.; William H. of Lowell; Miss Bertha J. of this town; George W. of Newton Centre; Mrs. Charles E. Demain of this town and Dr. Alfred G. Richburg of West Roxbury. He also leaves two grandchildren and one great grandchild.

The funeral services are to be held at the residence, 4 Hemingway street, this Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. Howard J. Chidley. The burial will be in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

HON. FRANK G. ALLEN, PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE AND REP. THOMAS R. BATEMAN TO SPEAK DEC. 7

That the ever-present and all-important subject of "Taxes" may be as entertaining as it is instructive has been ably demonstrated by Hon. Frank G. Allen, president of the Massachusetts Senate, before several representative audiences this fall. Mr. Allen is a big man in every sense of the word, and unusually well equipped to handle his subject in a clear, concise and pleasing manner. All who have heard him feel sure that his discussion of this question will prove most valuable and welcome to our community.

In presenting Legislative measures for our consideration Representative Thomas R. Bateman will not confine himself to questions featured in the newspapers and brought to public attention generally, but will bring before us questions which, while quite as important, are likely to escape our notice. Mr. Bateman is in a position to know the facts and his fellow townsmen know that he is well qualified to make himself both heard and understood. An opportunity for questions will follow the speaking. A cordial welcome is extended to all who wish to attend.

Small Town Hall, Friday, Dec. 7, 8 p. m. Admission free.

UNITARIAN FAIR, DEC. 4TH

Buy your Christmas gifts at our group of little shops; bulbs and small plants at the Florists, fancy articles at the Speciality shop, food at the Bakery. There will be candy, grabs and ice cream for the children.

Members are asked to send the three articles which they have been asked to contribute to the Church the morning of Dec. 4th. Please give a book, which you have finished reading and which someone else might enjoy, to the Alice F. Symmes table.

Supper will be served at 5:30 and will be followed by an entertainment at 7:45, when the Unity Maiden's Quartet and the Unity Male Quartet will sing.

Everyone is invited to come and make this big annual event a great success.

Supper tickets can be had from Mrs. A. S. Hollins, tel. Win. 0118-W and Mrs. J. A. Maddocks, tel. 0436-W.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Although we have some very fine radio sets in this town, thus far no report has been received of any local listener receiving the English stations in the trans-Atlantic test being conducted this week. The closing down of American broadcasting stations has allowed some radio enthusiasts to make some fine American records however, Los Angeles being heard by a number, together with Hastings, Neb.

While pouring hot lead into a pipe joint during the rain Sunday morning, John Carlson of the Water department was badly burned about the face by the hot metal exploding. The accident occurred at about 10 o'clock at the Swanton street bridge. He suffered intense pain and was treated by Dr. Brown, after which he was taken to his home on Cross street. No serious results are anticipated and he is reported recovering satisfactorily.

Mr. Samuel S. Symmes was badly bruised and shaken up Tuesday when a boy riding a bicycle struck him and knocked him down on Main street near Everill road.

A robe thrown over the radiator of Mr. Robert B. Kronquist's car on Water street was stolen Monday.

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk during the past week by Forrest L. Pitman of Somerville and Miss Thelma Cummings of Ravenscroft road, and by Gunnar B. Olson of Cambridge street and Miss Erna F. Reed of Portland, Me.

Mr. George Woods, coming up from New Haven for the Harvard-Yale game Saturday, spent the week-end with friends in town.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The street in the centre of the town in front of Hevey's Drug Store, where the car tracks were recently raised, has been brought up to the new level. This will eliminate the pool of water which has stood at this point for years. In doing this work the highway department has concreted the electric car cross-over at the railroad tracks, putting this place in really fine condition.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Forbes are occupying their Boston home at 30 West Cedar street this winter.

MRS. HENRY E. HODGE DEAD

Mrs. Elizabeth Peters Hodge, wife of Rev. Henry E. Hodge of Everett, who was for 20 years pastor of the First Baptist Church of this town, died at her home on Monday afternoon of a shock. She was ill but a few hours. On Sunday Mrs. Hodge attended church and appeared in unusually good health. At 10:30 Sunday evening she was stricken with a shock and never regained consciousness, dying Monday afternoon at one. Her death came as a great shock to a host of friends in Winchester.

Mrs. Hodge was born in Northfield, Minn., and was the daughter of Rev. Theron R. and Ida (Wilcox) Peters. She was graduated from the University of Minnesota, receiving the Phi Beta Kappa "P" for excellence in scholarship, being at that time the youngest girl in the world to receive such distinction.

She came with her husband to this town in 1899 when he took the pastorate of the First Baptist Church here. They remained in Winchester for 20 years, and in 1919 went to New York, where Mr. Hodge took the position of assistant secretary of the Baptist Board of Promotion. In October, 1921, they went to Everett, where Mr. Hodge became the pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Hodge was a member of the Boston Baptist Social Union and of the Friday Club of Everett. She was at one time one of the directors of the Women's Auxiliary to the Mission Society of New York, and during her residence in Winchester was a member of The Fortnightly.

Besides her husband, who has the sympathy of this town in his bereavement, she leaves a single sister, Mrs. Fred G. Terow of Minneapolis.

The funeral services are to be held this Friday afternoon at the First Baptist Church, Everett, at 2 o'clock, and will be conducted by Rev. Hugh A. Heath, general secretary of the Massachusetts Baptist Convention, assisted by Dr. Nathan E. Wood of Arlington. The interment will be in Minneapolis.

HIGH SCHOOL DRAMATICS

The Winchester High School Dramatic Society will present scenes from Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" in the High School Assembly Hall on Friday, Dec. 7, at 8 o'clock. After the play there will be informal dancing in the gymnasium. The proceeds will be used for a new stage curtain, which the High School has been in great need of for many years. The tickets at 50 cents may be obtained from Richard Barnard, tel. 1316-J, or from any member of the society.

The cast is as follows:

Orsino	James Halvarty
Sir Toby	John Gifford
Sir Andrew	Harry Gardner
Sebastian	Holbrook Tossell
Malvolio	Lombard Jones
Antonio	Robert Beach
Clown	Norman Ash
Fabian	Lynden Burnham
Sea Captain	Robert Bowen
Viola	Elizabeth Jacobs
Olivia	Charlotte Bradley
Maria	Dorothy Natter

A remarkable record of radio receiving was made Sunday evening by Dr. J. C. Hindes with his Neutrodyne set. The doctor received Dallas, Tex.; Calgary, Canada and Los Angeles, Cal., the latter station coming in on the loud speaker.

MOTHERS' MEETING IN THE RUMFORD SCHOOL

Over 70 mothers and friends assembled in the Rumford School Friday afternoon, Nov. 23, at the invitation of Misses Mary A. Lyons, Mary F. Doherty, Elizabeth Naven and Helena Doherty to hold the annual mothers' meeting. This meeting has always been looked forward to by the mothers with much pleasure and this year was voted the best ever held.

The meeting was opened by the singing of a group of songs by Mrs. Ivo McNally with Mrs. William Lecavour at the piano. Mrs. McNally has a wonderful voice and charming manner and delights her audience whenever she appears. She was followed by a reading by Mrs. William Sacho in a very pleasing and individual style.

Mr. James Quinn, superintendent of Winchester schools was the first speaker introduced. He has a very fine personality, a kind and sympathetic manner and won his listeners immediately. He urged mothers and teachers to be sympathetic with one another and also to have confidence in and sympathy with the adolescent child. He urged co-operation without which no organization or system could prosper. He spoke of many things which all should strive for in the future.

Miss Pratt, elementary supervisor, spoke of the necessity for perfect attendance in order that a child's standing in his class might be kept up. She [illegible] and the necessity of teaching children very young how to save.

Mrs. Alfred Higgins who started the chapters in the different schools spoke of the work which has been accomplished, especially by the Washington School chapter. Mrs. Higgins has mothered the teachers of Winchester many times and she is always welcomed—spoke of her delight at the large attendance of the Rumford School mothers at the meetings and felt the teachers were well cared for.

Mrs. John H. Powers, president of the Mothers' Association in a very gracious manner invited all mothers to come to the meetings of the association. She hoped for much help from the individual chapters.

Refreshments were served by the teachers and a group of mothers and an informal reception was held by which Mr. Quinn met every mother.

At the close a chapter was formed by the Rumford School mothers. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Mary Wallace; Secretary, Mrs. John O'Brien; Treasurer, Mrs. William Vaye.

CHRISTMAS ISSUE DEC. 14

The annual Christmas issue of the Star will appear this year on Friday, Dec. 14. This year's Christmas number will be more elaborate than ever, with a handsome colored cover and many Christmas hints and news.

Sunday afternoon Philip H. Writz of Malden, while driving over the Swanton street bridge at Main street in his Ford, struck the fence and a telegraph pole, wrecking the car, which caught fire, being considerably damaged. An alarm was rung in from Box 44, which took the fire department to the scene. The fire was quickly extinguished.

SNYDER THIEF DISCOVERED

James M. Elam, butler at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic S. Snyder, of 350 Highland avenue, was in the Woburn court last Friday morning charged with larceny of a handbag, various articles including a watch valued at several hundred dollars, a bar pin, which was also an expensive piece of jewelery and a suit of clothes. Justice Jesse W. Morton found him guilty and imposed a sentence of six months in the House of Correction. He appealed.

Mrs. Snyder testified that she received from a shopping tour and went to her room to rest, placing her handbag in her room. The following morning she could not discover the bag and also missed the jewelry. After a search about the house, the missing articles failed to appear and when Mr. Snyder returned, she reported the loss of the bag and jewelry.

The bag contained various cards, Mrs. Snyder's automobile license, several coins and a sum of money. A letter was received by Mrs. Snyder a few days after with these articles enclosed but the 40 odd dollars which was also in the bag was not returned.

The testimony of Mr. William C. Hingston an expert on handwriting was the most damaging for the defendant, as he stated that the writing on the application of Mr. Elam for the position as butler and the hand writing on the envelope addressed to Mrs. Snyder in which were enclosed cards and other articles which were in the bag, was the same in his opinion.

LARGE ATTENDANCE EXPECTED AT LECTURE ON PRISON LIFE

The most interesting and attractive feature of the regular meeting of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Parish next Sunday night, Dec. 2, will be the illustrated lecture in K. of C. Hall, Vine street by the Rev. M. J. Murphy, chaplain of the State Prison at Charlestown, on "Scenes Behind Prison Walls." The lecture will be for men and will commence immediately after a short business meeting is finished in the lower K. C. Hall. Fr. Fitzgibbons, the society's chaplain urges a full attendance.

Fr. Murphy, the lecturer, has talked in nearly every town and city of New England and has never failed to receive an enthusiastic reception. With a subject of absorbing interest and one he knows thoroughly, Fr. Murphy discloses the human side of prison life that is a revelation to those who have never given much thought to the living of the unfortunates set apart from the rest of the world by the cold gray prison walls.

The 60 prison scenes with which he will illustrate the lecture can not be duplicated. They are well worth seeing, making the entire lecture, with a discussion of present day prison problems, highly instructive as well as entertaining and after listening to Fr. Murphy one gets a broader insight of the lives of the men and women who have been caught in the toils of the law.

William F. App of North Woburn was found guilty on Tuesday by the Superior Court at East Cambridge on a charge of criminal assault on Miss Phoebe Dotten, daughter of Selectman Walter H. Dotten, last October. At the time of the assault App was out on bail on a similar charge. The verdict was sealed, and given by the jury after nine hours' deliberation. App's bail was set at $25,000 for his appearance in court on Monday, when sentence will be imposed. Being unable to raise that amount, he was taken to the East Cambridge jail.

REV. EDWIN B. ROBINSON OBSERVED 25TH ANNIVERSARY

On Sunday last, the Rev. Edwin B. Robinson of Grace Church, Holyoke, observed the 25th anniversary of his ordination, a fitting celebration being planned and carried out by his people in commemoration of the event, which occurred at Newent, Conn., Nov. 21, 1898. Rev. Mr. Robinson, for years a resident of this town, and a graduate of the Winchester High School, is widely known among our older townspeople. His mother, Mrs. Mary B. Robinson, and his sister, Miss Alice L. Robinson, reside on Vine street. He was the son of the late Edwin Robinson.

The observance was held at the 10:30 o'clock service in Grace Church Sunday morning. Among the guests were Acting President George Olds, Secretary Frederick Allis, Librarian Robert Fletcher and Prof. Howard Doughty from Amherst College, and John S. McElwain, the founder of the Grace Church Sunday school. There was a special musical program by the choir under the direction of Hugh J. Craig.

The text of Rev. Mr. Robinson's sermon was, Acts 13-23, "And as They Ministered to the Lord and Fasted, the Holy Spirit Said, 'Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the Work Whereunto I have called Them. Then when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them, they sent them away."

At the 7 o'clock service there was a large attendance. The service was designed especially as a welcome to all newcomers from overseas during the past year. A number of organizations cooperated in making the service a great success. The service, it is believed, is absolutely original to New England.

Rev. Mr. Robinson's sermon was a study of spiritual and ecclesiastical citizenship of adopted citizens. The Pilgrim and later the Puritan exodus to New England were reviewed, as well as the signficance of Thanksgiving Day as an American institution.

Pastor Robinson received many floral tributes and congratulatory messages on the observance of his silver anniversary.

The Holyoke Transcript says:

"The anniversary celebration of Rev. E. B. Robinson's people, planned for the completion of his 25 years of work in the Christian ministry yesterday was just one marker in the life and work of a most useful servant of God and man.

"Grace Church, for its steady seven days a week, 52 weeks in the year service for the men and women that it reaches, is known in a far field. It is as fine a piece of constructive work for his fellow men as man may ever hope to do.

"Mr. Robinson has worked indefatigably. He understands the soul and body interests and needs of his people and he strives to serve them. He does serve them."

James E. Sullivan of Oak street was struck and knocked down by an automobile in the centre Saturday evening. The car, a Dodge truck, was owned by Powell Bros. and driven by Vincent Boyle. Sullivan was taken to the police station and treated by Dr. Emery for bruises about the head.

WADLEIGH-PRINCE EXPRESSES THANKS

The Wadleigh-Prince Schools are very grateful to Mrs. George Lochman, who so kindly stepped into the breach caused by the unexpected and unavoidable absence of the regular school accompanist, Elizabeth Clarke, on Friday evening last. Mrs. Lochman had never seen the music until the evening of the performance nor heard a rehearsal of the pageant. Much of the music had to be transposed to fit the children's voices and for some of it there was no printed score in the hall. It was a task few would have been able to attempt at a moment's notice and she deserves our heartiest thanks.

WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Winchester Streets

It may not be known to all of us that our town highways equal a distance of about 55 miles in length and that of that number of miles about 30 of them are of a macadam construction or of that nature and the cost to our town runs into very large figures. The care of and preservation of this large investment is of much importance and requires much study from several angles.

One of the first considerations in the construction of our highways is to get rid of the surface water and when the rainfall is normal about 45 inches in depth per year, it really means that on every square foot of ground in this town there is 28 gallons to be taken care of.

On our water shed we welcome its arrival, also on the cultivated portions of our town, but with this large body of water in the form of rain or snow falling upon our highways it is a problem that requires careful study in order to get a maximum of benefit at a minimum of cost. Our town has expended without doubt over $200,000 in the several surface drainage systems that take care of the water that falls upon our highways. In so doing the water passes into the trunk line surface sewers through about 500 catch basins which retain the sediment while the water passes on to its intended destination.

It has been said that one inch of rain, when the atmosphere is cold enough to turn it into dry snowflakes makes a depth of from 10 to 12 inches, which is a problem of much concern to all towns and cities of eastern Massachusetts.

The mode and method of passenger and freight transportation over our highways has been and is now changing very rapidly and all municipalities are called upon to meet these conditions. Without doubt, motor driven vehicles will increase very materially [illegible] the work of [illegible] minimum of cost. [illegible] the auto traffic covers a large percentage of our catch basins and the sidewalk plowing covers many of our hydrants, which necessitates much shoveling after every snowstorm.

Would it not be wise and economical to remove much snow by machinery for at least a quarter of a mile from our centre? The most up-to-date machine for snow plowing is the tractor as it always travels on its own roadway and its power is almost unlimited and is much more serviceable than any of the truck family. A 10-ton tractor costs about $8500 and can plow a width of from 15 feet to 28 feet. The heavy trucks plow a width of from 10 to 12 feet when their wheels do not slip.

Last year the trucks could not plow up the hill on Mt. Vernon street but had to go to the top and plow down hill, and as they are employed by the hour it is expensive making two trips over the road.

Take Wedgemere avenue as an example, a tractor in one trip would plow a width of 28 feet where a truck would have to make three trips to accomplish the same results.

Our neighboring cities and towns believe in 10-ton tractors for Dedham, Brookline, Beverly and Concord have one each; Cambridge has two; the State of Massachusetts has five; and the following have 5-ton tractors; Cohasset, Billerica, Melrose and Methuen have one each; Dedham has two.

One of the most serious conditions that can happen to our 30 miles of macadam roads is the formation of ruts either in snow or ice and the continuous running of trucks and motors with their tire chains cutting grooves into the surface of the road; for when the surface is broken it is quite impossible to repair it by patching it so that it will be satisfactory.

The sure way of preserving the surface of the road is by destroying the ruts by having a scarifying attachment on the tractor which can be raised or lowered automatically, leaving a smooth surface on the road when in use.

The cost to hire trucks may be $6 per hour and a guarantee of $2500 worth of work or more.

There are only seven horses in the town stables where last year there were 12. Horses get tired and tractors do not and tractors can be used 24 hours per day in eight-hour shifts.

The next meeting of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce will be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 4, in Waterfield Hall.

S. M. C. S. DANCE

A very enjoyable dancing party was held in Waterfield Hall on Monday evening by the girls of St. Mary's Catholic Society, music being furnished by Joyce's orchestra.

The feature of the evening was the selection of the Rodolph Valentino of Winchester. Mr. John Callahan of Clarke street was unanimously chosen as Winchester's "Sheik."

It was a grand success both socially and financially and the committee in charge deserve much credit for the success of the dance. Mrs. William Callahan and Rev. Joseph Fitzgibbons were the guests of the evening.

SALE BY LEGION AUXILIARY

A sale of fancy work, practical goods, the best of home cooking, and many other articles suitable for ideal Christmas gifts will be held at the Legion House Saturday, Dec. 1.

The proceeds will be used towards whatever the Auxiliary State Headquarters think most helpful for the comforts and pleasures of the sick and disabled soldiers still confined to hospitals.

Any donation of checks or cash will be most gratefully received by the committee who are working hard for the success of the sale.

Hot coffee and doughnuts served through afternoon and evening.

CALUMET ACTIVITIES ANNOUNCED

Dec. 5, Wednesday. Ladies' afternoon bridge at 2:30, under the direction of Mrs. C. F. Winship, Mrs. A. E. Rowse and Mrs. H. A. Peterson, from whom tickets may be obtained by Calumet ladies.

On Friday evening, Dec. 7th, the annual "Father and Sons' Night" will be held, a talk being given by Mr. Ernest Benshimal, professor of English at the High School. Following his address Scott and Bayrd, the two-man minstrel team will stage a show with Miss Florence Fitzgerald at the piano.

The first of the Inter-Club visitations of the winter will be held on Friday evening, Dec. 14th, when the Old Belfry Club of Lexington will come to the local club for matches in bowling, billiards, pool and bridge. This is always an event of the year, the relations between the two clubs being particularly cordial. Mixed bowling is the principal feature of the program.

The annual New Year's party of the club is scheduled for Monday evening Dec. 31st. This will be a formal party with dancing from 8 until 1. The famous Lou Collins and his singing orchestra will be present.

THE LEAGUE OF WOMAN VOTERS HAS A HIGH PATRIOTIC MISSION

"The National League of Women Voters is the only effective organization of national scope known to me which undertakes on a non-partisan basis to educate the twenty-seven million new women voters to a wise use of their power. It seems to me altogether the most important thing organized women of today have undertaken."—Edward A. Filene, Boston.

"The League of Women Voters furnishes the finest example of unselfish public service we can find in the whole course of democratic government . . . . . The fact that it is non-partisan, that individuals are asked to enroll in the party of their choice, that emphasis is placed upon supporting improved legislation regardless of its party source, is the most hopeful sign that has appeared on the political horizon for many a year."—James H. Van Sickle, former Superintendent of Education, Springfield, Mass.

The Winchester League is a unit of the greater organization, and its portion of the work is largely intensive, seeking to reach the individual voter here in Winchester. You can help through your membership; and the League will help you. All women are cordially urged to join now. Please notify Mrs. Louis K. Snyder, chairman of the Winchester League, 7 Manchester road, Winchester. Annual dues are $1.

WINCHESTER HAS UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE

The annual Thanksgiving union service under the auspices of the Interchurch Council of Winchester was held on Sunday night at 7 o'clock at the Unitarian Church. The church was filled. A collection was taken up for the work of the Interchurch Council. Rev. Allan Evans, Jr., rector of the Church of the Epiphany, preached the sermon. He spoke of the obvious meaning of Thanksgiving and pointed out the fact that people are too likely to forget the common every-day things for which they should be thankful. He emphasized the great blessing that the people of this country enjoy because of the unity, good spirit and feeling that prevails throughout the United States, saying that the blessing of a united people was the great thing that America can be thankful for.

Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, conducted the opening service which was preceded by the singing of two Thanksgiving anthems by the church quartet, under the direction of organist Charles F. Scott. Rev. John E. Whitley, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, read the Thanksgiving proclamation by Gov. Cox. Rev. Allison B. Gifford, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, read the Scripture lesson, Rev. Clifton H. Walcott, pastor of the First Baptist Church, offered the prayer, and Rev. Dr. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, announced the hymns and gave the benediction. The singing of two anthems preceded the close of the service.

The members of the Sunday School of the Unitarian Church gave a picturesque Thanksgiving pageant in four episodes at noon at that church Sunday under the direction of Miss Fredericka Wendte. About 40 children took part in the pageant, the episodes of which were: Gratitude for the harvest; gratitude for the home and the family; gratitude for our country, and gratitude for the Church of God.

HON. FRANK G. ALLEN, PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE, AND REP. THOMAS R. BATEMAN TO SPEAK DEC. 7

That the ever-present and all-important subject of "Taxes" may be as entertaining as it is instructive has been ably demonstrated by Hon. Frank G. Allen, president of the Massachusetts Senate, before several representative audiences this fall. Mr. Allen is a big man in every sense of the word, and unusually well equipped to handle his subject in a clear, concise and pleasing manner. All who have heard him feel sure that his discussion of this question will prove most valuable and welcome to our community.

In presenting Legislative measures for our consideration Representative Thomas R. Bateman will not confine himself to questions featured in the newspapers and brought to public attention generally, but will bring before us questions which, while quite as important, are likely to escape our notice. Mr. Bateman is in a position to know the facts and his fellow townsmen know that he is well qualified to make himself both heard and understood. An opportunity for questions will follow the speaking. A cordial welcome is extended to all who wish to attend.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The Club had the unexpected pleasure on Monday afternoon of hearing Mrs. Parl B. Morton, one of its own members, sing. She has a charming voice and presence.

The regular entertainment for the afternoon was the description by Mrs. John Clarence Lee of her trip alone, from China, to Irkusk, the Capitol of Siberia. Irkusk is a city of 70,000 inhabitants, with one paved street, and log houses, (except the governor's) but spending 10 per cent of its income on education.

She spoke interestingly of her journey on the Trans-Siberian Railroad, arriving at mid-night at Irkusk amid rain and snow, unable to speak the Russian language and dependent on the kind offices of a railroad official who spoke only that language.

It was through this official that Mrs. Lee met the governor; was invited to a typical Russian dinner party; and met several political prisoners.

Girls of the Senior and Junior classes in the High School were invited to this meeting.

The next meeting of the Literature Group will be at the home of Mrs. W. S. Emerson, 33 Grove street next Monday, Dec. 3 at 3 p. m. Poems from the "Massachusetts Anthology of Verse" will be given and the two Massachusetts authors. Mrs. Larz Anderson and Mrs. Marbel Loomis Todd will be studied in connection with their respective books; Mrs. Anderson's on Japan, "Peacocks and Pies," and Mrs. Todd's, "Mysterious Tripoli."

K. OF C. NOTES

The winter activities of the council are now in full swing. Rehearsals for the annual minstrel show will soon be starting. A very efficient committee of which Thomas Farrell, the popular endman of previous shows, is Chairman, are planning to have this show the best ever put on by the Council. The Council is again fortunate in getting the services of Joseph Crossen, the well-known and popular instructor who coached last year's successful show.

It has been planned to stage this years' minstrel show on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Jan. 23 and 24.

Judging by the attendance and enthusiasm of the committee on the Indoor Circus and County Fair, the affair will be a great success, both socially and financially. Meetings are being held twice a week, Monday and Friday evenings. Chairman Dineen has announced the following subcommittees:

Purchasing—E. A. Goggin, L. P. Glendon, Thomas Farrell, James Valfely, William J. Murray.

Storeroom—L. P. Glendon, Thomas Farrell, Edward F. Boyle.

Tickets—John F. Fitzgerald, Thomas Fallon, Edward Cullen.

Program—William J. Murray, E. A. Goggin, L. P. Glendon.

In the very near future, the different booths, and the party in charge of each booth, will be announced.

Grand Knight Kenneally has presented the Council with a beautiful floor lamp for the upper hall of the Home.

A rug was stolen from the auto of Miss Flora Richardson last Thursday night while the car was standing at the Second Congregational Church.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Once in a great while a cook gets so very contrary that she absolutely refuses to quit.

There isn't any very great objection to a man talking himself up provided he doesn't run others down.

Whenever you see a couple walking along the street and the man goes on while the woman pauses to look in at the shop windows—well that is a sure sign that they are married.

A rolling man gathers lots of dust.

Many a sunny haired girl has a clouded disposition.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH ACTIVE

The State Board of Health, which has our river under its jurisdiction, "has come thoroughly to realize that the best way of reaching the general public with a health message is through the newspapers." It is, therefore, offering for publication to a number of weekly newspapers a weekly health article, which the Star is pleased to give to its readers. Possibly the publication of an article on our river, stating how long the present conditions are to continue, would be the most interesting subject to chat before our general public, but doubtless the Board is giving this matter serious thought for action next spring.

The weekly article follows:

Be Prepared

Now that winter is coming on, everybody is getting stocked up on handkerchiefs to be prepared for a succession of colds. Cold just naturally means colds to many people. It should not, for the cold air itself is beneficial. Fresh air, no matter how cold it is, is a cure for sickness, not a cause of sickness. It is the bundling up in overheated houses which causes colds. Hugging the stove with all windows nailed down for the winter,—any individual will start in stuffing and coughing.

Overeating, especially of sweets and greasy foods, is another cause for colds. Going to bed late helps the cold along.

Then of course there are the germs. Kissing on the lips is the most direct way of exchanging germs. Keep miles away from sneezing, sneezing people. Cover your own sneeze.

Do not let a succession of colds get hold of you this winter. Be prepared for winter, not with a supply of handkerchiefs but with rubbers and warm clothing to keep you dry outside, and fresh air and food in moderate amounts, and plenty of sleep to make you fit inside.

ZONING REDUCES THE COST OF LIVING

By zoning, millions of waste from the scrapping of buildings in "blighted district" may be eliminated.

A "blighted district" is a district, originally developed for residence or industry, in the future of which people have lost confidence.

The causes of such "blight" are manifold. The most familiar case is that of a residential district into which there have begun to creep various uses threatening rapid destruction of its value for residence—such new uses as sporadic stores, or factories, or junk yards. It is not that a few such inappropriate uses really spoil the district, but that people having lost confidence, start a panic like a "run on the bank." Hundreds of them hurry to "unload" their properties at a sacrifice for any kind or use, no matter how objectionable to their neighbors—and the "blight" is on! Dwellings worth in the aggregate millions of dollars for the purposes for which many years to come, with a moderate investment in alterations and improvements, are thus annually abandoned to purposes for which they are not fit, or are left to stand practically idle. Expensive public services of water gas, electricity, sewers, and transportation are maintained at great waste in order to get through the "blighted" district to the more distant and newly fashionable location.

The total economic loss is enormous, and this loss and the risk of it are paid by the people, in the price of house rents or otherwise, as inevitably as they pay the price of the enormous fire losses, either directly or through insurance.

Tradition Easily Acquired.

There is a peculiar flower growing in Central America which bears in the center of the petals a snow-white image of a dove. The Spaniards, upon discovering this peculiar blossom, called it the Holy Ghost flower, and soon created a tradition according to which it came down from heaven.

THE WHAT AND WHY OF AN EARTHQUAKE

Exactly what is an earthquake and what causes it?

These two questions very naturally pop into the minds of millions of persons when a catastrophe such as that which recently occurred in Japan overtakes some great city and causes thousands of deaths.

A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society answers these questions:

Superficially the name itself tells the story. It is no more nor less than a quaking of the earth or a part of it; and theoretically any vibration at all fills the bill, from the tremor caused by a heavy truck passing along the street or a blast in a nearby quarry to the most violent convulsion that slides hills from their bases and opens yawning chasms in the earth.

Earth Waves Hold Secret

But going beyond the superficial, there is more that needs to be said even by way of a bare definition of an earthquake. The quake in so far as man experiences it is the coming to the surface of waves in the earth. These waves cannot be compared simply to the up-and-down waves of rippled water nor to the back-and-forth waves in the air that make sound. Even the simplest wave motion is none too easy to understand; and the waves in the varying earth materials that make themselves known to man as earthquakes are probably the most complex waves that exist. They are at once motions "up-and-down" like sea waves; crosswise like the waves in a flapping flag; back-and-forth like sound waves or the motion in a long coiled spring suspended with a weight bobbing at its end; and in addition may have twists about imaginary pivot lines in all of the three dimensions.

The earth waves originate in some region down in the earth and start out in every direction. The waves from a pebble dropped into a pond form growing circles on the surface of the water. But the waves in the earth being in a solid, attempt to form spheres that constantly grow outward. Soon, however, because of the difference in the rigidity of different rock materials, the form is not a sphere at all but a very irregular curved solid instead more nearly that of a potato, perhaps.

Two Kinds of Waves

The two principal types of earth waves, those that travel like the pulsations in a bubbling spring, straight out; and those that travel like ripples and the waves in a flag, with a sidewise motion, move at different speeds. The pulsing waves are the swifter, and of course the place where they make themselves felt first and most strongly is the surface area straight above their starting point. This is technically the "epicenter" or "epicentrum." The pulsing waves around the epicenter alternately push up the surface of the earth and everything on it, and let them fall back. This is done very rapidly, and though the actual rise and fall may be only a fraction of an inch on rocky surfaces of a very few inches on soft soil, the violence may be like that from innumerable tremendous blows, and sufficient to shake down buildings.

The "sidewise" waves follow along almost immediately after the first pulsing waves, and the two, with perhaps "twisting waves" as well, then operate together. The ground in the epicentral area, therefore, gets innumerable thrusts and falls and at the same time is jerked sidewise and back for tiny distances in every direction.

At points some distance from the epicenter the pulsing waves strikes the surface at a slant and so accentuate the effects of the "sidewise" waves and create new surface undulations. The shaking at the epicenter, too, throws the earth's surface there into undulatory waves like ripples on a pond, and these also travel outward in widening circles. These surface waves are those of greatest motion but least speed. They register the heaviest vibrations on the seismographs of the world.

How the Waves Start

The second important question in regard to an earthquake is: What starts the waves?

No one has ever seen an earthquake wave start outward from its center, and it is safe enough to say that no one ever will. But science has built certain hypotheses about the matter that seem to account satisfactorily for the happenings, and which are accepted pretty generally.

Hold a dry stick as big as your thumb in your hands and bend it until it breaks. At the snap, waves travel to your hands and usually give you a quite painful sensation.

Hold an iron bar by one end and strike the other sharply with a hammer. Again the vibrations carried to your hand may be violent enough to

And if you should strike a small explosive cap with the end of a long rod grasped by the other end, the explosion would probably bring the same painful tingle to your fingers.

Breaks Probably Most Important

It is generally believed that earthquake waves flow from a point where one of the three forces illustrated is suddenly released—a break, a blow or an explosion. Breaks are credited with the responsibility for most earthquakes. It is believed that because of slow contraction or shrinking which may result from the cooling of the outer portion of the earth or because of pressure from deposited silt, strains are set up below the surface like those in the bending stick. Eventually the strain reaches the breaking point and there is a snapping of the rocks which sends violent waves to the surface, causing earthquakes.

The blow type of earthquake is probably less important. Such a blow might result from the falling in of a great cavern, but probably won't cause only a local shiver. A more important cause of a blow might be a slipping of one mass of rock over another with a collision at the end of the slide. Such a blow often follows a break, the two acting together.

Volcanic Explosions Play Part

Earthquake in active volcanic regions may often result from explosions of gases far beneath the surface; but it is quite possible that even in the neighborhood of volcanoes the majority of the quakes may arise from sudden breaks in the rocks.

That the earth's crust is subjected to squeezing and pinching is evident from mountain ranges, which are the portion of the crust that is "pinched up" as one can pinch up a ridge of skin on his arm. If mountains were ever thrust up at all rapidly the earthquakes at the time must have been terrible. Even now there are certain mountains that though millions of years old, are still geologically "young" and are slowly rising. The mountains of Japan fall into this class, and it is their "growing pains," so to speak, that cause the almost daily earthquakes in the Japanese archipelago. Now and then the strains accumulate over a considerable period and the break, slide and collision when finally occurs is violent enough to shake down hills, open wide cracks and destroy cities.

RADIO RECEIVING SETS

By Harry F. Hart, E. E.
Compiler of the Radio Operator's Course for the International Correspondence School

Article 1. Single Circuit Regenerative Receiver

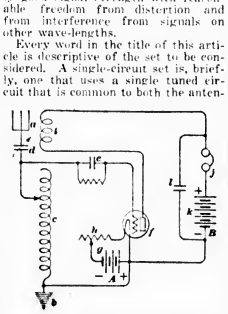

The radio enthusiast who saves his money to buy a radio tube naturally and right fully wants to get the maximum amount of energy from it. Because of refined circuits and their inherent properties it is possible to secure very good signal reproduction over a very great range of wavelengths and great distances. With proper construction, adjustments and operations a single-circuit regenerative receiver will give an exceptionally good signal strength with reasonable freedom from distortion and from interference from signals on other wave-lengths.

Every word in the title of this article is descriptive of the set to be considered. A single-circuit set is, briefly, one that uses a single tuned circuit that is common to both the antenna and tube circuits. The regenerative-receiver feature implies that in this type of receiver the accompanying figure connected with the antenna a and the ground b. The antenna circuit must be tuned to the desired wave-length in order to secure selectivity of signals, and in order that the signals may be as strong as possible. The inductance c and the condenser d are, therefore, made so that their electrical properties may be adjusted to tune the set to pick up signals from the desired sending stations. Coil e is sometimes a variometer of large size, but more often is merely a tapped coil for securing approximately wave-length adjustment. The variable condenser d is then used to secure more accurate and final tuning to the desired station. On powerful nearby stations this condenser will not have so much influence, but it will be found to be very critical in tuning the set to weak signals. In fact in such cases a vernier condenser or control may be considered a necessity for best results.

The lead from the tuning coil c to the grid of the tube (shown connected first to condenser e) is connected in the figure to the antenna lead which goes to coil c. In some instances a separate switch arm and set of taps is used for the connection between coil c and the grid lead, but this refinement is seldom used or warranted.

The .00025-microfarad grid condenser e is ordinarily of the fixed mica type. For proper dector action of the present-day types of tubes, the grid condenser should be shunted by a high-resistance grid leak of 1,000,000 to 3,000,000 ohms. This is indicated in the figure just below the grid condenser.

The three-element electron tube f may be any of the standard makes now on the market. The filament or A battery g should be one able to supply the requisite filament-heating current for the tube f without too rapid should be used with the high-filament current tubes, while dry cells will be entirely satisfactory on those tubes of low-filament power consumption. The rheostat h controls the filament current, and the tube's operation. The resistance should be about 10 ohms, and one of 30 ohms will be found more generally useful, especially if various tubes are to be used. It is very desirable that the filament current of a detector tube be controlled very accurately. A vernier-type rheostat, or a modified type of carbon-pile resistance unit, will do very well in securing accurate control.

A plate circuit coil i performs the actual feed-back or regenerative action by transferring part of the energy from the plate circuit back into the input coil in the grid circuit. The signal which has been rectified and amplified to some extent may be further rectified and amplified to give a very strong output. The feed-back or tickler coil j is generally arranged so it may be rotated to give anywhere from zero to maximum feed-back effect by a 90 degree movement.

Another method for securing regeneration is to use a tapped coil mounted fairly close to the main tuning coil. More or less feed-back effect is secured by using a greater or smaller number of turns of the tapped coil. In one very good arrangement, half of the plate-circuit turns are wound on the end of the main tuning-coil tube, and at least one-half inch away from the main winding. Rotation of the other half of the plate winding, which is mounted on a rotor much like a variometer, will cause its effect to help or buck the stationary part of the coil, and thus increase or decrease the feed-back effect. With this type receiver, it will be found in general that the selectivity is greatest when used on a short antenna, and when the feed-back effect is a maximum without producing oscillations in the set.

The telephone receivers j should be of any good standard make and cheap ones should be avoided. The B battery at k should be about 22½ to 45 volts for best operation on the usual type of hard high-vacuum detector tubes. On soft (grassy) tubes it is well to try various plate potential values, in the neighborhood of 10 to 25 volts until the one is found that gives best results.

As there is a radio-frequency current in the plate circuit, it is well to place a small condenser l of about .01-microfarad canacity in parallel with the telephone receivers and B battery. This will act as a by-pass for the radio-frequency currents around the telephone receivers and B battery.

KRISHNA'S DANCE IS RECORD

Performance Credited to Indian "God of Love" Hardly Seems Likely to Be Equaled.

The 1923 epic circle of the marathon dance in the United States rounds the solver year on the line of the duration of Krishna's dance with the gopis. Krishna is the Indian Christ, the "Lord of Love," the "Seed and Flower of the Universe." He came to earth in human form 5,000 years ago, and grew up as a cow herder.

All the gopis adored him. The gopis were milkmaids, and Krishna's dance with the milkmaids in the forest of Brindaban ranks as the greatest among Indians in his incarnation.

According to the popular legend there were 1,001 gopis, and each had her separate Krishna dancing with her, the god multiplying his personality among them so perfectly that each milkmaid was conscious only of the joyous fact that she herself had for her partner the Lord of Love.

One reads that birds and bees and flowers whirled around the heads of the dancers, and that passionate night forgot to draw its curtain to let day in but lengthened into eons, making a nine-step dance record for all time.

Lock for Much From Canal.

On May 5 the new ship canal between the Mississippi river and Lake Pontchartrain at New Orleans was formally dedicated, though it had been in use for several weeks before that. The new canal makes it possible to build a great modern port with an efficient system of warehousing for the deposit and exchange of goods and plenty of room for factories close to the docks from which their products will be shipped. It also enables ships to make their way into New Orleans from the Gulf of Mexico or out from the Mississippi to the sea without passing through the tortuous and shifting channel of the lower river. The commercial interests of New Orleans believe that the canal will add greatly to the activity and wealth of the city.—Youth's Companion.

Build Behind Cloth Screen.

One thing I saw in Buenos Aires puzzled me more than any other the curtains carefully put around buildings in course of construction or remodeling. In the United States a covered way over the sidewalks protects the pedestrians from falling timbers and plaster, while the skeleton of the new structure looms high above in stark nakedness.

But the builder in Buenos Aires is more modest. He puts a high board fence three-fourths of the way across the sidewalk and tops it with cloth many yards high. Behind this screen the edifice grows until one day the flimsy barricade is removed, revealing a structure elaborately decorated with lions and cupids and cement scrolls.—Frances S. Harris in World Traveler Magazine.

Where Nature Is the Cook.

Free public camp grounds, with fireplaces for cooking and heat furnished by nature, are among the conveniences provided by the Department of Interior for the camper in national parks. In the recently completed campground in Hawaii National park not only the fireplace, but natural heat also is supplied. This is accomplished by building the fireplaces about one hundred feet from the edge of the firepot of Halemumuu.

Over hot cracks comes up heated air, free of gas, smoke or ashes, says the Department of Interior. One of the advantages of these "fireless cookers" is that they are always ready for the next meal. A recent party of 35 persons baked their potatoes, boiled their coffee, and did all their cooking in the natural fireplaces.

Coal Waste in Uncovered Pipes.

It is estimated that a ton of coal a year is wasted by each uninsulated hot-water tank in use in American homes. Greater economy is possible if all hot-water and hot-air pipes be insulated, preventing about four fifths of this loss.

LACROMA: DARK STAR OF THE HAPSBURGS

The little island of Lacroma on the Dalmation coast, which the post-World War Treaty of San Germain made Jugo-Slavian territory, and which has just cost that new Kingdom more than half a million dollars of indemnity to its former owner, Princess Elizabeth of Austria, plays a new role by thus bringing something of value to a Hapsburg, says a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society.

The bit of territory might well have been known heretofore as the dark star of ill-fated Hapsburg archdukes. Maximilian, brother of the late Emperor Franz Joseph, left his beautiful retreat there to become for a brief period Emperor of Mexico—and to face a firing squad at Queretaro. Archduke Rudolph, son of Franz Joseph and heir to the Imperial crown, counted Lacroma one of his favorite homes in the years before the tragedy that found him shot dead in a hunting lodge.

Part of Famous Republic of Ragusa

Lacroma, only a mile long and less than half as wide, lies in the deep blue waters a little way off the shore of the Mediterranean's second Riviera, the coast across the Adriatic sea from the back of "Italy's boot." It is only half a mile from Ragusa, the famous medieval rival of Venice, which alone kept its independence when all the rest of the Adriatic coast was in the hands of the Turks or the Venetians. Lacroma, with the other islands of the neighborhood, was a part of the Republic of Ragusa, and came down through the centuries sheltered by that shrewd and enlightened commonwealth, and safe physically while the neighboring city suffered from its series of cruel earthquakes.

Legend says Richard Coeur-de-Lion was shipwrecked on Lacroma and in gratitude for having his life saved built there a chapel and monastery. At any rate, in 1023 a Benedictine monastery was founded on Lacroma, and the island continued a religious community for centuries. Through all the ups and downs of history the island remained Ragusan territory until one of Napoleon's generals captured the city in 1808 and proclaimed the Republic to be at an end. A new and unwelcome chapter opened for Ragusa in 1815 when the Congress of Vienna, tossing bits of Europe about as it wished, gave Ragusa's territory to Austria.

Bought By Maximilian of Mexico

Maximilian bought the island about the middle of the nineteenth century and converted the ruined monastery into a chateau for himself. It was after his execution that his nephew, Rudolph, frequented the island. When the second great tragedy overtook the Hapsburgs the island and its buildings were handed over to the Dominican monks; but in 1911 the Imperial family regained possession and it was given before the World War to the Princess Elizabeth as a marriage dowry.

The island is heavily wooded and covered with smaller growth of semi-tropical plants: oleanders, myrtles and aloes, with here and there tall fir trees. From the high rugged mainland this dark green patch of land seems a fairy island in a sapphire sea.

In Lacroma's made-over monastery are relics that stir unhappy memories of Maximilian and his wife, Carlotta, who has been insane since the year of her husband's execution. The view from the island shoreward inspires more pleasant thoughts of a remoter past. Against gray Monte Sergio rise the campaniles and domes, the massive medieval walls and the bastions and towers that tell of the one-time power of Ragusa, whose freighted merchant ships, known throughout the Commercial world of their day, live in the expressive word they have given us, "argosy."

Masculine Person Bedecked.

In the earliest civilization men of wealth and position decorated themselves all they could. Tut-Ankh-Amen's [illegible] sandals of pure gold were [illegible] unique; on the contrary [illegible] fair samples of the kind of footgear every Egyptian king sported as a matter of course, and the nobles of Egypt, Babylonia, Assyria, Media, Persia, Lydia and Etruria indulged themselves with all the adornments their artisans could produce, as far as they could afford them.

Schubert Family Quartet.

Schubert enjoyed the privilege of having a string quartet in his own family, in which he played viola, his brother Ferdinand first violin, Ignaz the second violin, the father the 'cello. Schubert's father was none too accurate in his playing in the family quartet. When he made a blunder the son would carefully examine the manuscript and say "Dear father, there must be a mistake in the music somewhere."

Again the Malady of Youth.

Our recent note on James Russell Lowell's confession of "incurable childhood" has led a correspondent to send us the following quotation from the letters of Franklin K. Lane: "Although an 'aged man,' as I was once described in my hearing, I am the youngest thing inside that I know, in my curiosity and my truthfulness and my imagination and my desire to help and my belief in goodness and justice."—Boston Transcript.

NEW LIGHT ON ETRUSCAN ORIGIN

One of the most puzzling mysteries of history, the source of Etruscan civilization, famous rival of Rome, may be solved by the discovery announced from Italy of a very ancient city near Ferrara, explains a bulletin from the National Geographic Society and continues:

Tombs recently found beneath the mud deposited by the Po River are of a period antedating the founding of Rome and indicate an Etruscan origin. Romulus, founder of Rome, suckled by a she-wolf according to legend, found the Etruscan people firmly established when he began Rome. Legend gives them a league of 12 cities thriving on the rich fertile plain to which Egypt, Greece, and Africa paid bounteous tribute in gold, silver, scarabs, rare vases and priceless gems. Pisa, famous today for its leaning tower, was a small village of rich, extravagant, voluptuous Etruria. All the great cities have vanished.

Fell Victims to Luxury

Etruscans are supposed to have entered Italy from the Po region. Whether they came from Macedonia, the home of Alexander the Great, or whether they were a colony established by Greece in the days of her grandeur may be decided by the remains of the lost city discovered near Ferrara. Like Rome, Etruria fell victim of her sin. Diodorus wrote, "Their country was so fertile they derived therefrom not only sufficient for their needs but enough to supply them with luxuries. Twice a day they partook of elaborate repasts at which tables were decked with embroidered cloths and vessels of gold and silver. The servants were noticeable for the richness of their attire. In fact, giving themselves up to sensuous enjoyment they had naturally lost the [illegible] reputation they [illegible] had won in wars."

Reminders of Famous Names

[illegible] Borgia [illegible] father Pope Alexander VII [illegible] Tasso [illegible] wrote "Jerusalem Delivered" while living under the patronage of the famous Lucrezia. Titain achieved his first great success in Ferrara with magnificent [illegible] canvas for the altar of the church of Fari. Then there was Aldus. Even today men who deal with type the whole world round know and praise the work of this man, who, following close on the heels of Gutenberg, inventor of printing, produced type which is still a standard of grace. It was Aldus, also protege of Lucrezia living at the magnificent ducal palace of Ferrara, who developed what it now known as italic type.

Aldus was no less a scholar than a printer. His emissaries and fellow-workers scoured Greece and Constantinople for the fast disappearing Greek gems of literature. He produced the first Greek grammar and saved to the world priceless works of Horace, Plato, Socrates and other writers, philosophers, and singers who will always be intellectual giants of civilization.

Made Fine Art of Wickedness

Brilliant and colorful as was the Italian Renaissance period it was also corrupt, licentious, immoral and wicked beyond belief. Great works of Titain, Bellini, Raphael were balanced by diabolical murders, by assassination bought and paid for, by poisonings, by intestine wars, by religion and political life both sunk in a morass of evil practices. Into such a setting a famous son of Ferrara was born, the noted Savonarola. He forswore the corrupt court lift and like a prophet of the Old Testament went through the land preaching against and assuring God's forgiveness for the penitent. Great crowds were charged with enthusiasm by the power of his oratory; the people changed their way of life, simple garb was assumed by thousands, and monarchs were overthrown.

So powerful did Savonarola become that enemies plotted his death. Finally he and two of his followers were tried by a jury of their enemies, condemned to death, hanged, and their bodies burned. Amid the memories of great courts, great painters and great martyrdom Ferrara lives, sleepy and stodgy under the sun and the Italian blue sky. Now with the discovery of the Etrurian town a new memory is added to the already long list.

BAVARIA: A LAND OF MUSIC SURROUNDED BY MOUNTAINS

One, William Hohenzollern, woodchopper of Doorn, Holland, probably appreciates a certain irony in the latest dispatches from Germany reporting defiance of the Berlin government by Bavaria, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society, which continues:

It was in a Bavarian castle hundreds of years ago that the Hohenzollern family struck root. Bavaria, the home of this family which with Bismarck's aid, made the unified German states a world power, is now threatening to break the combination.

About the Size of Maine

This small state in the hills gave to the world the Holbeins, artists, father and son, as well as the Hohenzollerns, and afford friends and appreciation for Mozart, Wagner and Liszt. Bavaria may be described, in fact, as a land of music entirely surrounded by mountains. This woodel amphitheater of the Alps foothills, slightly larger than the State of Maine, lies between Germany proper, Switzerland on the south and Austria on the east. It supports nearly 7,000,000 people; one-eighth of the German population. Munich, the capital, has a population larger than Pittsburgh, Pa., while Nuremberg is about half as large.

Even nature has had reservations concerning the logical direction of Bavarian loyalty. Although tributaries of the Rhine drain the southern section of the country, most of the bowl in the hills drains into the Danube and thence to the Black Sea. The Ludwigskanal, the connecting link between the North Sea and the Black Sea, runs directly across Bavarian territory.

Restive Despite Privileges

Bavaria agreed to alliance with Prussia in 1866 before the Franco-German War. It has been uneasy under the yoke of the northern state, although it had more votes in the Reichstag than any other state save Prussia and had independent control over its posts, telegraph, railways and army. The picturesque history of Bavaria, which has been ruled for more than a century by Counts of the House of Wittelsbach, makes it a magnified Graustark.

Before the World War Bavaria had another name which fitted perfectly with her dukes and duchesses and her music. Bavaria was Toyland. Nuremberg is noted the world over for toys. "Made in Germany," the familiar mark on toys in American stores before 1914, could have been changed in most instances to "Made in Bavaria." Woodcarvers of the Black Forest, which touches the state on the south, for years seemed to have a monopoly knowledge on how to pull children's heartstrings.

The Romance of Oberammergau

In 1634 plague swept Bavaria and in one mountain valley a band of peasants pledged a celebration to God every 10 years if the curse were lifted. For 300 years these country folk have kept faith. Their little village, Oberammergau, is now known the world over and thousands of people come to witness this unique spectacle amid the [illegible] which portrays the story of Christ.

The continuance of this festival [illegible] of strife and trouble in all Europe is distinctive of the Bavarian valley. [illegible] states around [illegible] bands up and [illegible] music festivals [illegible] before great audiences [illegible].

King Ludwig of Bavaria heard an [illegible] which appealed greatly to him. He immediately offered the author an annuity and a house if he would come to Munich. The author was Wagner. The great master spent much of his later life in Bavaria and [illegible] in Bayreuth his last home. The Wagner music festivals of Bayreuth, given in honor of the composer, are attended by music lovers from all parts of the world.

THE BELLS AND BRIDGES OF BRUGES

Bruges, Belgium, has had the greatest of its annual celebrations, the procession of the Most Precious Blood; which, now that the World War is well past, has taken the prominent place in Belgian hearts that it held before the German occupation caused its temporary suspension. Of the city of this procession—one of the leading religious celebrations of Europe—a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society says:

Name as Logical as "Smith's Crossroads"

If we are unfamiliar with the language of a foreign country we are likely to accept the names of its cities as meaning nothing in particular or as having an esoteric significance which we can hardly hope to fathom. But Bruges fools us. Its name has about as common an origin and is about as logically descriptive as "Three Rivers" or "Smith's Crossroads." Because the town from the beginning had numerous canals and structures carrying streets across them it was named (in Flemish) "Bridges." It is a sort of reversed Venice. Whereas the latter is an area of sea with islands scattered in it, Bruges is a land area cut into islands by numerous canals. In both cities many houses rise sheer from the water and boats are used for traffic.

Like Venice again, Bruges was once the commercial and banking center of the world. This was in the fourteenth century. The center of commercial activity had moved from Italy to Flanders, and Bruges was then Flanders' greatest market. World trade came up the river Zwyn which gave it a harbor; merchants from the four quarters of the world maintained headquarters in the city; and its bourse regulated the exchange rate for all Europe. Ghent was a strong rival, but until the Zwyn finally silted up in 1490 Bruges held its own. At the height of its power Bruges had a population of 200,000; now the inhabitants number about 55,000.

Had Notorious U-Boat Nest

Not to be cheated of a port by Nature's destructive forces the people of Bruges have built several canals to the North Sea. The largest and most direct leads eight miles to Zeezrugge (meaning the seaport of Bruges). This port and its canal and the basin at Bruges figured prominently in the World War. The Germans developed a strong U-boat nest at Bruges from which their underwater commerce destroyers went out to sink many an Allied ship and to which they returned for repairs and outfitting. A tremendously strong shelter with a concrete roof six feet thick, built over the water, stands near the Bruges end of the sea canal today, a monument to German U-boat activities. Allied bombing planes were unable to find the exact location of this camouflaged nest, and probably would have been able to inflict but little damage on its roof even if direct hits had been scored. The British, however, successfully hindered the U-boat activities from the Bruges nest by their famous sortie against the Zeebrugge mole when old ships filled with concrete were sunk across the entrance channel to the canal.

Most Medieval Flemish City

Bruges is one of the quaintest of the old, Flemish cities and is said to preserve in its architecture a more medieval aspect than any of its sister municipalities. Prominent architectural features are the Notre-Dame and the Cathedral of St. Sauveur both excellent examples of early pointed Gothic; and the market hall with its dominant belfrey housing 48 bells, one of the most famous collections of chimes in Europe.

In St. Basile's chapel is kept the Sacred Vial, brought by crusading knights from Jerusalem, reputed to have been the vessel holding the water with which Joseph of Arimathea bathed the blood-stained body of Christ. This reliquary is carried once each year in the procession of the Most Precious Blood.

Bruges has long been noted for its woolen cloths. In recognition of the city's preeminence in this field in 1430 Philip the Good of Burgundy named the order which he then created, "the Order of the Golden Fleece." This has ever been one of the most exclusive knightly orders.

HOW FASHION IS MAKING THE FUR FLY

Naturalists all over the United States are worrying over the probable extinction of certain of our mammals due to the decree of fashion that women wear furs all four seasons of the year. Museums are hastening to obtain specimens for their collections before it is too late. Newspapers say that we are enriching the interior of Africa by wearing monkey fur on our garments. Soon some of the animals which exist in abundance today will be in the class with the dodo and the auk.

It is only by educating the American public to the need for periods of protection for these animals that we will be able to preserve one of the country's most valuable assets for the enjoyment and profit of future generations, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its Washington, D. C., headquarters.

An expedition to the island of Guadalupe off the coast of Lower California, which the National Geographic Society recently helped finance for the purpose of finding if any specimens of the fur seal which once lived there in great colonies still were to be found, proved conclusively that no traces of these animals have appeared on the island for many years. They have been exterminated by unscrupulous fishermen. Unless the public comes to appreciate the danger menacing many of our other furbearers throughout the country, their life story may soon be that of the seal.

It has been estimated that America spends yearly $100,000,000 for fur garments, the trade of fur merchants in raw and manufactured furs for import and export trade in New York alone being about $375,000,000.

And for such a trade Billy Beaver, Tommy Marten, Jackie Skunk, and Harry Muskrat—to slip into the nomenclature of bed-time stories— are not only paying with their lives but with the threatened existence of their kind. The high prices which have been offered for their pelts have led to intensive trapping, to the clearing of woodland and to the draining of marshes. In many parts of our country beavers and martens have been exterminated, and even Alaska is beginning to worry about the growing scarcity of fur-bearing animals within her boundaries.

Muskrats Raise Mortgages

Some of the States of the Union have realized the danger into which they have fallen and are establishing close periods for some of the most valuable of the fur-bearers. Until a few years ago the farmer who had marshland infested with muskrats on his farm voiced violent prejudice against the little animals, and set out to exterminate them; now that same farmer knows that these muskrats can become as valuable as any of the livestock on his place. He protects them during the mating season, and takes only a reasonable number of pelts for market during the dead of winter when the fur is good.

The great demand for furs has led to the rapid increase of fur-farming throughout this country and Canada. Recent reports says that there are already about 800 fox farms in Canada alone and that the owners of them are growing wealthy on their profits. The small fur bearers are very prolific and there are millions of acres of land in this country where they would multiply in great numbers if they were given the proper encouragement, and if intelligence were exercised in taking the pelts.

Government Working Out Fur Farming Problems

The United States Biological Survey has been making an intensive study of the best methods of raising wild animals in captivity, and reports that foxes have been raised with great success. Silver foxes, Blues foxes, skunks and muskrats can be raised successfully, and further investigations are being made into the possibility of raising minks, martens and fishers, which up to the present time do not breed in captivility or else produce inferior animals.

Various methods have been suggested for bringing the fur supply within the neighborhood of the demand. Large tracts in various parts of the country could be set aside as permanent preserves. It has also been suggested that the National Forests might be administered as game preserves, the National Forests of Colorado alone being capable of producing $100,000 worth of fur each year by the conservation of the wild animals which already live within their confines.

SIMBIRSK: LITTLE ST. LOUIS OF RUSSIA

Simbirsk, Russia, to be the site of an American memorial school may be unknown to American ears though the name of its northern neighbor, Kazan, "rings in the imagination like distant temple bells" and Nizhni Novgorod is "as aromatic as sandalwood."

The city, Simbirsk, according to a National Geographic Society bulletin, rides like saddlebags on the spine of a hill that rears its back between two rivers, only a few miles apart, flowing in opposite directions.

One is the shallow Sviyaga, the other the matronly Volga, the Mississippi of Russia. In its commerce today, as well as a frontier city when the Tatars were the Red Indians of Russia, Simbirsk is a minature St. Louis.

The Tatar Dead Line

History's effect on geography is apparent in the location on the eastern Volga bank of every important city from Simbirsk to the Volga's multi-channel mouth, below Astrakhan. Syzran, Saratov, Kamishin and Tsaritsin bear witness of the last stand of the barbarian hordes. Kazan, once the tented city of the Tartars, and the venerable Nizhni Novgorod, famed for fairs, still farther up the Volga, were the frontier cities which Ivan the Terrible wrested from the enemy and held against their blows, fortunately futile to recross the Volga.

Simbirsk is the first important city above the great loop of the Volga, at Samara. It is the chief city of the government of the same name. In it live the Mordvinians, among the most interesting aboriginal Russians, whose women are conspicuous for their embroidered dresses, earrings made of rodents' tails, and necklaces by the scores which make of each wearer's bosom a veritable museum of ornaments.

Primitive Spiritualism

Nominally accepting the Christian religion they weave into it their pagan customs, almost defying the honey bee, still go through the form of kidnapping brides, and have a ritual of the resurrection of the dead which is especially interesting. On the fortieth day after death the spirit of the dead is supposed to return to the home of his relatives; one of the family undertakes to be his mouthpiece and speaks in his name.

In many homes of Simbirsk the traveler will find an altar of stone covering a pit dug to receive the blood of slaughtered sacrificial animals. In the more primitive communities young girls have been reported killed for such offerings.

Bee Keeping Taught in Schools

The bee is in evidence in Mordvin literature and lore; to this day the province might well account itself a land of milk and honey. Grain is its agricultural mainstay but the importance of bee keeping was reflected in the prewar educational system by the course in that subject taught in 50 schools in the government. Most schools had gardens and many had farms.

Irregular river courses, irregular hills, and irregular climate mark this eastern sector of Russia's great central plateau. In the city of Simbirsk the extreme range within one year was from 115 degrees above to 48 degrees below zero. Fertility of the soil often succumbs to adverse weather and famine follows.

This province was one where the communal farming caused no shock; for peasant villages already held as community tracts, more than 40 per cent of the land.

WINCHESTER MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

Dr. Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education, was the speaker at the annual guest night of the Winchester Mothers' Association in High School Assembly Hall, Thursday, Nov. 15.

He said that during the past few years the question in education has been "How." From now on it is to be "Why?" The aim of the individual child mentally, morally, physically and spiritually is the objective of education in the elementary field. Teachers must develope a keen desire for more truth than has been revealed. A mind full of curiosity is more to be desired than 100 per centism. The most unpleasant truth may be a safer companion than the most beguiling falsehood. Young people should be trained to think in terms larger than sectional ones. The great problem of modern education is the adaptation of youth to their future work in life. Dr. Smith urged more vocational training.

Many of the public school teachers were present, also parents of the pupils and everyone enjoyed the refreshments served in the gymnasium by the social committee, Mrs. Wadsworth Hight and Mrs. Fred B. Cole.

ADVENT RETREAT NEXT WEEK

An Advent Retreat under the protection of Our Lady of the Magnificat for all the women of St. Mary's Parish opens at the church on Sunday, continuing daily through the week. Week-day masses will be held at 7 and 8:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. William J. Stanton, S. J., of New York. The opening and closing meetings are to be held Sunday evening, Dec. 2 at 8 o'clock and Dec. 9 at 3:30 p. m.

The program of the week is to be as follows:

Sunday, Dec 2 Our Lady, valiant in her humility, magnifies God and the Supernatural.

Tuesday, Dec 4 Our Lady, valiant in the Temple, magnifies True Worship and Prayer.

Wednesday, Dec 5 Our Lady, valiant under persecution, magnifies Patience and Fortitude.

hidden life at Nazareth, magnifies the Ideal hidden life at Nazareth, magnifies the Ideal Home and Woman's Mission.

Friday, Dec. 7 Our Lady, valiant on Calvary, magnifies the Cross and Sufferings.

Saturday, Dec. 8 Our Lady, valiant before the Tabernacle, magnifies the Eucharist and the Sacred Heart.

Sunday, Dec 9 Our Lady, valiant in her Intercession and protection, magnifies Charity and procures a Happy Death

Finish of Retreat and Reception into Sodality Sunday, December 9th at 3.30 p. m.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon for Mrs. Ida M. Larson, wife of Mr. Carl Larson of Main street. The service, at 3, was conducted by Rev. M. Hallington, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Church of Woburn, and was largely attended by many friends. There was a beautiful display of floral tributes. The pall bearers were the six sons of the deceased, Messrs. Harold, Bernard, Conrad, Carl, Jr., Frederick and Ralph Larson. The interment was in Glenwood Cemetery, Everett, where committal prayers were held.

The summer artists' colony at Provincetown has extended its occupation at the Cape to an all-winter residency. This year nearly 100 artists and writers will reside there. Included in the colony which will stay is Mr. W. H. W. Bicknell of the "Wharf Players," who conducts a class in drypoint etchings.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Several large gatherings of birds led a Winchesterite to wonder, do they practice flying with a purpose to make their long journeys to the Southward or do they merely take pleasure in the exercise? The question has a sort of interest but who can answer it? A man may be prone to long walks—we may know it, and not have the faintest idea whether it is for pleasure, for health, or preparation for a scientific expedition. Possibly we all find enjoyment in some action without any clear purpose. Therefore less do we know of the purpose of the birds.

Weight and size are easily calculated. For instance, a Winchesterite six feet high is 50 per cent taller than a child four feet in height. But we rarely estimate on sound. Lately the Spectator heard teams passing over an incompletely paved street, a few days later the work was completed, and the sound seemed to be less than a third of what it had been.

Writers, of course have their "off days" just as policemen and undertaker assistants. Thought will not spring into being and they sit at their desk for hours without penciling a single word. And then, as sometimes happens in the Star editorial sanctum, it is their luck to have some bright individual drop in and ask them "what they do, aside from writing."

In these days when no home is really home without a piano, a phonograph or a saxophone, there is an ever-increasing class who "don't know music, but know what they like." To say that musical appreciation in Winchester is growing might not be entirely truthful; to say that musical education is spreading is undoubtedly true. With the radio and the phonograph there is literally more music in Winchester's air than ever before.

The adolescent youth happened to be thrown into the society of girls much older than himself. His mother was a bit anxious for fear he'd bore these somewhat stately creatures.

"But you won't enjoy their society," she said. "You won't know what to say to them. For instance, what could you find to say to that last partner of yours?"

"Why, I found something to talk about," he said thoughtfully. "I remember I asked her if she was as tremendously popular in the high school as she was in the grammar school."

"I guess you won't bore 'em," said mother.

AN ARCTIC ISLAND HELPS WORLD TO KEEP WARM

Spitzbergen, where favorable weather during the past summer permitted the making of important surveys never before possible, has a unique interest because it is one of the few Arctic or Antarctic lands that are being made to yield up minerals to the temperate zones, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"The northern tip of Alaska to which a few government officials push each summer seem all too close to the North Pole for the average dweller of the warmer regions of the earth to live in unless he is pursuing scientific investigations, says the bulletin. "In Spitzbergen, however, which is 600 miles closer to the top of the world, several hundred ordinary men of Europe and America are making their homes the year round while they strip coal from beneath the ice-covered mountains. It is excellent coal, too, and there is every reason to believe that the mining operations will grow steadily.

Fomerly Was No-Man's Land

The discovery early in the twentieth century, that Spitzbergen's coal underlies large areas brought it suddenly back to the world's attention and made sovereignty over it well worth claiming after it had been abandoned for generations as a sort of noman's land. Barents, a Dutchman, discovered Spitzbergen in 1596, according to the usual records; but the Norwegians claim that their seamen visited the islands at earlier dates. Henry Hudson, searching for a northern passage to the Orient in 1607, learned of the vast number of whales near the islands and as a result Spitzbergen's waters became for a time the world's greatest whale fishery.

The Dutch were foremost in this development. By the time of America's Revolutionary War whalers from the Netherlands had taken about $100,000,000 worth of whale products from the region. Catches became so great in the early years of the exploitation that the ships were embarrassed to haul the blubber home.

An Arctic Summer Town

A thriving summer town, Smeerenberg, was established and flourished for a score of years. It was an anomolous community, a Dutch town in the frozen Arctic, with its shops, drinking places, and bakeries in addition to the oil refineries, cooperage establishments and smithies of the whaling industry. When the whales in the immediate neighborhood of the islands were destroyed and the whalers had to go farther afield for their catches, Smeerenberg dwindled away. About the only reminder of this onetime thriving Dutch community is the cemetery miles, about like that of West Virginia. Its lofty, needle-like peaks are mantled almost from bottom to top in perpetual snow and between are huge glaciers. One great ice-river, the Queen Maud Glacier, is 50 miles wide.

The ill-starred expedition of the Swedish explorer, Andree, who hoped to reach the North Pole by balloon, took to the air from Spitzbergen in 1897. The fate of the members of the expedition was never learned. A few message-buoys dropped the day of the start were found near Spitzbergen. No later word was received.

VOL XLIII NO. 21 WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1923 PRICE SEVEN CENTS

MR. ARTHUR WEIGALL

WILL SPEAK IN TOWN HALL DECEMBER 17

So much interest is being shown in town as to the distinguished Egyptologist author and artist who will speak here on Dec. 17th under the auspices of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church, that the Star is pleased to print this sketch of the man and his work. Mr. Weigall, although still in his early forties, has devoted more than 20 years to Egyptian research and exploration. He has engaged in six expeditions of major importance and has written many historical, scientific and romantic books in connection with his work. He has been three times decorated by different governments, and in 1905 was appointed Inspector General of Egyptian antiquities, by Lord Cromer, holding this post until 1914. Last spring upon the discovery of the tomb of Tutankhamen Mr. Weigall who was then in England was at once sent to the spot as special correspondent for the London Daily Mail and the North American Newspaper Alliance. His former high official position gave him access to a wealth of material which his knowledge, experience and skill as a writer turned into news articles of great value published in the leading cities throughout the world. Mr. Weigall's equipment for the lecture platform is made complete by a most pleasing personality and by a wonderful collection of lantern slides in the coloring of which his own artistic talents were employed. Further announcement of Mr. Weigall's lecture will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Star.

OPERA TO BE GIVEN

Rehearsals for the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "The Pirates of Penzance" are nearing an end, and are showing great promise of two splendid performances to be given in the Town Hall on the evenings of Dec. 14 and 15.

Under the musical direction of Mr. J. Albert Wilson, organist and choirmaster at the Church of the Epiphany and the coaching of Mr. Henry Dale of Medford, the production bids fair to surpass many so-called professional shows, and more enjoyment than usually afforded by the average amateur performance is anticipated.

Winchester is particularly fortunate in having much real talent available, and the members of the cast do not hesitate to assure their friends that no effort will be spared to make the "Pirates" outdo, if possible, the "Fire Prince" of last year.

The following people are in the cast and chorus:

Florence Ambance	Myra Smith
Ethel Bond	Idabelle Winship
Margaret Blair	Robert Bowe
Hilda de Cormis	Louis Goddu
Florence Dow	Dean Hanscom
Ethel England	Winfield Hanson
Carolyn Gilpatrick	Benjamin Hi.
Emma Hart	Richard Higgin.
Jane Hill	Frank Jeffery
Annette Hughes	Frank McLean
Phoebe May	Dr. Charles McPherson
Olive Page	Kenneth McLeod
Elizabeth Pfaff	Henry Sawyer

SYMPATHY FOR MR. HODGE

The First Baptist Church of this town has sent the following letter of sympathy to Rev. Henry E. Hodge, its former pastor, in the death of his wife, which occurred last week:

The sudden passing of Mrs. Elizabeth Peters Hodge, wife of the Rev. Henry E. Hodge, minister for 20 years of the First Baptist Church, Winchester, brings with it sorrow and a sense of great loss to the people to whom she so ably ministered in cooperation with the beloved Pastor. Active and enthusiastic in all the work of the Church and Bible School, she especially endeared herself to the members of the Young Women's Class which bears her name.

She was also prominently identified with the children as superintendent of the Mission Band. Eternity alone will reveal the true worth of a life given over to the teaching and leading of little children.

Coming to Winchester as their first pastorate, both the Rev. and Mrs. Hodge gave the choicest years of their life to the service of the Winchester Church, and today are held in loving remembrance.

May the Gallilean Villager walk beside our friend and brother day by day, and the One who bears our grief and carries our sorrow be his constant companion till travelling days are done.

> Servant of God—well done!
> Rest from thy loved employ.
> The battle fought, the victory won,
> Enter thy Master's joy.
> Soldier of Christ—well done!
> Praise be thy new employ.
> And while eternal ages run
> Rest in thy Savior's joy.

WADLEIGH-PRINCE P. T. A.

The Wadleigh-Prince Parent Teacher Association will hold its monthly meeting at Wadleigh School Thursday, Dec. 13, at 8 p. m. Mr. James J. Quinn, superintendent of schools, will speak. A social hour and refreshments will follow the meeting.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The whist conducted by Grand Regent Alice Martin at her home on Pickering street last Friday evening proved to be one of the most enjoyable parties thus far conducted for the Court. The proceeds of this party will help swell the Court's charitable fund to a marked degree. A social hour was enjoyed after the whist and refreshments were served by Mrs. Martin, Miss Mary Martin and Mrs. Nora O'Melia. Mrs. Margaret Donovan was the fortunate winner of the hand-made towels and the highest scorers included: Mrs. Gertrude Prue, Mrs. John Dolan, Mrs. Mary Mawn, Mr. William O'Connor, Mrs. Annie Vayo and Mr. Victor Foley.

The next whist in aid of the charitable fund will take place next Friday evening in K. of C. Hall. Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, chairman of the charitable committee, will be in charge, assisted by a most enthusiastic committee. Many fine prizes have been donated and the sale of tickets already assures the Court its usual success.

The sympathy of the Court is extended to Mrs. Margaret MacIsaac who on Thanksgiving Day met with a very painful accident and will have to remain in bed six weeks with a broken ankle.

The committee which is to have charge of a booth at the K. of C. indoor circus on Dec. 20, 21 and 22, report good progress being made. Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, chairman, is being aided in her plans for a big success by Mrs. Alice Martin, G. R.; Mrs. Frances Conlon, P. G. R.; and a bustling committee of members. The pie social and pedlers' parade will be held on Monday evening, Dec. 17, in K. of C. Hall with Misses Patsy Noonan and Mary J. Kelley as co-chairmen assisted by a committee of 20 interested young ladies. On the same evening a whist will be held in the lower hall of the K. of C. Building with Mrs. Anne Poland, P. G. R. and Mrs. Alice L. Martin, G. R., co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Nellie Moffett, Miss Bridget Young, Mrs. Katharine Kean, Mrs. Gertrude Prue, Mrs. Jane King and Mrs. Elizabeth Powers.

WILL MEET COMMITTEE ON NAME FOR SCHOOL

At a mass meeting held Sunday afternoon in the Rumford School the citizens of the so-called Rumford District voted unanimously to petition the School Board to name the new school which is being built in this district of Winchester, the William J Noonan School, in honor of a war hero who was born and reared in the district and whose first lessons were learned in the old Rumford School. Young Noonan was the son of Ex-Selectman Patrick Noonan, one of the prominent citizens of the district.

The committee which was appointed to meet the School Board includes Mr. John F. O'Brien, Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, Mr. Raymond Fenton, Mr. Peter Coss, Mr. John F. Cassidy, Mr. Luke Glendon, Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald, Mrs. Annie E. Vayo, Mrs. Margaret Hevey, Mrs. Alice L. Martin, Mrs. Frances T. Conlon.

WHAT HAPPENED?

To the Editor of the Star:

Four good Congregationalists arrived at the church for the Wednesday evening meeting amidst a downpour of rain—confronted by no lights and locked doors. They remained until 8 o'clock.

By a unanimous vote they journeyed to the Baptist Church, where a cordial welcome awaited them.

The gentleman in the party remarked "for 50 years I have been coming to this church, but never before has such a thing happened."

The people who braved the storm to see that Harvard-Yale game were not so treated; they had the game in spite of the rain.

Barbara Fernald

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

The Building Commissioner has granted permits for week ending Dec. 6:

AFTERNOON BRIDGE

There were 50 tables of bridge at the Calumet Club on Wednesday afternoon, notwithstanding the extremely stormy weather, and the party was the most successful thus far this season for the ladies. The prizes were won by Mrs. Edward A. Tucker, Mrs. Ernest Dudley Chase, Mrs. Ralph E. Garner and Mrs. Russell. During the afternoon refreshments were served by the committee of ladies in charge—Mrs. C. F. Winship, Mrs. A. E. Rowse and Mrs. H. A. Peterson.

HARRY COX MARRIES DEC. 26

Mr. Harry Cox, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cox of Wedgemere avenue, is to be married on Wednesday, Dec. 26. Mr. Cox, who is superintendent of a large tannery in Mercersburg, Pa., will marry Miss Alica Vaughn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vaughn of West Medford. They will make their home in Mercersburg.

HARRIS M. RICHMOND
Reelected Worshipful Master of Mystic Valley Lodge, A. F. & A. M.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MYSTIC VALLEY LODGE, A. F. & A. M.

At the annual meeting of Mystic Valley Lodge held in Masonic apartments last evening Worshipful Harris M. Richmond was unanimously re-elected master. All of the other elective officers were also unanimously re-elected, including Brother [illegible] Clarke, senior warden; Brother [illegible] Lawton Whitcomb, junior warden; brother Frank E. Crawford, [illegible]; Brother William A. [illegible], secretary; Right Worshipful William M. Belcher, trustee of the [illegible] for three years, and Worshipful Arthur Harrington, associate member of the board of Masonic relief.

Annual reports showed the conclusion of a successful year and the present condition of the lodge to be generally satisfactory. The report of the trustees of funds in particular showed a gratifying increase in the special funds dedicated to use for charity and for relief.

The lodge voted to hold a ladies' night jointly with William Parkman Lodge during the coming winter and to join with that lodge in a celebration on New Year's Day.

MYSTERIOUS NOISES CEASE

The mysterious noises which have so stirred up Boston papers and which have been the source of continuous investigation by State departments for the past few days at the residence of Mr. William Hudson, 51 Salisbury street, have ceased, it is reported.

Boston papers have been greatly alarmed over the occurance and mystery of these noises, much being published and the house even photographed as a curiosity. According to the newspapers the matter, kept secret for some unknown reason, became public Wednesday. It is stated to have been in progress for four or five days. The noise is said to resemble explosions of unknown origin, terrifying in their intensity and so loud that they are heard in the house of an officer, Major Paul B. Moulton, next door. No one is or has been able to find out what the explosions are. They are so great that plaster is knocked from the house walls.

The State Department of Public Safety, the State chemist in charge of the explosives of the department, the State Police, the Town Water and Sewer departments and the Fire department have been called in to aid in solving this terrifying mystery. One other department, also, is reported by the newspapers to be aiding in the riddle; Inspector of Buildings Maurice Dinneen is giving his services to the case.

The papers report that the explosions are limited to one a day and that they are so numerous that one can hardly count them. The house is said to be new also.

It has not been stated whether any of the experts have given attention to the heating apparatus knocks, or whether the heating apparatus does knock, but it is reported that this is soon to be announced as the source of the terrifying mystery, and yesterday it was said that the noises have ceased altogether for the present. It is also announced that the plaster falling from the walls may be laid to the fact that a bed has been pushed up against it. If they occur again, the Boston papers will probably receive notice.

CALUMET BOWLING SLOW

Last night's matches on the Calumet alleys were rather slow, few of the bowlers rolling any scores of merit. Bart Stephenson led the honor list with 326 on 119, which was closely followed by Snow's 323 on 110. Other good scores in the list were Taylor's 311 with 109, Richardson 310 with 117, Heaton 308 with 105, Rowse 123, French 108 and Hatch 102. Team 6 won all four points from team 13, teams 5 and 18 split even and team 16 took three from 3.

MRS. ROSWELL C. DOWNER

Mrs. Roswell C. Downer, mother of Mr. Cutler B. Downer of Sheffield road and daughter of Austin Belknap, first Mayor of Somerville, died at the home of her son yesterday morning. She had suffered from heart trouble for a number of years, but her death came most unexpectedly.

Mrs. Downer, who was 73 years of age, was a native of Boston. Her parents were Austin and Jane (Brigham) Belknap. She lived during her life in and around Boston and Brookline, and during recent years had made her home with her son in this town and her daughter, Mrs. Browning E. Marean, at Wilmington, Del. She had been in Winchester since last June. She was the oldest member of the Boston Needlework Guild.

The funeral services are to be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at the chapel at Forest Hills Cemetery.

METHODIST GIFT SHOP

The Methodist Gift Shop and luncheon which took place in the Town Hall Tuesday, Dec. 4, was a most enjoyable and successful affair.

The luncheon at 1 o'clock served by the Young Women's Class, under the direction of Miss Mary Hodge, received much praise. The color scheme for these tables was pink and white. The gift tables were decorated with Christmas greens. A large number of people attended and the many useful and fancy articles found a ready sale.

LOCAL T. B. WORK

For years Winchester has held a regular Tuberculosis Clinic where patients have been examined.

Positive cases have been carefully followed and eggs and milk supplied when necessary. Needy patients have been suitably fitted out with clothing when sent to sanitariums.

A large amount of our work is preventitive and children undernourished are supplied with proper food.

Over $600 was spent in our work last year and as much is needed this year. Please help us to raise this amount by buying Tuberculosis seals in Winchester.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

At 3:30 yesterday afternoon, during the absence of the family, a thief entered the house of T. Price Wilson on Wolcott terrace and stole a diamond ring of Mrs. Wilson's. The thief entered by a window in the dining room and when he went through the kitchen and opened a rear door, presumably as a preparation for flight. He had entered Mrs. Wilson's bed room and was in the act of searching it, when a marketman went to the rear door to make a delivery, frightening him. He evidently took the diamond and ran through the house and out the front door, walking off. He was seen by a number of people in the neighborhood, both before and after entering the house, as well as when he walked out.

A truck operated by Mr. James Murphy of Mystic avenue collided with Nelson Latremore, 15 years old, who was riding a bicycle on Common street Monday. The bicycle was broken. The boy is reported to have gone along on his way to school, but later went to his home, as his leg was injured.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

A daughter, Carrie Costarce, was born at the Winchester Hospital on Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Murphy of Bridge street.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Maher of Thompson street are the parents of a daughter, Margaret, born at the hospital last Friday.

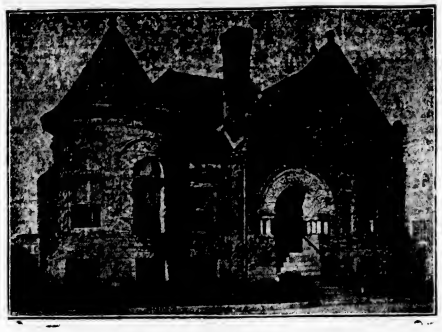

Messrs. Edson Laraway and Walter P. Roberts are in charge of the new branch of the John H. Bates & Co. opened this week here for the sale of Studebaker automobiles. The new salesrooms are on north Main street and two models of the car are now on exhibition.

President Coolidge's speech at the opening of 68th session of Congress, broadcasted through seven radio stations yesterday noon was heard by scores of Winchester people. The reception was particularly good, Station WJAR at Providence coming in the best. Station WGI at Medford Hillside remained silent through the broadcast to give WJAR a clear reception, both stations being on a 360 meter wave length. Needless to say, the many listeners received the thrill of their radio experience in hearing the President's voice, clear and distinct, and listening to his remarkably good address. No one who heard him needed any information regarding the location of his home state.

WINCHESTER MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The program for the December meeting of the Winchester Mothers' Association will be appropriate to the Christmas season. Pictures of the Madonnas by the great masters will be shown on the screen and an interesting description given by Rev. John W. Suter, Jr. A group of children from our grade schools will sing Christmas songs. Please notice the change of date to Tuesday, Dec. 11, at 2:30 p. m. in High School Assembly Hall.

Winchester friends of Mrs. John Hurll regret that she will be unable to be present because of a serious accident about two weeks ago when she was run over by an automobile in Cambridge. Her convalescence we hope may be a rapid one.

About three dozen dressed dolls and attractive scrap albums also games, toys and clothing were sent down to the Hindman Settlement School, Knott County, Ky., in ample time for distribution among children, some of them far away in the mountains, whose Christmas never has been joyful. Miss Carrie Mason, formerly teacher of one industrial class has expressed her delight over the sending of these much desired gifts by members of the Mothers' Association.

OLD BELFRY HERE NEXT WEEK

The first inter-club visitation takes place next week Friday evening, when the Old Belfry Club of Lexington will visit the Calumet Club for matches in bowling, billiards, pool and cards. This club is always eagerly welcomed by the local organization as there are many intimate friendships between individual members. A feature of the program to be held is the bowling between mixed teams of gentlemen and ladies. Old Belfry has many experts among the ladies, and the rivalry between the Calumet ladies and the visitors is very keen. The Calumet ladies are already holding afternoon practice in preparation for the match. Refreshments and dancing are included in the evening's program.

HIGH SCHOOL PROFESSOR TO SPEAK

Prof. Ernest Benshimol, of the English department at the High School, will be the speaker at the "Father and Son's Night" at the Calumet Club this Friday evening. Prof. Benshimol, one of the popular teachers at the school, is an interesting speaker and will place some interesting facts before the fathers and their sons.

During the evening there is to be an entertainment by Scott & Bayrd, the celebrated "two-man minstrels." Miss Florence Fitzgerald will give piano solos also. Refreshments will be served at the close of the program.

RED CROSS

The annual meeting of the Red Cross will be held at the Health Center, 9 Mt. Vernon street, Tuesday evening, Dec. 18 at 8 o'clock. All members of the Red Cross are cordially invited.

ELKS' VISITATION

There was an attendance of about 200 Elks at the annual visitation of Winchester Lodge Tuesday evening, guests being present from Beverly, Peabody, Medford, Arlington, Winthrop, Somerville, Boston, Woburn and Cambridge. The exercises brought forth much commendation from the visiting deputy, D. D. G. E. R. Michael H. Curren and suite of Woburn Lodge.

In addition to the visiting deputy and his suite, the notables present included P. H. McSweeney, P. E. R., Salem Lodge, P. D. D. Mass. N. E. Trustee State Elks' Association.

The business transacted included action upon three candidates and two applications for membership, followed by the initiations of two candidates.

During the evening the program for the big Elks' convention to be held in Boston next July was read. Frederick D. Clement, E. R.; George T. Davidson, E. L. K.; Maurice Dineen, E. L. K., and Fred H. Scholl, E. L. K., are a committee to represent Winchester Lodge at this affair.

O'DOHERTY—McGOWAN

Miss Mary Elizabeth McGowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGowan of 49 Canal street, was married on Thanksgiving eve to Mr. Hugh Joseph O'Doherty of Woburn at St. Mary's rectory by Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons.

The couple were attended by Miss Marie Gilgun, cousin of the bride, and Mr. John O'Doherty, the groom's brother. The bride wore a dress of white chiffon velvet trimmed with pearls, and her veil of tulle was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore blue georgette and a black picture hat. She carried tea roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, largely attended by the friends of the couple. The groom is a World War veteran, serving 18 months in France with the 401st Motor Supply Train. Mrs. O'Doherty is a graduate of the Winchester High School and of Burdett College. They are spending their honeymoon on a trip to New York and Washington.

There was a large attendance at the talk given at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Sunday evening by Rev. M. J. Murphy, chaplain of the State prison at Charlestown. His talk was entitled "Life Behind the Prison Walls," being illustrated by stereopticon slides.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, DEC. 3

The Board met at 7:30 p. m., present Messrs. Bryne, Berry and Dotten. The records of the meetings of Nov. 26 and 27 were read and approved.

Traffic Regulations: Mr. Berry reported that cars were parking on Arlington street quite extensively and injuring the loam space as well as blocking traffic. The Board voted to request the Chief of Police to keep traffic off the loam space on this street.

Cross Street Bridge: The Board voted to instruct the Town Counsel to take action in regard to the Cross street bridge matter at the first opportunity. This refers to the removing of the piers under the Cross street bridge.

The meeting adjourned at 11 p. m.

UNITARIANS OUT IN FORCE

Old Home Week, which was held in the short space of one afternoon and evening, by the Ladies' Friendly Society last Tuesday was a huge success. On Unity Square, so called, was a circle of little shops gaily decorated and canopied in soft rainbow hues, the artistic work of Mrs. Arthus W. Pitman. In the center of the square was the florist shop with its beautiful display of ferns and flowers, under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Young and Mrs. D. F. High. Scores of books were sold at the book shop which was run by the Alice F. Symmes Society. The stationary store under the management of Mrs. J. R. Livingstone disposed of gorgeous Christmas boxes, and wrappings. Beautiful gifts of every kind were found at the specialty shop, presided over by Mrs. A. Wadleigh, Mrs. Ralph S. Vinal, Mrs. E. S. Mansfield, Mrs. F. M. Carter and Mrs. R. L. Emery. Dry goods were in charge of Mrs. S. S. Symmes and her sewing committee. Home-made candies were sold by Mrs. R. T. Damon, Mrs. Fred Hollins and Mrs. Fred Preston. Special delivery was in charge of Mrs. A. V. Rogers and parcel post under Mrs. F. T. Barnes. The bakery was sold out early in the afternoon by Mrs. H. Y. Nutter and assistants. Ice cream was sold by Mrs. J. B. Wills. Mr. Lee Court cut silhouettes as an interesting side attraction.

The entire fair was in charge of Mrs. Stillman P. Williams and Mrs. Herbert E. Stone.

A delicious chicken pie supper was served to more than 250 guests under the skillful management of Mrs. F. C. Alexander, Mrs. R. B. Derby, Mrs. A. Abbott, Mrs. A. Burton, Mrs. Fred Cole, Mrs. H. E. Gardner, Mrs. N. Goddu, Mrs. H. E. Etheridge, Mrs. C. Cummings, Mrs. L. Conant, Mrs. C. S. Jacobs, Mrs. J. P. Kerrison, Mrs. A. Knight, Mrs. F. C. Locke, Mrs. C. H. Parker, Mrs. F. M. Russell, Mrs. Dotten, Mrs. Eustis. Tickets were in charge of Mrs. A. S. Hollins and Mrs. J. S. Maddocks. Mrs. R. H. Perkins was treasurer; decorations were by Mrs. A. W. Pitman and publicity by Mrs. J. E. Heaton.

After dinner a musical entertainment was given by the Unity Maidens' Quartet including Miss Nancy Wilson, Miss Mary Whittington, Misses Barbara and Janet Goddard and the Unity Male Quartet composed of Mr. James W. Russell, Mr. Lars Sandberg, Mr. Herbert Miller, Mr. H. A. Goddard. Songs old and new, serious and humorous were pleasingly rendered. Miss Mary Whittington sang with dignity and charm in her beautifully clear-toned soprano, two solos, "Just a Song at Twilight" and "Mighty Lak a Rose." Mrs. H. A. Goddard was in charge of the entertainment. Much merriment was aroused by the auctioning of antiques by Mr. H. A. Goddard.

One of the celebrated white posts in front of Lyceum Building was cut down the first of the week and a new post set up. This was done to allow better egress for the cars parked within the enclosure. It was not found advisable to dig up the post which was removed, it being set in concrete.

The Mystic Motor Co. has moved its garage and service station to the first floor of the Central Garage on Railroad avenue. The work of moving the large amount of parts, machinery, etc., was completed by Saturday. The new quarters give this company the largest amount of floor space in town for service work.

It is reported that active steps are on foot to establish a fund for the enlargement of the Winchester Hospital, which is said to be wholly inadequate for the work it is now called upon to care for. A meeting was held on Monday evening at which about 50 persons were present, and the employment of a paid canvassing firm to secure subscriptions was considered.

CALUMET BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Friday night's bowling matches at the Calumet Club were close and produced some fine scores. Team 20 won three points from 3; 1 all four from 8, taking the first string on a roll-off, and 2 all four from 9. Goldsmith led the high rollers with a fine total of 351. His best string was 136. He was followed by Stephenson with 324 with 123, Smith 332 with 110, Aseltine 320 with 138, Hildreth 319 with 123, Newell Purrington 316 with 121, Symmes 316 with 115, Higgins 305 with 114, Pilkington 302 with 108, Brown 300 with 109, Stackpole 110, Murphy 108, Dickson 106, Goodale 103, Barron 102, Sanford 102 and Metcalf 101.

Team 1 vs 8. Team 1—Smith 102, 110, 110, 322; Aiken 80, 88, 88, 256; N. Purrington 89, 121, 106, 316; R. Purrington 93, 93, 93, 279; Higgins 94, 114, 97, 305. Totals 458, 526, 494, 1478. Team 8—Metcalf 85, 101, 81, 267; Downs 85, 85, 85, 255; Tarbell 70, 85, 86, 241; Hildreth 96, 100, 123, 319; Brown 109, 104, 87, 300; totals 458, 488, 475, 1421.

Team 2 vs 9. Team 2—Goldsmith 95, 136, 120, 351; Symmes 107, 94, 115, 316; Sanford 87, 102, 96, 285; Pilkington 108, 93, 101, 302; Aseltine 91, 13[illegible], 91, 320; totals 488, 563, 523, 1574. Team 9—Fairchild 86, 74, 81, 241; Stackpole 79, 82, 110, 271; Adams 78, 78, 78, 234; Dickson 106, 89, 99, 294; Goodale 75, 93, 103, 271; totals 466, 458, 513, 1437.

Monday night's matches resulted in Team 10 winning four from 17, 12 four from 19 and 6 and 7 splitting even. The last match was close in the second and third, 6 winning by two and eight pins respectively. Some good scores were made, but the [illegible] was spotty, high singles failing to bring totals above the average. Hamilton led the list with 321 on 113, he being followed by Peterson with 308 with 114, Wilson 307 with 128, Caldwell 134, Morton 120, Heaton 115, Beebe 114, Parshley 111, L. Smith 108, Richardson 105, Winship 105, Freeburn 102, Hovey 102, S. Blanchard 101 and Seller 10[illegible].

Team 12 vs 19. Team 12—Peterson 83, 111, 114, 308; Winship 105, 78, 94, 277; Tufts 71, 71, 71, 213; Freeburn 93, 102, 96, 291; Johnson 73, 83, 93, 249. Totals 438, 458, 481, 1377. The rain of Wednesday night produced a very dampening effect on teams 17 and 20, its influence being evenly divided between teams 8and 10. Teams 4 and 7 proved themselves excellent water bowlers. Albert Seller's totals of 323 on a single of 112 proved the best individual score, and others of mention were Corey 312 with 112, Morton 304 with 114, Sidney Blanchard 119, Flanders 113, Gendron 112, Wolfe 111, Caldwell 109, Hildreth 107, Metcalf 105, Messenger 104, Newman 103, Smith 103, Waldmyer 103, Capron 102.

Team 8 vs 10. Team 8—Metcalf 86, 90, 105, 281; Tarbell 93, 89, 85, 267; Downs 85, 85, 85, 255; Hildreth 99, 107, 86, 292; Brown 93, 92, 98, 283. Totals 456, 463, 459, 1378. FRENCH ELECTED CAPTAIN

Mr. Evander French, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. French of Highland avenue, has been elected captain of the Tufts football team for next year. French has made an enviable record on the gridiron. He played on Winchester High, being captain of the team in 1920 and was by far the strongest player on the team. Although the 1920 team failed to win the league championship, it was the strongest team the school produced for many years. In 1921 he attended the University of Maine and last year went to Tufts. In one of the very first games of the season he broke his leg, which put him out of the game for the season. This year he has been the mainstay of the team and is credited with being one of the best players the college has produced. He has played halfback, and his kicking has been watched by every football fan in the vicinity, together with his continued ability to gain ground in tight places. French is also prominent in track work, baseball and basketball.

THE FORTNIGHTLY

The club's evening meeting comes next Monday Dec. 10, at 8 o'clock, when Mr. J. Dunton Sharman speaks on the theme, "Better Men Than Their Fathers." Mr. Sharman, born in Maine of Canadian parents and educated in the public schools of Canada and in American universities, has found and studied men among the slums of great cities, among the lumber camps of outposts, and on football and baseball fields.

Mr. Arthur Shurtleff will give a 15-minute talk on town [illegible]. Mr. Kenneth McLeod, baritone of the Church of the Epiphany, will sing.

Each member is entitled to bring a guest, using the yellow guest ticket.

Mrs. C. R. Grace will be the hostess for the art class at her home on Everett avenue, Dec. 10, Monday, at 11 o'clock.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

A mule they say generally goes the way his ears slant, but a grouch doesn't make much progress.

Strange isn't it, but a man prays for relief when he is sick and swears when the doctor sends in his bill.

The average man is a hundred per cent better at confessing the mistakes of other people than he is at acknowledging his own.

Can you tell me, what doth it profit a man to pray for the heathen if he isn't on speaking terms with his neighbors.

Following the announcement made recently by the School Committee that it has under consideration the renaming of the Mystic School, there has sprung up about town several suggestions for the renaming of our new buildings. Just why this should be the Star does not understand, as these new buildings are all replacing present structures whose names have been handed down since the early days of the town. An entirely new school would of course call for a new and suitable name, but what fault can be found with the names Mystic, Rumford or Chapin? The former, designating a section of the Aberjona valley, was in existence before the town was founded, and was given the place by the Indians. Count Rumford, who figured prominently in the town's early history, was honored by giving this school his name. Of all our new school buildings, only one, the Chapin so-called, is removed from its former location. As the present Chapin School is to remain standing, and as the new school is somewhat removed in location, the School Committee may have grounds for calling the new building the Samuel Walker McCall School, but the Star does not feel that the residents of Winchester are in favor or renaming our present schools or that it is a wise procedure.

A recent article in one of the leading magazines has a most interesting account of the Bible and its place in the educational system of our country. It gives some facts which are worth considering. "Twenty million homes in America are not reached by any church, Protestant, Catholic or Jewish. More than 28,000,000 children and youths are not in any Sunday school, Protestant, Catholic or Jewish."

"Half of the 27,000,000 school children are prevented by law or regulations or custom from having the Bible read in school Twelve States, with nearly 8,000,000 pupils, will not permit the Bible to be read in the public schools. In 30 States with 14,000,000 school children, the Bible may be read, but seldom is. Only 6 States provide by law for Bible reading—and they do not permit it to be commented on or explained."

These facts are well vouched for. The article asks. "What is wrong with the Bible?" Should not the question be asked rather, "What is wrong with our educational system?"

Inter-Church Council

The millions of this great nation who sat in their homes yesterday afternoon and heard President Collidge in the capitol at Washington deliver his message to the 68th Congress took part in an event which will go down in history. Never before have the people of America been so privileged to hear the executive of the nation. First, Lloyd George, our distinguished English visitor, then Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States during the World War, and now the present head of the nation! Surely the radio is opening unheard of fields. Its possibilities are limitless, and without doubt the time is not far distant when the people will listen in their homes to the debates in Congress and the Senate. Yesterday's speech of the President came in strong and clear, and every word uttered during his hour's discourse was plainly audible to his listeners. In fact it is doubtful if one could have heard as well in the Capitol itself as through the wonderful medium of the wireless. The thanks of the listeners in this vicinity are extended to the great broadcasting station at Medford Hillside, AMRAD, which gave up its program out of courtesy to station WJAR, broadcasting on the same wave meter. Other [illegible] meter stations were not so courteous, and it was noticed that the [illegible] stations, which so marred the speeches of Lloyd George and Woodrow Wilson [illegible] from using the [illegible] wave length. Radio [illegible] [illegible]

ZONING IS [illegible]

When [illegible] there is no doubt that the courts will support it. [illegible] favorable decisions have been handed down to show that the courts regard regulation of the uses of land and structures thereon, in accordance with the kind of district in which they are situated, as a reasonable exercise of the police power "for the public health, safety, and general welfare."

In fact, the courts have approved zoning whenever it was done sensibly and comprehensively. The first case arose in Boston, Mass., where two different heights for future buildings were fixed throughout the city. This was supported by the highest court of Massachusetts and the United States Supreme Court. (Welch v. Swasey, 214 U. S. 91.)

The next important case arose in Los Angeles, Cal., where, under a zoning plan dividing the city into industrial and residential districts, a brickyard in a residential district was ousted although it had been in existence for many years. This was upheld by the California courts and also by the United States Supreme Court as a proper exercise of the police power. Modern zoning ordinances are not retroactive, however (Hadacheck v. Sebastian, 239 U. S. 394.)

The best zoning case to show how far the courts will go in distinguishing between zoning districts is State of Ohio ex rel. Morris v. Osborn et al., 22 N. P. (N. S.) 549. The court held that one and two-family houses were less subject to noise, litter, danger of contagion, and fire risk than multi-family houses, and that they could be placed in different districts under the police power. This case, however, was not appealed to a higher court, and we can not say whether other States will follow it.

In New York State the highest court has declared the zoning of New York City to be constitutional, stating that zoning can be done under the police power if done with care and good judgment so as not to be arbitrary or confiscatory. (Lincoln Trust Co. v. Williams Building Corporation, 229 N. Y. 313.)

TO HUNT "LOST TRIBES" OF CHINA

The National Geographic Society announces the sending of an expedition into remotest China to search for human traces of east Asia's history before the Chinese came, to hunt for specimens of a monkey believed to be the largest nonanthropoid species in the world and to collect botanical specimens in a spacious region virgin to scientific study.

Kweichow, where the mysterious non-Chinese tribes of China dwell, is the objective of the expedition. This province, about the size of Missouri, with a population estimated at 8,000,000 is as inaccessible as Tibet. It is the least fertile, least visited, and most backward portion of China.

An Ethnic Circus Troupe

Yet the strange tribes which suggest that some ethnic circus troupe was stranded there make Kweichow a possible vista of hitherto unrecorded human history. One of the few visitors among these tribes, who makes no claim to being a student of anthropology, said he saw types resembling the Gurkha, the South Sea Islander, the American Indian, the East Indian, and the Negro.

It may develop that some or all of these strange tribes constitute the American Indians of China. Another writer says that the progress of Chinese absorption has been going on among them since 2356 B. C.

Shut Off From News of World

Between two and three million of the non-Chinese populace survive. Many of their strongholds never have been visited by white men; whole tribes did not know the World War was in progress. While China was stirred by the Shantung problem because the Chinese feared encroachments in the province of Confucius' tomb these tribes were oblivious of any "Shantung problem," though they may retain the vestiges of a culture spread over the whole of southern China in the days when Confucius taught.

Occasional travelers who have penetrated villages of some of these tribes tell how one of them thrashes grain on the roof tops as in the Holy Land; how others have great "prayer flags" flying on fortified castles; and [illegible] settled on horseback [illegible] crossbows, broadswords, and [illegible] stones as the weapons in these [illegible]

[illegible] has [illegible] to logical [illegible] the Yangtze and [illegible] Its northern mountains [illegible] Therefore the fauna [illegible]

May [illegible] Animal Famous in Literature [illegible] [illegible] cus Brelichi, of which the only evidence now available is the skin of a female which shows a head and body measurement of 29 inches and a tail measurement of 39 inches. There has been speculation regarding the possibility of this species being an animal described in a famous passage of Chinese literature as follows:

Its nose is turned upward, and the tail very long and forked at the end; whenever it rains, the animal thrusts the forks into its nose. It goes in herds and lives in friendship; when one dies the rest accompany it to burial. Its activity is so great that it runs its head against the trees; its fur is soft and gray and the face black.

Going directly to Peking, Frederick R. Wulsin, leader of the National Geographic Society expedition, will first take with him into Kweichow a Chinese botanist and a staff of Chinese assistants for a reconnaissance. Later he will be accompanied by a party comprising botanists, zoologists, and anthropologists. The last named will study the origin, physique, habits, language, and rich mythology of the non-Chinese tribes which vary, in all these respects, from their Chinese neighbors.

A "POOR RELATION" OF COAL

An American housewife would be puzzled, indeed, if she were put in a German kitchen and asked to cook on one of the latest German stoves, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Where is the stove?" would be her first question.

She would be shown a big case that looks like a cross between a chiffonier and an ice chest.

"Where is the fuel?" would be the next question.

A "Sugar Scoop" of Fuel

A bin at the bottom of the chest would reveal to the American housewife "grudekoks," the bulletin continues. This is lignite char, the material trade briquet coal is made from. It is a sort of coal charcoal, individual pieces of which are seldom larger than grains of corn. Above the fuel bin are two long narrow drawers. The German housewife, used to a chest stove, will open the top drawer, sprinkle a sugar scoop of grudekoks on a corrugated grate and light the fire. The ash falls into the lower drawer. Now she is ready to cook.

Suddenly a broad door above the drawers is dropped and it becomes a shelf in back of which is the cooking surface of the stove. Above the stove are two ovens and at one side is a water heater. And all this is contained in a solid oblong case insulated to conserve heat.

West and South Are Sources

If such German methods were imported into the United States it might mean that along with the other monarchs in these later days of democracy, King Coal, the anthracite of the Lehigh Valley, and the heir apparent, bituminous of the Appalachians and the Middle West, would have to defend their mighty seats. The immediate challenger would come out of the west and the south. The presence of a poor relation of the coal society, called lignite or brown coal, in South Dakota, North Dakota and Montana, and in Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas and Alabama, has long been known. Not until recently, however, has the margin in America between the cost of mining and shipping anthracite and bituminous standards, been sufficient to interest business in the development of the latter.

Highly Developed in Germany

But now, as a result of experiments reported by the United States Bureau of Mines at Grand Forks, South Dakota, many American citizens and business establishments of the future may receive their coal in little rectangular blocks of briquets. A typical briquet weighs about a pound and is slightly smaller in size than a standard wood paving block. In countries such as Germany, where nature has not been so provident with the stone that burns, the briquet industry has already reached a high state of development.

In 1921 Germany manufactured 28,000,000 tons of briquet coal from brown coal. Lignite is practically the only coal left to Germany outside the Ruhr and the recent occupation of that district caused a rapid development in briquet manufacture. Germany's lignite is found near Cologne and in Saxony and Halle.

Lignite cannot be used to advantage in its natural state, but by cooking off volatile matter and moisture, it can be given a high fuel efficiency. To find a cheap method of doing this is the problem now being subject to experiments.

NAYARIT: MEXICO'S NEWEST STATE

The State of Nayarit, Mexico, where a battle is reported between a band of agrarians and Mexican troops, will be looked for in vain if one depends on maps or reference books printed more than six years ago, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

This tropical, Pacific coast region of Mexico was until a few years ago the Territory of Tepic, continues the bulletin. "But Mexico, like the United States, has been steadily revamping her territories into States, and old Tepic, rich in memories of the Spanish regime, was the latest to undergo the transformation. When it was admitted in 1917 to the status of statehood it took as its name that of the Nayarit Mountains which [illegible]

Mexico's Longest River

[illegible] which the Indian farmers find a super-tropic climate that forces vegetation as might an equatorial hothouse. During the rainy season the river spreads 25 miles wide through the flat, jungle-grown lower lands.

It runs through farming land that could feed two or three of our own States, if the farmers were only given a chance to farm and not compelled at the muzzles of rifles to drop the plow and be patriots every little while.

This land would grow any sort of a tropical crop if it were given a chance. One can in season ride through miles of wild limes and lemons rotting on the ground. The thought of cultivating oranges has never yet come to the peon. It has not even occurred to him to fight the black scale or whatever other enemy may attack the trees. The cocorito palm is responsible for a local soap-making monopoly, for its kernels are 65 per cent oil.

There are fields of sugar-cane, and bananas flourish wherever planted. The best coffee in the world—at least as good coffee as there is in the world—comes from this district. Rice and tobacco and dates and figs grow almost without attention. In the barrancas the vanilla bean is found.

Through Nayarit, from its ancient Pacific port of San Blas, runs the remains of the old Spanish road eastward to Mexico City and down through the lowlands beyond to Vera Cruz on the Atlantic. Thanks to the road, the east-bound convoys from the Philippines were spared the perilous traverse around Cape Horn.

The main highway was defended by forts or by minor outposts at strategic points, and from it lesser trails were driven into the hills or the more inviting valleys, for the convenience of priest and miner.

Not until Porfirio Diaz began to build the net of Mexican railroads did the road begin to fall into disuse, and even today there are wide stretches of country which can only be reached by it. In these back blocks one sees the Mexico that appeared to the eyes of Baron Humboldt and Madam Calderon de la Barca.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

A very interesting meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held in Waterfield Hall, Tuesday evening, Dec. 4. Different subjects were discussed and much interest was made manifest of the articles brought before the meeting.

The Chamber was unanimous that the town should have tractors to care for the snow and ice even if it was necessary to hold a special town meeting for the same.

Twelve applicants were elected as members.

Mr. Quinn, our new superintendent of schools was the speaker of the evening. His subject was "Man Power."

The Chamber of Commerce wants boosters to help our town. Let us all boost for its best civic interests. We need all the populace of our town to help make our town the one best town in the State. As the foundation is already laid for the future, we need all the assistance we can have to carry it further to its state of perfection.

Join the Chamber of Commerce.

In the first place they are so constructed that they always have the same kind of a roadway on which to travel as they carry their own road with them and it matters not if the conditions be mud, ice or snow.

The snow plow is, in reality, harnessed to the tractor and while the tractor is plowing the snow in front of it, yet it is really drawing its load, be it light or heavy. This is made possible by the method of construction of the plow and the mechanism used in attaching the plow to the rear of the tractor which makes it appear that the tractor is pushing the snow out of the way when it is really drawing a load for which it was intended.

With the truck the action is the reverse in snow plowing.

The truck was brought into existence for transporting or drawing its load ... or pushing its load ahead of its body.

Where the snowfall is light and not ... the snow so that the ... will not slip and race the ... would not suffer to ... as when ... under ... conditions of deep snow upon ice.

The transportation of much freight formerly carried by the B & M. R. R. now passes over our main arteries north and south as well as east and west, and causes a great amount of wear on the surface of our roadways especially where tire chains are used in the snow and ice season.

The best preservation of our roads during the snow season is not to let ruts be formed by scarifying them out of existence by a tractor when not used in plowing.

Tractors have been in use in various ways during the last 25 years and their power and endurance far exceeds that of the truck in the handling of the snow and ice.

A tractor can be made to turn around in practically its own length with a scarifying attachment, thereby saving much time and money for those who use them.

Those who drive their autos during the winter months would feel much relieved mentally and sometimes financially, if we could do away with the ruts that are formed when there is snow and ice on the highways.

The best information the Chamber of Commerce has so far been able to ascertain is that tractors are more efficient and more economical for the the care of the snow and ice.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Good Winchesterites who have read in the Book of Genesis of the rain of fire which destroyed the ancient cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, may be surprised to learn that according to a famous German chemist the rain of fire was due to the ignition by lightning of a cloud of liquid petroleum. It was similar, he says, to the dust explosions which have occurred in many mills and factories and which he believes to have been ignited by electricity. The Spectator is somewhat curious to know just how our Bible students will take this German chemist's statement who says that in the case of the ancient cities what probably happened was first the violent outbreak of a petroleum well in the neighboring Caucasus region, followed by the scattering and electrical charging of the liquid petroleum. This was shot or sprayed out of a fissure in the earth to a great height and so formed a petroleum cloud. The cloud was driven over the doomed cities, where it was ignited by a lightning flash and fell literally as a rain of fire!

Baseball and other games seem to so appeal to the boys of the rising generation that whittling is unusual. All the whittlers in Winchester today could be counted on the fingers of one hand. It is a long time since the Spectator has seen a specimen of peach stone carving. Lately a youngster proudly showed a squirrel carved from a peach stone, and an excellent piece of work it was, too. It was not, however, a boy who had done this—the carver was his uncle, a gentleman well on in years.

Distribution is always liable to enter into conversation. A mason from West Virginia told the Spectator lately of a body to which he belonged in that State. Its members have gone to every oil-producing part of the country, and he inclines to the opinion that the non-resident membership is larger than that in the town. He believes that this one body has its membership scattered over the whole country, except here in New England. Yet it is not long since a New England school reunion brought together former pupils from 35 States.

A Winchester lady remarks that Mrs. Santa Claus must have an awful time as her husband hangs round the house all the time except Christmas.

How many Winchesterites have heard about that Scotchman who was hunting for a seasonable post office?

World War and the selfishness which has been rampant since that awful conflict he feels sort of pessimistic, but as Christmas approaches his feeling of pessimism peters out. Why? Is it not because there never was a time when people generally gave more thought to the world's less favored than they give today? There are all sorts of organizations which take care to bring some sort of Christmas cheer to every poor family that comes to their attention. Every church packs baskets for those who cannot afford Christmas cheer. The fraternal orders have trees and buy toys for the children of the poor. Every Sunday School asks its children to do something for families in the South or other parts of the country where little of Christmas is possible. So even the worst pessimist has to feel very much heartened up at this season of the year.

Hell hath no fury like a woman when you track mud in her house.

THE BLESSING OF AFFLICTIONS

[Written for Winchester Star]

The sharper and severer
The storms of Life we meet,
The sooner and the nearer
Is Heaven's eternal rest.
Come, then, afflictions dreary,
Sharp sickness pierce the human breast;
You only bear the weary
More quickly home to rest.

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE THIS YEAR

Arrangements are being made by the Park Department, under whose jurisdiction the work has been delegated by the Selectmen, to erect a community Christmas tree on the common this year. For several seasons we have been without this beautiful expression of the community yuletide spirit, and the tree will be very welcome to everyone this year. It is planned to erect and light the tree Christmas eve, keeping it lighted until afer New Year's.

Your
Long Distance Service

FROM fifteen to twenty-one telephone operators cooperate in establishing a Boston-San Francisco circuit and other telephone employees by scores must be at their posts to insure efficient transmission.

That you may have a choice of destination for your voice, a vast network of Bell System circuits interconnects all important centers, reaching millions of homes and business places.

Over these circuits more than 158,000 traffic employees stand guard. But long before these highways of speech were ready for use another army of workers had wrestled with problems of construction and maintenance.

A huge manufacturing plant had mobilized its forces.

Thousands of toilers in mine and forest had sought raw materials.

Physicists and chemists through laboratory research, had laid a sure foundation for efficient service.

All the forces and wonders of industry and science have been drawn upon to serve you when you make a long distance telephone call.

ELKS' MEMORIAL SERVICES

The second annual Elks' memorial service by the Winchester Lodge of Elks in memory of three members of the lodge was held at Lyceum Hall Sunday afternoon. The stage was decorated with American flags, the Elks' colors of purple and white, and the Elk's head.

The roll call and opening ceremony was conducted by the officers, headed by Exalted Ruler Fred D. Clement. The orchestra played "The Vacant Chair" before the memorial address, which was given by District Deputy Michael H. McCarron of Woburn Lodge. Mr. McCarron spoke in eulogistic language of the three deceased members of Winchester Lodge.

The altar service was conducted by Exalted Ruler Clement. Esteemed Leading Knight George T. Davidson, Esteemed Loyal Knight Maurice Dinneen and Esteemed Lecturing Knight Fred H. Scholl, respectively, placed for-get-me-nots, amaranths and clinging ivy clusters on the altar during the ceremony which concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by all present.

Use sewing machine oil on a soft cloth to clean the wood parts of a sewing machine. It appears as if polishing also keeps the finish from cracking and makes it look like new. Or any good furniture polish will do.

On next Monday evening a whist and dance will be held in the K. of C. Hall under the direction of Mrs. K. Leighton in aid of the M. C. W. G. booth at the coming K. of C. Indoor Circus and Country Fair.

Many beautiful prizes have been donated for the high scores of whist. The lady or gentleman holding the lucky number on dance ticket will be awarded a gold piece. Crieghton's Orchestra will furnish music for dancing. Don't fail to be present. This is only one of the many plans now underway by the M. C. W. G. booth committee.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE TO SPEAK BY RADIO MONDAY NIGHT

It is announced that on Monday night, Dec. 10, President Coolidge will make a special address before microphones installed at the White House in behalf of the Harding Memorial Association at 8:30. This speech will be broadcast by stations WEAF, New York; WCAP, Washington, D. C.; and WJAR, Providence, R. I. It is also possible that other stations will be linked up in the system of special long distance circuits which will be used on the occasion, provided facilities are available.

GRANGE ELECTS OFFICERS

The following officers have been elected for 1924 by the Winchester Grange at their last meeting.

Master, Dorothy Elliott; Overseer, William Stevenson; Lecturer, Marguerite Hanlon; Steward, Fred Wilobberger; Assistant Steward, Walter Bickford; Chaplain, Marion Goodnough; Treasurer, Roy Sheldon; Secretary, Anne Kronquist; Gate Keeper, Dave Mellet; Ceres, Alice Drake; Pomona, Agnes Kronquist; Flora, Margaret O'Melia; Lady Asst. Steward, Ella Dyson; Executive Committee (three years), Edward Knowlton; Pianist, Helen Brownell.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON CIRCLE

Unusual interest will be centered in next Thursday's meeting, Dec. 13, when Judge Frederick P. Cabot speaks on "The Juvenile Court." The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. L. Tibbetts, 27 Wedgemere avenue.

Judge Cabot, a graduate of Harvard University, a trustee of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has presided over the Juvenile Court of Boston since 1916. The Judge is a frequent speaker at meetings of social workers and the Florence Crittenton Circle of Winchester is fortunate to be able to hear so prominent a man. There will be music and tea.

REGULAR MEETING OF MISSION UNION

The regular meeting of the Mission Union will be held at the Congregational Church on Tuesday, Dec. 11, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Mrs. Chauncey Mitchell and Mrs. James E. Corey will be the hostesses of the Christmas luncheon at 12:30.

The speaker for the afternoon will be Mrs. Ida Vose Woolfrey, her subject: "In the Heart of the Cumberlands."

Will the ladies please bring aprons to wear while sewing, for the work will be on cutting flannel for the Winchester Hospital.

Chinese Are Everywhere.

Wherever one goes one finds a Chinese. In Chile, in South America, he labors in the copper mines; in Russia he acts as executioner for the Bolsheviks; in London he is a tea merchant; in Paris, New York, Chicago, San Francisco he has an opium joint; in the Philippine islands he is a merchant prince, and all over the world he is a laundryman.

Fear and Anger.

Fear and anger are differently developed in different animals. A frog or a rabbit has only fear, while tigers and weasles usually show only anger. Some men are built the same way. Fear and anger are, therefore, opposite moods, the first the impeller of flight, the second of fight.

Must Command Sympathy.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
MIDDLESEX, SS. PROBATE COURT

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Jean Perkland Slocum, late of Winchester in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Lorimer B. Slocum, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the tenth day of December A. D. 1923, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Winchester Star, a newspaper published in Winchester, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, GEORGE F. LAWTON, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three.

F. M. ESTY, Register.
n23-3t

Notice is hereby given that the BOARD OF SURVEY OF THE TOWN OF WINCHESTER will give a public hearing, in the Selectmen's Room in the Town Hall Building on Monday, the seventeenth day of December, 1923 at 8:45 P. M., upon the petition of Patrick Nouman et al. Canal street, for approval of a certain plan, filed with said petition, of a certain private way leading from a point on the westerly end of Canal street, (as proposed to be laid out and accepted at the annual Town Meeting of 1924), to Wickford road, which the petitioners propose to open for public use.

After which hearing the Board may alter said plan and may determine where such way shall be located and the width and grades thereof.

Prior to the hearing the plan may be examined at the office of the Town Engineer.

By order of the Board of Survey, this third day of December, 1923.

GEORGE S. F. BARTLETT,
Clerk.

CONGESTION IN THE CENTRE

Suggested That a Corps of Guides be Hired to Pilot Strangers About

The congestion in the centre continues. Without fail the sun rises daily upon busy business about the steam railroad tracks, the electric car tracks, the street repairs, the gate repairs, the telephone repairs, the gas repairs, the trolley wire repairs, the track repairs, etc., etc., ad finum. It is a wet day when pedestrian or autoist does not have to dodge a canvass shelter or a repair wagon, to say nothing of picking one's way through busy workmen laying and relaying tracks and planking. Detours are so numerous and so varied that it is difficult to follow them. White safety lines are merely paths pointing the way to more obstructions. Soon it will be necessary to detour about the whole centre and leave it open for the various workmen.

There probably has not been a day since (when) that some part of the centre has not been cluttered up with some sort of work. It may well be called the busiest part of Winchester. How our people are to find their way to the Community Christmas Tree on the Common this year is a problem which is now employing the best minds of our population. It is agreed that the west side residents will be able to reach the spot; but those of the east side are in for trouble. As a remedy and in view of giving every possible assistance, it is reported that a corps of guides are to be employed.

According to the plan as outlined this week, special plans are to be drawn of the centre the day before Christmas. Special guides possessing exceptionally keen minds and athletic physique will be given one hours study of these plans as soon as work is finished at five o'clock. They will plot routes for pedestrians and automobiles across the square which will be marked by suitable illumination. Garbed in suitable uniforms of durable material, they will be on duty during the evening guiding the Christmas revellers and shoppers through the centre maze.

This will be welcome news to all persons who have experienced a trip across our centre during the past six months and who feel that they are obliged to go out on Christmas eve. As yet the list of guides has not been announced, but there are a number of courageous citizens ready to volunteer their services.

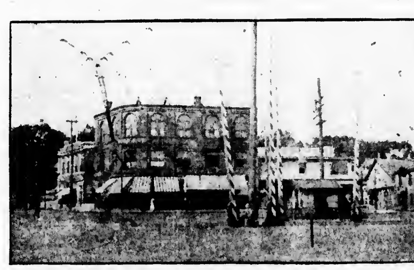

Our Christmas therefore, promises to be a happy one for all concerned, and the success of our Community tree appears assured.

AN EXCEPTIONAL VIEW OF WINCHESTER CENTRE

This picture, taken a number of years ago, shows Winchester centre as it appeared to the last generation. It is unique in that it shows no obstructions of note. It was taken on a Traders' Day after several hours' preparation through the courtesy of various repair gangs who stopped work and removed their tools during the exposure.

WINCHESTER BOYS IN ENGLAND

The following letter from Thurston Hall and Frank Payne, two well-known Winchester boys who are now in London, Eng., has been received by the Star: Although not for publication, the Editor feels that it is of sufficient interest to their friends in town to bear printing.

London, England
Dec. 1, 1923

Dear Price:

This will be a surprise to you hearing from the two undersigned old Winchester boys.

You may imagine my surprise today while playing a matinee, to look down into the face of Frank Payne in the front row—and how over a cozy dinner at the club we have recalled all our old pals in Winchester.

This is a word of best wishes to you for the Christmas and New Year. Please give us a line your Christmas week wishing our friends the usual holiday greetings.

Of course you know Frank has been over here for six months to remain several years and I've been playing here for a year and a half and going to South Africa in March.

Best wishes always.

Cordially,
Thurston Hall

American Express Company,
Haymarket

It was wonderful to see "our" Thurston in "The Last Warning," a great hit here in London. We all remember his first real play, the "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and now success here.

I certainly join heartily Thurston in wishing you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Sincerely,
Frank Payne

The work of erecting the Community Christmas Tree on the Common was started yesterday. The tree will be set up and lighted under the direction of Mr. Edmund C. Sanderson, and the many small spruces which are used in its making are all ready to be placed in the big electric light pole which is used for the stem.

HONOR CHILDREN

Book Reading Contest Shows Good Results

The conclusion of the book reading contest for school children closed for this year the first of the month. This week Miss Blanche A. Pratt of the Prince School, in charge of the contest here, received the list of honor children who have been awarded honor certificates. Eight hundred and eighty-five certificates have been issued, 133 honor certificates and 722 five book certificates.

Each child who reads five books of the selected list prepared for the contest receives the book certificate, and for reading 20 books an honor certificate is awarded. Last year the children of this town read more books in this contest than those of any other town in the State.

The list of honor children follows, together with a summary by schools.

MRS. A. EUGENE AYER

Mrs. Addie Maria (Whitney) Ayer, wife of Mr. Albert Eugene Ayer of 11 Sanborn street, died at the Christian Science Sanatorium at Brookline yesterday morning after a long illness datiny since last Christmas. She was 69 years of age.

Mrs. Ayer was one of the few old residents of Winchester. She was born here, being the daughter of Joel and Esther (Treadwell) Whitney. She was a sister of the late Arthur E. Whitney.

She spent her life in Winchester, received her early education in the Winchester schools and married Mr. Ayer here in 1875. She was a member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this town.

Besides her husband she leaves seven children—Mr. Luther Symmes Ayer of Plainfield, N. J.; Mrs. Evelyn W. Schrabt of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Miriam B. Hyde of Arlington; Miss Rachel W. Ayer of this town; Mrs. Helen G. Senior of Medway; Miss Dorothy M. Ayer of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Mrs. Esther C. Harding of Boston. She also leaves one sister, Miss Delia Whitney of this town.

The funeral services fill be held at the residence on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and will be conducted by Mr. A. M. Morton, reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist. The burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

ARE YOU INTERESTED in making others happy at Christmas? Do you wish to extend the Christmas cheer beyond your own family and intimate friends? If you, too, want to make some one happy at this Christmas season—send your contributions to Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols, 29 Crescent road, or call him up, tel. 1542-W and he will tell you how to avoid duplications of dinners or gifts.

MEETING IN TOWN HALL

Many Attended Women's Republican Club Affair Friday Night

Honorable Frank G. Allen, president of the Senate, and Thomas R. Bateman, Representative from this town, were the speakers for the Women's Republican Club of Winchester at the Town Hall Friday evening.

Mr. Bateman's subject was "Some Legislative Measures We Should Look Into." "A New State's Prison" and the "Clasification of Prisoners," having already had much publicity, he but mentioned. He stated that the subjects the women are most interested in include Jury Service for Women, Jury Reform and Educational Measures. He gave a brief, able digest of some 20 bills which are to come up. Regarding the Public Works Bill, which would replace the Elevated System with subway, it would cost the city $55,000,000. This act goes on the ballot this fall.

In regard to the Daylight Savings Bill, the industrial workers who want it, comprise 90 per cent, against the agricultural workers of 10 per cent who oppose it. Labor claims this bill is the only legislation which ever gave away anyhing and cost nothing.

After seeing and hearing Senator Frank G. Allen, who described himself as a "business man who had wandered off into fields of [illegible]," [illegible] felt grateful for it. He first paid a tribute to the exceptionally [illegible] men Winchester has sent to the State House [illegible] time. His subject was "Tax[illegible]"

The budget system, which has [illegible] in operation four years, [illegible] the State [illegible] $20,000,000, a [illegible] of $17,[illegible] and Massachusetts [illegible] having reduced its State [illegible] this period of time. [illegible] accomplished mainly by [illegible] the [illegible] of departments from [illegible] 20, cutting [illegible] waste and [illegible]. No humanitarian or charitable [illegible] has been allowed to suffer.

Last year $[illegible] was appropriated by the State for the mentally sick, $5,000,000 for public welfare, $800,000 for the Canton Home for Crippled Children, $1,500,000 for tubercular work, $6,000,000 for educational program and highways $8,000,000.

Since 1920 rural communities have competent teachers, due to the State paying the difference in excess of what they can afford. He dwelt upon it being high time to change our immigration laws next year, and requiring a strict examination of aliens before they are allowed entrance as to their physical, mental and moral fitness to become loyal and self-supporting citizens. Forty-four per cent of our charitable institution inmates are foreigners once removed, and statistics show 48 per cent of our total alien population of 14,000,000 to be of inferior intelligence.

Tax exempt bonds are reasons for a high rate, affecting industry and tieing up one-fifth of the nation's wealth in tax exempt securities.

Following the speakers, the chairman Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside, gave opportunity for the audience to ask questions, which Mr. Whitfield L. Tuck improved by inviting Mr. Allen to visit Winchester's Aberiona River. He suggested that Mr. Allen look at its beautiful bridges, and then watch a dog go into the water on one side and see it come out the other a different color.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, DEC. 10

The Board met at 7:30 p. m., all present.

The records of the meetings of Dec. 3 and 5 were read and approved.

Canal Street: The Board passed the followings votes:

Acceptance of Street: Voted: That in the opinion of the Selectmen common convenience and necessity require that a town way be laid out beginning at Farrow street and extending westerly about 285 feet substantially in the location of a private way, known as Canal street, that such action be taken under the provisions of law authorizing the assessment of betterments and that notice of our intention to lay out such way and of a hearing to be held at the Selectmen's Room, in the Town Hall Building Jan. 7, 1924 at 8 p. m., he served as provided by law upon the owners of the land which will be taken for such purpose.

Acceptance of Streets and Building Lines (Alben Street): Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Marion, 8 Alben street; Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Seagrave, 10 Alben street; Mr. and Mrs. James E. Johnson, 6 Reservoir street; Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. O'Neil, 11 Alben street; Mr. Walter H. Dotten, 12 Alben street, and Messrs. Rowe and Tompkins of the Planning Board were present at the hearing to consider the proposed acceptance of Alben street, and the establishment of building lines on this street. After considerable discussion the matter was postponed until the next regular meeting of the Board in order to afford the residents of this street an opportunity to talk the matter over more carefully.

Street Lights 1923 (Manchester Field): A letter was received from the Metropolitan District Commission stating that the Commission deems it inexpedient to install a light on the bridge over the Aberjona River near the foot of Mystic avenue.

The meeting adjourned at 10:25 p. m.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen

Philip H. Robb of this town, who is to manage the 1924 football team at Harvard, has been appointed chairman of the junior class committee, scheduled to count the ballots in the senior class day election next Wednesday.

HENRY KING FITTS

Winchester has lost a citizen of unusual value in the death of Henry King Fitts, on Saturday, Dec. 8th, in the 46th year of his life. Born in Somerville, Mass., Nov. 19, 1878, the son of the late Ex-Representative Frank E. Fitts and Charlotte I. Whitney, both formerly of Lowell, Mass. Mr. Fitts after going through the public schools, continued his musical education in Boston at the N. E. Conservatory of Music and as a pupil of Mr. S. B. Whitney, the noted organist of the Church of the Advent. He served the Church from his 18th year as organist at St. Peter's, Salem; St. Stephen's, Lynn; St. Stephens, Boston; St. Luke's Cathedral, Portland, Me.; and St. John's, Roxbury Crossing. His great aim was the development of congregational singing to the glory of God in the worship of the Church. His organ playing had soul and inspired the people to sing and his great achievement was the hymn singing and the rendering of the ancient Plain Chant Masses, by the congregation of St. John's, Roxbury Crossing; led by a choir of men and boys.

His spiritual influence through his Christian character and unusual inspiration has extended not only to the many boys and men under his guidance as Choirmaster but to countless others. His exceptional musical career was nevertheless an avocation.

He was an able business man and succeeded his father as president of the Frank E. Fitts, Manufacturing and Supply Company which has expanded under his direction.

Since coming to live in Winchester he has taken such active interest as he could at the Church of the Epiphany, while carrying on his work as Choiramster and vestry man of St. Johns', Roxbury Crossing. He has also been a public spirited citizen and made many friends here.

In 1912 he married Miss Caroline Stevens of Portland, Me., the daughter of Mr. John Calvin Stevens, the noted architect and Martha Louise Waldron. He is survived by his wife and four young children, Alice Caroline, Henry King, David Waldron and Dorothy Louise, and by his older brother the Rev. Frederic W. Fitts, rector of St. Johns' Church, Roxbury Crossing and his younger brother, Frank E. Fitts manager of the Boston office of Rogers Brown Company.

Mr. Fitts was a member of the following clubs: Calumet Club, Winchester Chamber of Commerce, Boston Chamber of Commerce, Reciprocity Club, Boston City Club, Boston Credit Mens' Association and the Episcopalian Club.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The election of officers was held last Thursday evening after the Retreat services at St. Mary's Church, and the following members were unaminously elected to serve the Court during the coming year:

Grand Regent Mrs. William H. Vaso
Vice Grand Regent Mrs. T. W. Gordon
Historian Miss Mary Martin
Prophetess Mrs. Malion Moffitt
Financial Secretary Miss Mary O'Melia
Treasurer Mrs. Thomas Bean
Organist Miss Mabel Cody
Sentinel Mrs. Nora O'Melia
Trustees, for 3 years, Mrs. Harry E. Brown and Mrs. Elizabeth Powers.

These officers according to present plans, will be installed on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 6th.

At a largely attended meeting held on Monday evening at the home of the Chairman, Mrs. William E. McDonald, Jr., the Committee on the whist and pie social in aid of the K. of C. Indoor Circus completed arrangements for their party which will be held on Monday evening, Dec. 17th, in K. of C. Hall. Many fine prizes have been donated for the whist including a 10lb. Vermont turkey. Mrs. Alice Martin and Mrs. Ann Poland, who are in charge of the whist, will be assisted by Mrs. Sara Cassidy, Mrs. Elizabeth Powers, Mrs. Jane King, Miss Bridget Young, Mrs. Gertrude Prue, Mrs. Katherine Kean Mrs. Hatty Brown and Mrs. John T. Smith.

Miss Betsy Noonan and Miss Mary J. Kelley are in charge of the Pie Social and are being aided by an enthusiastic group of young women. They promise many novelties including a couple of cut-out marches with choice pies as the reward for the lucky ones. Pies of all descriptions have been promised, from apple to mocha and frosted lemon, and the Committee feel sure that a splendid success will reward the labors of these young ladies. Cullen's Orchestra will furnish the dance music.

On this Friday evening, Dec. 14th, the charitable committee of the Court will hold its annual whist in aid of its Christmas work, and a large variety of very fine prizes has been donated, as on this party the chief interest of the Court is annually centered. Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, who conducted such a splendid whist for the Charitable Committee last year, is again in charge this year, which fact speaks the success of the party. An order for a fine large turkey will be first prize and for other prizes there will be a very lovely negligee cap, candlesticks, pillow cases and about 30 others. Mrs. Charles McCue and Mrs. Marion McLaughlin are assisting Mrs. O'Connor.

The sympathy of the Court is extended to Mrs. Mollie Maguire who suffered the loss of her sister, Mrs. Margaret Lynch, of Cambridge on Sunday last. On Tuesday evening about 50 members of the Court and many husbands of the members journeyed to the home of Mrs. Lynch in Cambridge, where, led by G. R. Alice Martin, the rosary was recited.

The Court has been deeply concerned during the past week because of the serious illness of one of its most active and valuable members, Sister Katherine F. O'Connor of White street who was operated on Friday morning at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. Miss O'Connor is a popular milliner here in town and is well-known and respected by a host of friends. Latest reports from the hospital announce that she is on the road to recovery.

The Court has gone on record as being strongly in favor of the movement in which has been started to name the new school in the Rumford District, the William J. Noonan School. Santa Maria is especially interested in this project as the late Private Noonan's mother, Mrs. Mary Noonan, is one of the Court's Gold Star Mothers. The Court wishes the Rumford Section success in this request.

PRESIDENT PERRY SURPRISED

President John Perry of the Winchester Laundries, Inc., was thoroughly surprised last Saturday evening when some 50 of his friends from Greater Boston descended upon him in a body and presented him with a handsome luncheon set for touring. After completing this detail, the company gave Mrs. Perry a fine silk umbrella.

The gifts were presented on behalf of the visitors by Mr. Ernest Norman, manager of the Transcient Department of the First National Bank of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Perry replying in fitting appreciation. A collation was served, the menu including an attractive course of steamed clams in its list of good things, and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Ned Perry's five piece orchestra providing the music.

MEETING OF WINCHESTER MOTHER'S ASSOCIATION

At the Christmas meeting of the Mother's Association held in the Assembly Hall of the High School on Tuesday afternoon the Reverend John W. Suter, Jr., gave an illustrated lecture on paintings of various schools representing the nativity and adoration of the newly-born Savior by the magic and other subjects relating to the birth of Christ.

There were 100 children present and at the conclusion of the lecture they were served with ice cream cones while the grown-ups were having tea.

Much credit for the success of the meeting is due to the chilren who sang and to the boys who helped with the running of the lantern.

Hon. Frank G. Allen, who spoke before the Women's Republican Club of Winchester on Friday evening, was the guest of former Representative William A. Kneeland of Highland avenue over the week-end.

A Georgia Editor claims to be able to judge a man's character by the way he drives a motor-car—or words to that effect. He says that when he sees a gentleman coming toward him in a motor-car he gives him half the road; when he sees a fool coming he gives him all of it and when he sees a darn fool coming he takes to the woods or climbs a telephone pole. Every man in this country who drives a car knows that he has to look out for two cars—his own and the other fellow's. He is not afraid of an accident from his own driving; that is, he is not afraid of his own car. It is the other fellow's car that causes him the most anxiety. And here, as in Georgia, it is the fool and the darn fool that is most to be feared.

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD GIRL CHAMPION OF MIDDLESEX COUNTY

In competition with 536 others, many of whom are much older, Mildred Benson, a 15-year old girl of the Winchester High School has won the championship in canning for Middlesex County and she has been awarded that title by the Middlesex County Extension Service.

Her record rivals the achievement of adult canners, for in a State wide contest held in Greenfield this fall some of her canning helped to win the State Championship for her home county.

As a reward for her work she will be sent to the Achievement Club Camp at Massachusetts Agricultural College next summer for a week of pleasure and instruction.

She put up 534 cans and jars of fruits, vegetables and combination food products. The market value of her canned products was $222.60 and the profit above all costs was $67.51.

Miss Benson exhibited at several fairs and won valuable prizes besides demonstrating the value of Achievement Club work as conducted by the Middlesex County Extension Service.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

A young lady recently wrote to a country newspaper asking if there were any editors in Heaven. The editor replied: "There is but one editor in Heaven. How he got there is not positively known, but it is conjectured that he passed himself off as a physician. When the dodge was discovered they searched the length and breadth of the realms of felicity for a lawyer to start rejection proceedings, but they couldn't find one, so, of course, the editor holds the fort."

"Mr. Weigall held his audience spell-bound as he unravelled tales of tomb-hunting and discovery." This is what the Bridgeport, Conn. "Telegram" says of the famous explorer who will speak on "Tutankhamen and the Romance of his Tomb" at the Town Hall next Monday evening. Tickets at Parker & Lane's and the Star office.

Mr. Timothy McKeering of Middlesex street was treated at the Relief Hospital, Boston, Friday for injuries received by being struck by a truck on Portland street. He was badly bruised and cut.

CALUMET TOURNAMENT

Scores Improve as Matches Progress

Some of the best scores of the season appeared in Monday night's matches on the Calumet alleys, many bowlers rolling their best scores. The teams likewise recorded good figures and the rolling was spirited and close. Team 7 winning its lone point by the scant margin of three pins, and 3 and 5 rolling exceptional scores. Individual work was headed by a total of 350 with a single of 127, made by Sanford. A number of high singles were rolled, Etheridge topping the list with 128. Among the good scores noted were the following: Snow 317 with 121, Aseltine 314 with 116, Berry 306 with 121, Stephenson 306 with 115, Pilkington 306 with 109, Murphy 306 with 107, Stackpole 302 with 118, Maynard 301 with 110, Etheridge 128 Demarest 127, Goldsmith 117, Capron 112, Blanchard 109, Goodale 107, Corey 102, Gendron 101, Taylor 101, Symmes 100, Newman 100.

CHILD LABOR

Fifteen national organizations of women, combining their forces through a joint committee under the name of the Children's Amendment Committee, have announced their plans for a national campaign to secure a Constitutional Amendment enabling Congress to seek first the enabling amendment; second, a national minimum age at which children may be employed, and a national minimum of required conditions under which children may work. The League of Women Voters is one of these organizations.

Steps have been taken by the Massachusetts League to have each of the 16 Massachusetts Congressmen seen by League members who are in each Congressman's constituency before Congress convenes in December, to find out the views of our Representatives and to impress upon them the serious intention of women to have the evil of child labor stamped out in this country.

Each league member will be interested in the following facts, and wish to use them when pleading for better conditions:

In Massachusetts children are kept in school up to the age of 14, and have the eight-hour day standard; but

On the showing of Government reports, over 1,000,000 children from 10 to 16 years of age are working in the United States in factories, mills, canneries, agriculture, mines and other industries and occupations. Nearly 400,000 of them are between 10 and 14 years of age.

Nine states have no law prohibiting all children under 14 from working in both factories and stores.

Thirty-seven states allow children to go to work without a common school education.

Eighteen states do not make physical fitness for work a condition of employment.

Fourteen states allow children under 16 to work from 9 to 11 hours a day; two do not regulate in any way daily hours of labor of children.

Today nearly every civilized Western nation has made legislative provision to give its children a minimum protection against exploitation. 12 countries have at least the 14-year age minimum. The United States has no national standard. The states which permit the employment of children under 14 put us in a class with India, China and Japan.

As Mr. Charles S. Adams was turning around in his Ford sedan near Pikes' garage on Main street Sunday he was hit by Nicholas Aftersio of Rochester, N. Y., who was riding a motorcycle. Aftersio had only one number on his cycle, that being made of paper. He likewise had no permit. He complained of injury to his left leg and appeared badly bruised and shaken up.

"Jack" McKenzie, who has been in town on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKenzie of Middlesex street, returned to Preston, Cuba, last Friday.

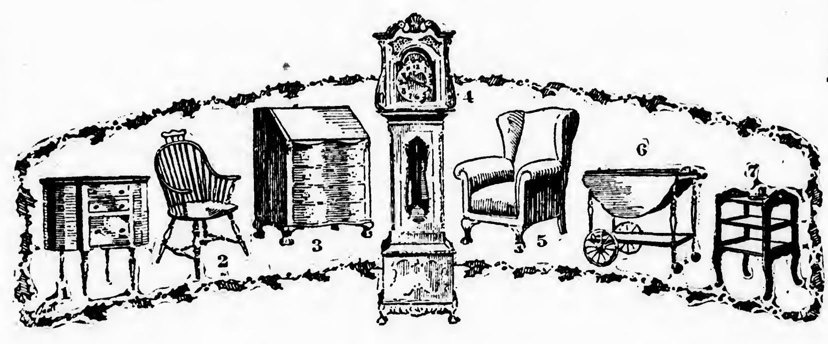

The burglar alarm at the Winchester Trust Company created interest about the centre Saturday and Sunday. It went off Saturday afternoon at 3:30 and Sunday afternoon at 2:20, evidently working sequences.

An automobile accident occurred at the corner of Glenwood avenue and Russell road Saturday. Both cars, which were driven by John T. Freeman of Border street this town and George Farregian of Boston, were damaged.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Some one asked a farmer what they did in his town all winter. "Well said he, we laugh and talk about the people what stays here in the summer."

It is certainly a wonderful thing to have some one understand you, but far more wonderful to understand yourself.

I wonder what a chewing gum manufacturer says when he steps on a wad of his own gum.

Have you ever heard this? "That fellow is full of ideas, if some one would sit on him and hatch a few, both would get rich." but have you ever tried to sit on one of these human idea layers?

Wishes You All
A Merry Christmas

Mr. McAdoo may not have much of an opinion of President Coolidge or his speech, but it is safe to say that every one of the millions of radio listeners have an opinion which Mr. McAdoo's opinion will not influence in the least.

Christmas is coming! What a wonderful time it is every year. No matter how old or how young we may be the Christmas season brings with it a spirit of friendliness, of cheer, of good-will, to us all. No matter whether it is our first or our fiftieth Christmas the charm of it lingers about the day, and touches our hearts and lives. It is always a danger that at this time we lose sight of the spiritual significance of the day in our preparations for it and in the way in which we spend Christmas Day. Our children should not think of it solely as the one day in the year which is set apart for the giving of gifts only. It should not be a day in which all the things they have wanted all year are supplied. The spiritual significance of the day—the Savior's birthday, peace, good-will among men—should rather be in our minds. And is it not right that on this day we should all, fathers, mothers and children, go to Church and join in the praise of the Child of Bethlehem? Let us not [illegible] Christmas a social feast.

Charles Yetter of Sheridan circle, about 10 years of age, was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon and bruised and cut. The accident occurred at the corner of Washington and Winthrop street. Yetter was pulling a small cart, delivering orders for the A. & P. store. The car was driven by Major Goldberg of Roxbury. The boy was knocked down, his glasses broken and his face cut. He was taken to his home.

Box 451 was sounded yesterday afternoon for a supposedly bad fire in Woburn. Woburn box 59 was rung [illegible] by the Winchester alarm. As Winchester answers a second alarm in the Woburn district, our pumper and the chief's car went up. Both fires were insignificant and the apparatus returned to town immediately. While answering the call, the two pieces were held up for several minutes at the centre crossing while a long passenger train passed over.

SALVADOR: LITTLE GIANT OF CENTRAL AMERICA

Salvador, the latest Latin American republic to reach an agreement with the United States for a sort of financial umpirage by the latter is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society:

El Salvador, whose name we of course shorten to "Salvador" is the smallest of the republics of Central America. More; it is the smallest country, independent or dependent, on the mainland of either North or South America. But it is more densely populated than any other country on either continent; and measured by trade balances, it is more prosperous than any of the other Central American republics.

Has Farm-Owning Middle Class.

Surrounded by neighbors, the governments of some of which have not been marked for their stability, and whose soils have not been notable for freedom from war, Salvador has had a comparatively peaceful existence in recent years. This is one factor in Salvador's prosperity. Thoughtful Salvadoreans also point out that, just as an individual's success is likely to be due more to "perspiration than to inspiration," so it is with states; and that collectively Salvador has gone on generating prosperity through the perspiration of industry from year to year.

Economists can point to other factors. Salvador is almost unique in its part of the world in having a fairly well-developed middle class, small farmers who cultivate their own little farms. Finally Salvador has welcomed and protected foreign capital, a fact to which it owes good transportation facilities and numerous thriving industries.

Per Capita Trade Balance Exceeds That of U. S.

In assessing the showing that Salvador has made it must be kept in mind that a considerable part of the republic's 13,000 square miles is broken by mountains and even active volcanoes. Yet the population it supports is so dense that if the same rate were applied to the United States our census figures would show nearly 250,000 inhabitants. And the country not only supports its heavy population but has a favorable trade balance of three dollars for every inhabitant. This is twice as great as the favorable per capita trade balance of the United States, as shown by the latest figures.

Little Salvador is tucked away on the Pacific side of the Central American isthmus. It is the only country between the North Pole and South America that does not touch both oceans.

Railway Tickets for Horse and Man.

Coffee is the most valuable Salvadorean product. Not a coffee tree existed there before 1840. Then a Brazilian school teacher who had moved to Salvador brought a tree from his own country. When this first tree was planted in the teacher's garden according to enthusiastic Salvadoreans, the cornerstone of the national prosperity was laid. Now there are 100,000,000 trees in the republic and berries worth millions of dollars are shipped out annually, most of them to the United States.

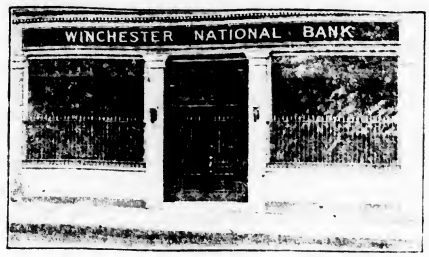

The man on horseback, though a peaceful one, still exists in Salvador and even shares railroad policy. Nearly every train has in it an animal car. The horseman often buys tickets for both himself and his mount, is hauled to the end of his journey, climbs into his saddle and rides on his way.

Cultivate Friendship.

The heart is always hungry. No man lives happily alone. The wisest and the best is wiser and better for the friends he has.—R. D. Hitchcock.

In Praise of Discontent.

Poor in abundance, famished at a feast, man's grief is but his grandeur in disguise, and discontent is humor tality.—Young.

HENRY KING FITTS

On Monday, Dec. 10th a funeral service was held at the Church of the Epiphany, Winchester, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., and the Rev. Charles T. Hall, Rector of St. Johns' Church, Arlington, after which the body was carried to St. Johns', Roxbury Crossing, where it lay in state at the entrance to the choir, through the night, with a body guard of honor, made up of he members of the Choir Graduate Club of the Parish, which Mr. Fitts formed. They also served as pall-bearers at the services held on Tuesday morning, Dec. 11, when a solemn requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Edward Everett, Asst. Curate at St. Johns' and a close friend of the departed, with the Rev. Frederick A. Reeve as Deacon, and Mr. William S. Brooks, vice-president of the "Choir-Grads" as sub-deacon. The burial service followed conducted by Bishop Lawrence assisted by the Rev. Allen Evans, Jr. The organ was not played, a tribute of eloquent silence, and the console and organ case were massed with beautiful flowers. The choir which he had trained for 11 years though present in the chancel did not sing.

The interment was at Winchester Cemetery.

IN MEMORY OF HENRY KING FITTS

The last thing that the modest and self-effacing spirit of the late Henry King Fitts would seek would be a public recital of his admirable and lovable qualities. His toleration and his unselfish yielding of personal considerations to the happiness of those about him must be relied upon to justify a brief and inadequate attempt to record for the community's loss in his sudden death.

His life, though barely half of the [illegible] measure of time, was [illegible] and true accomplish[illegible] the clean fighter [illegible] man. He was [illegible] of years a consecr[illegible] choir leader and [illegible] leader in his [illegible] His musical feel[illegible] who knew him well [illegible] Lullaby," will always [illegible] through the years to a simplicity and grace of character which come only with true greatness. Being true, [illegible] did not prevent him from heartily leading also in the homely music of a fireside company.

In this community he was a vigilant citizen, quietly striving in practical, tangible ways, as opportunity arose, for the highest ideals, with a devotion and self-sacrifice little realized. Appreciation of his accomplishments, coupled with his self-effacement should encourage all who attempt to "carry on."

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Not long ago a certain Winchesterite congratulated himself on the brevity of his hay fever experience. The malady has attacked him several times but this year he recovered from it so soon as to give him much pleasure. While the conversation was fresh in mind the Spectator read that rag weed pollen, the cause of hay fever, has been found 4000 feet above the sea level and that airplanes will undertake to search for still higher growths. Any step in botany or any science leads to another. If there is a steady purpose to find how far north what will grow there, there will be an equally persistent effort to find how far above sea level plants, whether medicinal or noxious, can exist. To the experts the proof that one plant exists is at least a probility, that another of kindred type may be found. A few years ago the young folks who went out on autumn Saturdays were supposed to gather leaves or to hunt for chestnuts. Now they may go on all sorts of scientific errands. Some noted botanist of years to be may begin his career by finding on a holiday a rare plant 100 feet higher than any previous collector had done.

According to Dr. Frank Crane, with whose writings quite a few Winchesterites are familiar, "million of boys and girls are growing up without ever seeing a drunken man."

Young Winchester had read an old-time book,
A tome of ancient lore,
And learned a-sitting in his nook,
Things he did not know before
"Grand-daddy," he queried,
"This speaks of drunken men
What are they?" "Dear and buried;
We'll not see their like again."
"And did you ever see one?"
Grand-daddy gently sighed.
"I sometimes used to be one"
Grand-daddy soft replied
"But now those days are past you
And if you want to see, 'em,
I'll take you to the statue
In the Boston ante-dry museum."

Dr. Crane evidently overlooked, in making his statement, that children even here in Winchester, coming and going from school, still cross thoroughfares that are sometimes used by intoxicated drivers.

According to an abstract recently published in the Star the National Geographic Society informs us that for 30 years the Indians have been steadily gaining on their death rate. It has been estimated that at the time Columbus landed at San Salvador the total Indian population was about 846,000. Thus, if all the tribes in what is now the United States had assembled they would have made up a community smaller than the one city of Detroit. By 1880 wars, disease and dissipation had reduced their number to 256,127. The present population, then, represents an increase of close to 100,000 in 30 years. The red men have adapted themselves to white men's ways. They are not the same braves that roamed the forest in war or in the chase. The modern Indian still hunts occasionally, but he is often a rancher, a gardener, a miner or a lumberer. It is reported that the Osage Indian tribe is today the richest people in the world, each member having an annual income of from $10,000 to $12,000 from oil wells discovered beneath the tribe's land in Oklahoma. It is interesting to learn that more than 200 tribes have been saved from the ruins of Indian civilization. At their present rate of increase the Indian will form a fair part of the population of the United States in years to come. It is probable that future generations will not be the worse off for a liberal infusion of the blood of the first Americans.

The Spectator has just been told by a golf enthusiast that a school of caddy etiquette is to be established this winter. The prefectly-mannered caddy presumably, is the one who, when a Winchester golfer dubs his drive and the ball rolls ahout 10 feet from the tee, does not say, "Well, that's one."

—The Spectator

A WINCHESTER CHILD SEES HIS FIRST SNOW STORM

(Written for the Winchester Star)

All night the stars shivered the frosty sky
And stars of ice woke glittering in the world,
But when the sun upraised his golden age
A storm of snowflakes 'round Winchester windows whirled.
Floating and crossing, dropping lightly shy
On hedge and tree till field and hill were pearled
With dust of heaven, hiding each stain and dye
Of the old earth, warm in his ermine curled
When a small boy woke, love in his mild blue eyes
Met answering love that met his rosy hands
Forth to a window where with glad surprise
He looked out on the shining silent lands:
But wonder now was changed to crowing mirth—
A heavenly cloud had covered all his earth

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ADDRESS RECALLED

A man of admitted reticence and modesty, the writings and published utterances of President Calvin Coolidge are few.

As Governor of Massachusetts he delivered a 40 word inaugural address. As Vice President he made few speeches.

One important public address, that before the National Geographic Society last February, he prepared carefully and revised for publication in the National Geographic Magazine under the title, "Massachusetts: Its [illegible] the Nation."

After naming [illegible] significant events of the colonial period he continued:

True Aim of Public Service

The contribution which Massachusetts has made has been on the side of practical affairs. It has been a demonstration of the method through which the power of intelligence and wealth are to be dedicated to the public service. Always the end in view has been the welfare of the people.

In this there has been no class distinction. Properly and truly her designation has been The Commonwealth.

This principle has been applied educationally, industrially, and humanely. It has given not only cultural training, but professional, technical, agricultural, and trade schools; it has used the wealth created in industry not merely to heap up treasure for the few, but to provide safe and healthful conditions of employment and reasonable wages, through a Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, for the many.

Public Utilities Regulated

It has set up a public tribunal guaranteeing to the people the uttermost service that public utilities can render under the compensation which they are to receive.

It has adopted preventive measures and ministered to those suffering from disease of the body or of the mind, restoring the deficient, reforming the criminal.

It has reached out beyond all of these calls at home to minister in the missionary field of all the world. Faith, hope, and charity have been translated into good works.

While there has come to the sons of the Puritans that progress which results from science and great material resources, their supreme choice is still made in favor of a greater power.

A Court of Sound Opinion

The Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, which enjoys a reputation for sound opinions and which makes its decisions more often cited than those of any other court save the Supreme Court of the United States, recently announced the faith that is dominant still.

Mere intellectual power, the decision runs, and scientific achievement without uprightness of character may be more harmful than ignorance. Highly trained intelligence, combined with disregard of fundamental virtues, is a menace.

Above all else, the people still put their faith in character.

They do not suppose that all virtue landed at Plymouth Rock, that all patriotism refended Bunker Hill. From every people and from every faith there have come Puritans. Every town and countryside has bred devoted patriots.

The word of Massachusetts has never been used to utter a narrow and provincial view. Her ideal was correctly voiced by one of her greatest sons, Benjamin Franklin, when he exclaimed, "Above all, Washington has a sense of the oneness of America. Massachusetts and Georgia are as dear to him as Virginia!"

It is because Plymouth Rock, Bunker Hill, John Adams, and Daniel Webster represent the nation that they glorify their State. In that faith Massachusetts still lives.

SAPPHIRA: A NEGLECTED NOTABLE

Some Americans little given to archeology may be startled by a recent find in the Holy Land: the discovery of the tomb of Sapphira. This lady and her better known husband, Ananias, according to Biblical record, were stricken dead for falsifying on their income tax returns.

Though Ananias' black reputation has been held up to greater scorn than that of his better half, Sapphira may succeed to the position of patron saint of the world's noted liars by virtue of the startling revelations of the investigators. Sapphira, the archeologist who dug up the tomb near Jerusalem found, appears to have lied in her very bones, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Tomb Found By Accident

The tomb was found by accident, the bulletin continues. In the course of digging a foundation near the Bezaleel quarter, the hill west of Jerusalem, workmen found a burial chamber. Inside was a plain ossuary with the name Sapphira engraved in Hebrew and Greek, and containing the full complement of bones.

Site and period pointed to the middle of the first century, and the simplicity of the tomb was in keeping with the middle class social position of Ananias and Sapphira and their circle. A young archeologist, who took charge of the investigation ventured still further in support of identification, and called in medical advice on the nature of the bones. The medical expert is reported to have found the bones were not the bones of a woman—they were masculine! Where Sapphira lies burried and who occupied her mislabelled tomb probably never will be known

Were Charter Church Members

The story of Ananias and Sapphira's chastisement appears in the Acts of Apostles. It had been the custom of the land to contribute a tithe or tenth to the church but the new Christian Church of which Ananias and Sapphira were virtually charter members insisted on greater sacrifices. Peter asked that profits of all sales be laid down before him and distribution made unto every man according to their needs.

Ananias and Sapphira were well-to-do property owners and, though subscribers to the Church, evidently felt this demand was too extreme. Between them they made it up to report the price of a recent sale less than it actually was. But Peter caught Ananias in the lie and Ananias hearing Peter's condemnation fell down dead. Attendants carried Ananias out and Sapphira was brought before Peter. She gave the same false report and straightway fell dead.

Has a Smile Coming.

Value of Conventions.

One aspect of conventions which people who declaim against them lose sight of is that conventions make both joy and suffering easier to bear in a becoming manner.—Joseph Conrad.

TEAM WORK AND CO-OPERATION

The work of the Postoffice Department cannot be efficient without the co-operation of the Public. Instead of "passing the buck" why not help us serve you by doing your part?

Mail only fair sized cards or envelopes—nothing under 3x5—which is even smaller than the ordinary postcard. Anything smaller is not only a great annoyance but is liable to be lost in transit.

Put street and number address on all mail; lack of such address delays not only your mail but the mail of your neighbor. Wrap bundles firmly and tie securely. Put return address on upper left hand corner and address or delivery on lower right hand corner. If articles are packed in a box, put address on box as well as on wrapper—the wrapper may get torn off and address on box will identify it.

Last year we had 65 sacks of mail arrive on one train and we receive mail from 19 trains each day.

Put yourself in the mail man's place and follow the Golden Rule.

THE KLU KLUX KLAN

Come to the forum meeting at the First Congregational Church, this Sunday, Dec. 16th. Come and learn the truth about the Klu Klux Klan in Oklahoma!

Mr. John E. Pember, special reporter for the Boston Sunday Herald, has just returned from a three weeks study of conditions in that state and will give an accurate and vivid picture of the whole controversy.

Many of you recall Mr. Pember's excellent address last year at the "Truth about Herrin," and those who did not hear him know now they missed something. Don't make the same mistake again.

The meeting starts at 12, right after the morning service and lasts an hour. Let us find out if the Klan is the right kind of an institution for America! All citizens are invited.

Studebaker

We are pleased to announce to the people of Winchester that we have this week opened a showroom at 579 Main Street.

We will endeavor at all times to keep the new Studebaker models on hand for your inspection and will be pleased to demonstrate any of these cars.

In opening this showroom, we are carrying out the "Bates Policy of Service," the Service which has helped build one of the largest retail automobile firms outside of Boston.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce is located in the Star office with Miss Mathews as clerk who is always pleased to give all information possible at any time to those seeking the same.

Our objects are to bring the Chamber of Commerce in touch with all the civic interests of our town; to work with the best there is in it for our own town and make it one of the best towns in the State.

We want welcome signs at the different entrances of our town. We want to see signs displayed through the town for the safety of the public. To advocate silent policemen in our town. In fine, every man who has a home in Winchester should join the Chamber of Commerce and help not only with their money but by their co-operation.

Merchants Committee—Mr. Harris Richardson, chairman; Messrs. G. Raymond Bancroft, John Lynch, J. A. Hersey, Herbert Wadsworth, E. C. Sanderson, Frank Knight, P. H. Randall.

Membership Committee—Mr. Charles Kendall, chairman; Messrs. D. F. Holmes, Henry Robinson, A. O. Weld, N. G. Nichols, Rufus Herrick.

Publicity Committee—Mr. T. Yrie Wilson, chairman; Messrs. N. Nichols, Charles Kendall, C. A. Lane, George Davidson, W. L. Cummings, George Bryne.

Manufacturing Committee — Mr. Daniel Beggs, chairman; Messrs. J. F. Fitzgerald, Thomas Quigley, P. F. Walsh, A. T. Downer, S. B. Puffer.

Zoning Committee—Mr. D. F. Holmes, chairman; Messrs. George Whitehorne, A. M. Holbrook, T. F. Gleason.

One of the chief functions of the Chamber of Commerce is that of publicity, so that the voters of our town may become much better acquainted with our civic affairs.

Our chamber of Commerce is pleased to make note of a progressive move on the part of the Winchester Water Board and Sewer to utilize to a partial extent the water from what is now known as the "middle reservoir."

When this reservoir was constructed over 30 years ago it was intended to be a part of the south reservoir, but the town did not feel able financially at that time to spend more money in cleaning that portion of the reservoir by removing loam, stumps and bush. Hence a road was built making two bodies of water, known as the middle and south reservoirs.

About a month ago the State Department of Health made an examination of two samples of water taken from each of the reservoirs. Their statement was to the effect that the water in the middle contained less organisms than the south reservoir. The water board state this to be partly accounted for by that fact that the water in the south reservoir was down about five feet from high water mark, and the north was down nearly four feet, while the middle reservoir was down 15 inches.

The evaporation of water on our reservoir according to expert opinion amounts to 39 inches per year in depth, which would indicate that the middle reservoir is supplied with water from many springs.

The State Department of Health made a strong recommendation to the water board that a ditch should be cut so as to draw off two or three feet in depth from the middle into the south in case we should have a dry season next year.

The middle reservoir is full and is now flowing to a depth of one and one-half inches over its wash way into the north reservoir.

What a fortunate town we are to have such an abundant supply of water that comes from the clouds only, and that the rain falls upon one of the most perfect water sheds in the State.

ELKS' MEETING DEC. 18th

The regular meeting of Winchester Lodge of Elks will be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 18th, at which time considerable important business is to be transacted, a group of applicants presented and others voted upon.

It has been decided that the Lodge will hold this year's children's party in the Town Hall on the afternoon of Wednesday, Dec. 26th, opening at 2 o'clock. About 600 children will be entertained. "Toto," the famous Hippodrome clown, now playing at Keith's, is one of the entertainers on the list, and something special is also promised, besides the appearance of a world famous magician. An entertainment of two hours is planned.

The balconies of the hall are to be open for the Elks', their families and their friends. Mr. Thomas Fallon is chairman of the entertainment committee, and Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols is to have charge of the general arrangements.

WINCHESTER CHAMBERS SOLD

It is reported that the Winchester Chambers has been sold to the Aspinwall Real Estate Trust. The Chambers, owned by the Winchester Chambers Trust, is located at the corner of Church and Wildwood streets. It contains 36 suits of five and six rooms and bath each, and is valued at $230,000.

A barrel of rubbish in the cellar was responsible for the alarm of fire rung in Monday night at 8:15 from Box 57, which called the fire department to the residence of Mr. Henry E. Worcester, 111 Church street. The fire had gained considerable headway and was going up the cellar stairs and entering the partitions when the firemen arrived. Quick and active work held the blaze to the cellar, with small loss.

The examination for Sergeant of the Winchester Police Department will take place tomorrow at the High School.

LETTER FROM MISS SMILEY

The Star is again privileged to print a letter from Miss Carolyn D. Smiley of this town, written to her Winchester friends from Ahmednagar, India. Like Miss Smiley's previous letters, this communication contains much interesting material.

Ahmednagar, India
Nov. 7, 1923

Dear Friends:

In my last letter, I told you about one or two Hindu festivals which were taking place with much noise and display; now I am going to give you a little insight into Mohammedan life. Not long ago the Mohammedans celebrated one of their most important festivals called "Muharram." This is the name given to the first month of the Muslim year. It has now become the name by which are known the days of mourning spent by a certain sect of Muslims in commemoration of Ali and his two sons, Husan and Husain, all heroes of the Muslims in times past. Bonfires are lit in certain places and at night people, young and old, jump about yelling "Ali, noble Husain" and the like. Different groups of Muslims make structures out of bamboos called Tabuts. These are intended to represent the tombs erected on the plains over the remains of Husain. They are covered with tinsel and very much ornamented. On the 10th day there is a big procession in which all the Tabuts, standards and everything else are displayed to the crowds waiting for excitement. We all know ahead of time when the procession will pass near by. I piloted several of the teachers through the streets filled to the utmost with every kind of human, being to my Hindu day school which was on the line of march. The girls had the best kind of reserved seats, namely the roof of the school from which they could fairly touch the Tabuts as they passed by. The whole scene was most fascinating; the flat roofs of the houses were filled with women and children in gay colored saris, many of the houses were highly decorated with colored paper and some had pictures painted on the front walls. As you looked down onto the crowd, you might imagine yourself gazing at a Persian carpet with it's great abundance of color. Aand he noise,-nothing could equal that!

At last the beginnings of the procession appeared, some Indian and European policemen! What a power they wield and what a relief it is to see them in times like this! Then the main procession slowly rumbled along, ballock carts filled with men and boys organized in all sorts of devices, most of it being a disgrace to the Mohammedan religion.

The most important part of the procession is the casket supposed to contain the remains of Husain. This is carried by crowds that surge like the waves of the sea. It is considered an act of merit to even touch the casket so the men fight their way through the excited mob to throw a flower or sweetmeat on the box already heavily laden with tokens. The policemen often have to interfere or there would be many a casualty.

The following day all the Tabuts are taken to a large spot near water. They are now robbed of their finery and their frameworks thrown into the water. In this the Muslims have copied the Hindus in their custom of throwing certain images of gods into the water after a time. At such a sight like this, one does long for the time when all of these intensely religious people will know God as we know Him. It hurts one so to see so much evil and vulgar display connected with any religion.

We are in the midst now of Diwali (feast of lamps), a holiday clean and fine among the Hindus. This festival is consecrated to Lakshmi, the goddess of prosperity. The old year ends and the new year begins. New ledgers, day-books and journals are bought and worshipped with the help of a Brahman priest. At home great preparations are made, cleaning, white-washing and illuminating. All the treasure of the house is collected and worshipped. The Hindus get up early in the morning, fill the house with lights, perfume their bodies with ointment and bathe. No member of the house is left unbathed. Indian sweets are distributed and many guests are invited to dinner. We enjoy this festival for it is fascinating to walk through the city and see the hundreds of little lights flickering in the homes and shops. The one sad thing about this festival of lights is the gambling, the chief recreation of the feast. But what can we say when the English padre and his flock know as Christians are playing cards for money almost every evening at the club not far away!

What is happening in this little world, the school? A large Christian Endeavor and Young Peoples' Convention! About 200 girls and boys are expected today and tomorrow from various parts of the Bombay Presidency. All the girls will be entertained here so we expect to be double busy. The theme of the program is "World Friendship." We have some splendid speakers. At the last meeting we are going to launch a campaign for prohibition. If the young people really take interest in this movement, they can help tremendously for some day they will be the leaders in their villages.

Thanksgiving will soon be here. All the missionaries of this station are invited to Mrs Hume's to dinner. We always have a most delightful time in the true American way. And the dinner is just like yours! The day before Thanksgiving we will celebrate Christmas in the school. Funny world, isn't it, but you see we want the girls to have their Christmas before they go home for a month's vacation.

This letter will reach you in December so it brings my best Christmas wishes. I love to think of all those lovely music the cozy fireside gatherings and the thousand flickering lights on Beacon Hill. In the midst of your Christmas joy, stop for a minute and pray for the millions that live in darkness here in India because they know not the real true God. Since I have been in India, Christmas seems more wonderful than ever before. The people, men, women and children love the story and the spirit of Christ is slowly permeating all phases of Indian life.

"We men of earth have here the stuff
Of paradise—we have enough!
We need no other stones to build
The stairs into the Unfulfilled;
No other ivory for the doors;
No other marble for the floors;
No other cedar for the beam
And done of man's immortal dream

Here on the path of every day,
Here on the common human way,
Is all the stuff the gods would take
To build a heaven, to mold and make
New Edens. Ours the stuff sublime
To build eternity in time!"

Very sincerely yours,
Carolyn D. Smiley

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

A large audience of club members and guests attended the evening meeting of The Fortnightly, which was held in the Town Hall on Monday, Dec. 10, at 8 o'clock.

In the absence of the president Mrs. Helen B. Emerson, the first vice president presided. After a short business meeting, the chairman presented Mr. Arthur Shurtleff, who explained briefly and very clearly the meaning of the words, "Town Zoning."

He stated that whereas, since its beginning, the town of Winchester had been zoned automatically by natural conditions, the time had now come when if it was to preserve its attractiveness, the town must adopt some plan of systemitized and man-controlled zoning.

Mr. Kenneth McCloud sang a group of songs entitled "Life, Love and You," "Somber Woods," and "Love, I Have Won You." He was accompanied by Miss Mary French at the piano. These songs were greatly enjoyed by the audience and Mr. McCloud generously responded to an encore by singing "Road Ways," by Densmore.

The lecturer of the evening was Lieut. J. Denton Sharman, who spoke on the subject, "Better Men Than Their Fathers." He went back into history to show that even from the time of the cave man men had always been better than their fathers, but that if this upward growth is to continue the home must take more responsibility than it now does in the four-fold development of the American youth.

He showed, by means of a very comprehensive chart, that the American home is only performing 50 per cent of its duty to the children of today in developing them spiritually, ethically, mentally and physically, and that the assistants to the home namely the church, the law, the school and the doctor were doing only slightly over 50 per cent.

Mr. Sharman made a strong appeal to the parents present to remember that youth is the time in which the keenest impressions of life are made, that the impressions made at this time are the most lasting and that it is also the time of greatest honesty and idealism.

M. C. W. G.

A most successful whist and dance was held Monday evening in K. of C. Hall in aid of M. C. W. G. booth for the coming K. of C. County Fair.

Mr. Frank Travis of Woburn was awarded the gold piece and Miss Margaret Flaherty carried off the beautiful silver tea service. High scores were held by Miss Murray, Mr. Thomas Fallon, Mrs. J. Humphrey, Mr. S. Callahan Miss M. Mulligan, Mrs. Mc-K. n, Nora O'Melia, A. C. Fitzgerald, Mr. T. E. Fallon and many others.

Yes! We have no bananas, but we have plenty of very beautiful waterproof silk umbrellas and handsome warm blankets at the booth of the M. C. W. G. which is included among the many booths and other attractions at the coming country fair and indoor circus to be given in the Town Hall by the local council of the K. of C. on December 20, 21 and 22. The committee in charge of the M. C. W. G. booth is working under the direction of Mrs. M. C. Ambrose, chairman, and a large committee of ladies and gentlemen.

NEW YEAR'S PARTY

The big event of the new year promises this season to be the party to be given by the Calumet Club. While this has become one of the events of the holiday season since the war, probably it never in past years has been planned on such an extensive scale as that of this season. Exceptionally good music, engaged early last summer, has been secured, and everything connected with the event is to be as attractive as the able committee in charge can make it. The party this year is limited to members and their ladies, and to their sons and daughters over 18 years of age.

Neptune Varnishes

Don't be Fooled by a Varnish Shine

The poorer the varnish, generally the more it shines, and the less it wears. The better the varnish, the richer is its deep satin like glossiness, and the longer it wears. Don't buy a varnish by its shine. Buy it by its power to stand wear and still keep glossy. For everything from floors up, use Neptunite Varnishes. You get wear out of them because wear is put into them. Won't turn white. Dry hard and stay hard.

A MAN OF SCIENCE AND SAGACIOUS PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR

A Brief Sketch of Sir Benjamin Thompson, Count Rumford, After Whom Our School Is Named

The present agitation to rename our new school buildings, now under construction in the replacement of older structures, leads the Star to publish the following sketch. Our schools bear ancient and honorable titles, handed down through the years to the present generation. The Star does not believe that the people of Winchester desire to have these names changed; to throw into the discard the titles associated with the history and growth of the town and familiar to every resident. Up to very recently the old names have been accepted, and the replacements have all been carried on under the old titles. Recently the School Committee asked for the opinion of the people in changing the name of the Mystic School. Still more recently an agitation has sprung up to discard the name Rumford, which has stood for the school in Cutter's Village.

In olden days the name "Count Rumford" needed little explanation nor publicity to place this philanthropist, but during recent years the progress and growth of Winchester has caused much of our town history to fall into the shadow, and this week's sketch may not be amiss.

Sir Benjamin Thompson, Count Rumford, an eminent man of science, enlightened philanthropist, and sagacious public administrator, was born at Woburn, Mass., in 1753 and died at Auteil, France, in 1814.

The death of relatives caused him to be thrown upon his own resources at an early age.

In 1766, he was apprenticed to a storekeeper in Salem and while in that employment occupied himself to some extent in chemical and mechanical experiments.

The outbreak of the Revolutionary War caused him to leave Salem for Boston. He studied medicine and he became for a time a teacher.

At the age of 19 he married. In 1775, on leaving Boston, and favoring the English he was unable to return. In 1776, on the evacuation of Boston, he sailed from Newport to England.

There he filled various offices, civil and military, was knighted by the King, and became a member of the Royal Society and experimented on the explosive force of gunpowder, the construction of firearms and a system of signalling at sea.

About 1783, he left England for Germany and entered the service of the Elector of Bavaria. In 1791, he was constituted a Count of the Holy Roman Empire and selected as his title (Rumford) that of the town in New Hampshire where he had first enjoyed the favor of fortune.

He revisited England and while there, with Sir Joseph Banks, established the Royal Institution, and himself selected Sir Humphrey Devry as its first scientific lecturer. Rumford lived to some extent at the institution and pursued those researches relating to heat, light and economy of fuel on which his fame is principally based.

He then established himself in Paris and married as his second wife the wealthy widow of Lavoisier, the celebrated chemist. In 1801, with a friend, he visited Woburn Abbey, probably in consideration of his American birthplace. He left one daughter, Sarah, by his first wife. In conclusion, the practical, calm and comprehensive nature of his mind, his resolute and methodical habits, the benevolence and usefulness of his projects, all excite our admiration.

In the words of a scientist, "We enter into labors of Count Rumford every day of our lives, without knowing it or thinking of him.

Col. Loammi Baldwin, a neighbor says of his friend, "He laudably resolved not to sacrifice his bright talents to the monotonous occupations of domestic life. The world had higher charms for him. This ambition was to rise in the estimation of manhood by his usefulness."

A superb bronze statue of him was set up in 1867 in one of the public squares of Munich, and a replica was in 1899 erected in Woburn.

So much, and more, may be said of one who lived in the days when scientists were not so common as today, and who was the contemporary of Benjamin Franklin of similar attainments.

TWELFTH NIGHT

Scenes from "Twelfth Night" were presented by the W. H. S. Dramatic Society in the Assembly Hall, Friday evening, Dec. 7th. The great success of the performance was due in large part to Grace Hight, class of 1924, who directed the play, and who rehearsed her cast steadily during the previous six weeks. The actors were perfectly chosen for their parts and the acting of each individual one was highly creditable. The part of Viola, played by Elizabeth Jacobs, was exceptionally well done; she not only looked the part, but acted it with ease and poise. Olivia, played by Charlotte Healey, needless to say also looked her part, and acted with a noticeable naturalness. Dorothy Nutter, who was "Maria," got the true spirit of her character and seemed to take unfeigned pleasure in teasing Malvolio Lombard Jones, who played Malvolio had a difficult role but did it excellently, especially in the garden scene when he found the letter. The three merry-men, Sir Toby, Sir Andrew, and the Clown, played by John Gifford, Harry Gardner and Norman Ash, acted with great vigor and jollity, and drank quantites of beer, in spite of the 18th Amendment. Sebastian, played by Holbrook Lowell, was very gallant, and strangely enough, did look like Viola. Duke Orsino, Fabian, Antonio and the Sea Captain, played by James Halwartz, Lyndon Burnham and Robert Breen as the last two, were also worthy of note. Special credit is due to Malcolm Stewart and Leslie Stewart, who ingeniously contrived the finest scenery ever used in the High School. The garden scene presented a most realistic effect of flowers and overhanging trees, and won merited applause from the audience. Betty Sweetser added much to the entertainment by her graceful presentation of the Fan-Dance. $115 was realized for the new stage curtain in the Assembly Hall.

The cast, scenes and production staff were as follows:

"And pray a gladsome Christmas
For all your fellowmen,
Carol, brothers, carol,
Christmas Day . . . "

Dear Friends, Patrons, and Others:

CHRISTMAS is a good word to conjure with. It has the power to call up a greater number of pleasant fancies than has any other word. And how varied these fancies are, but there is one pleasing picture that the thought of Christmas brings before the mind of everyone that of a number of happy people gathered around a table bountifully supplied with good things to eat. And this is the Christmas vision that interests us just now. We want to help you make your Christmas Dinner this year the best ever. We carry everything that you will need and just the right grade of goods to make this possible.

We have Turkeys the best to be had: or, if you prefer Geese, Ducks, Fowl or Chickens, we have these too.

Our line of Fresh Vegetables is very complete: Lettuce, Celery, Ripe Tomatoes, Cauliflower, Sweet Potatoes, Squash, and most everything else that the market affords.

We carry a good line of seasonable Fruits: also Figs, Dates, Nuts, Canned Fruits and Vegetables, Pickles and Relishes, Jellies and Jams.

We have Plum Puddings all ready to serve and Mince Meat with which to fill the mince pies. Or, if you prefer the homemade variety of these, we have everything that is needed in the making.

Just a word about our prices. Our motto always has been, is now, and we trust always shall be: "HIGHEST QUALITY AT MODERATE PRICES."

And finally, whether you buy your Christmas Dinner from us or from some one else, we wish you and yours a right Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

SYMMES—BUGBEE

Well Known Couple Married Saturday Evening

Miss Laura Curtis Bugbee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wilson Smith of Lawson road, and Mr. Chandler Whiting Symmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herbert Symmes of Main street, both prominent in Winchester's younger social [illegible], were married on Saturday evening at the Unitarian Church before a gathering of friends [illegible] surrounding places. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. [illegible] Hale Reed, pastor of the Church, and took place at eight [illegible].

The organ program was rendered by Mr. C. P. Scott, organist of the Church, and a pleasing [illegible] was rendered by the singing of [illegible] [illegible], and of the wedding march by Lohengrin, by Mr. Charles Ellis, tenor soloist.

Mr. Dean Symmes, cousin of the groom, was best man and the four bridesmaids were Mrs. John Salyer and Miss Georgianna Watters of this town, Mrs. Frederick C. Peck of New Rochelle, N. Y. and Mrs. Richard Heald of Worcester. Little Miss Carroll Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Orr of Worcester, was flower girl.

The bride was very charming in her [illegible] dress of white satin [illegible] embroidered in silver, and veil of old Princess lace. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley, and her veil was caught with a spray of orange blossoms. The bridesmaids were gowned alike in pairs, two wearing apricot and two blue, chiffon velvet, all four dresses being trimmed in duplicate with silver lace. They carried Ophelia roses. The little flower girl was very dainty in a long dress of blue taffeta with bonnet to match. She carried a basket of rose petals.

A largely attended reception followed the ceremony in the Church parlors, the couple receiving with their parents. The ushers for both ceremony and reception were Messrs. John Salyer, Marshall and Russell Symmes, cousins of the groom; Lloyd Goddu of Southbridge, Clarence Russell of West Medford and Burnham Preston of Beverly.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Symmes are graduates of the Winchester High School, Mrs. Symmes being also a graduate of Rogers Hall School of Lowell. Mr. Symmes attended Andover and Dartmouth, and was a naval aviator during the War. He is associated in business with his father. The couple will make their home on the estate at 136 Washington street, which Mr. Symmes has purchased and is remodelling.

K. OF C. NOTES

A well attended meeting of the Committee on County Fair and Circus was held Friday evening, reports were given by the various Sub-Committees showing that this affair will be one of the most successful ever put on in this town. Among the organizations represented at this meeting were the Elks, Catholic Daughters of America, Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild and Branch Sarah Curran, I. N. F.

Plans were made for many attractive booths, where many very useful articles may be purchased for both old and young. The C. D. of A. booth will have dolls, toys and candy, in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald. The M. C. W. G. booth will have blankets, umbrellas and novelties in charge of Mrs. Nora Ambrose. The Branch Sarah Curran, I. N. F. will have sweaters in charge of Mrs. John Murray. The Elks' booth for Overnight Cases will be in charge of George T. Davidson. The Dart booth in charge of John Fallon; the electrical booth in charge of Joseph MacInniss; the refreshments will be in charge of Miss Kate Foley. On Saturday afternoon the children will have an entertainment which will include the famous Clown Band.

Among the articles to be given away will be the Radio now on exhibition at the paper store; five tons of coal. Many useful and beautiful articles have been donated and will be disposed of during the three days of the Fair. The whist and dancing party held Monday evening, Dec. 10th, was a complete success, due to the Entertaining Committee of ladies headed by Mrs. Kathaleen Leighton. This was run in connection with the M. C. W. G. booth.

On Monday evening, Dec. 17th a Peddler's Parade and Pie Social will be held in the upper hall under the direction of Miss Mary Kelley and Miss Elizabeth Noonan, while whist will be held in the lower hall under the direction of Mrs. Annie Poland. This party being in charge of such a capable committee insures its complete success and is being run in connection with the C. D. A. booth.

Owing to the hall not being available the Sarah Curran Branch, I. N. F. are to have their whist and dance Monday, Dec. 31st. This will be a good opportunity for all who wish to see the old year out, and the New Year in; this party will be in charge of Mrs. John Murray.

A meeting of the Minstrel Show Committee was held Friday evening. From the reports received, shows that this Committee is a fine working committee for this year's show. Thomas Farrell is chairman, with Fred Boyle, secretary and A. B. McFeeley, treasurer.

The first rehearsal will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the upper hall of the Home. Mr. Joseph Crossan will be present prepared to put on a show that will even eclipse his success of last year.

The work of the Comittees meeting on Monday and Friday night have been made more enjoyable by the excellent luncheon provided by the Custodian of the Home.

The members of the Council are pleased at the action taken by the North End Improvement Association and are waiting with great interest the result of their petition to the School Committee to name the new school the "William J. Noonan School." William J. Noonan was one of the three members of this Council who gave their lives in the service of their country during the World War.

Battery Care in Winter

When you store your car this Winter, you will draw your radiator, jack the car off the tires, and put it in proper shape for the "long Winter's nap."

But don't forget your battery. Unless kept fully charged, it may freeze; and frozen batteries are seldom worth repairing.

The "Safety First" thing to do is to have us store it under proper conditions. It only costs a little, but it means that you will get your battery again in the Spring in the best possible condition. A little forethought NOW may save a repair bill or the purchase of a new battery in the Spring.

FATHERS AND SON'S NIGHT AT CALUMET CLUB

There were about 150 fathers and sons present at the Calumet Club on Friday evening at the occasion of the annual "Father and Son's" night. A most interesting and entertaining program was given, thoroughly enjoyed by both the fathers as well as by the sons. The evening was well divided between the two generations. President John H. Maddocks presided, assisted by Mr. Harry W. Stevens, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Opening with music, which included the singing by the assembly of popular and familiar songs, President Maddocks introduced Mr. Ernest Bershimol, teacher of English at the High School. Mr. Bershimol firmly and courteously shed the degree of Professor bestowed upon him by last week's Star, although judging from his reception it was equally conferred upon him by the club itself. He received great applause, and gave a particularly interesting and witty lecture upon the growth of the son and witnessed through the fathers' eyes, tracing the average boy's growth up from infancy and illustrating the intimacy between the boy and his father through the years. He was given an ovation at the conclusion of his remark which included a cheer from the boys, young and old, who were present.

An excellent entertainment by Scott & Bayrd, the celebrated two man minstrels, followed, in which a number of celebrated club men were made to perceive their weaknesses and hobbies in a very enjoyable manner to the audience. Refreshments and games followed the program.

OLD BELFRY HERE TONIGHT

This Friday night witnesses the annual visitation by the Old Belfry Club of Lexington to the Calumet Club of this town. Great interest always accompanies this event, both clubs being on a particularly cordial footing. Matches are to be held in bowling between picked teams of ladies and gentlemen, in billiards, pool and cards, and dancing and refreshments will round out the evening. The bowling will be particularly interesting as both teams have exceptionally good lady rollers, and all six alleys are to be used, allowing matches between some 30 persons.

MISS PIKE VICE-PRESIDENT

Miss Barbara Pike, Wellesley, '27, has been nominated for Vice-President of her class. The President of the Freshman class is chosen by the President of the College. Since entering Wellesley, Miss Pike has made the Freshman Volley Ball team for which she received numerals on Field Day.

MISCELLANEOUS

Mr. Harry S. Parsons of Bacon street reported to the police Sunday that a bicycle had been stolen from his garage.

A telephone pole was broken on Main street just over the Woburn line last Friday afternoon when a big five-ton truck loaded with sand struck it. The truck remained in the street until Saturday night before it was removed. As the accident occurred on the side of the street which has been reopened, all cars passing the obstruction were obliged to turn out into the travel road.

Greeting

THE spirit of Christmas is the very spirit of joy, comfort and freedom from work and care. Christmas gifts voice this thought and the most appealing Christmas gifts are those that actually express this spirit---as in something electrical that carries with it new comfort that will be enjoyed on through the years.

PITMAN—CUMMINGS

On Saturday evening, Dec. 15, a small wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil W. Cummings when their daughter, Thelma, became the bride of Forrest Langdon Pitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pitman of Somerville. The ceremony, which was performed at eight o'clock by the Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian Church took place in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends of the bride and groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father Cecil H. Cummings, and was attended by her sister Mildred E. Cummings as maid of honor, and by her little niece, Cecil Cummings Brixton who acted as flower girl. The bride looked most charming in a gown of white chiffon brocaded in velvet, with a long tulle veil fastened with pearls and orange blossoms; she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley. The maid of honor wore American beauty faille with black velvet rosettes and carried an old fashioned bouquet; the little flower girl wore a ruffled crepe de chine in a delicate shade of pink and carried a small basket filled with rose petals. Mr. Converse Hall of Lexington acted as best man for the groom.

At the close of the ceremony the young couple were assisted in receiving their guests by their parents—Mr. and Mrs. Cummings and Mr. and Mrs. Pitman. Mrs. Cummings wore a gown of gray georgette brocaded [illegible] velvet, and Mrs. Pitman's gown was of gray brocaded with [illegible] of green embroidery. The [illegible] which [illegible] the aisle were [illegible] by the following friends of the bride: Mrs. George Schmidt, (Doris [illegible]) of New York and the Misses Dorothy Kerrison of Winchester, Molly Farley of Waltham, Carol W[illegible] of Somerville, Priscilla [illegible] of Cambridge and Evelyn Ploner of Passaic, N. J. The newly married couple left for a short motor trip.

CHRISTMAS PARTY HELD IN WATERFIELD HALL

The Methodist held their annual Christmas festivities Thursday evening, Dec. 20, when members of the Sunday School and all others who cared to come, assembled in Waterfield Hall. There were several selections humorously played by members of the Epworth League Orchestra. Miss Winifred Bent recited several beautiful Christmas stories. Virginia Baxter and Paul Welbury prepared the way for "Old Santa" whom everybody welcomed with delight. This year Santa Claus evidently came down the chimney for his sudden appearance to the huge fireplace can be accounted for in no other way. It matters little where he came from, what he was and what he brought were of chief interest. In both of these Vincent Clarke disappointed no one. It was a great evening. Much credit is due the committee and Mrs. Mary Hodge.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF O. E. S. 175

Mrs. Ethel Jewett was elected Worthy Matron of Winchester Chapter 175, O. E. S. at the annual meeting in Masonic Apartments. The other officers elected were: Mr. William Seer, Worthy Patron; Mrs. Ester Stidstone, Associate Matron; Mrs. Edith Larrabee, Conductress; Mrs. Chella Perkins, Associate Conductress; Mrs. Alena Roberts, Secretary; Mrs. Edith Cummings, Treasurer; Mrs. Mary Wallace, Trustee. The other officers will be appointed by Miss Jewett, the new Worthy Matron. The installation will be held on Monday evening, Jan. 7. After the meeting a social hour was held and refreshments were served.

JUDGE CABOT SPEAKS BEFORE FLORENCE CRITTENTON HOME

Mrs. H. L. Tibbetts was hostess on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 13, to a large gathering of the Florence Crittenton Circle on the occasion of the address of Judge Frederick P. Cabot of the Juvenile Court of Boston. A charming group of songs rendered by Mrs. William H. McGill, accompanied by Mrs. Clarence Whorf at the piano served as a much appreciated preface to the program.

Judge Cabot began his address by telling a bit of the story of a Canadian runaway boy who was picked up on the Boston Common and brought into court. Wishing to learn more about him than that he had run away to see the sea and become an admiral, the judge took him to his farm for a [illegible] only to learn from a friend that after his return to Boston the boy had run away again. Asked why he had allowed the boy to run away the friend replied, "I did not know what the court might do with him."

"That," said Judge Cabot, "is one reason why the court does not get some of the boys and girls before they are old offenders. Many people do not bring children to court because they do not know what the court is going to do with them."

The court must find that the [illegible] exists that the child has been an offender. A case is not brought to court if it can be helped outside. Many times the small offenders are the nicest sort of boys and girls who have, for some reason, gotten started on the wrong track. Many of these cases are taken care of by the various welfare groups in [illegible].

The function of the Juvenile Court is to send a boy or girl back to the community in which he belongs as soon as it can. You must have a sufficient degree of [illegible] in a child's nature to [illegible] upon him. Children must be taught to rely on themselves.

Many mothers [illegible] their only sons. Many fathers set [illegible] to their son, think as to mould them into a standard which they think a fine one, without considering the viewpoint of the boy. To educate, means to draw out. A child is a living, growing personality, and individual and as such he must be educated to be a self-reliant individual who recognizes the rights of others and who is a potential force in his community.

The object of the Juvenile Court is to place a certain measure of responsibility upon him and in time to make of him a contributing personality in his community. Anyone spoils who is simply a listener. One grows by being an actor, a doer. The object of the court is to make the boy or girl an actor, a doer.

Judge Cabot told of the various agencies in a community without which the court could do nothing,—the psychiatric clinic, the settlements, the welfare society, the heads of the various churches. It is the probation officer's duty to know all of these. A person on probation is one who is given a chance to make good in a community and at the same time is on trial to himself. When putting in charge on probation the judge is obliged to state in writing the terms of probation. In theory it is a positive discipline, and its object is to bring out the person's relation to himself. In substance the following are the rules laid down for a juvenile on probation: Keep clean in body and mind, keep good habits, keep good hours, keep friendly and helpful at home, keep active in games and clubs, keep good company with friends and books, win high marks at school in effort, keep the law and rules of the city.

If we supply children with wholesome living, with the proper outlets and activities we shall lessen the number of these sad cases. Support the community activities. Recognize that you are dealing with living, growing personalities in the community and that it is your duty to fit them to remain there.

A thief secured $10 at Randall's store last evening by a flim-flam game. Making a 25-cent purchase he tendered a $20 bill, and as he received the change he made another 5-cent purchase, asking that his $10 bill be returned and he would give the clerk the exact change. He succeeded in mixing the clerk up and getting an extra $10. Stores are warned to be on the watch for this game at this season.

MR. ARTHUR WEIGALL

LECTURE ON EGYPTIAN TOMBS

There was a full house present at the Town Hall on Monday evening to listen to the interesting lecture on the Egyptian tombs by Mr. Arthur Weigall, noted artist, author and Egyptologist. His talk was illustrated by a series of beautiful and [illegible] stereopticon slides. The lecture was given under the auspices of the [illegible] Club of the First Congregational Church, and the lecturer was introduced by President William [illegible] Parsons of the club.

Mr. Weigall, an Englishman, [illegible] considerable time in Egypt [illegible] the tomb of the old Pharaoh [illegible] discovered [illegible] a few yards distant from that of Tut-Ankh-Amen found by Mr. Howard Carter and now occupying the attention of the entire world through the [illegible]ness of its contents and the fact that it has never been disturbed during the centuries.

Pictures were shown of the Valley of the Kings, where the graves of the Pharos are located, of the interior of several of the tombs and a number of the mummies. His statement that it will be several years before the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen will be wholly emptied of its treasures was interesting, this being due to the heat of the place during the summer, when all work has to be suspended. He also stated that many of the treasures taken from the tombs during recent years, were in far less perfect preservation now than when discovered after centuries, this being due to the action of the air and [illegible].

A substantial sum was realized by the club for its contribution to the church building program.

The Knights of the Mystic Garland, a society organized last January by the Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons for youths between the years of 19 and 24 held an initiation of candidates in St. Mary's School last Monday night. The exquisitely attractive degree of this flourishing society was exemplified by the following officers: Frank Leonard, A. K.; John Cassidy, K. G.; Vincent Ambrose, K. T.; Bernard Cullen, K. L.; George Kileoyne, K. L.; Joseph Lydon, K. A.; Father Fitzgibbons, K. V.; Francis Tansey, K. X.; Thomas Smythe'man, K. R.; James Fitzgerald, V.; James Callahan, P.; Norman Harrold, Stanley Dempsey, Edward Dunphy, Lawrence Kean, B.

The fortunate candidates who were promoted from St. Mary's Catholic Society to the advanced association were Joseph Tansey, Richard Cass, Joseph W. Callahan, George O'Connor, John J. Flaherty, Walter Skerry, Cameron MacDonald, Joseph O'Connor, Michael Connolly.

At the business meeting following the degree exercises it was voted to place a basketball quintet on the floor this season that will equal, if not surpass, the champion St. Mary's team of 1922. A wonderfully capable coach has been secured one who was noted the country over as a star at basketball more than 20 years ago,—Mr. William Ghirardini. The first cut in the squad of 11 aspirants will be made [illegible] Coach Ghirardini, Club Director, Father Fitzgibbons, expects the first game in a strong schedule will be played.

The election of officers of the Boys' section of St. Mary's Catholic Society resulted in the choice of Thomas Dolan for President; Louis Martin, Vice-President and Wolfred Prue, Secretary; Father Fitzgibbons, Director and Treasurer.

TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two automobile accidents occurred over the week-end, one Saturday afternoon and one Sunday forenoon. The bad corner at Church, Cambridge and High streets was the scene of the first, two Ford cars, operated by Caleb Sanborn and Irving Bailey of Quincy, coming together at that point. A passenger in the Bailey car, Mrs. Bertha Titus of Wakefield, was quite badly cut by flying glass, and was treated by Dr. Cunningham. The second accident occurred on Highland avenue. A Gardner touring car operated by Ingel Gunderson of Waltham struck a tree at the corner of Hancock street, the car being badly wrecked. Harold B. Farrar, also of Waltham, was a passenger, and both he and Gunderson were injured. They were taken to the hospital and treated by Dr. Sheehy for cuts and bruises. Another car turning suddenly into Hancock street from the avenue is reported to have been the cause of the accident.

Dr. Arthur L. Brown has purchased the property at 60 Church street formerly occupied by Dr Cummings, who retired from his profession and is now in the South. Dr. Brown will use the house as an office, retaining his present home on Black Horse terrace as his residence. He has had the place remodeled on an extensive scale, making it into one of the largest and finest offices in town.

FLAHERTY—ANDERSON

Mr. John W. Flaherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Flaherty of 36 Middlesex street, this town was united in marriage Sunday night at 7 o'clock at St. Mary's rectory by the Rev. Father Joseph A. Quigley to Miss Lillian B. Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of 9 Teel terrace, Arlington. The bride wore a blue chiffon velvet with picture hat and was attended by Gertrude Anderson, her sister, who wore blue canton crepe and picture hat. The best man was William Waters, cousin of the groom. After a wedding trip to New York the couple will make their home in Cambridge. The groom is a world war veteran and served two years with the A. E. F. 101st Field Artillery and was gassed in action. He is also a member of the Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

SAVED FROM DEATH, BUT LEG FRACTURED

Christmas shopping crowds were responsible for a serious accident Saturday morning when Erastus Badger, 66, of 12a Ashburton place, Boston, was pushed off the sidewalk of Winter street into the path of a truck.

He was struck by it and would probably have been killed if James J. Tirrell had not snatched him out of the way. As it was the truck passed over his left leg, fracturing it in three places. He was taken to the Haymarket Square Relief Station and after to a Boston hospital.

Mr. Badger is a brother of Mr. Daniel B. Badger of Prospect street, this town. Latest reports of his condition are favorable.

ELKS TO HAVE TREE FOR CHILDREN

After considerable discussion, the Elks have secured permission to have a Christmas tree in the Town Hall for their children's party Dec. 29. At first this permission was denied, there being new rules in force which forbids trees in public halls, but by complying with special arrangements the Elks will give the children a sight of a tree after all. It is expected that about 800 children will be entertained. The great quantity of gifts which are to be distributed have been purchased and are being wrapped. The party this year promises to be the best yet.

Miss Catherine F. O'Connor who has been recovering from an operation at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, returned home yesterday.

JUST One More Christmas Suggestion

Have you ever thought of what a fine Christmas present an increased laundry budget for 1924 would be for any housewife? That's a gift that she will appreciate every week of the year that is to come. Surely there is no gift that could show greater thoughtfulness for her. And what woman doesn't want the gifts she receives from those nearest and dearest to her to express thoughtfulness?

C. D. OF A. NOTES

Last Friday evening the Charitable Committee of the Court, Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, Chairman, conducted the second in its series of Christmas whists and a creditable sum was realized for the charitable work of the Court. Those winning the highest scores were: Mrs. John Connors, Woburn, who won the turkey; Mrs. Mary Mylett, Woburn; Mrs. Ann Poland, Mrs. Gertrude Nagle, Mr. Henry O'Melia and 20 others. Mrs. Quill won the basket of fruit.

On Monday night the Committee which is to aid the K. of C. at their Indoor Circus, held a most successful party in K. of C. Hall. Mrs. John Murray was the winner of the turkey and the other high scorers included Mrs. Elizabeth Powers, Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. Beaton, Mrs. Edward Dineen, Mr. John McCarron, Mrs. Beatrice Crowe and Mrs. Moses King. Mrs. Harry E. Brown won the basket of fruit. Miss Theresa Sullivan the embroidered night-gown and Mrs. Thomas Kean the silver candlesticks.

The next whist in aid of the K. of C. Carnival will be held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 2 in K. of C. Hall and will be in charge of Mrs. John T. Smith and Mrs. Harry E. Brown.

According to present plans the Installation of new Officers will be held on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 6, in Lyceum Hall. The newly elected officers will be installed by D. D. Marie Cunen of Woburn, after which an open meeting will be held, each member having the privilege of asking a friend. Prominent speakers will be present to address the meeting and supper will be served in the form of a covered dish party.

The Committee on the Booth in aid of the K. of C. Indoor Circus report good progress. There will be a sale of dolls, toys, books, candy, and wreaths on this booth, all to be sold at a reasonable price. Seldom have prettier toys been available than those which will be on sale, and it is expected that they will be all sold out very early during the carnival.

WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Winchester Chamber of Commerce will open its new office in Room 2, White's Block, next week. Miss Mathews, our clerk, will be in attendance every day and will be ready at all times to give information regarding our civic affairs.

It is a source of great gratification to us that so many of our townspeople are taking such an active interest in our organization and each day brings in new names to add to our membership list.

An interesting comparison is made by noting that the City of Boston which has a population of 800,000 has only 7000 members in its Chamber of Commerce, while Winchester with its population of 14,000 has 125 members in its Chamber of Commerce. Join the Chamber of Commerce and help us grow.

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce has studied the situation of the work being done by our local postoffice and find that the service of our local post office is as a rule we think, excellent. The question is what can we as individuals do to help improve the service. The most important thing for the public to do is to read the articles inserted from time to time in our local paper by the postmaster, and more important still, follow the requests and suggestions made by him. We are in consultation with him frequently, and are satisfied that he is giving the best service possible with the equipment and force at his command.

OLD BELFRY VISITATION

Probably the most enjoyable party of the year was that at the Calumet Club last Friday evening when the Old Belfry Club of Lexington visited town and took on the local club men and women at various sports—including dancing. About 175 Lexington people came over, and interesting matches were run off in bowling, billiards, three cushions, cowboy pool, straight pool and cards. Refreshments were served during the evening and dancing was enjoyed until one o'clock.

Owing to the number of tournaments held and the friendly relations between the two clubs, no record was kept of the actual outcome of the meet. Calumet won the majority in bowling and Old Belfry took the various pool points. Calumet came out better in billiards and three cushions and the six tables of cards decided to let the scores go after a pleasant evening.

The Calumet pool teams included Messrs. Carleton, Stevens, Weed and Squires, and Reynolds and Messenger upheld the local standing on the billiard tables.

The bowling was probably the most exciting and interesting of the sports, there being two mixed teams from each club contesting, and one team of men. One of the mixed matches resulted in a tie for the first string, Old Belfry taking honor in the roll-off. Calumet won the second string by two pins and likewise the total by this small margin. The other mixed match ended with the honors more decidedly settled, Calumet winning two more points, [illegible] Old Belfry [illegible] total of 522 [illegible]

CALUMET BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Teams Splitting Points With Excellent Scores

Matches in the bowling tournament at the Calumet Club continue to be well divided in points, teams losing one evening coming back strong in a following match, while excellent scores continue to be the rule. On Monday night team 13 staged a straight win of four points from team 11, 4 got three points from 6 and 16 pulled out a like number from 18. Heaton created the sensation of the evening with a total of 354, a fine figure. His single of 137 was also high score. Other good figures were as follows: Corey 344 with 117, Hatch 323 with 121 Gendron 119, Ambler 118, Richardson 109, French 109, Berry 108, Walker 108, Barnard 104, Newman 101, Gage 101, Robinson 101.

Scores in the tournament dropped a little in Wednesday night's rolling, although a few rollers piled up a good total. Notwithstanding the drop in individual figures, the matches were very closely contested. In the 4 vs 18 game, in which 18 won three points the first string went by the narrow margin of three pins, while in the 3 vs 9 match with 3 taking three points, 3 won the first string by five pins and 9 the third by nine pins. Individual scores were headed by Taylor's total of 338, rolled on a high single of 124. Stephenson was closely behind with 324 on 129, while other scores of note included Goodale 312 with 117, Berry 303 with 110, Brown 112, Newman 109, Dickson 109, Murphy 106, Corey 106, Engstrom 102, Berry 101, Capron 100, Flinn 100.

Battery Care in Winter

When you store your car this Winter, you will draw your radiator, jack the car off the tires, and put it in proper shape for the "long Winter's nap."

But don't forget your battery. Unless kept fully charged, it may freeze; and frozen batteries are seldom worth repairing.

The "Safety First" thing to do is to have us store it under proper conditions. It only costs a little, but it means that you will get your battery again in the Spring in the best possible condition. A little forethought NOW may save a repair bill or the purchase of a new battery in the Spring.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

All the good things of this world must be won afresh every day.

No man will gain freedom by whining for it, he must win and be willing to pay for it.

Did you ever realize how many men think themselves martyrs, when really they are only fools.

No man has the right to leave this world no better than he found it.

The people who are self satisfied are pretty easy to please.

The man who flares up doesn't shine long.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

"Merry Christmas." There are no two words in any tongue or language the world over, which are so dear to the hearts of Christian men and women. From ocean to ocean, in the valleys, upon the mountains, in crowded cities, in quiet country lanes, in the frozen regions of the northlands, and the warm breezes of the southlands, these words ring out again on Christmas day and man meets man with joy and peace in his heart. For the centuries-old story bears again and again its message of joy and peace: "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

OLD RESIDENT OPPOSES CHANGE IN SCHOOL NAME

Winchester, Dec. 12, 1923

To the Editor of the Star:

As a former pupil of the Rumford School 70 years ago, I desire to enter my protest against the proposed change of name.

If a change is to be made suggest the name [illegible] of the late George Stratton and Frank Stratton. An honored resident of Winchester, who enlisted at his country's call in 1861 in the 22nd Mass. Regiment and was killed in battle. While the grave of the unknown soldier is honored with pomp and ceremony, would it not be well to remember one of our former well known citizens who gave his life for his country and who for over 60 years has been lying in an unknown grave. This would be but a faint deserved tribute.

Yours truly,

Daniel W. Kimball

A resident of Winchester 76 years and a member of the 44th Mass. Regiment in the Civil War.

ALIAS WARSAW, POLAND

What is the capital of Rzeczpospolita Polska? Answer Warszawa.

Probably that leaves you cold. But if someone wanted to know the name of Poland's capital, you could doubtless snap out "Warsaw" with the best of them.

Which merely goes to show that there is sometimes justification for our habit of dubbing other countries' place names by our own pseudonyms, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society in regard to the city which is the scene of Poland's seething politics.

Compared to Paris

Warsaw is forever being compared to Paris, continues the bulletin, and rightly. The somberness and heaviness and matter-of-factness often found in the great cities of Germany and Russia and England have always been lacking in Warsaw. Even a century of oppression could not entirely break the Polish spirit of gaiety and optimism nor alter greatly the results this spirit had wrought in fashioning the Polish capital.

To carry the comparison further, the Parisians are lovers of beauty and so are the people of Warsaw. It is significant that the Polish President was attacked at an art exhibition. The presence of the Polish Chief Executive on such an occasion makes as true a picture as a French President at a new theatre, a British King at a board of trade or a financial concerns, or a President of the United States dedicating a great engineering work.

Finally Warsaw may be compared to Paris in some ways upon the score of physical arrangement and appearance. The city is filled with impressive old cathedrals, churches and palaces and has numerous stately public buildings. Wide, tree-lined boulevards radiate from the center of the city, some leading to beautiful and most elaborately developed parks. But Warsaw is not wholly a city of wide avenues and open spaces. It is its ancient portion of narrow, tortuous streets whose darkness and quaintness take one back to the Middle Ages.

Importance Inevitable

Warsaw's history is both long and turbulent. It had its beginnings in the tenth century; and its start, like that of so many other great cities of Europe, was around the castle of a feudal lord. In 1550 it became the capital of the then powerful Polish Kingdom, and has since played a role of importance in European history. Inevitably it grew to be a great city and inevitably it felt the hand of numerous conquerors. For geographical position marked it as one of the greatest of European centers.

One feels that, like the lines of force about a magnet, Warsaw's lines of trade must have existed from the first, though invisible. Now they have taken shape in steel and wood; railroads extending from the city like spokes of a great wehel, off toward Petrograd, Moscow, Odessa, Vienna, Prague, Berlin and Danzig. In a Europe at peace it would occupy much the position of St. Louis in the United States, lying in a strategic position between the raw materials and foodstuffs of the West and the factories and consumers of the East; and at the same time helping to exchange products between the North and the South. In addition Warsaw is itself an important manufacturing center. Its trade and industry and politics together have built up a population close to the million mark, making it one of the half dozen greatest cities of the European mainland.

The country of which Warsaw is the capital must not be looked upon as one of the "little lands" that sprang into existence after the World War. It is more than half as large as Texas, and has a population six times as great. To put it more emphatically, Poland's population is practically a quarter of the United States.

Far North as Hudson Bay

Situated half way between Petrograd, which may be taken as representing the north, and Venice on the warm Mediterranean, Warsaw is probably thought of usually as in temperate latitudes. It is in reality as far [illegible] son Bay or the northern coast of Newfoundland. Its winter, however, is not so severe as the location might suggest, but is moreн early comparable to that of New England.

He who wanders about the streets of Warsaw cannot remain in ignorance of the glorious past of Poland nor of the parts her sons have played in the world drama. He will encounter palace after palace—a large enough number to entitle Warsaw to dispute with Genoa then nickname, "City of palaces." They were built mostly during the seventeeth and eighteenth centuries when Warsaw was without a peer in Europe save Paris.

Among the world famous Poles to whom monuments exist in Warsaw are Sobieski who saved Christian civilization from the Turks, Copernicus who gave the first adequate conception of the universe, and Chopin who brought into the world and left for its inspiration music of the rarest beauty. His heart lies enshrined in one of the chief churches of Warsaw.

RED CROSS HEALS WOUNDS OF WAR

25,000 Disabled Ex-Service Men in Hospitals After Four Years of Peace.

CHAPTERS' FIELD OF SERVICE

Every Veteran Needing Help Gets Individual Attention of Sympathetic Workers.

When on November 11 the world halts to observe the fourth anniversary of Armistice Day, and the American Red Cross inaugurates its Annual Roll Call for the enrollment of the 1923 membership, the people of the United States may well pause to think of the unparalleled contribution to the cause of peace made by our Army and Navy in the World War. The glory of it is a common tradition; but the wounds of war remain. They are not healed in a day, in a year, nor in four years. And on Armistice Day there will be under treatment in Government hospitals over 25,000 ex service men, broken physically by wounds, exposure, nervous strain and exhaustion incident to their service in the war.

The Government without stint is undertaking to furnish these disabled men with the compensation and medical care to which they are entitled, yet their especial care is a duty of the Red Cross. Why? Because the Government cannot handle the cases of ex-service men individually; it must handle these men in bulk under a standardized policy. The Government has neither the authority, the funds or the equipment for working out the problem of the individual man. There is where the American Red Cross finds its greatest field for service, aiding through its very active Chapters in reaching the disabled man with immediate practical help, assisting his family while his claim is emerging from the process of adjustment, furnishing articles of comfort, funds to tide over the difficult periods, the friendly touch of personal encouragement, helpful recreation and worry dispelling amusement. It is the warm hand of sympathy and understanding which the American Red Cross extends to the majority of these disabled ex service men, some of them friendless in the whirl of life, thousands of them with wives and children dependent upon them, and hundreds of them frequently helpless in the face of grim necessity.

2,679 Chapters Aiding Veterans

In this work, upon whose accomplishment the American Red Cross is urging a record-breaking enrollment in the Roll Call which opens on Armistice Day and closes with Thanksgiving Day, 2,679 Chapters in all parts of the country are engaged. This is 350 more than were working for ex service men last year when approximately $10,000,000 was expended by the National Organization and the Chapters working together in harmonious unity.

For the current fiscal year National Headquarters appropriated $3,030,692.90, an increase of $365,580.81 over the amount spent for the work among ex service men in the year ended June 30 last. Since it is estimated that the Chapters will expend close to $7,000,000 from their own funds, the grand total of Red Cross expenditures for this single work is expected again to reach the $10,000,000 mark by June 30, 1923.

Hospital and District Office Work

During the fiscal year a total of over 1,000 persons, paid and volunteer, has been engaged in Red Cross duty in hospitals or district offices of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau. An average of 8,000 new cases requires definite and particular attention each month. The demand for Chapter-made articles for hospital patients is constant.

During last year Service Claims and Information Service at National Headquarters handled 37,200 compensation and insurance claims, 24,560 allotment and allowance cases, and 9,700 miscellaneous claims. Since February, 1919, it has disposed of 64,174 allotment checks payable to veterans which the Post Office Department reported undeliverable.

The Chapter is the unit of the Red Cross organization which is accessible to every disabled veteran or his family. Between July 1, 1921, and June 30, 1922, the Chapters had reported 1,695,079 instances of service to ex-service men and their dependents, at a cost estimated from reports now at hand of more than $5,340,000.

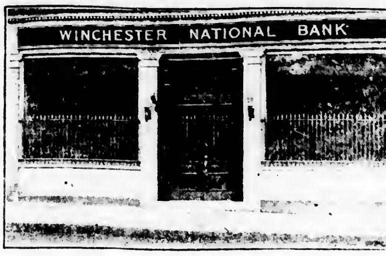

The basis of this far-reaching work of the Red Cross is the individual needs of the disabled veteran to the end that he may obtain his rights under the law, that his especial wants may be immediately supplied, that his own and his family's situation may be rendered happy and cheerful, and that their outlook for the future may visualize incentives for independent and fruitful effort.

Spread Christmas Joy Abroad

More than 100,000 Christmas boxes for the children of Central Europe were packed by the Junior Red Cross last year. The spread of Christmas joy through these boxes will be largely increased this year because of the plans already under way.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XXVI.—MICHIGAN

THE French missionaries and fur traders were the first whites to penetrate into Michigan. Their first visits to this region date back to 1610. It was not until 1668 however, that the first actual settlement was made. This was the mission at Sault Sainte Marie, founded by Father Marquette. Mackinac was established a few years later, and Detroit's growth was slow. After the French and Indian wars the English took over this territory, and in 1774 it was formally declared a part of Canada. Detroit rapidly grew in importance and during the Revolution was the base of operations for many raids by the British and Indians against the Americans.

By the terms of the treaty of Paris in 1783 this region became a part of the United States. What is now Michigan, Wisconsin, a part of Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio was known as the Northwest territory. After Ohio was set off as a separate state the Lower Peninsula of Michigan was joined to Indiana territory. In 1805 Michigan became a separate territory with about its present boundaries. There was, however, a great dispute over a small strip of land in the extreme southern portion which was claimed by Ohio. This almost led to bloodshed, but was finally settled by Michigan releasing her claim to the disputed area and receiving as compensation an addition to the Upper Peninsula. On this basis Michigan was admitted to the Union in 1837 and became the twenty-sixth state.

Michigan has a unique situation, as it is bounded by the three largest of the Great Lakes and divided into two peninsulas. This gives it a coast line larger in proportion to its area than any of the other states. It is named after Lake Michigan, which is the Algonquin word, "Michi-gan," meaning "great sea." It is entitled to 15 votes in the electoral college.

JAMAICA: AN ISLAND OF PHANTOM PIRATES

The island of Jamaica in the West Indies which, according to newspapers, is having its tariff disputes with the mother country over the duties imposed on its articles of export, was in the latter half of the 17 century the stronghold of the English buccaneers, says a bulletin based on a communication by Nell Hay Clarke to the National Geographic Society.

Morgan the greatest and most sagacious of the pirates, planned most of his expeditions in Port Royal, which had the reputation of being the richest and wickedest spot on earth. And proud the city was of the notoriety. Defiant, flamboyant, and unabashed, it greeted the chiefs who lent riotous color to its life emptied gold into its coffers, and tinged its nights with drunkenness and revelry.

Tumbled Rendezvous Into Sea

In those days Port Royal had a high wall about it and wide quays, whereon its habitues emptied their pieces-of-eight. Then, as if Providence were outraged by its utter disregard to its moral laws, an earthquake on June 7, 1692, shook Jamaica to its foundations and tumbled this den of iniquity, with scores of the pirates into the sea. When the water is calm the coral-encrusted ruins of the old town may be seen beneath the water, even today, and the natives still regale the visitor with stories of phanom ships that are trying to make the port.

One interesting relic remains, however, in Fort Charles, a still old veteran of sun-faded bricks. Some of the officer's quarters and a paved court, so white that it dazzles, are still standing. Flower gardens now encircle its walls; its gun embrasures are hidden by bushes; the birds haunt its crannies, and the lizards crawl lazily over its parapets. Horatio Nelson was stationed at the forts in 1799, when he was 21 years of age, and the paved platform which was known affectionately as his quarter-deck may still be seen.

Town is Disconsolate

The town now standing on the old site is respectable, faded and disconsolate. On the fences and bushes, in melancholy ugliness, the commonplace inhabitants dry the fishing nets by means of which they eke out their existence.

The pirates, with the two bases, Tortuga and Port Royal, for operations, took toll of all the islands and lands along the Caribbean.

Across the magnificent harbor from Port Royal lies Kingston, the capital of Jamaica and one of the most important ports in the West Indies. Its foundations were laid by Port Royal survivors.

Adversity and Friendship.

In adverse hours, the friendship of the good shines most; each prosperous day commands its friends.—Euripides.

VACCINATION IS AGAIN CHALLENGED

Big Medical Liberty League Meeting in Boston Passes Resolutions

In spite of the strategic advantage of having the law on their side, the defenders of vaccination are having their hands full these days in trying to meet the state-wide campaign of the Medical Liberty League against the legal requirement for the vaccination of public school children.

At a densely crowded meeting in Symphony Hall, Boston on November 2, announced as a "Convocation of Citizens to Demand the Abandonment of Compulsory Vaccination", the sum of $1545.25 was subscribed in ten minutes to assist the League's campaign for the coming year.

The meeting also adopted the following resolutions which will be of interest both to the advocates and to the opponents of vaccination.

WHEREAS The Director of the Division of Laboratories of the Massachusetts Department of Health has officially stated in the official journal of the said Department, ... [illegible]

... [illegible] friends ... with the ... smallpox which ... thereto obtained, and

WHEREAS The use of non-certified virus of human smallpox origin, though labelled "vaccine", cannot constitute compliance, in good faith, with our State laws relating to vaccination, which were all enacted at a time when cowpox matter was the recognized basis of vaccination, and

WHEREAS The Massachusetts Department of Health has, without any change in the laws, warranting such action, shifted from the production and distribution of vaccine of supposed cowpox origin to so-called "vaccine" of known human smallpox origin, and

WHEREAS Such substitution constitutes a menace to the public health, and a breach of good faith on the part of the State Department of Health, in dealing with the Public, and

WHEREAS None of the available strains of "vaccine virus" so called, can be satisfactorily authenticated as having been originally obtained from that variety of cowpox which Jenner declared was the only one capable of establishing immunity against smallpox. Be it theerfore

RESOLVED That the citizens of Massachusetts, here assembled in Symphony Hall, Boston, on the evening of this second day of November, A. D. 1923, do hereby brand as spurious and essentially illegal, vaccination as now practiced, and demand that the General Court at its next sitting repeal every law on our statute books relating in any way to "vaccination," and that there be enacted a law prohibiting the manufacture, distribution and use, within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts of any so-called "vaccine virus", under any name or label, which is of human smallpox origin or which is in any way traceable to human smallpox, whether cultivated through calves or any other animals, and Be it further

RESOLVED That copies of these resolutions be sent to His Excellency, the Governor, to members of the Senate and House of Representatives; to the Mayors of all Massachusetts cities; to the Selectmen of all Massachusetts towns and to the School Boards and School Committees throughout the State.

Care of Health from 20 to 30 Will Lengthen Life Ten Years

Proper Eating, Shower Baths, and Stair Climbing Are Helps

THE years between twenty and thirty make up the most important decade in the life of the average man, according to Dr Charles H Willits medical director of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia.

A recent survey of the deaths and their causes among the policy holders of the company convinced Dr. Willits that it is possible for a person to postpone the date of his death ten years by proper living between his twentieth and thirtieth birthdays. For this reason he concludes that this decade is the most important in a man's life.

By proper living Dr. Willits said that he meant eating the right foods, taking regular and sufficient exercise and abstinence from the use of narcotics. ... [illegible]

GREAT ... AMERICA

Famous "Roederer" Collection, at Rheims Before the War, Has Been Sent to New York.

The great Roederer library, one of the finest in France, which has been shipped to the United States, is a memorable souvenir of the war-scorched city of Rheims, where it was collected and treasured for many years. The 6,000 volumes and 2,000 original drawings of the Eighteenth century were removed from Rheims immediately before the German attack upon that city and were conveyed to Paris to save them from theft or wanton destruction. From Paris they have since been sent to New York.

This library comprises, among other beautiful things, the complete set of designs made to illustrate the edition of Boccaccio of the Eighteenth century and sold by Baron James de Rothschild to M. Roederer in 1882; the hundred designs intended to illustrate the edition of Ovid of Abbe Banier; the 276 designs of Oudry, for La Fontaine, the 136 illustrations of Fragonard, for the Orlando Furioso, and complete sets of engravings of Boucher, Moreau, Cochin, Eisen, Gravelot, Marillier, Huet and Delacour.

The bindings of these beautiful volumes are as rare as they are magnificent. Those of the fables of La Fontaine are in citron morocco, before the war valued at $10,000.—New York Herald.

Timely Definition.

Hypnotism Long Practiced.

Hypnotism has been known and practiced for ages, but the word hypnotism was originated by Dr. James Braid of England, who gave public exhibitions in 1841.

"And pray a gladsome Christmas
For all your fellowmen;
Carol, brothers, carol,
Christmas Day again."

Dear Friends, Patrons, and Others:

CHRISTMAS is a good word to conjure with. It has the power to call up a greater number of pleasant fancies than has any other word. And how varied these fancies are! But there is one pleasing picture that the thought of Christmas brings before the mind of every-one—that of a number of happy people gathered around a table bountifully supplied with good things to eat. And this is the Christmas vision that interests us just now. We want to help you make your Christmas Dinner this year the best ever. We carry everything that you will need and just the right grade of goods to make this possible.

We have Turkeys—the best to be had; or, if you prefer Geese, Ducks, Fowl or Chickens, we have these too.

Our line of Fresh Vegetables is very complete: Lettuce, Celery, Ripe Tomatoes, Cauliflower, Sweet Potatoes, Squash, and most everything else that the market affords.

We carry a good line of seasonable Fruits: also Figs, Dates, Nuts, Canned Fruits and Vegetables, Pickles and Relishes, Jellies and Jams.

We have Plum Puddings all ready to serve and Mince eat with which to fill the mince pies. Or, if you prefer the homemade variety of these, we have everything that is needed in the making.

Just a word about our prices. Our motto always has been, is now, and we trust always shall be: "HIGHEST QUALITY AT MODERATE PRICES."

And finally, whether you buy your Christmas Dinner from us or from some one else, we wish you and yours a right Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

PIRATES RAMPANT

Gilbert & Sullivan's Opera Delights Crowded Houses.

Crowded houses greeted the performers of the Epiphany Choral Club in the Town Hall on both Friday and Saturday evenings when they presented Gilbert and Sullivan's ever tuneful opera "The Pirates of Penzance." In return the cast gave a most excellent portrayal of the various characters combined in the play, with exceptionally fine singing. A substantial sum was realized from the production for the funds of the parish.

"The Pirates of Penzance" is one of the most tuneful and popular of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, and like most of these famous operas, gives ample scope for individual merit of the artists. The leading feminine part was taken by Carolyn Gilpatric, who delighted her audience, both by her finished acting and her charming voice. Jane Hill also filled her part in a finished manner and her singing was particularly pleasing. Messrs. Symmes, Hanscom and Riley, in the leading masculine roles, were particularly good in their respective parts.

The chorus was composed of 36 trained voices, lending to this portion of the opera a feature not usually encountered in amateur productions.

The play was directed under the supervision of Mr. J. Albert Wilson, choir master of the church, to whom much credit has been accorded for its success and its finished presentation. He was assisted by Mr. Henry Dale, coach, and Miss Mary F. French, accompanist. Between the acts candy was sold by a group of young ladies of the Church.

The cast and ensemble was as follows:

Richard, a Pirate Chief ... William Riley
Samuel, his Lieutenant ... Willis Doe
Frederic, a Pirate Apprentice, Dean Hanscom
Major-General Stanley, of the British Army, Alden Symmes
Edward, a Sergeant of Police, Earl Sylvester
Mabel, General Stanley's Youngest Daughter, Carolyn Gilpatric

GIRLS' BASKETBALL SCHEDULE FILLED

The schedule for the Greater Boston Interscholastic Girls' Basketball League has been announced by Principal Herman Gammons of the Arlington High School. Arlington, Watertown and Winchester High are again members, but Lexington High has withdrawn, owing to the fact that it has no place available this winter for home games.

Two new schools, Melrose and Wellesley High, have joined the league, however, making it a five-school organization. The team which wins the title also gets a leg on the five-year trophy given by Harold Clarke Durrell. The Arlington girls won last year.

Twenty games are scheduled, each team meeting the other twice, in home and home encounters. The schedule:

Jan. 10—Melrose at Wellesley
Jan. 11 Arlington at Watertown
Jan. 16 Wellesley at Arlington
Jan. 18 Watertown at Winchester
Jan. 25 Arlington at Winchester
Jan. 25 Watertown at Melrose
Feb. 1 Winchester at Melrose
Feb. 1 Watertown at Wellesley
Feb. 6 Melrose at Arlington
Feb. 8 Winchester at Watertown
Feb. 14 Arlington at Wellesley
Feb. 14 Melrose at Watertown
Feb. 19 Wellesley at Melrose
Feb. 20 Watertown at Arlington
Feb. 20 Winchester at Wellesley
Mar. 4 Wellesley at Winchester
Mar. 7 Arlington at Melrose
Mar. 11 Melrose at Winchester
Mar. 14 Wellesley at Watertown
Mar. 18 Winchester at Arlington

WADLEIGH-PRINCE PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

The Wadleigh-Prince Parent-Teacher Association met Dec. 13 at the Wadleigh School. Mr. James J. Quinn, the superintendent of schools, gave a most inspiring talk.

Mr. Quinn suggested that looking into "Other People's Business" gave a wider outlook on the world. It would help the desire to co-operate and constructively build for the Wadleigh School. The importance of the problem of Human Relationships and the ability to handle men was emphasized in his talk. In more and more good public schools of today resourcefulness and initiative are being developed and he assured the parents that the teachers welcomed a genuine healthy, sympathetic interest.

He explained that teaching was a highly technial thing and required study and mastery. It was highly qualitative and not to be measured in the same way as a cord of wood.

The kind of teaching procured was in the hands of the citizens. That was democracy. Respect for property should be instilled in the children and poise of mind and body should be cultivated in the parents.

For several years education has been scientifically studied. Desirable teachers are the ones who have an influence upon the character of the boys and girls. Greater zeal for a better knowledge of our country's history and greater appreciation of our country's literature should be encouraged. Due to the demands of the colleges our boys and girls are fundamentally weak in both our history and literature. They do not seem to know nor have a real love and respect for American literature.

Education for leisure is very important and children should begin an interest in some hobby even in the Wadleigh School. Such meetings as these of the Wadleigh-Prince, P. T. A. will start acquaintances and friendships, developing into co-operation which will make for great constructive work here in Winchester.

RADIO RECEIVING SETS

By Harry F. Dart, E. E.
Compiler of the Radio Operator's Course for the International Correspondence Schools

Acticle 2. Three-Circuit Regenerative Receiver

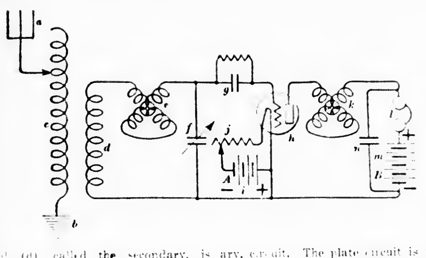

A three-circuit regenerative receiver has, as the name implies, three tuning circuits. This type of set, while somewhat harder to tune than a single-circuit regenerative receiver, has means for making it very selective. Even with a fairly long antenna this feature is very effective in eliminating undesired stations under reasonable conditions.

A typical three-circuit regenerative receiver is shown in the accompanying figure. The antenna (a) and ground (b) are connected to a coil (c) which is used to tune the antenna circuit to approximately the wavelength of the desired signals. This coil is commonly arranged with taps to connect in the desired number of turns, and is called the primary. Sometimes a variable condenser will assist in fine tuning of this circuit if placed in series in the antenna or ground lead.

Another coil (d) is mounted either inside, or, as is more preferable, close to one end of coil (c) so as to pick up some of the energy of the primary circuit. This condenser should not be too small else it will not have a great enough capacity range to cover the desired wavelength range, neither should it be too large. For accurate work it is necessary to have a vernier adjustment on this condenser, or a separate small-capacity variable condenser may be used in parallel with the main tuning condenser.

The grid condenser (g) and its high-resistance grid leak of 1,000,000 to 3,000,000 ohms are the same units as are usual in regenerative sets. The three-element electron tube (h) with its suitable battery (i), and rheostat (j), is any one of the standard types now available. It should be noted that the grid return goes to the positive terminal of the A battery at (i), when the detector tube is one of the high-vacuum or hard type. With a soft or gassy tube the grid return should connect with the negative end, or terminal, of the A battery.

A plate variometer (k) is nearly always used to tune the plate circuit to resonance with the grid, or second-

Coil (d), called the secondary, is mounted on a rotor so that by a turning movement it is possible to vary the amount of energy picked up by the secondary coil (d). In this manner the signal strength may be made as great or small as desired within reasonable limits.

The secondary coil (d) has a fixed number of turns. The grid circuit may be accurately tuned to the desired incoming signal by two general methods. One is by the use of a variometer (e), and the other is by means of a condenser (f). If either one is used the other need not be, although both may be employed. It will be found that any change produced by one may be largely compensated for by the other device. If the variometer (e) only is used (with condenser f and its lead wires removed from the circuit), all of the grid circuit tuning is done by the variometer (e) which should have a sufficient inductance, its main property, range to cover the desired wavelength range. If it does not work satisfactorily in this respect it may help to put a 50-turn coil in series with the variometer, or to use a small fixed condenser where the variable condenser (f) is shown. In either case the variometer would still be the main tuning device for the grid circuit.

The tuning of the secondary, or grid, circuit also may be accomplished by a variable condenser (f), with the variometer (e) removed from the circuit, ary, circuit. The plate circuit is the third circuit to tune, and when this condition obtains, there is a large feed-back of energy from the plate circuit to the grid circuit through the electrical capacity effect between the elements of the tube. This energy will then pass through the tube in the regular fashion and be further amplified or strengthened. In the operation of the set it will be noted, that, as the plate circuit is tuned to the grid circuit, the signals keep increasing in strength. When the circuits are exactly tuned, or very nearly so, the tube will oscillate and render inaudible any incoming signal. Therefore, it is desirable to increase the feed-back effect almost, but not quite to the point where oscillations start.

The telephone receivers (l) should be fairly good ones for best results. If a powerful broadcasting station is nearby it is entirely possible that, with any good type of regenerative receivers, the signals will be strong enough to operate a loud speaker fairly well. In that event the loud speaker should be connected in place of the telephone receivers. The B mattery (m) should be about 10 to 25 volts for a soft or gassy detector tube, while $22\frac{1}{2}$ to 45 volts will be necessary with the newer type of tubes. A small fixed condenser, about .01 microfarad, should be connected as shown at (n) to provide a path for the radio-frequency currents around the telephone receivers and B battery.

QUINTANA ROO: MEXICO'S NEW UNKNOWN TERRITORY

Quintana Roo is neither the nom de plume of an eccentric writer nor the technical name of a bug, but is the everyday cognomen of one of Mexico's two remaining territories which has remained largely unexplored since the days of Cortez.

Now the territory seems about to yield up more of its secrets, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, for modern transportation has appeared with the arrival recently of an American caterpillar tractor which is pushing its way into the dense forests to bring out cabinet woods.

Has Rolling Pampas

Knowledge of Quintana Roo heretofore has been confined chiefly to strips of its coast along the Carribean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico and the northwestern boundary where it touches the state of Yucatan. The world knows little of the interior, especially in the southwest, except from rumors and fugitive reports from gatherers of chicle, the gum which keeps America's chewing gum industry and America's jaws going. The far interior is said to have great rolling pampas where stock raising would doubtless be profitable, while the southern section is covered with dense forests of tropical trees and plants including logwood, mahogany, and vanilla.

As in near-by Yucatan, the territory was formerly the land of the Mayas and contains numerous ruined cities evidencing the heights to which their civilization attained before the arrival of Cortez. Neither Spain nor Mexico entirely conquered the remnants of the Mayas, and after one of their latest rebellions in 1910 the Indians retired into the fastness of Quintana Roo. Only a few are supposed to be left however, and the territory is the most sparsely settled region in Mexico. In its area, once and a half as great as that of Maryland the inhabitants are estimated to number around 10,000—about one person to each two square miles.

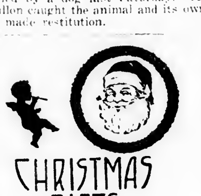

Inclues Cortez' Landing Place

Quintana Roo constitutes the easternmost land of Mexico. It lies along the Caribbean coast of the peninsula of Yucatan—the "thumb" which with the "finger" of Florida, almost surrounds the Gulf of Mexico.

The east coast of Quintana Roo is largely low and sandy, much of it edged with mangrove trees and backed by coconut palms. At a few points are high bluffs. All along the coast, a mile or so off shore, is a coral reef which makes navigation difficult and dangerous.

Off the northern coast of Quintana Roo lies the island of Cozumel some 30 miles long by 10 wide. There Cortez first landed when he sailed from Cuba on his mission to conquer Mexico. Cozumel now, like parts of the mainland, is devoted to the growing of henequen, the fibre plant that brought prosperity to the State of Yucatan. Cabinet woods and chicle with henequen make up the bulk of Quintana Roo's products.

Several hens owned by Mr. Thomas Fallon of Highland avenue were killed by a dog last Saturday. Mr. Fallon caught the animal and its owner made restitution.

NEW WYMAN SCHOOL

This new school, the first to be completed under the Town's building program, will be open to the public for inspection on New Year's Day from 2:30 to 6 p. m.

OPENING OF THE NEW WYMAN SCHOOL

The citizens of Winchester will have an opportunity on New Year's Day from 2:30 to 6 to inspect their first new building to be completed under the extensive building program of four new buildings, recently authorized by the town.

The new Wyman School is a distinct asset to the material equipment of the schools and great credit and commendation is due the Building Committee for their admirable work. The building has eight regular classrooms in addition to the kindergarten room, all of which are well ventilated and splendidly lighted.

In addition to the above-mentioned rooms, the building has a principal's office, a teacher's room, a nurse's room and a very attractive and serviceable assembly hall. The latter will be used not only for school assemblies and various class needs, but will be also used by adults, especially those living in the Wyman district. It is expected that an awakened interest in the schools and in community matters generally will result from this wider use of the school plant.

The public, including children, are cordially invited to attend the opening exercises which will be held on New Year's Day at 2:30 P. M.

The program will be as follows:

Singing America by,
Mrs. Helen E. Barr
Invocation by,
Rev. Howard J. Chidley, D. D.
Music,
Winchester High School Orchestra
Remarks by Marcus B. May, Chairman of former Committee on School Building Program
Remarks by John R. Fausey, former Superintendent of Schools, Winchester.
Presentation of the Building by James S. Allen of the School Building Committee.
Acceptance of the Building by Dunbar F. Carpentar of the School Committee.
Music,
Winchester High School Orchestra
Words of Appreciation by,
one of the pupils
Remarks, George M. Bryne, Chairman, Selectmen
Remarks by James J. Quinn, Superintendent of Winchester Schools
Singing of Star Spangled Banner,
Led by Mrs. Helen E. Barr

BRILLIANT WEDDING

Josephine A. Vaughn and Harry Cox, Jr., Married

A wedding of much interest to Winchester and Medford society was that of Wednesday evening, when Miss Josephine Alica Vaughn of High street, West Medford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Vaughn, and Mr. Harry Cox, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cox of Wedgemere avenue, this town, were united in marriage at St. Mary's rectory by Rev. Joseph Fitzgibbons. The ceremony was performed at seven o'clock.

The couple were attended by Miss Mildred Cushing of Brockton and Mr. Arthur Brine of Brookline, Mary and Elizabeth Proctor, nieces of the groom, acting as flower girls.

A reception followed the ceremony, it being held at the Belmont Country Club. The bride's dress was of gold cloth, she carrying a shower bouquet of small yellow roses, and the bridesmaid wore black velvet trimmed with dark red, and carried red roses. The couple received with their parents and Miss Mabel Vaughn and Mr. Mann Cox. The ushers included Messrs. Joseph McCarthy, John Blackham, Howard Proctor and Joseph O'Day of Roslindale.

The gift of the groom to the bride was a dinner ring, and the ushers received silver match boxes. The bride gave her bridesmaid a black onyx pendant set with diamonds.

The reception was largely attended by guests from all the surrounding towns and cities, and upon its conclusion the couple left on a wedding trip to New York City. They will make their home in Mercersburg, Pa., where Mr. Cox is manager of a large leather factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Sullivan of Medford are the parents of a son, born last Saturday.

ENTERTAINED 809 CHILDREN

Elks' Christmas Party a Great Success Wednesday Afternoon

The second annual Christmas party for Winchester children was held by Winchester Lodge of Elks in the Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon, over [illegible] children being entertained. The number was considerably larger than that of [illegible] year, but the [illegible] was [illegible] the [illegible] of Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols, to handle the [illegible] Christmas [illegible] and [illegible] all the boys and girls.

Owing to the fact [illegible] to be made in [illegible] it had been decided to [illegible] children, tickets to that [illegible] according to the age [illegible] children, having been distributed. At the hour for the opening of the doors of the hall, however, many were present who did not have tickets and these were admitted to the balconies and allowed to enjoy the show and were given ice cream, candy and apples.

Fred Strachan, regular organist of the lodge, presided at the piano and gave a musical program during the seating of the children. The entertainment included magic and comedy sketches by the clown [illegible]. This the children thoroughly enjoyed, and when Santa Claus, whom none of them took for Jonas Laraway, appeared, they were in hilarious good humor. Santa took care that none of the boys and girls were overlooked. He left the stage after greeting them, and not only visited every part of the floor of the hall, but went to each balcony. He left behind him nearly as much candy as the children could carry, to say nothing of apples and oranges.

A line of march was formed at the close of the entertainment, and to the sound of tuneful music the children marched by the stage and received their presents, a pop-corn ball being given them at the door on their way out of the hall. The gifts had all been arranged to suit the age of the various children, boys and girls being given appropriate toys.

A beautiful Christmas tree, lighted with many colors, stood at one side of the stage, and it was near this that Santa and his assistants distributed the presents.

The party was by far the best Christmas entertainment ever given for the children of Winchester. Much of its success is undoubtedly due to the tireless work put in by Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols, he being ably assisted by Mr. George T. Davidson and Mr. Fred H. Scholl. Mr. Jonas A. Laraway was Santa Claus, and others who aided were Frederick D. Clement, Exalted Ruler of the Lodge, Selectman Walter H. Dotten, Robert Bolling, Frank Randall, Harry Dotten, William McMullin, Manlino Moffett, Edward Callahan, James Carr, Arthur Day, William Cleary, George Lochman, Edward McKenzie and T. P. Wilson.

THE MUSIC CLUB

The Y. P. S. C. M. C. holds its first meeting at the home of Miss Betty Sweetzer, on Friday, Dec. 28. The members will be delightfully surprised with a charming Christmas party.

The following program will be presented:

The Last Greeting . . . . F. Shubert
Betty Sweetzer
Polonaise Militaire . . . . Chopin
Esther Tilden
Autumn Sunset . . . . George F. Hamer
Emily Wormelle
Valse D Flat . . . . Frederic Chopin

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Nickerson of Highland avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Rom. Stone Nickerson to William Herrick Hawkins. Miss Nickerson is a graduate of Wellesley College and Mr. Hawkins of Harvard University and Harvard Law School. He is a practicing attorney in El Dorado, Ark.

The fire department was called to the residence of Mr. Walter C. Goddard on Winthrop street extension yesterday afternoon, box 61 being rung in for a fire in the portable gasoline saw of the J. J. Fitzgerald Contracting Company. The blaze was extinguished with a hand chemical with no damage.

JAN. 14th

Special Town Meeting Called For Schools

A special town meeting has been called for Monday evening, Jan. 14, the warrants being distributed yesterday. More money is needed for the new school houses. The special building committee, finding that it is unable to carry out the program demanded by the Town for the sum appropriated, has stopped activities and will ask the Town what it desires to do in the matter.

According to report the committee needs about $15,000. The [illegible] has [illegible] on the proposed Mystic School is in the vicinity of $68,000. $60,000 was allotted for the building. Aside from this, in voting the money for the schools, the sums were specifically apportioned to the school buildings. It now becomes necessary to obtain some additional money for grading purposes. While this is only necessary in two instances, the committee being able to finance the other buildings, it is felt that $7000 should be raised.

The special building committee has therefore asked the Finance Committee for its opinion regarding the situation, and the Finance Committee has decided that the Town shall decide whether it will vote the necessary money, the committee approving such action.

The original vote was for $450,000 for school buildings. The Finance Committee proposes to raise the required $15,000 additional by voting $8000 out of 1924 revenue and $7000 out of 1925 revenue. As the buildings will not be completed until 1927, this money will probably be used in that year, and by spreading the sum over two years the total appropriation may be easily met.

The special town meeting will be held therefore, on Monday evening, Jan. 14, opening at 7:45 o'clock.

OTHO PIERCE

Mr. Otho Pierce of 6 Bacon street died suddenly yesterday noon of heart trouble. He was at the home of Mr. Albert Wilson on Main street, where he had gone on an errand, and while there was stricken and passed away immediately.

Mr. Pierce was one of the older residents of the town and was well known to a large circle of our townspeople. He had made his home here for 19 or 20 years. He was a native of Acton and the son of John and Elizabeth (Flagg) Pierce. For 15 years or more he was associated with W. E. A. Legg & Co., provision dealers, at Faneuil Hall Market, retiring some 15 years ago. He also was engaged in various other enterprises.

He married Miss Grace D. Hanscom of Roxbury, daughter of a former deputy police commissioner of Boston, 37 years ago, and besides her, is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Herbert J. Richburg of this town. Two brothers and a sister also survive him.

The funeral services are to be held at the residence, 6 Bacon street, on Sunday afternoon at 2:15, Rev. George Hale Reed officiating. The burial is to be in Wildwood Cemetery.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

The following were elected:

Mrs. Bessie Pierce—President
Mrs. Florence Mitchell—1st Vice President
Mrs. R. F. Mathews—2 Vice President
Mrs. Blanche Bennett—Secretary
Mrs. Teresa Roach Historian and Treasurer
Mrs. Mary Hanlon, Mrs. George LeDuc, Mrs. R. F. Mathews—Executive Committee
Mary Reebecker Sarcent-at-arms

BOY SCOUT NOTES

All past and present scouts will be glad to know that Assistant Scout Master James L. Fitch has become an Eagle Scout, having passed the last requirement on Christmas Day. This makes the first Eagle Scout for Troop 1 and the third Eagle Scout for Winchester, Troop 3 already having two Eagle Scouts, Roy Jordan and Lyman Smith.

If there is no skating Saturday there will be an all-Scout hike to the natural history rooms, returning in the evening. Take the 1:08 train from Winchester depot.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Friday forenoon about 11 o'clock, Henry Miller of Billerica in a Ford touring car collided with a truck of the George W. Blanchard Company on Main street near Swanton. The truck was not damaged, but the Ford had its mudguards and headlights broken.

Tuesday at 9:50 an accident occurred at the corner of the Parkway and Bacon street. A Ford touring car driven by Martin J. Keans of Woburn was struck by another car and badly wrecked. Thomas J. Keans, Jr., was thrown out but not injured. The car had a wheel broken and suffered other damage. The name of the driver of the other car, which proceeded on its way, was not learned.

At the corner of Washington and Mt. Vernon streets an accident occurred on Wednesday when a Ford sedan driven by Mr. Oscar Hedtler and an Essex coach driven by Anna Quinn of Woburn came together. Both cars suffered slight damage, but no one was injured.

ALFRED T. MARSTON

Funeral services for Alfred T. Marston of Arlington, father of Mrs. Arthur E. Whitney of Mystic avenue, this town, long identified as an officer with Boston banking institutions, was held Saturday at his home, 28 Hopkins road, Arlington, where he died on Wednesday, in his 75th year. He was a native of Yarmouth, Me., but came to Boston at the age of 20 and entered immediately upon his life work. He first became associated with the Rockland National bank in Roxbury, later serving with the Five Cents Savings Bank and the Federal Reserve Bank. He had been a resident of Arlington for 38 years. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity. He is survived by his wife, who was Emma L. Lawrence of Somerville; two sons, Arthur Marston of California, and Perry Marston of Cleveland, O., a daughter, Mrs. Alice Whitney of Winchester and three grand children.

ELKS MEET THE FIFTH

The next regular meeting of Winchester Lodge of Elks will be held in Lyceum Hall on Saturday evening, Jan. 5. Owing to the regular meeting night falling on the holiday, the meeting takes place the following date.

Considerable important business is to be transacted, including the receiving of reports from the committees in charge of the Charity Ball and the Children's Christmas entertainment.

Announcements of importance for the coming month include the plans for the formation of a bowling team and the coming banquet to the Grand Exalted Ruler, which is to be held Feb. 18, at the Copley Plaza, Boston.

MIXED BOWLING TO START

The annual mixed bowling tournament for the men and women of the Calumet Club is scheduled to commence this season on the 15th of January. Notice for entries was sent to the club members this week. Each team which contests this season will be composed of four couples as has been the custom, and the bowlers are invited to enter complete teams provided such are organized. It is planned to re-rate the bowlers during the course of the tournament in accordance with the present custom. Entries are requested on or before Jan. 6. The tournament will be in charge of the following committee: James P. Heaton, chairman; William Adriance, Marshall K. Berry, Henry W. Hildreth and Harry W. Pilkington.

OPEN HOUSE AT MASONIC APARTMENTS NEW YEAR'S DAY

From 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. on next Tuesday, New Year's Day, the Blue Lodges of Winchester, William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M. and Mystic Valley Lodge, A. F. & A. M., will hold open house at the Masonic Apartments. All masons living in Winchester, whether affiliated with either of those lodges or not, are invited to be present. It is the earnest hope of the masters of these lodges Harris S. Richardson and Harris M. Richmond, that there will be a large attendance.

The thanks of the Star are extended to Mr. Harry Good of the Good Riddance Stables for a beautiful and artistic calendar.

INDOOR CIRCUS AND COUNTY FAIR

The Knights of Columbus Indoor Circus and County Fair terminated a three nights' run in the Town Hall last Saturday evening, and once more the local council strengthened the reputation it already enjoys for producing unique and successful entertainments for Winchester pleasure-seekers.

The attendance was, on the whole, very good. Considering that Christmas was just around the corner and also considering consequent demands upon the time and attention of "Mr. Average Man" resulting therefrom, it was remarkable. Each night saw an increasingly larger gathering present until on Saturday the crowd was all that any could wish for.

And those who went had no need to become bored. There was at no time a lack of something with which to occupy one's self. It was possible to obtain a bathrobe for Uncle Ben, an overnight case for Maud, or a pair of silver candlesticks for Aunt Elizabeth at the several booths ranged about the hall. Indeed it was apparent that many came with just this solution of their Christmas problems in mind. All anyone needed to get a beautiful and most inexpensive gift for a friend or relative was a number which was easy to obtain from anyone of the kiddies, pretty girls, or hustling young men who had them to dispose of. Having obtained several at a small outlay, and having been assured that those you had were winners as are they were all "sevens", you repaired to the booth at which your particular article was located and watched [illegible] spin a large wheel attached to one of the uprights. When the wheel had come to a complete stop a number was announced, and you consulted those in your hand. If you found one that tallied with the one before mentioned you [illegible] out your bathrobe, flashlight [illegible] or what not [illegible] If you couldn't find a corresponding figure among those you had acquired, you tore up your tickets and started all over again. We started a number of times, but failed to get any Christmas presents for nothing. However, we did see "B. F." Rogers draw a turkey so we know it was possible to win.

It wasn't necessary to spend all your time trying to hold lucky numbers. On each evening there was an exceptionally good tumbling act by the Franklin Brothers, and in addition plenty of fun was afforded by "Dodo," the clown, and his partner, "Cy Stebbins" who were on the job all the time to the great delight of the kiddies.

A special matinee performance was given for the young folks Saturday afternoon which was largely attended.

The hall was [illegible] well decorated. Long colored festoons together with the colored banners and shields of the orders represented were [illegible] in a most artistic treatment. It was worth a trip down to see the layout.

The whole affair was under the personal direction of D. Frank Dinneen, chairman; with Henry C. Murphy, Secretary; E. A. Gorgin, treasurer; and the following committee from the local council, K. of C.

Luke P. Glendon | John Fitzgerald
Angus McFeely | Thomas Farrell
Thomas Fallon | Terrance D. Cullen
Frank E. Rogers | Edward A. Cullen
Michael C. Ambrose | William J. Murray
Edward F. Boyle

Beside the general supervision which this committee exercised it also had direct charge of three booths; namely, the provision booth, run by Charles McGondel; the dart booth, run with Thomas Fallon in charge; and the electric booth, in charge of Edward F. Boyle.

The Silver booth was in charge of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Forresters. Mr. J. J. Callahan was in personal charge with the following committee:

Thomas Fallon | Dorothy McFeely
Margaret Bennett | Mrs. B. McKenzie

The Irish National Forresters had charge of the booth for sweaters and bathrobes. Mrs. J. Murray as chairman had the following committee:

Mrs. N. O'Melia | Miss Mary O'Melia
Mrs. J. Mawn | Miss Annie Higgins
Mrs. P. Foley | Miss M. Murray
Mrs. F. Beaton

The booth for overnight cases and manicure sets was run by the Winchester Lodge of Elks. The committee included Harry Dotten as chairman and the following:

Bart Connolly | John McNally
Fred Clement | Harry Price

The refreshment booth was in charge of the Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild with Mrs. M. C. Ambrose as chairman and the following committee:

Miss Mary Kenney | Miss Annie Hanlon
Mrs. F. Dinneen | Miss E. Shinnick
Mrs. Thomas Fallon | Mrs. A. Longfield
Mrs. C. Leighton | Mrs. B. McFeely
Miss A. McKenzie | Mrs. Mary Fallon
Miss L. McKenzie | Mrs. M. Noonan
Miss May O'Connell | Mrs. M. Quigley

The Catholic Daughters of America were in charge of the booth for dolls, candy, toys, etc. Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald, P. G. R. as chairman had the following committee:

Mrs. Conlon, P. G. R. | Mrs. Helen Studley
Mrs. Martin, G. R. | Miss Mary J. Kelley
Mrs. Poland, P. G. R. | Miss B. Noonan
Mrs. Bessie Travers | Miss Ethel Kean
Mrs. Mary Smith | Miss Mabel Coty
Mrs. Harry E. Brown | Miss B. Young
Mrs. Jane King | Miss A. O'Connor
Miss Mary Hanlon | Miss Mary Quill
Miss Mary Martin | Mrs. M. O'Connor
Miss C. Kean | Mrs. K. Weafer

Following the Saturday evening end of the festivities the committee announced that while all the returns were not in hand, it was expected that a substantial sum would be realized toward the recreation center which the "Caseys" plan to create in their home on Vine street.

DR. BOYNTON TO SPEAK TO WINCHESTER YOUNG PEOPLE

Rev. Nehemiah Boynton D. D., of New York, has been secured as a speaker for a Union Meeting of all the young people in the Protestant Churches of Winchester, which is to be held in the First Congregational Church on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Dr. Boynton is one of the most popular speakers to young people in the country. He is in great demand at colleges and schools and the Inter-Church Council was fortunate in securing him for this service. The subject of his address on Sunday evening will be "Youth, the Real Lords of Creation." The center section of the Church has been reserved until 7 o'clock for the young people. The ushering will be in charge of young people from the various Young People's Societies in town. The general public will be accommodated in so far as possible and is invited to attend. The meeting will be in charge of the pastors of the various Churches.

THE FORTNIGHTLY

Miss Elizabeth Whiting, an impersonator of note, will give "The Boomerang" at the meeting following the holidays on Monday, Dec. 31. Master Elliott Bell, boy soprano soloist at the Church of the Advent Post [illegible] will sing. Invited guests will be the boys and girls of the Senior and Junior classes of the High School and members daughters of High School age and not yet 20.

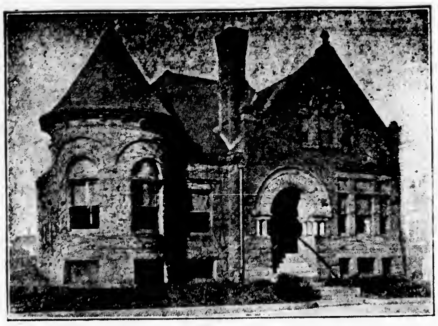

HONOR ROLL STUDENT

Sidney Pecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pecker, formerly of this town but now living in Waltham has been placed on the honor roll at Laurence Academy, Groton, Mass., where he is a student. This means that he is one of the 19 highest men eligible for the College Board exams. He also won his letter in basketball and football and has been elected manager of the football team for the coming year.

A still alarm of fire was received at the Central station Wednesday for burning brush at the rear of Mr. J. H. MacAlman's residence on Everett avenue.

UNITED STATES POST OFFICE

We wish to thank the people of Winchester for their whole-hearted co-operation, uniform good nature and courtesy during our Christmas rush. Next year if they will cooperate a little more by sending fewer small envelopes it will be appreciated.

A slight review of what we have accomplished may be interesting. During the month of December we have sold 27,000 one cent stamps, and 109,000 two cent stamps. From the 20 to noon time of the 25 we sent out, by actual count of the cancelling machine over 80,000 pieces of first class mail and averaged to send out 150 sacks of mail a day. We received during that same period a trifle less than 1100 sacks including about 75,000 pieces of first class mail. We have no way of counting parcels received and can only say that every foot of our basement was utilized, and all packages received on one day were delivered the next day, by four men with two trucks.

The public can have no conception of the efforts put forth to handle this mail. The clerks worked 18 hours a day for several days. Can you visualize the continued concentrated effort, more especially after the first two or three days? Fatigued to the point of utter exhaustion, nerves worn almost to the breaking point, but still the grim determination to finish what appears to be a well nigh hopeless task! But through it all, not one expression of distaste, not one impatient word. They know it has to be done and it is done.

In no other business can you find the equal of the Postal employee in point of devotion to service.

Again we thank you and wish you a happy and prosperous New Year.

G. H. Lochman, Postmaster.

The Christmas decorations about town were probably the most beautiful this year that Winchester has ever had. Scores of houses were illuminated and great quantities had colored lights in the windows. There were many beautiful trees also, including a magnificent tree on the grounds of President E. Arthur Tutein of the National Bank at his Wildwood street estate, two handsomely illuminated trees on the estate of Mr. Louis G. Rondina on Highland avenue, a time pair at Mr. Isaac E. Sexton's house on Wedgemere avenue and a beautiful tree at Mr. Francis Mullin's on Main street. Everett avenue as a single street probably was the most beautiful thoroughfare.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The next event of interest in Catholic Daughters circles will be the Installation of the newly elected officers which will take place on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 6. D. D. Marie Cuneo and staff of Woburn will install the officers promptly at 1:30 o'clock, the Installation being open only to members of the order. At 2 o'clock there will be an open meeting in charge of Lecturer Elizabeth C. McDonald, P. G. R., followed by an entertainment and a lunch in the form of a covered dish party. During supper there will be a roll-call of members and a tribute to deceased members which will be delivered by P. G. R. Frances T. Conlon.

The committee from the Court which assisted the K. of C. at their recent Carnival desires to thank all those who gave them such wholehearted assistance during the three days of the affair. The Committee is especially grateful to Mr. D. Frank Dineen, Mr. Luke P. Glendon, Mr. Edmund Goggin, Mr. Henry Murphy, Mr. Thomas Fallon, Mr. John F. Cassidy, Mr. Joseph McCue and Mr. James Bradley who rendered valuable assistance.

The next whist in aid of the K. of C. Carnival will be conducted on Wednesday evening, Jan. 2, in K. of C. Hall, and will be in charge of Mrs. Julia T. Smith and Mrs. Harry E. Brown.

Miss Katherine F. O'Connor, Chairman of the Trustees, is steadily regaining her health at her home on White street and will, we hope, soon be able to join us at our meetings again. Sister Margaret MacIsaac is also improving slowly from the accident which she sustained on Thanksgiving Day.

LADIES WILL BOWL

Notices have been issued by the Calumet Club announcing a ladies' bowling tournament to be started early in January. Entries are requested on or before the 6th of January. Four ladies will constitute a team, and teams are to be made up in accordance with the number of entries received.

Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Goddu and Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Alexander spent Christmas with their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Goddu, at Stockbridge, Conn.

CALUMET ACTIVITIES

On Monday next, Dec. 31, the annual New Year's party will be held. This is always the banner event of the winter at the Club, and exceptional effort has been made to make this year's party the best yet. There will be dancing from 8 till 1, with Lou Collins himself and his singing orchestra from Marlboro. The party will be limited to members and their ladies, and to their sons and daughters over 18 years of age.

The list of January events at the Calumet Club was issued this week. The entertainment committee, composed of Messrs. Walter J. Brown, Alfred G. Barr, Thomas I. Freeburn, Alden Symmes and Harry W. Stevens, has outlined a program which should prove very attractive.

On Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 9, there is to be an afternoon bridge party for the ladies, the affair being in charge of a committee of ladies which includes Mrs. Arthur S. Kelley, Mrs. Harry W. Stevens and Mrs. Bradford E. Swift. The party opens at 2:30 and tickets for the afternoon may be obtained of any of the ladies on the committee.

A smoker for the men is scheduled for Friday evening, Jan. 11, at 8 o'clock. This is advertised as another athletic night and a treat is promised. Those who attended the athletic night last month will recall that affair with pleasant reminiscences, and the coming event should be very welcome.

The mid-year ladies' night is to be held on the evening of Jan. 18, when a concert is to be given by the Meistersingers of Boston. This triple quartet of male voices, entertaining with a program to reach the heart of every music lover, will doubtless prove a huge success. As the seating capacity of the hall is limited to 225 persons, admission by ticket will be issued in order of application, and no reservations will be accepted after Jan. 5. This entertainment is open to members and their families only.

Another ladies' night is announced for the evening of the 25th, at which time there will be mixed bridge and bowling, followed by dancing. These parties have been very popular at the club, and a large attendance will be anticipated.

K. OF C. NOTES

The indoor circus and county fair held in the town hall on Thursday, Friday and Saturday was a complete success in every way. This was the first affair of this kind put on by the Council and Chairman Frank Dineen and his committee of members of the Council, and the committees from the Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild, Catholic Daughters of America, Sarah Curran Branch I. N. F., Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, and the Elks handled the affair in a manner that was most pleasing to all. Nothing but praise has been heard from all sides for the kindness of the above organization for their kindness in helping to make the fair a success.

The town hall presented a most beautiful scene with its beautifully decorated booths laden with all kinds of useful articles which included electrical goods, blankets, umbrellas, silverware, candy, dolls, toys, overnight cases, poultry and fruit, manicure sets, sweaters, bath robes and novelties. The refreshment and dart booths did a thriving business and added a neat sum to the proceeds. The entertainment furnished by the Franklin Brothers and clown and Si Stebbins was first class and proved a treat for all who were fortunate in being present.

On account of a number of tickets being out the awarding of the radio and the five tons of coal was postponed and will be awarded at an affair to be run at an early date in the Home.

Rehearsals for the annual minstrel show are being held every Sunday and one night a week, the rehearsals are being well attended. Dancing is being held after rehearsals for members of the cast.

The show is entitled "In the Land of King Tut" and is replete with comedy, dancing and musical numbers. A large chorus is being trained to assist in the musical and other numbers.

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 2, a whist and food sale will be held in the lower rooms of the home. This party is being held at this date on account of the hall not being available before and is held in connection with the C. D. A. booth, under the direction of Mrs. Harry Brown. Many beautiful prizes have been donated for this party.

At the last meeting of the Council it was voted to enter a bowling team in the Community Bowling League of this town, as the Council can boast of many good bowlers. A strong team is assured for the league.

William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., will hold its regular January meeting on Tuesday evening, Jan. 8, at 7:30 o'clock. On Tuesday evening, Jan. 22, the lodge holds a special meeting at the same hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Doub (Constance McIntosh) are on from their home in Boonsboro, Md., to spend the holidays with Mrs. Doub's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. McIntosh.

WITH our best wishes for a bright and prosperous year, we extend to you our sincere thanks for the goodwill and confidence you have shown us during the past year and assure you of our determination to serve you better as the years go by.

WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

The Chamber of Commerce expresses its satisfaction and pleasure of the Christmas tree on the common, but did miss the singing.

It has been suggested to the Chamber that something be done in regard to dogs constantly following automobiles, and inviting danger not only to the dogs but to the automobile riders.

The time is coming when people will express their opinion on removing the large tree on Church street, thereby saving expense to the town.

It has been suggested that the Chamber take up the matter of adding another train from Boston between 12 and 2. A letter received will be taken notice of immediately.

As one of the functions of the Chamber of Commerce is to try and improve our town in many ways, a call was made upon the District Commission of Metropolitan Affairs, Mr. J. W. Bailey of Arlington in relation to improving the land owned by the State of Massachussetts, located south of Bacon street, and east of the Boston and Maine Railroad, through which the Aberjona River flows.

There is a possibility of improving the appearance of this lot of land by planting trees. There are some fine specimens of trees already growing upon some parts of this property.

As most of the ground is quite low, about the only trees that would grow there would be some form of the willow.

There are several splendid specimens of willows now growing near the Bacon street bridge and many more near the parkway river bridge just below the Bacon street property.

The land west of the Wedgemere station is finely kept and is a real beauty spot and when contrasted with the easterly view from the station is there not great need of improvement?

This subject matter is now in the hands of our Park Commission, Mr. George Davidson, chairman, to cooperate with the Metropolitan Park Commission in bringing about some improved changes, as may seem best.

Our town may well feel grateful to the Metropolitan Commission for the improvement about to be completed [illegible] of the parkway at the beginning of South Border [illegible]. A sidewalk has been constructed on the westerly side of the road and a bridle path on the easterly side, which is a great convenience to [illegible] and horseback riders. The work has been done on the town property and at quite a considerable expense to the State.

There is a whole-hearted cooperative spirit existing between our town and the Metropolitan District Commission.

Article 3. Audio-Frequency Amplification

A single detector tube will seldom give an output signal strong enough to operate a loud speaker. When a strong signal is desired, it is necessary to use tubes connected as amplifiers. While it is mainly a matter of proper connections, there are many refinements and precautions which will assist in securing clear signals and the maximum amount of amplification without distortion. As these amplifiers are for the amplification of signals which have been rectified, and are, therefore, audible, this type of amplifier is known as the audio-frequency type.

As an amplifier is generally used in connection with a detector tube, such a circuit combination is shown in the accompanying figure. The usual antenna (a) and ground (b) are shown here merely for clearness and are connected through a signal-circuit tuner to the detector tube (c).

Instead of the usual telephone receivers, a telephone jack (d) is connected in the plate circuit of the detector tube (c). By plugging a telephone plug in this jack it is an easy matter to make the usual connection to the telephone receivers if such is desired. When there is no plug in the telephone jack the plate circuit is closed through the primary winding of the transformer (e). By transformer action the energy is transferred to the secondary winding of this same transformer and impressed on the grid circuit of the first amplifier tube (f). After being amplified in tube (f) the energy is passed through another transformer (g) and into the secondary amplifier tube (h). The signal is then sent through the loud speaker (i) to produce audible sounds.

If the detector tube does not produce sufficient regeneration to oscillate when the amplifier part is used, but does when telephone receivers are used, it is possible that the capacity of the shunt condenser (j) is too small. It should have a capacity of about .01 microfarad, and may be connected across the jack only, as [illegible] or so as to [illegible] the detector (B) battery.

The amplifier tubes (f) and (h) may be any of the standard hard commercial tubes. It is satisfactory to operate all of the tubes from one common (A) battery as indicated at (k). Although one common filament control switch will work quite well when the tubes are all similar, it is better practice to have a separate rheostat on each tube. It is especially desirable that there be a separate rheostat for the detector tube as its filament-current adjustment is often quite critical in the control of regeneration and operation in general.

The positive (A) battery lead is connected to the negative lead of the (B) battery (l.) This section of (B) battery should be about 15 volts for a hard detector tube, and will be common to the plate circuits of all of the tubes. The plate voltage of the amplifier tubes should be somewhat higher so as to give a total plate potential of about 60 to 90 volts on the amplifier tubes. An extra battery a (m) gives this higher voltage.

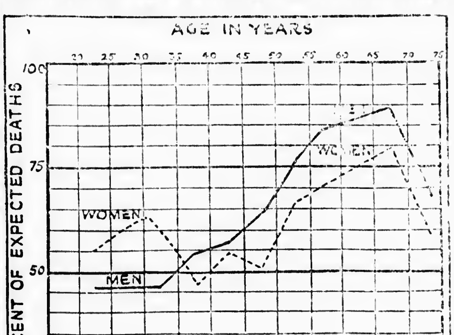

When a high plate voltage is used on amplifier tubes, it is desirable to use a (C) battery to give a negative grid bias. With a proper value of grid bias as recommended by the manufacturers of the tubes, operation will be such as to give undistorted amplification, and will be performed with a low value of plate current. The use of such bias is shown at (n) and (o) with separate (C) batteries for each tube, although one common (C) battery will work just as well. A bias, or (C,) battery is always connected so as to make the grid negative, which would be as indicated in the figure. As there is practically no current taken from the (C) battery, a few small flashlight cells will serve very well. Even if no separate (C) battery is used, there is a considerable bias secured by the voltage drop in the filament rheostat. With a plate potential of 45 volts the rheostat bias will be ample, but with 90 volts on the plate a 3- to 4½-volt (C) battery is desirable.

The operation of an amplifier often may be greatly improved by inserting a fairly high resistance or a small condenser across the secondary of the first transformer. The switch arm (p) is connected to one end of the secondary of transformer (e), and may make contact with the resistance (q), condenser (r), or the open position at (s). The main noticeable effect of the resistance unit is to produce very quiet operation of the set with but a slight reduction in the signal strength. The resistance may be anywhere from 10,000 to 100,000 ohms, and its value will depend somewhat on the set and the tube in use. If desired, another contact point may be added so the effect of another resistance unit may be more readily compared. Low resistance grid-leak units are very convenient for this purpose.

The condenser (r) may be of the fixed mica type and in most cases a capacity of .0005 microfarad will be found about right. Such a condenser will often reduce the tendency for the amplifier to howl. The open circuit contact point at (s) is desirable so that by switching to this position one can quickly obtain a comparison as to the effectiveness of the resistance or condenser in improving the signal quality.

Another method which is often helpful in securing quiet operation of an amplifier set is to connect a condenser (t) between the grid of the last amplifier tube and the ground or plate circuit. The condenser (t) may be a small fixed mica condenser with a capacity of .001 or .002 microfarads. Sometimes a 43-plate variable condenser in this position will show that its adjustments help clarify the signal. The condenser connects with a switch arm which can make contact with the ground lead at (u), the plate circuit at (v), or the open-circuit position (w). It is impossible to predict which position will give the best quality of signal, so the switch arm should be tried on various positions until the best one is found.

CHANCES OF DEATH GREATER FOR YOUNG WOMEN AND OLD MEN

Actual deaths among Provident policy holders since 1865, compared with expected deaths, as estimated by the American Experience Table of Mortality.

Up to the age of 37 the chances of death are greater for the average woman than that for the average man, according to actual statistics. After that, the death expectancy for the man is greater.

Albert Linton, vice president of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, made the above statements on the basis of the mortality experience of the company since 1865.

But, on the average, women live longer than men. According to the last United States census, the average span of life for the entire registration area in the United States is about 55 years for men and 57 years for women. The figures for both sexes show that the span of life is longer in the rural districts than in the metropolitan areas.

Mr. Linton pointed out, however, that the conclusion must not be drawn that as our city [illegible] the period [illegible] so many [illegible] tors that [illegible] young men [illegible] greater than that of the [illegible] eration.

The span of life [illegible] lengthened about [illegible] during this century [illegible] United States Census [illegible] all deaths over [illegible] an average at death but 72 [illegible].

Maternal mortality [illegible] as the chief cause for the greater chance of death of women between the ages of 20 and 37. Better habits and less exposure to accidents and to the worry and strain of business are said to be the reasons for women having a greater average lifetime and these influences are especially effective after women pass middle age and are free from the hazards of maternity.

AUTOMATIC PHONES IN INDIA

Delhi Is Soon to Have Modern System Despite the Unfavorable Climate.

The government of India has determined, as part of an ambitious program of telephone extension and improvement, to install a modern system of automatic or machine-switching equipment in the city of Delhi, the capital of the great Indian empire.

The climate of India is hard on telephone plants, and all equipment has to be specially prepared to withstand the tropical heat. The Indian government does not produce its own telephone exchange apparatus, but orders it from manufacturers in other countries—a substantial portion being of American design.

At present the Indian government telephone system includes only about 13,000 telephones—fewer than there are in the city of Davenport, Iowa. There are also certain privately owned telephone companies in India, operating about 24,000 telephones. Including both the government and the corporation systems, however, the empire of India has only about one telephone to every 10,000 habitants, as compared with over 1,600 telephones for every 10,000 people in the United States.

Admires Wife's Morning Dress.

Newed leaves his apartment at seven each morning and, although his young wife arises and prepares breakfast for him, he was annoyed that at that hour she did not get fully dressed for the day, says the New York Sun and Globe. That she was always attractively attired in a negligee and that she had taken time to do her hair was not appreciated by him. But now he has changed his opinion.

The other morning, not feeling well, he postponed arising till ten o'clock. His wife, becomingly dressed in street clothes, served him breakfast in bed and later he departed for his office. Going down the stairs of the walkup apartment house he encountered three woman neighbors gossiping. All were attired in slovenly wrappers, not one had done her hair and one still wore curlers in her thinning locks. Newed has only compliments now for his better half.

COST OF BUILDING TO GO UP DURING COMING YEAR

Charles A. Gleason Gives Unusual Interview on Outlook of Building Situation—Prices to Remain High

The following article, from the Sunday Herald should prove of interest to Winchester residents in-as-much as it voices the opinions of Mr. Charles A. Gleason of Fletcher street, long a resident of this town and one of the most active and well informed real estate men in this State.

The Hearld says:

The cost of building will steadily increase during the coming year, with no definite time in view as to when it will reach its highest level. When costs finally reach their peak, they will remain there indefinitely.

"Anyone who is waiting for the cost of building to come down before starting to build a home is making a tremendous mistake and is only wasting his time and money. The time to build is now. Nothing can be gained by waiting."

Such was the reply of Charles A. Gleason, head of the Edward T. Harrington Company, when pressed for an interview during the past week by the Herald as to the "outlook of the building and housing situation during the coming year."

Mr. Gleason is one of the most prominent and successful real estate promoters in New England. He has been associated with the Edward T. Harrington Company for 36 years, and his predictions in the past always came true. He is largely responsible for the tremendous developments in Belmont, Winchester, Wollaston and many other places.

"The price of materials after the first of February," says Mr. Gleason, "because of the great scarcity and the tremendous demand, is bound to shoot up.

"The demand is due mainly to the fact that many persons who have postponed building during the past three or four years, hoping that prices would come down, now realize the futility of waiting any longer and are placing their orders.

Labor Principal Factor

"After all, how can the cost of building come down? Is not the cost of everything else soaring? The principal factor in the high cost of building today is labor. Between 80 and 90 per cent of the cost of a dwelling house goes to labor.

"This statement may sound strange to the layman, but it is a fact. Raw materials only cost about 10 per cent of the total cost of a house.

"By raw materials, of course, I mean lumber before it is cut from the trees, iron before it is mined and cement before it is taken from the ground. Before raw materials are made into a finished product 80 per cent of the cost has been diverted to labor.

"Take cement for instance. This may be bought in the raw for 25 cents a ton, but by the time it is ready for use on a house it costs approximately $14 a ton. And so it goes with lumber, brick, nails, plaster and everything else that is put into a house.

"The cost of raw material itself I do not think will increase much if any during the coming year, but the cost of labor will. Already in the building trades here in Boston many unions have already signed agreements for increased wages this spring.

"Don't get the impression that I am opposed to labor, for I'm not. I am merely giving you my opinion of the outlook of the situation for the coming year. However, unless the cost of labor comes down, the cost of building will not come down. And this is not likely to happen, as labor is fighting hard to keep up the present high standard of wages.

House Shortage

"One of the factors that will contribute toward creating a big demand for materials and labor during the coming year is the housing shortage. This is nearly as acute now as it was during the great shortage of two [illegible]. Evidently, if there is not [illegible] amount of residential construction during the coming year [illegible] still higher, as there are few new houses on the market for sale.

"Statistics show that instead of rents being higher they are low compared with the cost of construction. [illegible] rents decrease perceptibly it will seem safe to assume that there must be a marked decrease in the cost of building, particularly in the wages paid in the building trades.

"In regard to land, everything seems to indicate that the demand for land in Greater Boston will be greater this year than ever before in the history of the city. I feel sure that it will not be long before prices will follow the trend of the times and increase accordingly. To date, despite the fact that everything else has jumped in price since the war, land prices have remained at a pre-war level.

Plenty of Money

"One of the reasons I think that this year will be a good one to build is that with the great increase in savings deposits there will be plenty of money for mortgages. In addition to that, many trustees now consider real estate mortgages as the safest form of investment, and are applying trust funds for that purpose, thus adding more available cash.

"Even now very reliable institutions are advertising that they have funds on hand for mortgages. None of them are charging more than current rates of interest for loans.

"Too much credit cannot be paid for the service the co-operative banks are now rendering the community. During the last few years these banks have made it possible for thousands of Boston people to purchase their own homes who could not have done so otherwise.

"Great credit is due to those who conceived and developed the co-operative banks. The work they have done for the community is of inestimable value, and certainly justifies their existence."

Handles Big Developments

Some idea of the magnitude of the work conducted by Mr. Gleason through the Edward T. Harrington Company may be gained from the fact that during the past two years this organization alone has sold more than 4,500,000 feet of land to home owners in Belmont. During the past year they sold nearly $1,000,000 worth of house lots in Greater Boston.

In the Harrington Company developments in Belmont during the past year more than four miles of streets were laid and more than three miles of sewers were dug.

They also have been very active in Wollaston, developing the holdings of the Wollaston Land Company and the Mascoma Company, which comprise about 7,000,000 feet of land.

The trustees of this property plan to beautify this section of Wollaston with parks and ponds on such a scale as to make it the most beautiful residential section in Greater Boston.

One of the biggest accomplishments of Mr. Gleason's concern was the development of the Glover state at Atlantic. On Labor Day, 1922, this large tract of land was nothing but barren fields and pastures. Today it is covered with more than 100 attractive dwelling houses, with hard grade streets and sewers.

Another monument to the Harrington Company is "Dreamwood," the former summer estate of Thomas W. Lawson. Here during the past summer the trustees of the estate have built several wide and beautiful avenues and 14 attractive dwelling houses.

Field-ton-on-Atlantic, that attractive piece of shoreland at Marshfield which has become so popular during the past summer, is another Harrington enterprise. During the past summer they sold a large number of lots for homes. More than 20 houses were erected there during the season and many more are to be erected in the spring. More than three miles of streets and a water plant have been built at this development.

Constantly Selling Lots

At Orient Park, Orient Heights, the Harrington Company is also constantly selling house lots. Recently the city of Boston purchased several lots for a schoolhouse. Several houses have since been built around it. This tract is in a delightful location commanding an excellent view of the harbor and Massachusetts Bay.

At the Harrington development on Parker street, Newton Centre, eight or 10 attractive dwelling houses are now being erected. Roads have already been laid out through the land and because of its desirable location it will probably be one of the centers of building activity during the coming year.

On the tract bounded by Winthrop, Woburn, Wyman and Dover streets, West Medford, they are selling house lots fast. New streets are being erected, water and gas installed, sewers dug and many other improvements being made. Already a dozen or more houses are built or are in the course of constuction. Many home seekers are buying lots there for spring building.

Despite the numerous estates and gigantic enterprises that he is now promoting, Mr. Gleason intends to leave Boston for Los Angeles, Cal., shortly after the first of the year to inspect some of the big building developments that have transpired there during the past year.

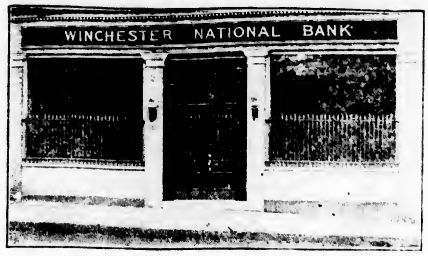

He believes that if the people of the West coast have discovered any new ideas about developing and beautifying land, New England ought to know about them. He intends to make an extensive study of all new methods of construction and developments that are taking place between Los Angeles and the sea.

Bagdad to Aleppo by Motor Bus.

Motor omnibuses are now running regularly between Bagdad and Aleppo, although the motor road is officially unprotected. The distance between Bagdad and Aleppo, by way of Mosul, is roughly 500 miles. The buses seat eight passengers. The omnibuses run by way of Mosul and take five days, although ordinary cars travelling up the Euphrates valley take only three days. The principal desert sheiks have undertaken not to molest the omnibuses in return for a lump sum down.

New Device for the Deaf.

The osophone is a new invention which its inventor claims will aid the hard-of-hearing to hear over the radio and telephone. It consists of two electro-magnets mounted on flexible soft iron laminations and two pieces of hard rubber bits which when placed between the teeth or on the bony structure of the head conduct the sound to the auditory nerve.

MRS. EMELIE M. LAZELLE

Mrs. Emelie M. Lazelle, widow of Brig.-Gen. Henry M. Lazelle, who died in 1917, passed away at her home on Webster street Wednesday in her 53rd year. She was a native of France, and had made her home in this town for about 10 years. Her husband was a noted army officer. He was one of the generals under the famous Custer, and fought conspicuously in the Civil War.

Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Lazelle returned to her old home in Alsace, which had again become a French province after the World War. She only remained there a few months, however, and following the death of her mother, returned to Winchester. She was a gifted French scholar and taught in Miss Emerson's private school and did considerable tutoring. She leaves no relatives in America, but a brother and a neice living in Alsace survive her.

The funeral services are to be held this Friday afternoon in the Unitarian Church at 2:30, and will be conducted by Rev. George Hale Reed. The remains will be placed in the receiving tomb in Wildwood Cemetery, and in the spring will be taken to Canada and intered beside her husband.

LEGION POST ANNUAL MEETING

Winchester Post No. 97 of the American Legion is to hold its annual meeting for the election of post officers and executive committee at post headquarters, 84 Washington street, next Wednesday evening, Jan. 2, at 8 p. m. All of the present officers except the vice-commander stand for re-election. Daniel L. Hanlon has been nominated to oppose Vincent P. Clarke, the present commander for that office, as J. Leslie Johnston has been nominated to oppose Harry G. Bigelow, the present adjutant for that office. The contest for historian is between Stanley W. Mobbs and Henry B. Harris, the present incumbent. W. Allen Wilde, for vice commander is unopposed, as George Barbaro is not up for re-election, and Robert M. Hamilton, who was also nominated has withdrawn. Rev. Allen Evans, Jr. and Arthur S. Harris have been re-nominated for their present respective offices of chaplain and post finance officer, and are also unopposed. Thirty men have been nominated for the executive committee of whom 15 will be elected.

The installation of the new officers will immediately follow the election, and will be under the direction of a visiting State officer.

The important question of the Memorial Room to be set apart in the post headquarters will also come up for discussion at this meeting.

"LARRY" TO TAKE VACATION

"Larry" Smitherman, known to every patron of the Boston & Maine who takes a train at the centre station, is to take a vacation—the first in 35 years. Lawrence J. Smitherman, which is his real name, has worked for the railroad in this town for 35 years and has lived here for 47 years. His present vacation is the first during his connection with the railroad.

He first took up work with the B & M. as a member of the signal department under Mr. George N. Burnham of Washington street, who was for many years freight agent, and who retired several years ago.

Mr. Smitherman, who is 68 years old, has not decided up to latest accounts just where he will spend his vacation, but he is said to be contemplating a ride over the B. & M. system, just to see the whole of the field in which he has so long had an interest.

He has had many interesting and varied experiences during his long term of service, and is the possessor of a medal from the Humane Society of Massachusetts for rescuing Miss Dora Shea from drowning in Black Ball Pond back in 1892. The young woman was crossing the pond when the ice broke. Mr. Smitherman went into the icy water and swam to her and succeeded in getting her to the edge of the ice, holding her up until help arrived.

He has the good wishes for a pleasant trip of a host of friends.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, DEC. 24

The Board met at 7:30 p. m. All present.

The records of the meetings of Dec. 17, 19 and 22 were read and approved.

Jurors 1923: Notice was received from the Clerk of the District Court of the United States District of Massachusetts stating that Ralph Carner, 3 Summit avenue and Newton Shultis, 14 Wintrop street have been drawn to serve and are now serving as petit jurors in this county during the present December term, 1923. Notice was ordered filed.

Curbing (White and Swanton Streets): A report was received from the Superintendent of Streets relative to the complaint of Mr. John McCarron about the grade of the curbing at the present time, the matter to be held in abeyance until the sidewalk is completed over the Woburn Branch railroad bridge. He suggests, however that gravel or filling be placed at the curbing for the purpose of reducing the difference in height from the ground to the top of the curb. The Board voted to accept the Superintendent of Streets' recommendation, and he is to carry out his suggestion relative to filling.

Coasting: A letter was received from the Registrar of Motor Vehicles of the State calling attention to the coasting season, and urging that certain streets be set aside for coasting and properly protected so as to prevent injury to the children using streets for coasting. A copy of this letter was ordered sent to the Chief of Police. He is to submit to the Board a list of streets which might be safely used for coasting.

Gasoline (Petition of Alvin B. Strout, Jr.): Alvin B. Strout, Jr., the petitioner; Edward S. Larned, 149 Highland avenue; Edward Comfort, 87 Highland avenue; Everett Scammon, 8 Lincoln street, Sherman W. Saltmarsh representing himself and Lucy M. Saltmarsh, 158 Mt. Vernon street; Arthur H. Bryer, representing Ruby M. Bryer, 432 Washington street; Jonas A. Laraway, Main street; J. T. French, representing the Colonial Filling Stations; Mr. Rowe of the Planning Board and the Town Engineer appeared at the hearing to consider Mr. Strout's petition for a gasoline permit at Washington street and Lebanon street, West, lots numbered 12, 13, 14 and 15. All the abutters present, and the others interested in this matter who were present objected to the granting of a gasoline permit in this location. There was a general feeling that no filling station was needed in this locality and that if a gasoline permit was granted, a filling station would depreciate the property in its immediate vicinity. After a poll was taken of all those present that showed this united opposition on the part of all except the petitioner and the representative of the Colonial Filling Stations, the Board voted to close the hearing. The hearing closed; the Board then voted to deny the petition.

The meeting adjourned at 9:30 p. m.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of the Selectmen

Selectmen's Meeting, Dec. 26

The Board met in special session at 7:30 p. m. Present Messrs. Bryne, Bateman, Dotten and Main.

Jurors 1923: The Board met in special session to draw jurors. The Chief of Police as a Constable of the Town of Winchester appeared with four venires:

1. A venire calling for one man of the Town of Winchester to serve as a Traverse Juror at the Civil Superior Court to be holden at Cambridge within and for our County of Middlesex on the first Monday of January (Monday, Jan. 7, 1924).

Mr. Elliott P. Frost, 9 Lewis road, Winchester was drawn.

2. A venire calling for one man of the Town of Winchester to serve as a Grand Juror of the Superior Court to beholden at Cambridge within and for our County of Middlesex on the first Monday of January next.

Mr. Walter I. Badger, 112 Church street was drawn.

3. A venire calling for one man of the Town of Winchester to serve as a Traverse Juror of the Superior Criminal Court to beholden within and for our County of Middlesex the first Monday of January.

Mr. George W. Apsey, 19 Symmes road, Winchester was drawn.

4. A venire calling for two men of the Town of Winchester to serve as Traverse Jurors at the Superior Criminal Court to beholden at Cambridge, within and for our County of Middlesex on the first Monday of January next. (Jan. 7, 1924.)

Messrs. William Goddu, 2 Goddu avenue and Edward D. Welch, 785 Main street, were drawn.

The meeting adjourned at 7:40 p. m.

THRONGS IN NATIONAL PARKS

Nearly 1,500,000 Persons Visited These Playgrounds During the Season of 1923.

Nearly 1,500,000 persons visited the national parks and monuments, the grand national playgrounds set aside by congress for the benefit and enjoyment of the people, in the 1923 season, according to a statement made by the Interior department. Much rivalry has existed between the various parks as to which would prove the most popular, and the honor goes to Rocky Mountain National park in Colorado, which had a visiting list of 218,000. Yellowstone National park, Wyoming, takes second place with 138,352 visitors, but Yellowstone's record is perhaps the most noteworthy, as the great park does not lie as close to great centers of population and the season lasts for only three months. Yellowstone's nearest rival was Yosemite National park, in California, which had 130,046 visitors. Mt. Rainier National park, Washington, had the greatest increase, jumping from 70,376 visitors in 1922 to 123,708 in 1923. Other parks having more than 100,000 visitors were Platt National park in Oklahoma, with 117,710, Hot Springs National park, Arkansas, with 112,000, and Grand Canyon National park, Arizona, with 102,166. The smallest attendance was at Mt. McKinley National park, Alaska, thirty-four hardy visitors having made trips into the park over the difficult trails with saddle and pack outfits. The national monuments [illegible] the heaviest attendance were Muir Woods, California, which attracted [illegible], the Petrified Forest, Arizona, [illegible]475, and the Scotts Bluff National Monument, Nebraska, 20,000.

HE RELIES ON HIS MEMORY

Blind Student in California High School Recites After Hearing Lessons Read.

[illegible] of [illegible] Calvin He[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] has been blind since [illegible].

Calvin was graduated from grammar school in 1920. There were two other blind students in the class and the three shared the distinction of being the first blind students to be graduated from a public school west of Chicago. They used the Braille system while studying their textbooks, but recited with the other students who could see.

Since his entrance to high school three years ago Calvin has not used the Braille system, except for taking class notes. His mother reads all of his lessons to him and he relies upon his memory for his class recitations.

He now is taking a general course, consisting of public speaking, English and political science, but intends to specialize in harmony work when he gets in the university. It is his ambition to become a great pianist, and those who have heard him play claim that he is already well on his way.—Los Angeles Times.

Insured Against Fun Films.

A novel insurance policy has just been issued by Lloyd's underwriters, says London Tit-Bits. It insures cinema goers against death from excessive laughter while in the theater. Recently several persons have been so affected by the hilarious nature of highly amusing films as to need medical attendance, and in more than one case death has resulted.

The policy which, is in the sum of £500, covers a period of six months and has been taken out by the Associated First National Pictures, Ltd., to cover similar occurrences in the case of their new films.

While in no case has the proprietor of a picture theater been held liable for any untoward result of mirth upon the audience, the present policy is said to have been taken out to reassure the public and as a step forward in making the theater safe for hilarity!

China's Wheelbarrows.

China is said to be just a preliminary yawn and stretch. A recently returned traveler says: Almost all the freight in Tsinanfu, a walled city of 300,000 inhabitants at the land end of the Shantung railway, in China, is moved in wheelbarrows. Some of the loads are thus conveyed distances of 15 to 20 miles a day. Wheelbarrows also handle passenger traffic. "My lady" frequently returns from her shopping tours with her bundles on one side and herself on the other. Half a dozen people may ride in front of a puffing and perspiring coolie. The wheel is in the center of the barrow, which aids in balancing the load. If it is unusually heavy, another man or boy helps to pull by means of a rope or strap thrown across his shoulders. In a very few instances a mule is the assistant, but it requires a man to lead the mule.

Busy Pocket Gopher.

That busy little animal, the [illegible] gopher, the Geomys bursarius to scientists, is very numerous in the Yosemite National park and they pile up many mounds of dirt as they push out the development of their underground runways.

Professor Grinnell says he estimates the million gophers in the park carry to the surface each year enough loose dirt to fill 100 freight cars, and, so long as the work is done in the open places and not on the farms, the little animals are performing an important service in the economy of nature in turning over and mixing up the soil.—Ohio State Journal.

"HELLO" NOW LOSING USAGE

Familiar Salutation Is Said to Be Dying Out in Telephone Practice.

By degrees, usage of the familiar salutation, "Hello," is dying out in telephone practice. When Mrs. Jones' telephone rings these days she is much more likely to answer it by saying "Mrs. Jones speaking" than "Hello." More and more telephone users are appreciating the fact that an effective "telephone personality," with its influence for better service, is not only a business, but a social asset.

Alexander Graham Bell, according to Thomas A. Watson, who assisted him, using the word "Ahoy" in making his experiments, but "Hello" superseded it when the telephone got into practical use. The probable origin of the word "Hello" was interestingly described as follows in a recent issue of the Telephone Engineer:

"Long, long ago wolves were numerous in all parts of the world, especially in England. Wolf hunting was a favorite sport with the gentry, and to kill wolves was regarded as the sacred duty of all Englishmen. French was the language of the court at that time, so the early old English hunters used the cry of the French wolf hunters, which was 'Au loup! Au loup!' (to the wolf). These words heard at a distance sounded like 'a loo,' but the English, who always put an 'h' on wherever they possibly can, put it on the words 'a loo,' and when wolf hunting shouted 'hu loo.' This form we use when we call 'hello'."

ZUIDER ZEE MAY BE DRAINED

Holland Has Big Project for Reclamation of More Land From the Sea.

Most of Holland is below the level of the sea. The seacoast is being pushed farther and farther out as new [illegible] reminds the Detroit News. Marshes are being [illegible] fertile gardens. There is a project on hand to even drain the Zuider Zee, that great arm of water which occupies most of central Holland. Islands have been attached to the continent by ropes of sand. Though Holland has no quarries, it has built beautiful buildings. As most people are aware, this is the real land of "spotless towns." The Dutch housewife is as neat as a new pin, and her house is in apple-pie order. The floors are scrubbed at least once a day and are literally "clean enough to eat on."

Lacking raw materials, Dutch ships have made it possible for factories to run, and Dutch enterprise has built up a world trade. Holland has no coal to drive its machinery, so that is why the air blowing over that low country is made to pay toll by revolving the wings of the countless windmills that dot the land. As the National Geographic Magazine points out: "It is not astonishing that even a sterile country should, by cultivation, produce grain and stock, but it is surprising that Holland should exist, and its existence is a paradox in physical geography."

Schools of France.

In France the public system of education begins with the kindergarten, which admits children from the ages of two to six. After this are the primary schools, attendance at which is compulsory for children between the ages of six and thirteen, not receiving instruction elsewhere, or until they have completed a certain course. The secondary schools include state classical colleges, supported by the state, and communal colleges for boys, supported by the communes, though aided by the state, and schools of similar rank for girls. The secondary schools award the bachelor's degree. The course of public secondary instruction covers five years. Higher education can be obtained in 15 state universities and by various state faculties, schools and private special schools. Besides the universities, special schools, both government and private, cover almost every phase of science and art. The highest educational officer is the minister of education, who holds a position in the cabinet.

No Fun to Be a King.

The king of Greece is a prisoner within the boundaries of his own country. When he wanted to go to Serbia not long ago to attend the christening of his nephew he was refused permission by the cabinet council. The ministers were afraid that he would not return. He is the only thing that stands between the Venizelists and the monarchy. He must be retained at all costs. If he goes the country will be thrown into civil war. The Venizelists favor a civilian republic and they have announced with no uncertain words the manner in which they will deal with the present military clique. That's the reason the king must stay. He is popular to a certain extent and may stave off the evil day.

A Fitting Retort.

One of [illegible] men left his seat in a [illegible] crowded train to go in search of something to eat, leaving a rug to reserve his place. On returning he found that, in spite of the rug and the protests of fellow passengers, the seat had been usurped by a woman. With flashing eyes she turned upon him:

"Do you know, sir, that I am one of the directors' wives?"

"Madam," he replied, "were you the director's only wife I should still protest."—Argonaut.

LOOKING FOR SINGING BIRDS

Customers Are Zealously Searching Among the Canaries in the Salesrooms.

Canary-bird salesrooms at this season are filled with whispering women straining their ears to detect a singer, pausing now and then to glare at some other customer who is looking for the same bird. Confronted with the hundreds of small cages standing around the wall and with the air filled with a chaos of song, it's no small job to pick out the birds actually singing, says the New York Sun and Globe. The large sign: "No Birds Exchanged" makes the customer all the more tense.

Then, when she's found the singer and the color of the plumage suits, some one else is likely to "listen in" on the same bird. Harried between the doubt it has just the right voice and the fear the other person will buy the bird, she casts dark looks at the intruder. Then, too, there's the attendant who constantly moves among the cages and, detecting a good singer, takes it out of the $3.58 row and puts it in the $10 "selected" class.

Desperate after hours of listening and indecision, the customer points to a cage and takes the prisoner home, trusting to luck after all that he's a singer.

WRZOS IS POLISH FOR ROSES

But Capital Newspaper Man Thought It Was Flower Peculiar to Poland.

There is at least one newspaper man in Washington who will not forget again soon that a rose is just as sweet under any other name; but he will have to live down the circumstances attending his tardy recognition of that fact.

When General Haller, the Polish military hero, visited the White House he announced he was going to place a wreath at the base of the statue of Kosciusko, the Polish patriot, whose statue stands at one of the corners of Lafayette square. Asked what kind of wreath, General Haller replied it would be a wreath of Wrzos. Whereupon the newspaper man, indulging in language somewhat too flowery, wrote that the Wrzos was peculiar to the soil of Poland as the heather is to that of Scotland.

When the wreath appeared it was of pink rosebuds, peculiar to the soil of hothouses around the national capital. Wrzos is Polish for the rose.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"Skyrocketing" the Price of Chairs.

Everyone knows how exorbitant the prices of genuine antique furniture frequently are. The purchasers are generally rich and don't often dispute the price, and the supply is rarely equal to the demand. In a recent court case, says London Opinion, a witness who was a furniture dealer testified as follows:

"In October, 1920, I went to Sudbury hall, Lord Vernon's place in Derbyshire, to bring to town ten Chippendale chairs and two settees that we had bought. In a few days we sold them to Messrs. Dighton."

"What did you pay for them?" asked the examining lawyer.

"About six hundred pounds."

"How long was it before you sold them to Messrs. Dighton?"

"About six weeks."

"For how much?"

"One thousand four hundred pounds."

"And then they were sold to Mr. Shrager for three thousand pounds. What do you suppose Lord Vernon would think of that—a profit of two thousand four hundred pounds the dealers made out of his chairs in a few weeks?"

What indeed!

Strength of Eggs.

Wonderful provision has been made by nature for the protection of eggs against breakage by building them on the principle of the arch. The fact that no one can break a hen's egg by squeezing it between his hands so long as he applies the pressure in the direction of the long axis of the egg has led to certain experiments with a special apparatus. The eggs were placed point upward on a scale, and pressure was applied by means of a lever and jack. Brown eggs proved stronger than white ones. They broke under a pressure that averaged 155 pounds. White eggs broke under an average pressure of 112.5 pounds. The shells were found to be from .013 to .014 of an inch thick. Since the average diameter of the eggs used was 1¾ inches, some idea can be gained of the strength that the egg owes to its structural form.

Strange Companions.

More than three years ago a tortoise crawled into the grounds of Marengo Chase, Morpeth, New South Wales, the residence of Capt. D. J. Marshall. At the same time a bat appeared. The tortoise and the bat were friends, and their association caused much amusement. After wandering about the grounds for three months, the tortoise left, followed by the bat.

Neither the tortoise nor the bat was seen again for three years, but recently Captain Marshall was astonished by the reappearance in his grounds of the tortoise and the bat. During their absence they had made a new friend—a magpie, and the queer trio now live in amity.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Foreigners of a studious trend of mind are anxious to master the intricacies of our language, and very often manifest an interest in the termination of words. It is painful to relate that the following atrocity was not long ago perpetrated on a credulous native of Poland. One old enough to set a better example explained to him that "ambkin" meant a small ant, that "manikin" was a nickname for a very small man or sometimes a little boy, and that hence "pumpkin" meant "a little pump." Another newcomer was informed that a "rivulet" meant "a small river," or "leaflet" was the practical phase for "a small leaf," so a "hamlet" signified "a small ham." In this case, however, the would-be citizen had some knowledge of English, and had looked over a finely illustrated copy of Gray's "Elegy." He was familiar with the line.

"The rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep," and this saved him.

The goose-bone prophets are predicting an open winter, which, of course, leaves the people of Winchester no options but to expect the worst.

According to an item The Spectator has just read: "The use of the expression 'I don't think' is condemned by the jurists because it is a contradiction in itself." Not necessarily. Carefully compiled statistics show that out of 17,538,769 persons who habitually use the expression, "I don't think," 17,538,273 don't think, and never did.

The Spectator was lately in the home formerly occupied by a soldier of the Union Army. He was Southern born, and had been reared in a slave holding community. Nearby lived a man who was proud of saying that he had never sold a slave. This man had some financial difficulty and to satisfy his creditor sold two boys, whose mother broke into piteous lamentations. After that the young observer's view of "the peculiar institution" was fixed, and not to be changed. When the war came he enlisted in the Union Army. In time he was captured and sent to Andersonville, where he received worse treatment after it was known that he was a native of the Southland. He lived for half a century after the war, but never forgot the sale of children, and his sense [illegible].

Is This a "Sign" or Something?

A freak corncob, resembling a human hand, is the property of A. L. McQuary of Neosho, who was in the city the other day. Mr. McQuary purchased the cob from a farmer residing near Quail Spur. The base of the cob has the appearance of a human hand, with the palm slightly cupped. The thumb and fingers are easily distinguished, with the smaller end of the cob forming the wrist.—Springfield Leader.

Why the Mud Guards?

"Now, John," directed the garage boss, "fix up this flivver for Senator Spug. He is going to campaign in it. So make a thorough examination and see that everything is ready for heavy going. He especially wants extra large mud guards."

"All right, boss," said the helper. "Extra large mud guards he shall have. But—"

"Well, well?"

"I thought there was to be no mud slinging in this campaign."

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

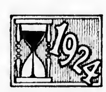

OUR INTEREST necessarily lies in satisfactory service to our customers and in the continued use of gas, rather than in profit from the sale of gas-burning appliances.

For service to be satisfactory, ranges, water heaters, etc., must be of the best workmanship and must be economical in operation. We carry, therefore, only the most carefully selected appliances—those which are especially fitted to meet local conditions. We will tolerate no workmanship, either in manufacture or installation of appliances, other than the best.

Our interest does not end with the sale of an appliance, however, but continues as long as that appliance is being used by one of our customers. If your gas equipment is not giving efficient results we shall be glad to do our part in remedying conditions.

AMERICAN INDIAN STAGING "COME-BACK"

Like his old friend, the buffalo, the American Indian is making a come-back. Figures recently announced by the Bureau of Indian Affairs show our American Indian population is now 344,303 a gain of 1144 over last year.

Not only last year, but for 30 years, the redmen have steadily been gaining on their death rate, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Today there are six Indians per square mile on reservations which comprise an area not much smaller than that of all New England. According to the best estimates available there was an average of only one Indian for every three square miles when white people first came to American shores. If only two-thirds of the United States were occupied by red skins at the present reservation population rate, there would be 12,000,000 Indians in the United States today.

Aboriginal Population Small

Massasoit gave the Pilgrim fathers corn, but the fact is that Massasoit and his kith and kin lived for the most part by products of the chase. Deer, buffalo, bear, and rabbit were their pork and beef, and berries and nuts their potatoes. Even verdant America could not support an intense population living in this fashion. The total Indian population at the time Columbus landed at San Salvador is set at about 846,000. If all the tribes, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes, had assembled at one great meeting, they would have made up a community not so large as Detroit and only a few thousand greater than Cleveland or Boston.

White men's guns decimated some tribes, disease, dissipation, and epidemics which came with the white men spread death more surely. Smallpox epidemics swept through the western tribes three times between 1781 and 1837 with more fatal results than the influenza plague of 1918. A peculiar fever killed 70,000 Indians in California and Oregon in one year. By 1880 the Indian population had been reduced to 256,127, therefore the present population represents an increase of nearly 1,000,000 in 30 years.

Richest Group on Earth

One American Indian tribe today is the richest people on the face of the earth. Beneath the lands of the Osage Indian tribe in Oklahoma oil was discovered. Their wells produce $50,000,000 worth of oil annually, and Uncle Sam, who handles the business for his red brother, distributes to each member of the tribe from $10,000 to $12,000 each year. In 1922 more than 29,000,000 barrels of oil were produced on Osage lands.

Partial adaptation to the white man's ways and care by Uncle Sam are responsible for the increase in Indian population. The redman may still be a hunter, but a visitor to a reservation will find the red skin useful as well as noble. He is often a rancher, dairy farmer, gardnerer, weaver, pottery maker, rugmaker, poultry raiser, typist, bookkeeper, miner, lumberer, guide, and he even clips coupons.

Two Hunded Tribes Salvaged

Out of the ruin of Indian civilization more than 200 tribes have been salvaged. These tribes are lodged on nearly 200 reservations varying from tiny rancherias in California to the great Navajo reservation in Arizona and New Mexico larger than the State of Maryland. The Bureau of Indian Affairs is their guardian. It is a government by itself, having a cabinet of six commissioners, and undertaking all encompassing activities typical of which are a probate court, trust company, public roads commission, orphan asylum, town building, and operation of a philanthropic association, bank, and employment agency.

Recently the red man once more daubed himself with garish war paint, dressed himself in all his feathers and hit the war path. The path led to Hollywood and the Indians broke into the movies. Uncle Sam gave permission for the Shoshoni and Arapaho tribes of the Wind River reservation in Wyoming to go to the movie city to be used in the making of pictures.

A postage stamp is a small thing,
But a world of treasure it can bring,
It can bring tears or bring joy,
It can bring letters that annoy,
It can bring the greetings of a friend,
Or bear the news of a journey's end,
It can brighten the day and make one glad,
Or change all to gloom, making a Winchesterite sad.

DREAMS

(Written for the Winchester Star)

Our days are dimmed by rude realities
By adamantine fact that scars and seams
Our short earthly stay, but we make courageous schemes
For superior things, we give our sick souls ease
With Hope of future days more fair than these
Thus do we light the path of life with dreams,
Mystic and magical as wayward gleams
Of silver sunlight over sullen seas.
Yet oft we wake to find our dreams are gone,
And dusk has fallen ere the night is due,
And bleak has grown the road we travel on:
But at the end, when our day's march is through
We shall sleep soundly, and in some far dawn
Shall wake to find our dreams have all come true.

As Mrs. Lucy P. Burnham of Everett avenue was driving her Hudson touring car westerly on Church street last Friday afternoon, she attempted to pass a truck going in the same direction. The truck turned suddenly into Wildwood street, carrying her with it, and to avoid greater damage, she drove through the fence of the estate of F. Patterson Smith at the corner. Her car was slighly damaged and she was not injured.

It is gratifying to note the local attention accorded the Little Shoppe this holiday period for it shows that Mr. Fowler's aim to maintain the most unique art store outside of Boston is being appreciated. And it is interesting to know that a distinctive feature of this place from now on will be exhibitions of the work of various well-known artists. Mr. J. Edward Fitzgerald's paintings, now on view, are attracting the attention they deserve, particularly the one of the Grand Banks, executed from the deck of the Elizabeth Howard, the famous fisherman racing schooner which was untimely wrecked last fall near the scene of this painting.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The engagement has been announced of Miss Elizabeth M. Irwin of this town, to Mr. Dana J. Harding of Melrose.

St. Mary's School held its annual Christmas observance on Thursday afternoon, an entertainment and the distribution of gifts being carried out.

The Christmas tree on he Common has excited much admiration this year. It was particularly handsome on Christmas eve, when lighted with its covering of snow.

Mr. Richard W. Grant, former supervisor of music in the public schools, and Mrs. Grant are spending the holidays with the former's parents in Somerville. During their stay here they have called on many of their Winchester friends.

The annual Christmas party of the Methodist Sunday School was held on Friday evening in Waterfield Hall, there being a large attendance of the young people of the school. Mr. Vincent Clarke was Santa Claus, and distributed gifts to all present. A program of music was given by the Epworth League orchestra and Miss Winifred Bent gave readings appropriate to the season. Miss Mary Hodge, Miss Virginia Baxter and Mr. Paul Welburn were the committee in charge.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Dr. Charles H. Tozier, with a party of Winchester people, is enjoying winter sports at Quebec, Can., the group leaving last Friday.

Many persons thought the Christmas tree on the Common was being dismantled Wednesday, when workmen were apparently engaged in removing the lights. Such was not the case, and the tree shone forth in renewed splendor in the evening, many of the lights having been changed to produce a better effect.

Mr. Frank G. Trott of the Boston Globe, a resident of Cutting street for many years, has been presented with a handsome gold watch, the gift of the horsemen of New England. Mr. Trott has handled the horse and racing news of the Globe for many years, and is a prime favorite on the track. Besides following the horses, he is an ardent canoeist and ice boat sailer.

John Ordway, son of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Ordway, home for the holidays, leaves New Year's Day for Lake Placid, N. Y., where the Berkshire hockey team, of which he is a member, will open its season.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hooke of Castine, Me., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jeanette Challis Hooke, of Castine and Winchester, to Edmund Hendershot Booth. Mr. Booth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Booth of Omaha, Neb. Miss Hooke is a graduate of Bradford Academy and Mr. Booth was graduated in the class of 1918 from Dartmouth where he is now an instructor in the department of English. The wedding probably will take place early next summer.

The Class of 1919, Winchester High School, held its fifth reunion on Wednesday evening at the home of the President, Mr. Clinton L. Raynor, Maxwell road. About 20 out of the class of 35 were present. An interesting feature of the reunion was the reading of the graduation exercises of the class from an old number of the W. H. S. Recorder.

WINCHESTER
I am privileged to offer for immediate sale a most desirable and unusually attractive house, situated in the Wedgemere section of the West Side. The property has a southwesterly exposure; is most convenient to trains and has a picturesque outlook over Mystic Lake. The house has a most beautiful and commodious living room finished and paneled in gum-wood, with tapestry brick fireplace; also good sized dining room paneled white and modern kitchen with fireless cooker, gas range; also heated sun room. Four good bed rooms with tile bath and separate shower comprise the second floor and maid's room with bath and unfinished attic are on the third floor. The heating is by vapor steam and all floors are hard wood, lower all oak. The lot contains about 9500 sq. ft. and has a single car garage in the rear. The desirability of this property and the moderation of its price should force a purchase upon the first inspection. Price $19,000, about one-half cash.
